JUST WALKIN' WITH MY DAD – Sunday is Father's Day, and there is probably no better gift for him than just spending some quality time together, time that might include a pleasant walk down the road, hand in hand, barefoot or shod – certainly way better than a card or a necktie. This touching photo was snapped by Lisa Broadwater, manager of the Grantsville office of The Republican.

CHARMING — AND DANGEROUS. Seeing wildlife such as this, a mother bear and her cubs, is considered a gift to many, especially those who have chosen to reside in a place where such animals thrive. This photo was taken by Polly English-Ramsay as she watched the mother and cubs investigate her neighbor's garbage Sunday evening, along State Park Road. She said her cat alerted her to the presence of the animals, who all ambled away soon after the picture was taken. As all residents know, a mother bear takes her parental responsibility seriously and can be very dangerous if she feels her cubs are being threatened, so staying at a safe distance is always strongly advised. "I feel blessed to live in an area of such beauty and with such an abundance of wildlife," English-Ramsay said.

Commissioners Still Evaluating POS Allocations

The Garrett County commissioners last week received Program Open Space (POS) funding requests from nine local groups totaling more than $524,000. But there is only about $234,000, including carry-overs from previous years, available in fiscal year 2009 development project funding.

The commissioners were still reviewing the requests this week, comparing them to previous allocations, in an attempt to decide what projects should receive the limited funds.

More than $99,000 is available for local land acquisition projects for FY '09, but no towns or organizations requested this type of POS money.

Zoning administrator Bill DeVore, Garrett County Department of Planning and Land Development, reviewed the requests for the commissioners.

Oakland, DeVore said, asked for a total of $285,000 for four projects. Town officials would like $120,000 for tennis courts, $87,000 for a Little League restroom/concession facility, and $8,000 to conduct an engineering study for an recreational vehicle park, all for Broadford Park Recreation Area. Oakland also requested $70,000 to install additional lighting along the town's walking trail.

Mountain Lake Park requested $72,829.50 to construct the Crystal Springs Walking Trail. DeVore noted that same amount had been awarded to the town in FY 2007 for its B&O Walking Trail Project. But the town has abandoned that initiative and has requested that the '07 funding be transferred to the Crystal Springs project.

Awards Given At Chamber's Annual Dinner

The annual Garrett County Chamber of Commerce dinner, held last Thursday at the Lodge at Wisp Resort, saw a record number of attendees this year. With entertainment by the 10-piece local band the Remedy, 244 attendees ate dinner and saw the presentation of the Heise Entrepreneurial Spirit Award, the President's Award, and five Favorite Sons and Daughters awards.

Brenda McDonnell won the Heise Entrepreneurial Spirit Award. McDonnell owns and operates Brenda's Pizzeria and Trader's Coffeehouse at Deep Creek Lake. Winners of the Heise Entrepreneurial Spirit Award must have originated and developed a business from inception, shown a willingness to take risks, shown community involvement, held high ethical standards, and demonstrated leadership by overcoming a formidable problem that threatened the business's existence or shown business acumen through embarking on a creative, insightful or overlooked opportunity that will make an important contribution to Garrett County's business environment through substantive community impact.

The Heise Entrepreneurial Spirit Award committee, comprising previous winners, selects three nominees to be voted on by the general chamber membership. The winner is announced at the annual membership dinner and meeting.

Past honorees include Jonathan "Smiley" Kessler,

Performing Arts Center Board Asks Commissioners For Their Support

Members of the Garrett Performing Arts Center Inc. (PAC) board of directors asked the county commissioners this week for continued support for the proposed PAC project.

"We understand that funding is tight at this time but sincerely hope that you will support us in the future," said PAC representative Bob Huebner.

In March 2006, a previous board of county commissioners voted to match any state funding for the facility, up to $1 million, provided that the PAC group could get commitments of at least $3 million prior to using county money. Those commissioners who approved the county match were Ernie Gregg and Dave Beard. Fred Holliday opposed.

Incumbent Gregg sounded optimistic on Tuesday that a performing arts center could still be built in the county.

"Truly this will happen; if not now, in the future," he told the PAC board.

Gregg was a member of the original PAC committee, which was formed in 2003 by the commissioners to study the center's feasibility, location, design, and funding options. The committee later became a not-for-profit incorporated board.

Incumbent Holliday and new commissioner Denny Glotfelty were cautious Tuesday about making any financial commitments to the PAC board.

"I think it's a good project; I think it will work at some point in time," Holliday told the members. "But I'm not sure that time is right now. I don't want to give you false hope."

Holliday noted that because of state funding cuts, the county is nearing a structural deficit and "taking a look at" its budgetary process. As a result, he said, the county has deferred some of its own projects to later years, including the NRP entered their camp site and observed in plain view marijuana, a smoking pipe, and large amounts of alcoholic beverages, according to the police blotter. Martin, Simpson, and Payne were also charged with possession of an alcoholic beverage by a person under 21 years of age.

The five individuals were transported to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office for processing, and were taken before a District Court commissioner, where they were released on personal recognizance.

Local Man Fined, Sentenced For Driving Violations

A 43-year-old Loch Lynn man pleaded guilty last week in Garrett County Circuit Court to failing to stop for the flashing lights of a school bus and to driving on a suspended license. Judge Jim Sherbin fined Warren David Cook $100 for the school bus violation.

For the driving while suspended charge, Cook was sentenced to two years at the Division of Corrections and fined $100. All but five months of the sentence was suspended. After completing his sentence, Cook will be on probation.

He was arrested and charged by Garrett County sheriff deputies, who responded to a report of a school bus violation in December. After Cook was identified as the violator, the officer determined that his privilege to drive had previously been suspended.

In an unrelated case, James Lee Nicholas, 43, Oakland, pleaded guilty to driving under the influence of alcohol and to possession of marijuana. Nicholas was given consecutive jail sentences of six months for the possession charge and 18 months for the DUI. One year of the sentences was

Mtn. Lake Park Tax Rate Cut For Fiscal '09

The mayor and town council of Mountain Lake Park adopted a town budget for fiscal year 2009 at their regular monthly meeting last Thursday evening, a budget which features a 10% decrease in the town tax rate.

Other positive aspects of the budget show a slight decrease in garbage collection fees – from $25.71 per quarter to $25 per quarter – and the sewer rates will remain the same.

Major capital improvement projects that will be funded by the new budget are: $200,000 for street paving; $30,000 for storm drains and culverts; $51,561 for trail amenities; $373,402 for trail construction; $15,000 for maintenance shop improvements; $15,000 for security systems; and $22,166 for a capital projects reserve.

Leo Martin is the mayor and council president. Council members are: council vice president Fred Callis, Patrick Damon, Linda Fike, Fred Learey, and Donald Sincell.

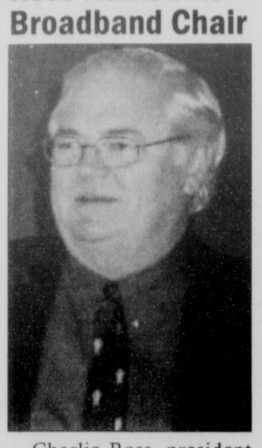
TAKING A BREAK from enjoying the nectar in a hummingbird feeder along Mason School Road was this rain-soaked Baltimore oriole, captured on camera by Fran Pope, local ornithologist, during the annual May bird count. Pope, who is the compiler for the local count, released the results of the 2008 count, which appear in a story elsewhere in this section. The Baltimore oriole, which is Maryland's state bird, is in the same family as blackbirds (along with grackles and bobolinks), and is one of the most strikingly colorful birds in all of nature.

AFTER YEARS OF WAITING, anticipation, and yes, occasional irritation, particularly for Oakland residents who live along Third Street and other parts south of the railroad tracks, construction is now well under way on the new bridge that will span the tracks. Because the project involved the "coming together" of a number of property owners, the railroad, several utility companies, and a variety of government agencies, progress was, not surprisingly, exceedingly slow for several years. While things are moving along well now, the new bridge will likely not be completed and open for traffic until next spring. Photo by John McEwen.

GC Chamber's Ross Named As Broadband Chair



Charlie Ross, president and CEO of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, has been elected to a one-year term as chairman of the Maryland Broadband Coordination Board, beginning July 1. He replaces Worcester County commissioner Virgil Shockley, who served two terms as chairman and will remain on the board.

Established by the Maryland General Assembly in 2006, the Rural Broadband Coordination Board is responsible for overseeing efforts to deploy broadband infrastructure in rural and underserved areas of the state. The board is also responsible for reviewing and approving all disbursements from the Rural Broadband Assistance Fund, which was also established in 2006. During the last two years, the coordination board has been responsible for more than $13 million in state and federal funding.

"Broadband communication is the competitive business necessity and puts everyone into the flat world picture," Ross said. "Rural Maryland must be painted into that picture. I look forward to lighting up southern Maryland and "Mountain Maryland," soon after we light up the upper, mid and lower Eastern Shore."

Ross, who also serves as chairman of the Rural Maryland Council, has 25 years' experience in government and public affairs.

A native of Garrett County, Ross was born and reared in Friendsville and graduated from Northern High School. He received his bachelor's degree from Johns Hopkins University before attending the University of Maryland School of Law. After serving as the assistant state's attorney in Garrett County, Ross started his own firm, C. Mason Ross Associates, Inc., which provided legal services, lobbying, polling/market survey work, and strategic problem solving services. Ross returned to Garrett County in September 2002 to take his current position with the Chamber of Commerce.

As president and CEO of the chamber, Ross has expanded the focus of rural development to include not only local development, but also global initiatives. Along with initiating 22 projects locally to involve businesses in education, Ross has promoted regional development by instituting a community foundation and conducting multi-county studies in water supply, recycling, education and comprehensive planning.

Since the coordination board was established, the broadband network has been nearly constructed throughout the Eastern Shore, from NASA's Wallops Island facility through Salisbury, Cambridge, and across the Bay Bridge. The network is expected to hook up with Annapolis this fall. Expanding the network through southern Maryland and into western Maryland and essentially completing the network could be completed by 2012 with adequate appropriations, noted Ross.

The Broadband Coordination Board is staffed by the Rural Maryland Council. The Broadband Assistance Fund is administered by the Maryland Department of Business and Economic Development.

SCHOOLS RECEIVE RECOGNITION – Two schools from western Maryland received recognition from the University of Maryland for achieving a high level of implementation of the instructional consultation team process. The goal of the instructional consultation teams is to enhance and increase both student and staff performance. Dr. Lauren Kaiser from the University of Maryland is shown in both pictures presenting the awards.

Charged With Driving On A Revoked License

Two-Vehicle Accident Sends Five To GCMH

A two-vehicle accident, investigated by Garrett County sheriff's deputies, occurred at the intersection beside the Mtn. Lake Park Post Office Wednesday afternoon that resulted in five people being transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Investigation revealed that Vana Sue Gank, 24, Accident, was operating a 2004 Ford Escape westbound on Rt. 135, when her vehicle struck the rear of a 1994 Ford Explorer. The operator of the Explorer, Amanda Melissa Jenkins, 23, Oakland, was attempting to make a left turn.

The two operators and three juvenile passengers were transported to Garrett Memorial by Southern and Tri-Towns rescue squads. Also responding to the scene was Oakland Volunteer Fire Department.

Rt. 135 was closed for a short time as a result of the accident. Investigation is continuing, and charges are pending.

Cyclist Badly Injured After Hitting Deer

Robert Vincent McKenzie Jr., 43, Grantsville, was operating a 1993 Suzuki motorcycle westbound on Route 40 when he crested a hill and struck a deer in the roadway.

Police reports did not provide McKenzie's condition. He was transported by Northern Garrett Rescue Squad to Cumberland Memorial Hospital.

Woman Sustains Facial Injuries From Airbag

Garrett County sheriff's deputies responded to the 21000 area of Garrett Highway (Rt. 219) for a motor vehicle collision Saturday involving a 2002 Toyota truck and a 2001 Suzuki SUV.

Andrew J. Mauk, 25, Mtn. Lake Park, was operating the Toyota north on Rt. 219, when he slowed to turn left into a business entrance at Trader's Landing. Summer Dawn Sines, 19, Friendsville, was operating the Suzuki also north on Rt. 219.

Sines failed to control her speed to avoid collision, striking the truck from the rear. She sustained a face injury from the airbag deployment, and she was taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by Northern Rescue Squad.

Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company also responded to the scene.

Traffic charges are pending completion of the accident investigation.

Cancer Survivor Donates $4,500 To Fund In Memory Of Friends

Amelia Wolf's homemade candy did more than just satisfy a sweet tooth; the proceeds of its sales raised over $4,500 for Cindy's Fund, a local nonprofit organization that provides support to cancer patients through education and screening programs in Garrett County.

Wolf, a cancer survivor and retired deputy clerk for the Clerk of Circuit Court office after 26 years of service, first became involved with cancer support programs through Relay For Life eight years ago. Wolf befriended cancer patient Rita Durst, who worked with Wolf's daughters Marcia Ashby and Becky Sines at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, and formed a support team called Rita's Angels. Durst has since died of cancer. The group's main fundraiser was the candy eggs Wolf made and sold.

Wolf and her husband of 50 years, Fred, worked as a team, with Amelia making candy eggs and bonbons, and Fred weighing the finished products and making deliveries across the county. At times, the Wolfs enlisted the help of other family members. The Wolfs reside in Deer Park.

Fred is retired from Local 37 Operating Engineers of Cumberland.

Wolf decided this year to donate the eggs to Cindy's Fund, and began baking eggs in January. Since then, she has made 2,181 bonbons, and since March, has made 2,116 eggs (in flavors of peanut butter, coconut, maple nut, cherry nut, and fruit nut) using a whopping 350 pounds of chocolate.

Of the money Wolf raised, $4,500 she donated to Cindy's Fund, $600 she gave to a cancer victim friend in Florida, and $200 she gave to another cancer victim friend in Baltimore.

Wolf made and donated the money in memory of former courthouse co-workers Dave Martin and Brenda Friend, both of whom passed away in the last year from cancer.

Police reports note the theft occurred sometime between 11:30 p.m. Saturday and 6:30 a.m. on Sunday.

The trailer, registration Maryland 879122G, is a black 2005 Car Mate with a missing tail gate. The motorcycle, which was parked on the trailer, is a green, black, and white 2008 Kawasaki KX450F. It has a partially broken right brake lever.

GC Health Dept. Rabies Clinics At Three Locations

The Garrett County Health Department's Environmental Service division hold its second series of low-cost rabies vaccination clinics for dogs, cats, and ferrets next week.

"Area residents are encouraged to check the following schedule for exact times and locations of the clinics in their area," said a Health Department spokesperson.

All clinics will be held from 5 until 6 p.m., and the cost of the vaccination is $5 per animal.

•Bittinger fire hall, Monday, June 16.

•Garrett College maintenance bay, McHenry, Tuesday, June 17.

•Eastern Garrett fire hall, Finzel, Thursday, June 19.

Dogs must be on a leash and under the control of a responsible individual. Cats and ferrets must be brought to the clinic in a cage or a tightly secured box with air holes. If a cage or carrier is not available, the cat must be carried in a pillowcase or suitable cloth sack.

"Close contact of animals at the clinics increases the risk of bites or scratches," said the spokesperson. "Please be prepared to restrain and control your animals in order to avoid a potential incident."

County dog and cat licenses will be available at each clinic. License cost is $3 per year for a spayed/neutered animal and $15 for non-spayed/neutered. If a three year rabies vaccination is received, pet owners may purchase a three year county dog or cat license.

Last year Garrett County experienced eight confirmed rabies cases. So far this year, four positive cases have been confirmed, three in raccoons and one in a skunk.

"The vaccination of dogs and cats is one of the most critical measures which can be taken by pet owners in protecting their families and themselves from possible exposure to the rabies virus," said the spokesperson.

Last year 859 dogs and cats were vaccinated at the Health Department sponsored rabies clinics.

Since wildlife rabies continues to be present in Garrett County, the Health Department is strongly urging all pet owners to bring their pets to one of the clinics.

"Unvaccinated dogs and cats exposed to rabid animals face the possibility of being euthanized in order to protect their owners and the general public," the spokesperson said. "The necessity of destroying family pets that are unvaccinated can be avoided by keeping vaccinations current.

"As a result of the wide geographical distribution of documented rabies cases, no dog or cat being kept in Garrett County can be considered safe from exposure to the disease," he continued. "Pet owners are highly encouraged to check the expiration date on their pet's rabies certificate to determine the need for revaccination at one of the upcoming clinics or at a local veterinarian's office."

While Maryland law requires dogs, cats, and ferrets over 4 months of age to have the vaccination against rabies, animals at least 3 months of age can be brought to the clinics and adequately protected by vaccination. Dogs and cats need to be revaccinated every three years. Puppies and kittens vaccinated between the ages of 3 and 12 months and dogs and cats receiving their first vaccination must be revaccinated 12 months later. Ferrets need to be revaccinated every year.

Failure to vaccinate pets against rabies is a violation of the Annotated Code of Maryland Health General Article 18, Section 318, and may be punishable by a fine of up to $500 per animal.

Garrett Transit Service Ribbon-Cutting Slated

With gas prices spiraling ever upward, Garrett County Community Action Committee (GCCAC) has scheduled a ribbon-cutting ceremony to mark the opening of a new facility which officials say should make it easier for Garrett Transit Service (GTS) buses to serve both those people who have no other form of travel, as well as those seeking a respite from increasing fuel prices. Scheduled for Friday, June 27, the event will take place at the new facility located at 225 Francis Sanders Drive West, just east of Mtn. Lake Park.

Community Action transportation director John Hill said that the facility provides security and protection for the service's 34 vehicles, and will substantially increase the efficiency of the fleet through improved maintenance and care.

"It will give residents in Garrett County safer and a more pleasant experience," Hill said."

The building is located on property owned and made available to Community Action by the Garrett County commissioners. It is adjacent to the property on which the county roads department garage is being built.

Pam Nelson, GCCAC vice president, explained that this will make it easier to purchase fuel through the roads department and will further improve the ability of the GTS to meet transportation needs of residents.

Hill said that a number of state and local officials are expected to attend the ribbon-cutting ceremony, including representatives from the Maryland Department of Transportation, the Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development, Maryland Transit Administration, Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, and the Garrett County commissioners' office. All of these departments/offices provided funding for the project. Revenue also is being obtained through agreements with Head Start, the Garrett County Area Agency on Aging, Wisp Resort, Salem School, and other local businesses and agencies.

"This facility is very important in a county with no taxicab and no other form of public transport," said Hill. "People in remote locations need to get to doctor's appointments, food stores, and many other facilities."

The GTS buses traveled 762,352 miles last year, carrying a total ridership of 138,140.

"And now with gas prices going up, we're already seeing an increase in passengers," Hill said. "We expect to see even more as time goes by."

Of the 34 vehicles operated by GTS, 11 are Head Start vehicles, four are minivans, and 19 are equipped with wheelchair lifts. The staff consists of 26 drivers, and a support group of 10 others. Hill said that fares are kept to a minimum so more people can use the service.

Anyone interested in ridership may telephone GTS at 301-334-9431.

Power In Numbers...

The oft used description of the United States as the "land of plenty" may have to be tabled soon, or at least modified. While things are not as bleak as many in the major news media would like for us to believe, most of us would agree that a variety of economic challenges are definitely upon us.

Some of these most recent problems are almost entirely out of human control, such as the severe weather conditions that are wreaking havoc on various crops. Flooding, freezing, and drought have all contributed to the shortages of a number of food items, and thus higher prices for those items if they are available at all.

There are many victims of the housing crisis, as a correction in that particular market has resulted in huge losses for some homeowners, even though many believe that the correction was/is necessary for restabilization.

Causing the most distress right now, of course, is the rapidly spiraling cost of energy, and particularly of oil products. Not only are the now $4-plus-per-gallon gasoline prices having a direct effect on our wallets, but they are also indirectly affecting us in just about every other way. The cost of nearly every other product is influenced by the cost of petroleum products, almost always needed for production of those products, as well as for their delivery.

There is also a feeling of individual helplessness when it comes to the cost of gasoline, and that is totally justified – there is almost nothing that one person can do. However, there are many things that we can do together that absolutely will have a positive effect on the cost of energy, but it will require some major changes in our behavior.

We are a spoiled lot, plain and simple. We are (were) so used to just jumping in our vehicles and zipping down the road with little concern about the consumption of fuel since it didn't cost that much. We had similar attitudes about winter heating and summer cooling, as well as most food items, articles of clothing, and just about every other product. So much was taken for granted.

That has all changed, at least for now, so it is time for us to respond collectively, as a people, by thinking conservation at every turn. We need to car pool. We need to carefully plan our trips to town to make sure one trip will be sufficient. We need to walk more, and ride bicycles. We need to turn our air conditioning thermostats up and the furnace thermostats down. We need eat to less. (Heaven knows, that is a fact.) We need to learn to do without certain things.

There is truly power in numbers, and if all, or at least most, of us changed our behavior as it affects our consumption of gasoline, the price will come down. The law of supply and demand is virtually absolute. Not only will the price come down, but there will be additional benefits. The health of our planet will improve, and we will stop being such greedy, helpless wimps – at least for a while.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I read in your last week's paper about the Flag on the Mountain Maryland set for this Saturday, June 14, at the Wisp, and see that organizers are asking for beef jerky, Slim Jims, and Power Bars to be shipped to the troops in Iraq.

As I travel around the county I hear people talk about how they would like to help our men and women in uniform. Well, here is an opportunity to show how much you do support them. I plan to practice what I preach and buy jerky, Slim Jims, and Power Bars, and drop them off. I think this is the least I can do for them.

I salute the people who are working for this cause. Come on, Garrett County, let's show them what we're made of and send them what they want.

Thank you, and God bless America.

Steve Wendling

To the Editor:

What in the world is it going to take to fix an extremely dangerous situation in Garrett County? Yes, the crosswalk in front of Trader's Landing, where there was yet another accident. It wasn't the first accident of the season and it's most definitely not the last!

This crosswalk is used by many pedestrians (visiting or living in 48 condos behind Trader's) crossing 219 every day to reach docks for 80 boats. Many visiting boaters also dock and then need to cross 219 to eat at Subway or Brenda's Pizzeria, or get coffee at the Coffee Shop. Others are shopping or renting kayaks at High Mountain Sports or looking for furniture at Grand Central Station. Let it be known that many, many families with young children use this crosswalk.

The situation is extremely dangerous, especially when traveling 219 north. Visitors aren't aware that the crosswalk comes up immediately after you round the bend with no visibility or warning. If you are going the 45 mph speed limit, it is difficult to come to a dead stop for people in the crosswalk. Just like drivers can't see them ahead of time, pedestrians can't see the oncoming drivers either. Yes, there are two small signs that miserably fail to warn drivers as they approach this busy area. And no, Uno's doesn't have the same logistics with their crosswalk.

Another danger that compounds this problem is when a vehicle stops to let pedestrians cross; the driver behind may not be able to stop or worse, may choose to pass to the right of the stopped vehicle. Of course, this can be where the pedestrians are standing! So, how many vehicle accidents, bodily injuries, and near misses is it going to take to fix this problem? Please don't tell me that we are waiting to sacrifice a life or two before doing something! You really can't mean that we are actually waiting for someone to die before we address this life-threatening situation!

Surely we have spent enough time meeting, studying, counting, videotaping and observing skid marks. Surely we have a remedy (advanced-warning lights?) and funding to fix this urgent problem. Surely we all agree that one life is way too high a price to pay to force us into action. Surely I don't know what in the world we are waiting for. Surely some courageous leader will emerge to do the right thing!

Man Fined

After serving one year, Nicholas will be on probation. Fines totaling $600 were also imposed.

He was arrested and charged by officers with the Oakland City police Department in November. Nicholas was the driver of a vehicle initially observed speeding on Bradley Lane. After he was stopped, officers determined Nicholas was under the influence of alcohol, and he was arrested. A marijuana pipe was found in the pocket of the driver's door of his truck.

In other court proceedings from last week, Christopher Lee Shriver, 31, Frostburg, pleaded guilty to driving on a suspended license. Charges involving the registration of his vehicle were dismissed upon his plea.

Sherbin then sentenced Shriver to one year in the Garrett County Jail. All the sentence was suspended, except for 10 days. After serving his sentence, Shriver will be on probation. He was also fined $200.

Shriver was stopped by Maryland State Police along Rt. 495, in the area of O'Brien Road, in November. A check of Shriver's driving status showed it to be suspended and revoked.

In an unrelated case, Dennis Leslie Wolfe II, 28, Bloomington, pleaded guilty to driving an uninsured vehicle. Related traffic charges were dismissed upon his plea. Sherbin sentenced Wolfe to 30 days in the Garrett County Jail, which were suspended.

Wolfe is on probation and must also pay fines and costs totaling $275.

He was charged by sheriff's deputies last July. While conducting surveillance for another case in the area of Mt. Zion Road, deputies observed a truck park near the church and contacted the driver, determined to be Wolfe. A check of the vehicle registration showed the truck was not registered or insured and the registration tag belonged on another vehicle.

In another court news, Robert Eugene Carr, 43, Friendsville, pleaded guilty to driving under the influence of alcohol. Related charges were dismissed upon his plea.

Sherbin sentenced Carr to three years at the Division of Corrections and suspended two years of the sentence. Carr will be on probation upon his release from jail and must pay a $500 fine.

Carr was stopped by Maryland State Police along Rt. 219 in Accident in September 2001 for driving his vehicle across the center line. He was arrested for the DUI after failing a series of field sobriety tests.

According to the state's attorney, Carr failed to appear for the case when it was scheduled in 2002, and a warrant was issued. He was arrested, posted bond, and failed to appear again in 2006. Carr was returned to the Garrett County Jail in April after completing a different case and sentence in Allegany County.

Also from in Circuit Court last week, Edward Stone Gibbs, 71, Oakland, was sentenced to one year

by Glenn Tolbert

She is 88 years old and living with a loneliness and fear that she has never before faced. She is slapped, punched, and even kicked whenever she asks for help. Just this morning she awoke with a terrible thirst, and when she made it known that she simply wanted a cup of water, it was dumped on her.

Alone. Afraid. Whom to tell? How to make her needs known?

This is a typical example of elder abuse, a phenomenon all too familiar to those in the aging network. Elder abuse is described by law as "physical abuse, neglect, financial abuse, abandonment, isolation, abduction, or other treatment with resulting physical harm or pain or mental suffering, or the deprivation by a care custodian of goods or services that are necessary to avoid physical harm or mental suffering."

This 88-year-old needs immediate help. She needs to be made aware of services available to her, as do the people who may witness or suspect her plight. She is too preoccupied with basic survival and too ashamed to seek help. She is ashamed because she is being abused by members of her own family. For now, she just wants the abuse to end. Fortunately, there are agencies and trained professionals available to assist individuals experiencing elder abuse.

The Adult Protective Services (APS) unit of the Garrett County Department of Social Services is available to investigate reports/complaints of elder abuse, regardless of the type, and there are many of them.

Physical abuse is the infliction of physical pain or injury, sexual assault or molestation, or the use of physical or chemical restraints for punishments or without, or beyond, the scope of a doctor's order.

Neglect is the failure to fulfill a caretaking obligation, such as assisting in personal hygiene; providing food, clothing, shelter, or medical care; failure to pay for services needed; failure to protect a person from health and safety hazards; and failure to prevent malnutrition.

Financial abuse is the illegal or unethical exploitation and/or use of an elder's funds, property, or other assets for personal gain.

Abandonment is the desertion of an elder by someone who is a caregiver.

Abduction is the removal, without the consent of the conservator, of a conservatee to another state.

Isolation is the intentional preventing of an elder from receiving mail, telephone calls, or visitors.

Finally, mental abuse is the infliction of anguish, pain, or distress through verbal or non-verbal acts such as threats, insults, intimidation, harassment, or other forms of intimidating behavior.

It is difficult for most people to fathom how anyone could inflict elder abuse. Why would anyone, especially a family member, commit such acts?

"There are many reasons elder abuse occurs," stated a Garrett County Area Agency on Aging spokesperson. "Ill-prepared caregivers; inability to deal with elderly health issues, especially dementia; stress; resentment; greed; the list goes on.

"It is estimated that 4 to 6 percent of the elderly population is abused annually," the spokesperson continued. "Since elder abuse is under-reported, the actual number could be far more staggering. People need to be aware that services exist to assist not only the elderly person, but also the caregivers before the situation reaches the boiling point."

The International Network for the Prevention of Elder Abuse (INPEA) has designated next Monday, June 15, as World Elder Abuse Awareness Day.

"Through collaboration and sharing knowledge, the world will recognize and respond to the mistreatment of older people," said an INPEA spokesperson, who added that the theme of the observance this year is "My world, your world, our world – free of elder abuse." This year a purple ribbon will be worn to show support and raise awareness of this crime.

In addition to APS of the health department, the Area Agency on Aging is available to take complaints and forward them to the appropriate agency.

Persons who are aware of a real or suspected case of elder abuse or neglect are urged to telephone Adult Protective Services at 301-533-3000, or the Area Agency on Aging at 301-334-9431.

"It could be your relative. And someday, it could be you," the INPEA spokesperson concluded.

Dove Center

A Success Story

Editor's note: The Dove Center, Garrett County's domestic abuse shelter, is currently conducting a capital campaign to raise funds for a new, larger facility. In an effort to endorse that worthy cause, we wish to present several actual "success stories" of persons who received assistance from the Dove Center, the first of which appears below. The names of the contributors are not being released for obvious reasons.

I have been asked by the Dove Center if I could relate a story of my experience and my "happy ending," because too many people doubt there can be a happy ending for a victim of abuse.

Let me begin by saying that I am proof that abuse can happen to anyone. My family name is well-known in Garrett County, and my parents were the best. Can anyone imagine my shock, shame, and denial when I found myself in an abusive marriage to a man I had learned to trust as charming and loving while we were dating? My family and friends would be horrified and embarrassed.

The abuse began slowly. First the harsh words that were unfair and untrue, and yet over time I grew to believe them. Then it became physical, followed by believable promises to change and never hurt me again. But he didn't change, and I became more stressed watching my daughter watch this happening. That's when I went to the Dove Center.

My daughter and I were able to stay at the shelter for safety and time to decide what to do. We both got sympathetic and patient counseling. It was so hard to admit the abuse.

We couldn't stay with relatives because he could have access to us too easily.

But I did not want my daughter to think she should expect this kind of treatment from anyone. And she could not respect me for putting up with it any more than I could respect myself. More than anything, I wanted to be a good role model for her.

My daughter and I now lead emotionally healthy lives, and I enjoy running a good business. I'll always appreciate the Dove Center for my "happy ending."

I'm sorry I cannot sign my name. It is out of respect for my family. Some family and friends still know only of the divorce and not the reason. It will never be easy to confide abuse to anyone. But I write to encourage others to help support the Dove Center in whatever way they can.

Thank you for this opportunity.

A happy survivor

G'ville Volunteer Fire Department Receives Check

The first check from community donations was presented to the Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department recently, in the amount of $50,000. So far, the Grantsville Firehouse Committee has received over $132,000 in cash and pledges to help with the construction of the new Grantsville firehouse.

According to Gerry Beachy, co-chair of the committee, a mailing was recently sent out to Grantsville residents requesting donations, and a huge response resulted.

"Checks have been arriving daily," he said.

Residents were also given the option of ordering a tile for $100 to be placed on a wall of honor at the entrance of the new social hall.

The committee also announced the winners of the picnic table donated by Robosson Supply and the hickory rocker donated by Penn Alps Restaurant. Lori Gordon of Grantsville won the picnic table, and Bruce Opel of Long Stretch won the hickory rocker.

Donations can be sent to the Grantsville Firehouse Fund, P.O. Box 189, Grantsville, 21536. "New firehouse fund" should be written in the memo section of the check.

A wall of tiles will be placed at the entrance of the new firehouse social hall. Each tile will cost $100, and can contain memorials, honorariums, or other names. For more information, persons may call Beachy at 301-895-5387.

HELPING WITH THE KITCHEN – The Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department Auxiliary recently made a donation of $8,600 to the Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department. The funds represent a deposit and commitment by the auxiliary for the purchase of kitchen appliances and equipment for the new firehouse being built in Grantsville along Route 669. Pictured above, from left, are Martha Sebold, treasurer of the auxiliary, and Herman Yoder of the fire department. Sebold is a charter member of the auxiliary, and has actively served for 54 years since the inception of the auxiliary in 1954. The auxiliary was formed in support of the volunteer firemen and to assist in building the existing firehouse. The organization was previously known as the Ladies' Auxiliary, but auxiliaries across the state have dropped the "ladies" as many organizations have men in their membership. New members from the community are welcome to join the auxiliary. The Grantsville Auxiliary is a member of the Allegany-Garrett County Auxiliary and the LAMSFA State Auxiliary.

YOU HAVE TO WATCH HOW YOU SPEND YOUR MONEY, WHY DOESN'T THE STATE OF MD HAVE TO DO THE SAME WITH YOUR TAX DOLLARS?

The Garrett Countians for Smart Growth believe there are better ways to solve Oakland's traffic issues and provide economic development opportunities than the ones being offered by our government officials.

The mayor and town council of Mtn. Lake Park unanimously reject this "bypass" project. The mayor of Oakland, two out of three Commissioners and some Oakland town council members continue to push for this wasteful highway project at a time of major state and federal economic budget problems, exorbitant gas prices, and unpredictable economy.

A BETTER IDEA

We support the practical and necessary aspects of a streetscape-type program to improve traffic through Oakland. The Streetscape Project concept of "Thinking Beyond the Pavement" is the catalyst to preserve the character of our town, maintain the safety and convenience of our streets, while at the same time, improving brief, episodic traffic periods.

We advocate:

1. Installing one new traffic light signal with a turning arrow in the vicinity of Denny's Restaurant/Starlite Motel, Garrettland Complex or Shaffer Ford Sales similar to the installation at CVS and installing one new traffic light signal at the intersection of Eighth and Oak Streets.

2. The State of Maryland right-of-way along Third Street would be adequate to permit a center turning lane where appropriate. Examples of areas effectively incorporating center turning lanes are in front of CVS, and the Exxon location on the corner of Third and Oak Streets. Adding a turning arrow to proceed northward on Third from Oak would be beneficial.

3. Restoring the 25 mph speed limit through the town limits and synchronizing traffic light signals to enhance the steady, safe movement of vehicles.

Currently: In 2004, the estimated cost to build this two mile road was $42 million. What is the actual cost today? Considerably more!

Better Idea: Since state taxpayers must pay 40% of the final construction costs, and considering Maryland's present money problems, couldn't our tax dollars be better spent on more worthy projects or programs?

Currently: Some of our government officials claim the project is in motion and cannot be stopped.

Better Idea: Sean Johnson, SHA Project Mgr., maintains that this project can be stopped (as have similar projects within the state) at the discretion of our LOCAL officials.

Currently: This proposed bypass will destroy more than 73 acres of pristine countryside, farm land, and wetlands.

Better Idea: Preserving and protecting the unique and treasured characteristics of our area by allowing economic development to continue along already established roads.

Currently: Rt. 219 is our only North-South corridor.

Better Idea: The upgrading of Rt. 495.

The so-called "Oakland Bypass" is NOT a "done deal." It is, however, a glaring and blatant example of irresponsible and unnecessary spending by Maryland State Government. Please help us concerned citizens stop this waste of our tax dollars and farm land.

SeaPerch Camp Scheduled At GEARS Facility

The Garrett Engineering and Robotics Society (GEARS) will hold a "SeaPerch Underwater Experience" at its facility in Accident from Monday, June 23, to Friday, June 27.

The underwater robotics camp will run from 5:30 to 9 p.m. each evening to permit parents to participate with their children so they can extend the learning experience into the home.

The camp will be led by area resident Phil Malone, (aka Mr. Phil), who has a long career in robotics and has written software for underwater robots that are used around the world. His software has been used to locate aircraft black boxes, bury cables under the ocean, and help make movies of the Titanic.

Malone noted that the SeaPerch Underwater Experience introduces students to the wonders of underwater robotics.

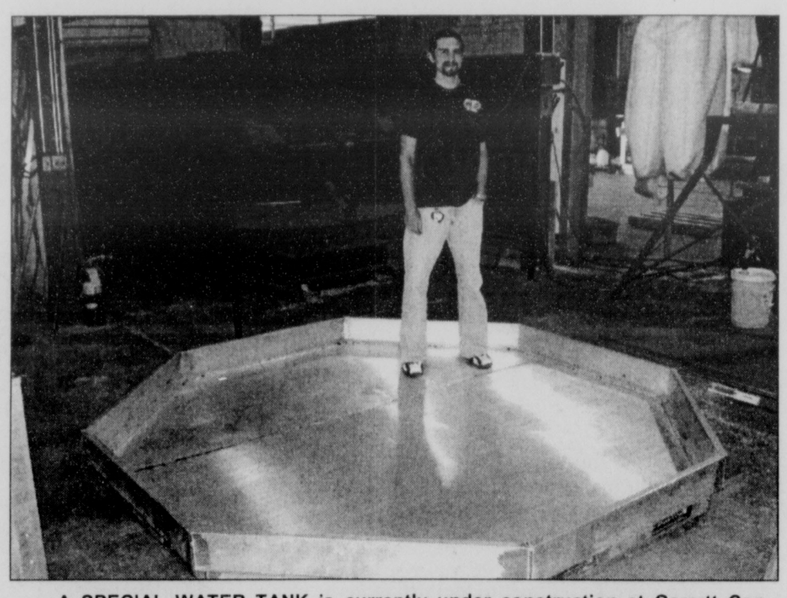
Part of the Office of Naval Research's initiative, "Recruiting the Next Generation of Naval Architects," this program teaches students how to investigate concepts like weight and buoyancy, and how to build an underwater robot (called a SeaPerch) complete with propulsion system and controller.

Participants will explore math, science, and technology related concepts while building their own robots. They will customize the robots to perform underwater missions, and also work in teams to solve underwater challenges. Missions will be performed in an eight-sided water tank with windows, which was custom-designed and built by Garret Container Systems (GCS).

"GCS has generously donated this tank to GEARS to encourage engineering and technology learning as part of fun area activities," Malone said.

Registration is still open for youth ages 13 to 16. The camp fee is $95, or $85 for GEARS members. Registration forms can be downloaded from www.gears-inc.org or can be obtained by calling Malone at 301-387-2331.

There are also several other technology camps running at GEARS this summer. For more information, persons may visit the GEARS web site and click on the "Tech Camps" tab.



A SPECIAL WATER TANK is currently under construction at Garrett Container Systems in Accident. It will be used for the SeaPerch Underwater Experience robotics camp at GEARS from June 23 to 27. Garrett Container Systems donated the eight-sided tank to encourage engineering and technology learning. Pictured above in the base of the tank is Shawn Fike, the engineer at Garrett Container who designed the tank. The camp is open to youth ages 13 to 16, and registration is currently open. See story.

The weekend will begin on June 20 at 7:15 p.m. and then on June 21 at 9:15 a.m. The final session will start at 7 p.m.

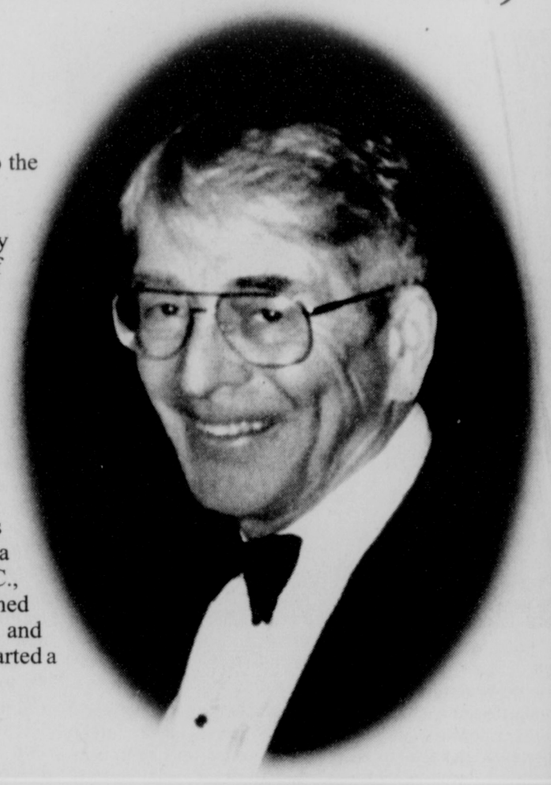
"Offutt Drive" Named to honor Daniel E. Offutt III,

A Generous Benefactor



Officials at Garrett County Memorial Hospital have announced the name designation of "Offutt Drive" for the main entrance road leading into the hospital campus via Memorial Drive. A road sign confirming this designation has been placed at the entrance to Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

"Offutt Drive" has been named after Daniel E. Offutt III, a most generous benefactor who recently donated $1 million to the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Foundation. When asked to comment about his generosity, Mr. Offutt casually remarked that he is "just continuing the tradition of community support started by his family in the past." In addition to his generous $1 million donation, Mr. Offutt has funded several different pieces of endoscopy equipment used in the surgical suite.

Dan Offutt fondly remembers growing up in the County and playing on the grounds where the Hospital now stands and continues to feel strong ties to the people of the community and his many friends from high school. He now resides in Weston, Connecticut.

"We are very grateful to Mr. Offutt. His family has long-standing roots in the community, and they were known for their support of the community. We appreciate Mr. Offutt's efforts to continue this fine legacy," remarked William B. Grant, Foundation Chairman.

Because Mr. Offutt has been away from Garrett County for some time, we thought we should reacquaint you with Dan and his family. All the Offutts in America are descendants from colonist William Offutt, who came from England in 1690 to Prince George's County, Maryland, at Upper Marlboro. As a planter of tobacco, he found favor with Lord Baltimore and acquired over 8,000 acres, some of which was along the Potomac River where Washington, D.C., is now located. Colonist William and wife Mary had eleven children. Daniel Offutt's branch of this family descends from the sixth son of William, named "Samuel" born in 1712. Over six generations, descendants of Samuel, kept moving westward to West Virginia and eventually settled in Oldtown and Cumberland, Maryland. Dan's paternal grandfather, Daniel E. Offutt I was born in Moorefield, West Virginia, in 1835. The birth of Daniel Edwin Offutt I started a lineage of Daniel Edwin Offutts in Oakland. The following will help you differentiate between them:

1. Daniel Edwin Offutt I, called "D.E.," was our donor's grandfather.
2. Daniel Edwin Offutt II, called "Ed," was our donor's father.
3. William R. Offutt, called "Will" (the lawyer), was Ed's brother and our donor's uncle.
4. Daniel Edward Offutt III, called "Dan," is our donor. Dan is nine (9) generations removed from colonist William Offutt.

So with that introduction, let's return to 1851 with the arrival of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad in Oakland, sparking new opportunities for economic growth. Hoping to benefit from the growing Oakland economy, we find "D.E." Offutt I building a large mercantile business, and developing interests in coal mining and lumbering. His second Offutt Store building, now "Rudy's Clothing," still partially proclaims "Offutt's Big Store" on the top of its north side. It was built in 1900 after a tragic fire in 1898 destroyed the first store and six adjacent businesses.

D.E. Offutt started the civic-minded family tradition that Dan Offutt continues today. "D.E." served as the Burgess of Oakland (now titled "Mayor") in 1878 and again in 1884. When electricity was introduced, D.E. Offutt I bought the first Edison electric light plant for the Town's use. He also served on the Commission that built the present Court House and was a founder and director of the Garrett National Bank. His home on Second Street is now the Stewart Funeral Home.

Daniel E. Offutt II, known as "Ed," took over all the family enterprises on the death of "D.E." Offutt in 1916 and also served as the Garrett National Bank President. "Ed's" major contribution to the community was starting the popular Oakland Golf Course. "Ed" Offutt was a driving force in acquiring the golf course land and getting construction under way. His wife, Karen Marie Stenholm Offutt, known as Kay, taught school and was an antique collector. Their home was 228 Second Street which has recently been authentically restored by B.J. and Krista Davisson. "Ed" Offutt died prematurely in 1943. His brother and neighbor at 216 Second Street, William R. Offutt ("Will"), was a lawyer, two-term State's Attorney, and took over "Ed's" position as President of the Garrett National Bank. "Will," along with Judge Neil C. Fraley, were Trustees of the Trust Fund inherited by young Daniel E. Offutt III ("Dan"). The Offutt store was sold and in time, Irvin R. Rudy, who managed the store for the interim owners, bought the building and the business.

"Will" Offutt, on behalf of Garrett National Bank and separately as an individual, along with his wife, Mary, contributed substantially to the beginning of the Garrett Memorial Hospital in 1947. "Will" and Mary's house has been magnificently restored by Dr. Patricia and Ken Gotch.

Young "Dan" enjoyed high school, worked on his sailboats, went on to the University of Maryland, and served in the U.S. Army. In time, he developed a successful career on Wall Street. "Dan", our recent generous contributor, strongly believes that supporting Garrett County Memorial Hospital not only upholds his family's tradition, but is also the best way he can think of to help meet the growing dynamics of Oakland and Garrett County.

"Dan" Offutt recalls from a recent Hospital tour "that even with the wonderful new building addition and updated state of the art equipment, the current patient demand sometimes puts a strain on the day-to-day operation. "Dan" has often said, "It is no mystery that Garrett County and the tri-state region the hospital serves is growing dramatically and it is obvious the Garrett County Memorial Hospital must also grow to keep pace with the increasing demand.

In his youth, "Dan" and his friends played in the community picnic grove that is now the hospital's present site. He recalls, "If you needed health service back then, you went to Dr. Baumgartner's office on Alder Street or if you were real sick, 'Doc Bummy' would come to your house. Well those days, as wonderful as they were, are long gone. This unique part of scenic 'Mountain Maryland' has become a year-round outdoor recreation destination and popular retirement community. Each time I return, I am amazed at the new development and the increase in year-round residents. The growth is an economic blessing but its growing population depends on and deserves quality health services and the hospital must enlarge to keep pace. Just like George Loar, my uncle "Will," and so many others of the 1947 era, I want to help meet the health needs of today as well as tomorrow."

"Dan" Offutt fondly recalls his early days in Oakland. It might be that his mother's Scandinavian heritage, coupled with the Offutt attention to detail, brought out an early artistic inclination in "Dan." At an early age he was perfecting detailed model airplanes from Balsa wood and rice paper. In his teenage years he moved up to the garage and created sailboats to ply the waters of Deep Creek Lake. These well built, but simple crafts were the beginnings of a life long avocation of acquiring unique wooden and fiberglass sailboats and sailing them on Long Island Sound and adjoining waters. It is a passion he enjoys to this day.

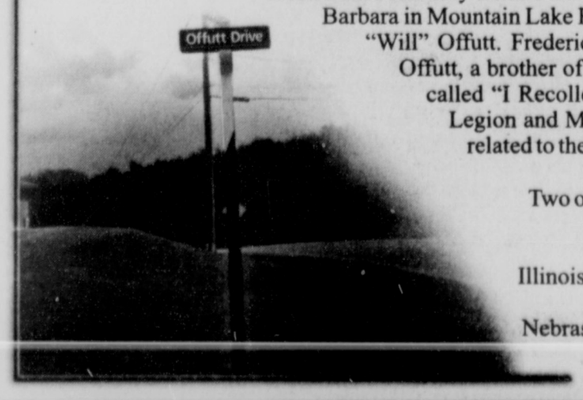
"Dan" also enjoyed a successful career on Wall Street in New York City and eventually ran his own investment company. During those years he bought a scenic farm in suburban Weston, Connecticut, where he put his creative skills to renovating a picturesque barn into his home. In another barn he created several art studios that he rents to local artists and in one studio he reserved for himself, he applies creative inspiration to fabricate scrap into one-of-a-kind art work.

"My friends bring me their old oil tanks and other large and small-scale pieces of recyclables," ponders "Dan," "They bring parts of cars and old interesting machinery and I delight in sculpturing it into whimsical, larger than life people, animals and other life forms that fall somewhere between or even beyond people, machines and/or animals." Some of his creations include: giant Styrofoam cows, a bear, and a colorful train locomotive 20 feet up on a barn wall barn that is fabricated from a truck door, Volkswagen hubcaps and a fertilizer spreader's gears. "This train is really quite attractive. From the distance that extends to the main road, you would not recognize it is made from components of junk. It is viewed simply as a colorful locomotive that begs you to say 'Wow! Look at that neat train,'" as exclaimed by Jennifer Johnson Martin, Dan's cousin from Houston, Texas.

Dan's property is a work in progress– from his Styrofoam animals to his real goats, ducks, geese and his Jack Russell Terrier "Bandit." For additional comic relief there is the 30-year-old dump truck and huge backhoe. These tools enable him to organize his burgeoning inventory of old cylinder tanks, vehicle parts and other scrap into his creative versions of England's mystical Stonehenge, that he affectionately calls "Tankhenge." It is simply a circle of giant artistically oxidizing water tanks awaiting the creative inspiration of "Dan's" fabrication.

"Dan" Offutt truly enjoys seeing his efforts produce something useful or enjoyable. His focus is on improvement, whether it is his art, his investment strategies, or his charitable foundation. The Garrett County Memorial Hospital Foundation is so fortunate to have his assistance, both financial and advisory in long-range planning to meet future health service needs of residents, neighbors, and recreating guests of Garrett County.

Mr. Offutt's cousins, William Offutt and Joan Johnson of Oakland, contributed to this article. William Offutt Johnson is the grandson of "Dan's" Uncle "Will." Another grandson of Will is Humbird Renix Offutt and his wife Maureen of Sterling, VA, who have a cottage at Deep Creek Lake. The only other Offutt descendents who presently reside in Garrett County are Frederic F. Chesley and wife, Barbara in Mountain Lake Park. Frederic's mother, Nelle Offutt Chesley, was a niece to "Ed" Offutt and his brother "Will" Offutt. Frederic's grandmother and grandfather were Nanniene (Thomasson) and Charles Ellwood Offutt, a brother of "Ed" and "Will" Offutt. Nanniene wrote articles for the "Mountain Democrat News" called "I Recollect ..." Her former Oakland homes were located where what are now the American Legion and Monte Vista. Kenneth Hardesty of Oakland, a high school friend of Dan Offutt, is also related to the Offutt family through "D.E.'s" sister, Julia.



Two other very distant Offutt relatives from other branches of the family that you may know of are :

1. Denton Offutt, a trader from Kentucky who in 1831 gave Abraham Lincoln his first job in building and running a flatboat from New Salem, Illinois, to New Orleans. Lincoln later worked for Offutt in his store in New Salem.
2. Jarvis J. Offutt, Lieutenant, a U.S. Army flyer in WWI with the British Royal Air Force, was killed on a mission. Offutt Air Force Base, Omaha, Nebraska, is named for him. That base became Headquarters for the Strategic Air Command (SAC) during the Cold War. You may recall that a "SAC" B-52 bomber crashed in Garrett County in deep snow on January 13, 1964.

May Bird Count Participants Just Miss New Record

Besting last year's May count total of 150 species of birds, the 38 participants in the 2008 Garrett County May Bird Count found 154 species of birds, just one shy of 1989's all time high of 155, during the 24-hour count period on May 10.

According to count compiler Fran Pope, the near record-breaking feat was made even more challenging by soggy weather that prevailed until almost noon on count day.

"However, several counters commented that, in spite of the drizzly conditions, birds were active and singing during the morning hours, making them fairly easy to find, but creating problems with wet glasses and binoculars," Pope said. "Having birders in many areas of the county surveying a variety of habitats also helped us attain the high species count."

The 22 field observers spent 146.8 hours, traveling 589.5 miles by foot, car, bicycle and tractor. After dark, an additional 4.75 hours and 24 miles were spent searching for owls and other nocturnal birds. The 16 observers counting their feeders and yards totaled 33.5 hours. The total number of individual birds counted this year was 6,328, down from last year's 8,699.

Birds found this year that were not recorded last year, or are generally uncommon for the May Count, were: a Virginia rail, seen at Finzel Swamp; a tundra swan on Piney Reservoir; a dunlin (type of shorebird) near Grantsville; a Swainson's thrush at Carey Run; a fox sparrow near Bear Creek; a great egret near Rock Lodge Road; a marsh wren at the Glades; horned larks near Savage River State Forest; a bank swallow near Bittinger; a Brewster's warbler (hybrid) near Jennings Randolph Lake; and, three species of terns (black, common, and Forster's) on Broadford and Deep Creek lakes. The only species reported by all observers was the ruby-throated hummingbird.

Comparing the "top 10" birds reported this year to those from the 2007 spring count, red-winged blackbird maintained its "#1" status for the third consecutive year, and since 2000, has now held the top spot five times, with the American robin first the other four years.

The "top 10" numbers per species for this year's count were: red-winged blackbird, 507; American robin, 413; European starling, 247; barn swallow, 246; American crow, 244; song sparrow, 206; common grackle, 196; mourning dove, 183; American goldfinch, 180; and chipping sparrow, 174.

This year's May Bird Count participants were: Jaime Alvarez, Natalie Atherton, Ken Bauer, Dale Beck, Ron Boyer, Vicki Carlson, Kevin Dodge, Curtis and Maria Duff, Courtney Englar, Andrew Frazee, Barbara and George Gaffney, Nellie Henken, Aaron Holochwost, Sheila Hughes, Carolyn Humberson, Glen Johnston, Alan, Jessica, and Kyle Klotz, Liz McDowell, Ada, Harmonia, Jethro, Joyce, and Lily Peachy, Bill and Fran Pope, Jeff Reitz, Connie Skipper, Angus and David Walbeck, Mary Walcek, David Yeany, Barbara Yoder, Irene Yoder, and Samuel Yoder.

Results of the count will be published in Maryland Birdlife, the journal of the Maryland Ornithological Society. Maryland's May Count was the inspiration for the North American Migration Count, as well as International Migratory Bird Day, both of which are now observed annually and globally on the second Saturday of May.

He will present a piano presentation as part of the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival season. "The audience is in store for discovering the rare talent of this exceptional Japanese artist as he performs Bach's Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring, Beethoven's Eroica Variations in E-Flat Major, Liszt's Valee d'Obermann, Takemitsu's Litany, and Albeniz's From Iberia, Book 3," said Skip Case, GLAF executive director. Garrett County Studio Artist Tour Weekend To Take Place June 28, 29

Artists of Garrett County, in conjunction with the Garrett County Arts Council, are inviting the community to visit the working artists' studios on Saturday and Sunday, June 28 and 29, in a countywide tour.

Area studios will be open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. both days. Artists will be discussing and demonstrating their crafts, inviting and answering questions regarding their artistic process and the business of making art, and will sell their hand-crafted artworks.

The tour is free and will feature pottery, jewelry, weaving, fused and stained glass, furniture, photography, woodcarving, sculpture, painting, collage, and printmaking.

"The beauty of Garrett County often appears in the work of our artists. It may be the mountains, the lake, the farmlands, or a simple butterfly," said planning committee member Julie Turrentine. "As you make your way from studio to studio, you will agree that inspiration comes easily sometimes just looking out of your window."

Although there are 20 artists involved, there are just 12 stops on the studio tour. Some artists will set up shop as guests in other artists' studios.

"My studio is the out-of-doors and wherever my camera takes me," said nature photographer Caroline Blizzard. "I am set up to travel with framed and matted photography but no real place to show it at my home. Teaming up with Julie Turrentine of Snowbird Creations Glass Studio has proven to not only be fun for me, but also for the visitor who gets one-stop shopping and demonstrations."

Digital photographer Roger Lueck will do the same, and share a space at furniture maker Bob Newman's workshop.

Potter Pam Snyder and painter Eric Smith will set up alongside Alan and Sue Arnson at the Loft Shop near Bittinger.

"Eric Smith and Sue Arnson have taken classes and worked together in both watercolor and printmaking, so to see their artwork side by side will be educational as well as pleasing," said Natalie Atherton, an arts council board member and tour coordinator. "You will be able to see how each of them has been innovative in each medium."

While most studios are inside, sculptor Leonard Paul will display large-scale work in his Big Horn Sculpture Garden in Friendsville. Smaller-scale work such as jewelry, fused glass, and stained glass will be on display at the studios of Doug Salmon, Carol Jean Speranzella, and Lou DiCarlo.

Woodcarving will be on display at the studios of Gary Yoder, Bob Wilt, Alan Arnson, and Mike and Judy Simpson. Lynn Lais and Lorie and Ron Skidmore will have pottery on display.

Watercolor paintings will be exhibited at Sue Arnson's and Mary Lou Bauer's studios. Ann Jones will display the weavings, rugs, and shawls she produces on large treadle looms.

A map brochure will be available at a number of locations around the county, including The Gallery, the Shoppe at Heritage Square, Englander's, Fireside Deli and Wine Shop, the Visitors Center in McHenry, real estate offices, and the Ruth Enlow libraries in Oakland, Accident, and Grantsville.

The brochure includes information about participating artists, a description of their media, and a map with detailed directions. Blue balloons will mark the route to each studio. Visitors may start anywhere on the tour, and follow the route in ascending or descending numerical order. When they reach stop number 12, Elee Bookout pottery, they can continue to stop number 1, Spruce Forest Artisan Village.

OTT To Host Annual Summer Barter Camps

Our Town Theatre has announced the opening of registration for its summer barter camps. The theatre will host three camps: two for younger children and one for teenagers.

Children entering grades kindergarten through 5 are invited to register for either the July 21-25 session, or the July 28 to Aug. 1 session. Students entering grades 6 through 12 may register for the July 28 to Aug. 1 session, with their meetings in the evenings.

The name of the event comes from the way students "pay," or "barter," for their participation, which is by bringing needed items to the theatre rather than money. A list of needed things, such as stamps, paper towels, tissues, and other items, will be provided to the campers before the start of camp. Barter items will also include a variety of things needed by the scene shop at OTT's Backstage building.

The camps for the younger children will have a daily schedule of 10 a.m. until noon. A special show for families will take place on the Fridays of each session (July 25 and Aug. 1) at 7 p.m.

Activities will include theatre games, puppetry, music and art projects. A snack will be provided daily.

The older students' camp, July 28 to Aug. 1, will have daily sessions from 6 to 8 p.m., with a special show for families at 8:30 p.m. that Friday. Students will experience many aspects of theatre and have the opportunity to do some improvisation, a spokesperson said.

Registrations for all camp sessions will be accepted beginning June 18. Persons may register by calling the theatre at 301-334-5640, option 2, or by e-mail at ourtowntheatre@-verizon.net.

"Deep Creek's Got Talent" Show Slated

A talent competition, Deep Creek's Got Talent, will be held at the Honi Honi Bar, Deep Creek Lake, on Saturday, June 21, from 6 to 9 p.m. The event will act as a fundraiser to benefit the Deep Creek Lake Lions Club Blind Skiers Program.

A cross between "American Idol" and "America's Got Talent," Deep Creek's Got Talent will showcase a variety of talent from local area contestants, including musicians, comedians, actors, poets, and jugglers.

The event will kick off at 6, followed by an elimination round of all contestants. The top three contestants will immediately advance to the finals round and be awarded prizes.

Contestants will be judged on their donations collected prior to the event, audience donations received at the event, and feedback from the judges' panel. Registration spots are still available.

Those interested should pre-register online at www.thehoni.com/deepcreektalent. To enter the competition, contestants must raise a minimum of $50 in donations, with registration completed to guarantee a spot in the competition.

The event will also feature prizes and giveaways donated by various local businesses. A Randy, Paula, and Simon audience impersonator contest will also be held at the event.

Those seeking more information may contact Stacy at 301-387-4020.

Tent Troupe To Perform At Glades Park

Tent Troupe, a traveling summer "big top" tent theater, will arrive in Oakland and perform on Friday, June 27, at Glades Park. A matinee for children of all ages will be held at 1:45 p.m., featuring a variety of classic short stories, fables, and folk tales. The evening show will begin at 7:45. The public is invited and no admission is charged, but free-will donations will be collected.

A non-profit endeavor of St. Luke Lutheran Church in Silver Spring, Tent Troupe is a performing arts ministry designed for and by high school students. Since its inception in 1970, Tent Troupe has visited 375 towns in 29 states and Canada.

This year Tent Troupe's play is called The Curious Savage. It is described as a "fanciful comedy that champions the virtues of kindness and affection in a world largely motivated by greed and dishonesty."

The troupe travels to a different town each day, performing for hundreds of people. Every day the teenagers erect and strike nearly two tons of tent, pack and unpack four truck loads of equipment, prepare their meals, and participate in family meetings and daily devotions.

The teens and their assisting adults present two shows each day: the matinee for children and the full-length evening presentation.

"Troupers and staff experience life as a family, loving, caring, sharing and giving as an expression of their faith in Jesus Christ. They share their 'ministry by example' with all they meet along the road," a spokesperson said.

"The shows are carefully selected with the intention of making audiences think about some of the basic questions encountered in life," said the spokesperson. "The plays focus on people who, by their lifestyles, make you consider challenging questions as you leave our tent."

Tent Troupe's local visit is being sponsored by St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Oakland. For more information, persons may contact the church office at 301-334-2668. The Tent Troupe web site is www.tent-troupe.org.

MPA To Host Traditional Folk Singer Murdock

Music at Penn Alps will present folk singer Lee Murdock in concert on Saturday, June 14, at 7:30 p.m. in the Great Hall at Penn Alps, Grantsville.

Noted as a fluent instrumentalist on the 6- and 12-string guitars, Lee Murdock's musical influences span three centuries, from 17th century Irish harp music to Scott Joplin guitar. He said his fascination with Great Lakes music came from his search for songs from his own part of the country. He said he remembers, as a child, learning folksongs from Ireland and England, and folksongs from Appalachia and the American West, but there were few folksongs from the people of the Midwest.

Murdock has since uncovered a large body of music and stories from the Great Lakes, drawing on the archives of authentic sailing songs collected in the early 20th century. His singing voice and respect for musical traditions are reminiscent of Burl Ives, a spokesperson said, and his repertoire encompasses old work songs, his own original compositions, and music by songwriters such as Shel Silverstein, Woody Guthrie, Pat Dailey, and Larry Penn.

Murdock has released fourteen CDs since 1980, and his book, Lake Rhymes, Folk Songs of the Great Lakes Region, contains 18 songs and more than 70 historic photos and illustrations.

A typical performance of Murdock's is approximately one-third traditional music, one-third Murdock originals, and one-third music by contemporary songwriters/composers.

Tickets are $15 for adults, and youth under 19 are admitted free of charge. For program and ticket information, persons may call 301-895-4250.

This concert is sponsored by R.H. Lapp & Son Inc.

After the performance, audience members are invited to meet and talk to the artist at an informal reception. Music at Penn Alps is a non-profit organization dedicated to presenting classical music and American traditions.

Sweat Equity At Work: Grantsville's Habitat House Is Local "Blitz Build"

by Brenda Ruggiero

Last week on a hillside near Grantsville, a dream quickly became a reality. Despite the rain and heat, a home took shape and grew, fueled by prayer and sweat equity. This home will soon be a haven for Stephanie Merrill and her 14-year-old son Zachary.

The efforts on Meadow Lake Drive were just a small part of a bigger event that Habitat for Humanity coordinated all over the country last week. The Merrill home was part of Habitat's "Blitz Build," in which 250 houses in 34 states were completed during the week of June 2.

Although rain did slow the process a bit in Grantsville, Stephanie's house was nearly completed in the time frame, and the dedication service is planned for Sunday, June 22. It is the 58th home completed by Garrett County Habitat for Humanity (GCHFH), and the third blitz home in the county.

Despite the quick ending, the process has been a long one for Stephanie, who works at the Garrett County Assessment Office in Oakland. For the last seven years, she and Zachary have lived in a rented trailer at Keyser's Ridge. Currently, there are no locks on any of the interior doors, most of the windows are boarded up because of wind damage, and there is no insulation.

At first, she tried to buy a home on her own, but as a single mom, she found that she couldn't afford it. When someone suggested that she put in an application with Habitat, she decided to give it a try.

She put in the application in 2005, and was approved in 2006.

"They said I was approved, but that I would have to wait two years for the grant money for the northern end of the county," Stephanie explained. "So I waited until 2008."

The home is built on land that was a part of Stephanie's father Lowell's farm. Currently, she owns 4.21 acres there.

When the planning began, Stephanie was given three house plans to chose from. She also got to choose from several carpet samples and select the color of her countertops.

Stephanie scheduled her vacation during the week of the build so she could be there to assist in any way she could, and she put in several 14-hour days.

"I helped get the materials that they needed, helped do some taping, helped with the insulation of the house, and helped with the foundation," she said. "Every evening, I've done the clean-up, because we need to get it out of the way for the next day."

Stephanie noted that she was glad to be able to give a little something back to those who gave her so much.

"The way I look at it, they're helping me out in a big way," she said. "I can do the little things. I try to do as much as I possibly can to show them that I do appreciate everything they're doing for me. Habitat is wonderful to help me out doing this."

Ida Maust is a charter member of Garrett County Habitat for Humanity, and serves as chairman of its family support committee. She explained that each two-parent family must earn 500 sweat equity hours working for Habitat. As a single mom, Stephanie had to earn 250 hours, half of which could come from other family members.

"Stephanie has been a wonderful partner," Ida said. "She has put in so many hours, and already has her 250. She has been here doing anything that needs to be done. If anybody deserves a house, she does. I think that's how everybody feels. I was talking to some of the board members the other day, and nobody's going to say that Stephanie wasn't there and didn't help on her house."

Bill Riley, GCHFH board president, noted that over 90 percent of everything involved in a blitz house is donated, including the labor.

"This is a special situation," he noted. "It's not our usual way of doing things. It's all been put together, and you really have to work out the details. When you build a house, it usually takes weeks and weeks and weeks.

"Whenever we build a regular house, we have mission groups come in to help us build our houses, and then we finish up what they don't get done. Some people that come to work have never even held a hammer. We provide a mission field, and there are hundreds of people who come every summer to Garrett County."

Bill stressed that Habitat is not a giveaway program. Even if the house is built on the recipient's land, there is still a mortgage that must be paid.

"We don't charge them any interest or make any profit on the house, but they're paying for a 30-year loan," he said.

This is the first year since 1993 that GCHFH has participated in a Blitz Build.

"This is the year for International to sponsor builds, so once we got into that program, then these things became available to us," Bill explained. "Otherwise, they would not have been available on a regular basis. All this free stuff would not have been here. So that's one reason we decided on a Blitz House."

Normally, Garrett County completes three houses per year. Habitat will build at any location if people have their own land. If they don't own property, the houses are built at Hopeland Village.

Bill explained that applications are considered by a family selection committee. In order to be approved, applicants must have a job, have good credit, and be able to pay a mortgage.

"We don't want to put people into a house and see them fail because they jump from job to job and they just can't make the payments," he said. "We haven't had a foreclosure yet out of 57 homes. We've come awfully close, but we work with people. We're not like a bank where you pay or get out. It's all based on God's love and his principles. We're a Christian organization, and without his help, this thing would not work. We take people who are generally on the lower end of the pay scale and never had a home before. We build them a home, we put them in it, and we change their lives.

"And we're not doing it for this generation. We're doing it for the kids down the road. We're building a safe, warm home where they can live, bring their kids in, and change their lives forever and ever."

Companies that helped with the Merrill home include Bilco, Beitzel Corporation, Byco, Four Seasons Electric, Harmon & Margroff, Wilt Plumbing, Sunrise Masonry, Lee's Drywall, Toothman Painting, Stoner Painting, Sunrise Management, Delano's Carpet, and St. Michael's Church of Mt. Airy.

Food was donated by Grantsville area churches: Maple Glen Mennonite Church, Maranatha Assembly of God, United Methodist Charge, World Lighthouse, and Cherry Grove Church of the Brethren.

All of Stephanie's family members helped with her house in whatever way they could. They included her parents, two brothers, a sister, and several nephews. Many of her friends and some co-workers donated their time as well. In fact, she was a bit surprised by the response.

"All I did was mention it to them, and people just showed up," she said.

Although the wait for her home was long in the beginning, the final process has been a whirlwind for Stephanie.

"It all happened so quickly," she said. "I don't have time to really absorb everything."

She is convinced of one thing, though.

"Great things come to those who wait," she said.

BLOCK BY BLOCK, the foundation of a new home for Stephanie Merrill and her son Zachary (pictured below) was built along Meadow Lake Drive near Grantsville. The project was part of Habitat for Humanity's Blitz Build, in which 250 houses were built in 34 states during the week of June 2.

MANY HELPING HANDS were involved in the building of the 58th Garrett County Habitat for Humanity house last week near Grantsville. The nearly finished home is pictured below. The family will be able to move in soon, and the dedication is planned for Sunday, June 22. See story.

Mtn. Lake Park is forgoing the B&O project for various reasons, but primarily because of the cost. The trail would have been constructed in a flood plain, making it too expensive, DeVore noted.

Loch Lynn Heights asked for $64,000 for an athletic complex/parking area. The money would be used for preliminary planning and design, excavation and tree removal, stormwater management, and an underground conduit.

The Garrett County Board of Education would like $36,900 to upgrade the girls' softball field at Northern High School. The improvements would include paving, fencing, infield resurfacing, and outfield regrading.

The Avilton Community Association requested $20,200 to purchase and install playground equipment at the new Avilton Community Center. If the commissioners grant the association's request, this would be first time that the Avilton community receives POS funding, DeVore noted.

He said the association plans to contribute $16,000 toward the playgroup equipment project.

Crellin softball field officials would like $14,800 for improvements. The work would include grading, ditches, stone, fencing, a home plate, benches, and bleachers.

Grantsville asked for $13,5000 to construct a new gravel parking area at the town park.

The Casselman Valley Soccer Association would like $10,000 to install sidewalks and a patio at its existing stand, to replace grave and topsoil, and to top dress the fields.

Accident requested $5,998.50 for aluminum bleachers and six trash cans for Town Park East.

More than $539,000 was available and allocated in POS funding in FY 2008 for local projects.

Program Open Space is funded by the state and is allotted to counties each year, with the monies appropriated by their fiscal authorities. The funds are to be used to renovate existing Open Space facilities or to buy properties for new Open Space use.

All projects must be for public use. Additionally, development initiatives require a 10 percent local match, but those involving land acquisition do not.

Oakland Earns Two Victories Over Mount Storm In Pen Mar Action

The Oakland baseball squad beat Mt. Storm in both games of a Saturday afternoon Pen Mar League contest, 11-8 and 9-1, in Petersburg.

Oakland broke free of a seventh-inning tie in the first game of a doubleheader with four runs in the final inning for an 11-9 win, then breezed through the nightcap in sweeping Mt. Storm, 8-1, on Saturday.

Torie Poholsky and J. Bosley had run-scoring hits for Oakland in the deciding eighth of the first game for the Oaks, who put together two hits and five bases on balls to score four runs to break a 7-7 tie.

Poholsky finished with three hits and four RBI. Cory Bosley got the win from the pitcher's mound, allowing seven hits and three earned runs in seven innings of work.

Lockhart had three hits for Mt. Storm.

The Oaks scattered 14 hits to win 9-1 in the second game. Mt. Storm scored one run in the first inning and never again in the rest of the contest. Oakland got a run in the first, four in the third, two in the fifth, and one in each the sixth and seventh innings.

Altobello allowed just one hit over six innings in getting the win.

Bosley and Reams had two hits for the Oaks.

Oakland will host Cumberland Romney Cycle Orioles this Saturday for a 1 p.m. doubleheader at the Garrett College baseball field. Oakland and Cumberland are both currently 3-1 and share first place with the Tri-State Titans. Clarksburg and Petersburg are both 1-3.

On Sunday, Oakland travels to Frank Loria Field in Clarksburg to take on Clarksburg in a 1 p.m. twinbill.

Sweitzer, Simson & Associates Edges Barrelville And Blasts Hite Roofing

Sweitzer, Simson, & Associates edged Barrelville ODC, 8-7, at Southern High School in a Rec League baseball game played last Thursday, then strove for a bigger win the next day and bombarded Hite Roofing in a 10-1 triumph at Southern High School. SS&A was scheduled to host Chessie Federal Credit Union on Wednesday at Southern High School, but results were not provided.

Barrelville ODC recorded 12 hits in last Thurday's contest, but SS&A captured the win by half as many hits. It was a six-run second inning that gave SS&A a permanent lead that led to the 8-7 win.

Cody Parsons, Shane Weaver, and Josh Noble had run-scoring hits in the big second.

Chris Martin hit a two-run homer in the first inning as ODC (0-2) took a quick 3-0 lead. But SS&A got those runs back and then some in the big second, which was highlighted by Parsons' three-run double, Weaver's two-run single, and Noble's RBI double. Parsons finished with a double, single, and four RBI.

SS&A led 8-4 after four innings. Barrelville scored twice in the sixth and once in the seventh to make it close.

Jody Donnelly provided an RBI single and scored two runs for the winning team, which had seven base hits on balls.

For Barrelville, Shane Chambers, Nick Logue, Derek Sisk, Jordan Baker, and Zane Bridges each hit two singles.

If it weren't for Alex Shingle's lone run in the second inning, SS&A would have voided Hite Roofing in Friday's contest at Southern High School.

Derek Taylor fired a two-hitter and his teammates pounded out 12 hits to keep SS&A undefeated in the 10-1 win.

Sweitzer hit a two-run homer in the team's four-run first inning. Hite Roofing made it 4-1 in the second, but SS&A became untouchable with a five-run sixth.

SS&A got four hits from Shane Weaver with a double and three singles, which he added to his three RBI and two runs scored. Duncan had two hits, including a double and an RBI, while Jason Ashby whacked a two-run double.

Fred Abe and Shingle had Hite's two base hits, with Shingle's driving in his team's only run.

Taylor fanned 10 and walked just two in picking up the complete-game victory.

Chessie received the game-winning run it needed to get a leg up on Casselman Monday evening, and remains undefeated at 3-0.

Sailboat Racing
On Deep Creek Lake

FINALLY...
by Dan Muss

... a spring weekend in Garrett County that wasn't miserably cold and rainy or stormy. The weekend was lovely, and, on both Saturday and Sunday, our web-based forecasts at 9 a.m. were for SW wind, about 10 mph. What we had on the water was more like 15, with gusts over 20.

That was clearly too much for most of us aging sailors, so we went out in my pontoon boat to watch the action. There were nine championship boats racing in gold and silver, two masters, and four challengers out to brave those fierce gusts. That was a relatively small fleet, but I admire those intrepid sailors that did compete.

What is so difficult about racing in these conditions is that, on Deep Creek Lake, these gusts often come with a large change in direction and, so, can knock a Flying Scot over in an eye-blink. There were, however, no Scot capsizes during the racing; on the other hand, the Lasers were capsizing right and left, but getting right up again. They are amazing. There were nine Lasers out on Saturday to race four races. On Sunday there were only three; I think the others may have been too sore to sail.

In the first Scot race on Saturday, John Frank was out in front of the championship fleet around the first windward mark, but he fouled Joanie Coraor rounding the offset mark. Doing his penalty turns in this heavy air was difficult, but he still won the silver.

Bruce Spinnenweber led through most of that race, but on the last leeward leg Coraor stayed out in the middle while Spinnenweber ran along the shore, and Coraor got "room" at the leeward mark and held on to win.

On Sunday the wind was even heavier, and Spinnenweber, with only two up, led for the whole race. But there was real drama in the masters' fleet, as Peters led throughout the whole race by as much as five boat lengths. On the last downwind leg, Silverman put up his spinnaker while Peters did not, and Silverman led around the last mark. That wily sailor Peters, though, caught Silverman on the last beat to the finish to win by a boat length!

With the wind howling, I had been surprised that no Scot had gone over, but on his way back, after finishing, John Blake, with Marty Earl up, capsized in shallow water and broke his mast.

Cork's Blanks Ridgeley; Loses Grip Of Win Streak To SB&T

Cork's Cars won its sixth straight game by blanking Ridgeley VFW, 10-0, at Hamilton Field in Friday's Hot Stove baseball league action, but a meeting with Stewart, Barr, and Thorne on Tuesday at Clark Field in Keyser put an end to the winning streak in a 7-2 upset.

It took a few innings to get the ball rolling on Friday, but by the fourth inning, Cork's Cars managed to record two runs, which escalated into a 10-0 thrashing of Ridgeley VFW.

Cork's catcher Corey Helbig provided two doubles, while Nathan King and Dylan Bennett each scattered two singles. Cork's Cars finished with 11 hits in six innings of play.

Tyler Sweitzer held Ridgeley to two hits in a complete-game performance while ringing up eight strikeouts and walking only one. He needed just 54 pitches in posting the shutout.

Cork's was handed its first defeat of the season Tuesday when Stewart, Barr, and Thorne squashed Cork's early 1-0 lead with four runs in the third.

Fike Helps Knock Wisp To Wins Over Hobo's, Young's Unlimited

The Wisp Hot Stove baseball squad bettered its record to 4-2 with two recent wins. The first came last Friday when Wisp downed Hobo's Restaurant at Hamilton Field in a 7-3 contest, and the second was a 4-1 victory on Tuesday over Young's Unlimited/Cumberland Optimist at Northern High School.

Leading Wisp in its 7-3 victory over Hobo's Restaurant was Jared Fike with two hits, and Alex Smith with four runs batted in. Fike smacked a double and a single, while Smith hit a double and a sacrifice. Cody Humberson provided an RBI single for the winning team.

For Hobo's, Lucas Campbell rapped a double and two singles, and Nathan Brigman had two singles and an RBI.

Wisp scored first with a run in the first inning, and put two more on the board in the third to boast a 3-0 lead. Hobo's recorded its first run in the fourth and added two more in the seventh. Wisp scored twice more in the fourth, then tacked on two in the sixth for security.

Wisp got four runs on four hits in Tuesday's triumph over Young's Unlimited, and winning pitcher Andy Umbel fired a complete-game two-hitter to aid the offensive effort.

Umbel struck out 12 and allowed only two walks for Wisp.

The leading batter for the winning team was again Fike, with two singles and two RBI. Umbel and Adam Finzel each nabbed base hits.

Smith and McDonald had Young's two hits.

In fact, players may register up until the first day of camp, which will be next Monday, June 16.

The first week of camp is designed for youth in grades 5 to 10, and the second week of camp (June 23-26) is for youth in grades one through four.

Gregg Concludes Athletic, Academic Career At McDaniel

Former Southern High School honor student and standout athlete Robbin Gregg recently completed her career as a student athlete at McDaniel College, Westminster.

Gregg, daughter of Fred and Carol Gregg, Oakland, was a member of the McDaniel women's basketball team, which she led in both scoring and assists this past season.

Her 103 assists made her only the third player in program history to dish out at least 100 assists in a single season. She also recorded 62 rebounds, 38 steals, and six blocked shots.

For her career at McDaniel, the 5-4 guard finished with 230 assists, ranking her 11th in that category in school history. She was named the team MVP and was also an honorable mention selection to the 2008 All-Centennial Conference Team. She was named to the Conference Academic Honor Roll for her outstanding efforts in the classroom.

The Green Terror finished this past season with a 13-13 overall record and an 11-7 mark in conference play, qualifying for the conference tournament for the seventh straight year.

Gregg was also awarded the Faith Millard Medal as McDaniel's top female athlete for 2007-08.

As an exercise chemistry major, she received the Richard A. Clower Award for Excellence in exercise science and physical education. She graduated magna cum laude (with high honors) in chemistry, and will enter the West Virginia University School of Pharmacy this fall.

Track Camp For Kids Slated At Southern High

The Southern High School indoor track team will be sponsoring a track camp this month for children just finishing grades 2-5 and who attend elementary schools in Garrett County.

The dates for the camp will be Tuesdays and Thursdays, June 17, 19, 24, and 26, from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. each evening. Sign-ups will start at 4:30 p.m. each day of the camp. Parents or guardians are required to sign up their child each day and are urged to remain for the camp.

The camp will conclude on Tuesday, July 1, with an elementary track meet beginning at 6 p.m. All events will be held at the Southern High School track. In order to participate in the track meet, the athlete must attend at least two of the four camp evenings.

According to SHS track coach Steve Cosner, the camp is being sponsored to promote fitness to local elementary students. He said that the camp will stress the importance of maintaining a physically fit lifestyle "while learning that running can be fun!" Proper nutrition will be stressed, and safe stretching exercises will be taught. Campers will learn how to prepare for individual running and jumping events, and team events such as relays.

Cosner will direct the camp, but members of the SHS track teams will serve as coaches. Participants are urged to bring water with them, but additional water will be available. There will be no charge to participate in the camp.

In the event of inclement weather, parents are advised to listen to local radio stations for cancellation information. For more information about the camp, persons may contact Steve Cosner or Jennifer Cosner at 301-334-2363, or Emily Lipscomb at 301-387-7649.

G&S Coal/NewPage outhit, outran, and outscored Culver Design Build, 9-2, in a Monday evening Hot Stove baseball league contest in Westernport.

G&S broke free of an early-game 1-1 tie with a five-run second inning led by winning pitcher Steven Holtschneider, who belted a two-run triple. Also delivering for G&S during the big second was Cody Malone with a double.

Holtschneider also had a single, and Malone finished with two doubles and a single. Catcher Hunter Broadwater doubled and singled, Mitchell Morris doubled, and Justin Donley tripled and singled for the winning team.

As pitcher, Holtschneider held off Culver by yielding just four hits in a complete-game effort.

For Culver Design, Caleb Landis had a double and three of his teammates had base hits.

G&S will travel to Petersburg High School this evening for a game with Grant County Mulch.

Garrett Drops 40 Hits On C'land In Three Games

Garrett dropped a total of 40 points on Cumberland over three recent American Legion games. Cumberland came up short in a 12-3 whipping last Thursday at Garrett College, then lost 9-1 on Tuesday at Legion Field and 4-3 on Wednesday in McHenry.

Garrett had little trouble derailing Cumberland last Thursday after dumping 20 hits on the visiting team, in an attack led by Tyler Stevens and Reece Duncan. Stevens finished with four hits and three runs batted in. Two runs came on a home run in the sixth inning, and the other came on one of three singles. Duncan went 5-for-5 with a pair of doubles and three singles, and also had two RBI.

Matt Sisler and Corey Carr each had a double, a single, and one RBI, and Nick Tressler singled three times. Trey Beasom rapped a two-run double, and Jason Ashby stroked two singles.

Southern and Northern High School leading pitchers Ashby and Sisler combined for a total of 11 strikeouts, while allowing five hits.

Shane Malloy had two singles and an RBI in the sixth inning for Cumberland. Chandler Tomlinson also had an RBI single in

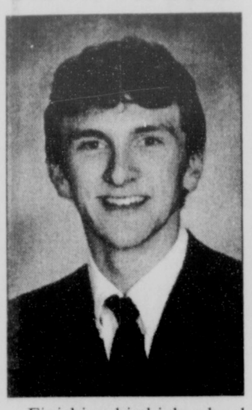
Pacella Finishes Successful Ball Career At SHS



Finishing his high school basketball career at Southern High School this year and breaking into the top 30 all-time SHS scorers is Jordan Pacella, who is headed for West Virginia University to study journalism and broadcast media in the fall.

Pacella was the Rams' leading scorer in both his junior and senior season with 610 career points, becoming only the eighth SHS player to lead his team in scoring in consecutive seasons. By averaging 14 points per game, Pacella was placed among the area's leading scorers.

Pacella, a 6-foot guard, was honored with post-season area selections by being named to the AMAC All-Conference second team as well as the All-Area second team. Pacella is a repeat selection on both squads.

Pacella was the area's leading free-throw shooter with 84 percent accuracy from the charity stripe and held the fourth place position in the area in assists with an average of 3.8 per game. He represented the Rams in the Western Maryland Basketball Classic played at Frostburg State University.

PAC Board

new detention center.

Holliday indicated that county funding may be available for the PAC project in the future. "But for the next couple years," he said, "I can't see it [happening] because of our financial situation."

"Clearly, it's not going to happen overnight; we all recognize that," said Huebner about the center.

He said it would take the board a couple of years to reach the point where it could actually spend money. But, Huebner stressed, the board could not wait until it had money in hand for each phase. Because of state and county funding cycle issues, the project could be delayed further if the PAC board waited.

The group has worked on the initiative for several years. In 2005, with funding supplied by the county, the PAC committee hired an architectural firm to prepare a schematic design.

Plans called for a 48,500-square-foot auditorium with 800 seats to be built in conjunction with a proposed exhibit hall/trade center in the Thayerville area. The exhibit hall, however, will now be built at the McHenry fairgrounds. As a result, the PAC board is looking for an alternative location.

Owners of another Thayerville site indicated they would donate property for the PAC. The board hired an architect and an engineer to study the feasibility of that site. They found it was possible to build a center there, but a multi-level structure would have to be built to accommodate parking, Huebner said.

"As soon as a location is pinned down," he said, "we will need to again employ an architectural firm to do a schematic design suitable for the new location so that we can then effectively begin to raise capital funds."

The PAC representative noted that his board has tentative commitments for two large donations: one for $5 million and another for $2 million.

With the support of the county commissioners, Sen. George Edwards and Del. Wendell Beitzel submitted a $1 million bond bill to the 2007 legislative session for architectural and engineering expenses for the center. But because of a state shortfall that year, the board was granted only $50,000 of its request.

The county commissioners did not support a bond bill for the center this year. But they did ask Edwards and Beitzel to introduce a $10 million bond bill to help fund county capital projects.

"Needless to say," Huebner told the commissioners, "we were disappointed when you decided not to support [our] bond bill request for the 2008 legislative session." He said the board would like to submit another bond bill next year.

"I think the commissioners' could voice support for this [project] even though at the present time you're not able to fund it," said local resident Troy Ellington. "I think that would go a long way toward helping to raise private funds as well. If you don't have the voice, support, of the commissioners, I think you'll have a lot of trouble."

Gregg said he had a good point. "We need to bear in mind," Gregg said, "financial commitment from the county is not going to be required anywhere in the near future, and I'm talking maybe something as long as five years."

Commissioner Glotfelty asked if the auditorium had to have 800 seats. He said it would be nice to know if this was more capacity than was needed. It was noted that Frostburg State University's main stage auditorium seats 350.

"Do we need 800 seats here, or do we need 350 or 400?" Glotfelty asked. "I'm not saying one way or another. But I think we need to look at all aspects."

Just because the center can be built, does not mean it can be filled, he said. Glotfelty added that the PAC was a good project, but that it was also important to consider such aspects as maintenance costs.

Huebner said the 800 seating number was needed to draw "top-notch" performers.

Board member Moe Turrentine noted that a recent Pittsburgh Symphony pops concert at Wisp Resort had more than 800 people in attendance. Many others had to be turned away because there were not enough seats. Turrentine added that the symphony wants to make Deep Creek Lake its "summer residence."

Gregg said the original PAC Committee spent much time reviewing the seating capacity issue. Many members thought that 500 was adequate, he said, but professionals in that venue indicated that 800 was the "magic number" needed for operational and efficiency reasons.

The PAC board gave the commissioners a folder containing 13 letters from residents supporting the project, including school superintendent Dr. Wendell Teets, Chamber of Commerce president Charlie Ross, and Director Jim Hinebaugh, Garrett County Department of Economic Development.

"As the letters indicate, such a facility will provide an economic benefit to the county; but even more important, it will provide a place which is sorely needed by the schools and the children of our county," Huebner said.

He asked that the commissioner consider verbally supporting the project, even if they could not support it financially.

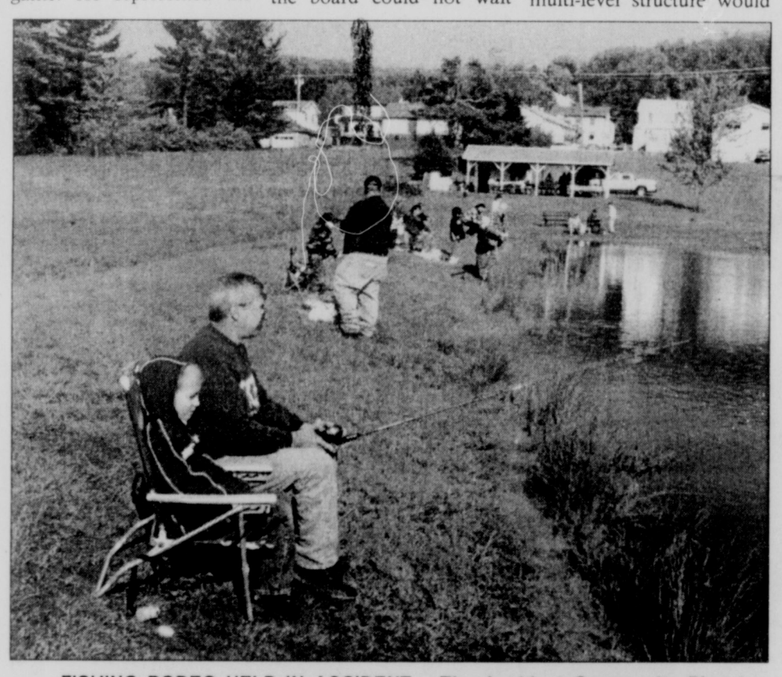
The rodeo was divided into three age groups – 6 and under, 7 to 11, and 12 to 16. Trophies and prizes were awarded to the top three largest catches in each age group and for the largest catch of the day. The winners in the 6 and under group, pictured above left, are Chris Whitacre, first place and Brooklyn Tasker, third place. Caden White, second place winner in the 6 and under category is pictured below left. The winners of the 7 to 11 age group, pictured above center, from left, are Alban Welsh, first place; Hannah Sines, second place; and Josh King (not pictured), third place. In the 12 to 16 category, pictured far right, from left, winners are Drew Stull, first place; Austin Forrester, second place; and Bradley Sisler, third place. The award for the largest catch of the day went to Chris Whitacre, pictured below right, with a 22½-inch, 3-pound, four-ounce pickerel.



FISHING RODEO HELD IN ACCIDENT – The Accident Community Planning Group, in partnership with the Wild Turkey Federation, recently held its annual fishing rodeo at the Accident Town Pond. "It was a wonderful day, with lots of people, perfect weather, and the fish were biting," said Sharon Custer, community health and outreach worker at the Garrett County Health Department. "It is so nice to see families spending quality time together." Above are Mike Green and his son Mike participating in the rodeo. Activities of community planning groups are supported in part by funds from the Garrett County Health Department to produce healthy living and prevent risky behavior.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY TO HOST ANNUAL DINNER – The annual dinner meeting of the Garrett County Historical Society will be held on Thursday, June 26, at the Bittinger fire hall, beginning at 6:30 p.m. The guest speaker this year will be Francis Zumbrun, pictured at left, who has been employed with the Department of Natural Resources since 1978. He has worked in western Maryland throughout his tenure, and since 1988 has been the forest manager at Green Ridge State Forest in Allegany County, working under the direction of the Maryland Forest Service. He received a bachelor of science degree in forest resource management at West Virginia University, and a master's degree in management from Frostburg State University. At the local dinner, Zumbrun will discuss the Liberty Tree in Oldtown, and will entertain with a musical instrument he built with wood from that tree. He is shown in the photo with Offutt Johnson at the 100th anniversary celebration of the Forestry Service in Maryland. The picture was taken at Broadford Recreational Park. The car in the back is owned by Gene and Lillian Elliott of Hoye Crest. Reservations are required for the dinner and may be made by calling the Garrett County Museum at 301-334-3226. The cost is $12 per person, and seating is limited.

GC Health Planning Council Slates MAPP Celebration

The Garrett County Health Planning Council will host a community celebration reception to share information obtained through an 18-month-long planning and research project called MAPP (Mobilizing for Action Through Planning and Partnerships). The celebration is scheduled to be held at Will O' the Wisp on Monday, June 23, at 5:30 p.m. and is open to all interested Garrett County residents.

The MAPP process began in Garrett County in August 2006. This process was introduced by the Garrett County Health Planning Council in order to determine how the citizens of the county felt about public health issues and resources currently available and to identify areas that could be improved or were lacking in resources. The results of the MAPP process will help prioritize these public health issues. This was a community driven partnership with over 20 different organizations and 50 residents participating.

The process began with a visioning meeting led by Heidi Deutsch of the National Association of County and City Health Officials. After the visioning meeting, four workgroups were developed to begin the community health assessments. These four committees consisted of the Community Themes and Strengths Assessment, Forces of Change Assessment, the Local Public Health System Assessment, and the Community Health Status Assessment. These four committees worked for over 11 months collecting data, completing community assessments, and reviewing the entire public health system.

A strategic planning session, led by Dr. Henry Taylor, MPH, from Johns Hopkins School of Public Health, was held in September 2007. The results from the four community assessments were presented and discussed. From this discussion, the following strategic issue areas were identified:

•Fragile System: Strengthen and support those components of the local public health system that are fragile because of funding, workforce capacity, demographic shifts, etc..

•Healthy Lifestyles: Empower, educate, and motivate Garrett County residents to lead a healthy lifestyle and prevent harmful behaviors such as substance abuse and domestic violence.

•Vulnerable Populations: Achieve and maintain optimal health and independence for vulnerable populations.

•Environment: Ensure healthy living and working conditions for Garrett County residents by protecting and increasing local natural and built resources as the population grows.

After identifying the strategic issues and accompanying goals, the last phase of the MAPP process has begun. This includes the action cycle, and this part of the process will proceed over the next five years. "Garrett County will take steps to help ensure that these issues are addressed to promote the overall health of our residents," said a spokesperson for the health council. "The Garrett County Health Planning Council will oversee these workgroups and any resident that would like to assist is welcome to participate."

A final report will be distributed at the reception. To attend or to request a final report, persons may RSVP to Kendra Thayer at Garrett County Memorial Hospital at 301-533-4295.

RELAY KICKS OFF WITH DINNER – The American Cancer Society recently hosted the 2008 Relay for Life of Garrett County Survivors' Dinner, at which many survivors were in attendance. The dinner is the first of the relay's events. Each lit a candle in celebration and honor of his/her success. The room was decorated in red, white, and blue to symbolize the theme for the relay this year: United as One Community Against Cancer. Relay for Life, slated this Friday, June 13, will allow survivors to again celebrate by giving them the honor of walking the first lap to kick off the all-night relay at Southern High School's track. Activities start at 5 p.m., and the community is invited to attend. There will be a concession stand offering grilled chicken, hamburgers, hot dogs, and sloppy joes, as well as other items. There will also be a Moonbounce, the Super Colon, and many games and activities for all ages. The opening ceremony begins at 7 p.m. followed by the survivors' lap. Those seeking more information may visit www.events.-cancer.org/rflgarrett, or call 301-387-8027.

Adorable Adoptables

ARCHIE AND ALLEY ARE AVAILABLE FOR ADOPTION from the Garrett County Animal Shelter. They are older dogs that were given up by their owner. Archie is a male springer spaniel, and Alley is a female mixed breed. Also at the shelter is a nice longhaired black male mix that was picked up along Shady Dell Road earlier this week and was not wearing a collar. "If you recognize him, please contact his owner," said a Humane Society spokesperson. Pictured below left is one of two dogs that the Humane Society got from a family that had 15 dogs. She is a black and tan shepherd-corgi mix. Pictured beside her is a mixed breed tan female with a black muzzle. "They are both very personable, and those short legs make them quite the conversation piece," said the spokesperson. "It would be nice for them to be adopted together as they are friends. We also have other dogs, a Lab-hound puppy and lots of nice young cats that are waiting for new homes. Please don't wait as this is the busy season and new animals come in weekly, so we have to make sure there is room for them." For more information, persons may call the shelter at 301-334-3553.

Terra Alta Woman Finds Reward In Continuing Dad's "Giving" Legacy

JENNIFER SHORT

For more than four decades, Buck Short volunteered his time and talents to his community. As a teenager, he volunteered with the Rowlesburg Fire Department. He later served as president and in other offices with the Terra Alta Volunteer Fire Department. He also drove the fire truck.

Buck helped start the Terra Alta Ambulance Squad, and served as a driver and EMT and held various offices. He also worked with the Preston County Ambulance Association and the Terra Alta Chamber of Commerce.

When Buck passed away in October 2006 as a result of complications of diabetes, his daughter Jennifer vowed to continue his legacy of giving. While she cannot drive a fire truck, Jenn does have a talent for fundraising.

The Terra Alta woman has provided local fire departments and schools with items for raffles and other fundraising activities. Jenn said she looks forward to doing more of the same in the future.

"Giving has its own rewards," she said.

And there are a wide variety of ways to "give." For example, Jenn said she loves guinea pigs. When one of her pets was sick, she discovered a guinea pig rescue group in Texas, which helped her and gave her tips on how to treat her pet's illness.

Jenn then discovered a program on the auction web site eBay called "Giving Works." With some of her auctions, Jenn donated part of the proceeds to the guinea pig rescue.

EBay also sponsored a contest with three categories: one for non-profit organizations, one for people who had bought items through the Giving Works program, and one for anyone who had sold items through that program and donated money to a charity. Since Jenn had donated, she was eligible to enter the contest.

Her 60-second video entry for the contest featured her three guinea pigs in various scenes talking about the Giving Works program and how it benefits everyone.

She won the $5,000 prize for her entry. Her first mission was to share her good fortune with the rescued guinea pigs in Texas who were down on their luck.

Jenn said following in her dad's charitable footsteps is good for not only those she helps, but it has blessed her as well.

RUBY READ MOBILE LIBRARY HAS NEW DRIVER – Preston County Literacy Volunteers, a member of the United Way family, is bringing books and literacy to the area this summer by way of the Ruby Read Mobile Library. Lori Kinsey is the new driver of the library on wheels. She is married with two children and is owner and operator of Tug Hollow Farm. Stops include Bruceton, Little Bear Day Care, Tunnelton Quick Stop, Cool Springs, Fellowship Volunteer Fire Department, Masontown Dairy Mart, Hugs and Kisses Day Care, Arthurdale Heritage, and Newburg's Fireman's Field. "I want more people in the county to experience this wonderful mobile library," said Kinsey. "We carry timeless classics, as well as contemporary titles."

AURORA STUDENTS WALK FOR JENNIFER – The Aurora School Kids' Club recently held a walk-a-thon, raising $1,476 for Jennifer Harsh, the mother of classmates Tyler and Michelle Harsh. Jennifer has autoimmune disease, which makes it difficult for her to do daily activities. The walk-a-thon funds will go toward the purchase of a wheelchair ramp and other items that will help make the Harsh home more handicapped accessable. Club members who raised $50 or more were Evan Shannan, Daniel and Zachery Conrad, Danielle Blamble, Sabryn Schoolcraft, Andrew Cummings, and Michelle and Tyler Harsh.

They also made fishing poles. Sonny the puppet assisted Tab with the reading of her book. Basketball, softball, football, and waffle ball were also added in the windows in keeping with the Father's Day theme.

Dad, you never said I'm leaving
You never said goodbye
You were gone before we knew it,
And only God knows why
A million times we needed you,
A million times we cried
If love alone could have saved you,
You never would have died
In life we loved you dearly
In death we love you still
In our heart you hold a place,
That no one could ever fill
It broke our hearts to lose you,
But you didn't go alone
For part of us went with you,
The day God called you home.

Canker Sore Treatments Available

Canker sores are small lesions or sores that occur on the soft tissue in and around the mouth, including the cheeks, lips, and gums. These sores are not contagious, but they may cause pain. A minor canker sore is oval in shape and likely will clear itself within two weeks. Major canker sores are larger lesions that may last for an extended period of time and lead to scarring. Canker sores may be a result of an abnormally functioning immune system, bacteria, certain foods, hormonal changes, or emotional stress. In general, women are more susceptible to developing canker sores than men.

Although canker sores typically resolve without treatment, prescription and over-the-counter drugs are available to help relieve associated discomfort. Ibuprofen and acetaminophen are available over-the-counter for pain relief. Anbesol, Orajel, and Orabase are other medications which are applied topically to decrease irritation to the sore when the person is eating or drinking. Equal amounts of Milk of Magnesia and Benadryl Allergy liquid are sometimes mixed to form an oral rinse. Drugs such as cimetidine and colchicine, although indicated for other conditions, also may be useful for canker sores. As a last resort, oral steroid medications for short-term use may be prescribed.

AVOID THE RED TAG!

Have you ever noticed clothing sales that advertise "seconds" at greatly reduced prices? The "second" quality merchandise may exhibit flaws like uneven seams and pulled stitches, and capitalizes on the slightly lower quality in exchange for a lower price.

Much like those "mark downs," a home being offered for sale with obvious flaws also invites a lower price. Homebuyers, like other savvy shoppers, quickly become aware of needed repairs, and then begin scrutinizing the home for other defects.

If you plan to sell your home and expect to receive full price, be certain that all needed repairs are completed before the "For Sale" sign appears out front. If you don't, expect to receive about $2 less for each $1 in needed repairs.

Protect your investment by asking an agent for advice. They will walk through your home as a buyer would, making notes of all apparent defects that attract attention. This could range from a cracked windowpane to carpet in need of replacement. No matter what the flaw may be, if it attracts attention, it also becomes a point on which the buyer may negotiate a lower sale price.

Your real estate agent can guide you further by providing marketing tips to make your home more attractive to buyers. Remember that by offering a "first quality" home, you may expect to receive the best price. If you are thinking of buying or selling a home but feel "out of touch" with real estate, give me a call today.

In Loving Memory of my Dad,
Bob Lucas, on Father's Day*

Dad, not an hour goes by that I am not thinking of you. How unfair it was that cancer had the need to rob you, the strongest, most full of life person I have ever known. You were a great man, and even more so, a great father. Your body may have been taken from us for this time, but your memory will never leave us. You left us each our own SPECIAL memory that we will keep alive forever... As for me, I remember all the NASCAR races we always watched together, but they're just not the same now. When I turn to talk to you, I never see your face. What I wouldn't do for just one more race with you sitting by my side, watching together.

I'll forever cherish those times we had together. So many things we never got to do, so many conversations we never got through. If I had the chance and had my life to do over again I would special request you to be my Dad even if it meant losing you again.

The words I spoke to you on that final night will always be true. And you will always remain in my heart, you were the best Dad in the whole world.

Love, Kaye

National Leader Of Episcopal Church To Visit, Ordain Local Man As Priest

REV. KATHARINE JEFFERTS SCHORI

The presiding bishop of the Episcopal Church, the Most Reverend Katharine Jefferts Schori, will visit western Maryland on Sunday, June 29. She will celebrate the 10 a.m. service of Holy Eucharist (Communion) at St. James Episcopal Church in Westernport.

During the service she will ordain two area men as Episcopal priests: Rev. Thomas J. Hudson of Oakland and Rev. Garrett H. Carskadon of Burlington, W.Va. Both are members of the mutual ministry team at St. James.

This will mark the first time that a presiding bishop of the Episcopal Church has made an official visit to western Maryland. However, the first elected presiding bishop of the Episcopal Church was the Most Rev. John Gardner Murray, who was a native of Lonaconing. He was also the sixth bishop of Maryland.

Bishop Jefferts Schori is the "first among equals" in the House of Bishops of the U.S. branch of the Anglican Communion. She is one of 24 "primates," or archbishops, in the world-wide church.

Jefferts Schori's role in the church is a second career, as she holds a doctorate degree in oceanography and pursued that vocation until her ordination as an Episcopal priest in 1994. She was elected bishop of Nevada in 2000 and then presiding bishop in 2006. She remains an active, instrument-rated pilot.

Born in Pensacola, Fla., she grew up in the Seattle area and later moved with her family to New Jersey. She and her husband, a retired theoretical mathematician, were married in 1979. Their daughter is a first lieutenant and pilot in the U.S. Air Force.

During her 12-year term of office, Bishop Jefferts Schori is called upon to visit every one of the 91 dioceses in the Episcopal Church. She says that she enjoys spending time in "typical" parishes during those visits.

A unique feature of St. James, Westernport, according to Rev. Manning Smith, pastor, is the growing number of Spanish-speaking people who attend that church. Bishop Jefferts Schori speaks Spanish fluently, and the service that morning will be conducted partly in that language.

The bishop's visit to western Maryland is part of a weekend of celebration for the Diocese of Maryland, according to Rev. Smith. On Saturday, June 28, she will preside at the consecration of the Right Rev. Eugene T. Sutton as 14th bishop of Maryland. That event will take place at the National Cathedral in Washington, D.C.

Liller Garden Among Those On Tour

Located in Pleasant Valley, south of Oakland, the gardens of Rita Liller will be open to visitors during the eighth annual garden tour, "Secret Country Gardens," sponsored by the Mountain Laurel Garden Club. The event will be held on June 28 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., and will include three private gardens.

Part of the Amish countryside, Liller's Tranquility Gardens offers visitors a view of many plants that came from family members, including her grandmother and mother.

Turning into Tranquility Gardens and crossing a small bridge, visitors will view an open space full of perennials. This garden has been planned and planted to attract birds and butterflies, as well as being grandchild-friendly, Liller noted.

With paths throughout the gardens, Liller said she enjoys walking along to view the new blooms and colors as they change daily.

"I love the iris, especially the re-bloomers," she said. The gardener noted that she dealt with poor soil and flooding in the development of the gardens. Visitors will see numerous birdbaths, a floodwall, and a patio with arbors.

At this tour stop, visitors will be able to view and purchase tickets for the two raffles prizes, which are an herb chair, constructed and planted by the club's Herb Committee, and a copy of The Perennial Gardener's Design Primer co-written by Stephanie Cohen and Nancy Ondra. Raffle tickets will be sold all day, with the drawing set for 4 p.m.

Tickets for the tour, which include a short description of each garden, a map, and written directions, may be purchased in advance at six locations: Gregg's Pharmacy, Green Acres Garden Center, and Buds to Blooms, all Oakland; Nature's Own, Sang Run Road, McHenry; Annie's Restaurant, Accident; and Beachy's Pharmacy, Grantsville.

On the day of the tour, members of the Garrett County Historical Society will sell tickets at the Gazebo in Oakland. The cost of a ticket is $7. Tickets for raffle prizes will be available on the day of the tour, as will be refreshments. There will also be a perennial sale.

Proceeds from the tour will be used by the Mountain Laurel Garden Club for the continued beautification of local communities as well as the encouragement, through club activities and programs, of gardening and sound conservation practices.

A portion of the proceeds will be donated to the Garrett County Historical Society.

For more information about the tour, persons may contact Kathie Smith at 301-334-3249 or log on to www.mountainlaurelgardenclub.org.

The Mountain Laurel Garden Club is a member of the National Garden Clubs Inc., the Central Atlantic Region, and the Federated Garden Clubs of Maryland Inc.

Man Fined

in the Garrett County Jail for driving under the influence of alcohol. Six months of the sentence were suspended, and Gibbs will serve the balance on home confinement. A $500 fine was also imposed.

Gibbs was arrested and charged by a sheriff's deputy in March 2007, after the officer observed the vehicle weaving within its lane. When the car pulled into the parking lot of a closed business, the officer contacted the driver and observed that his abilities were affected by his apparent consumption of alcohol.

Gibbs had pleaded guilty in May, and his sentencing in this case was postponed to concur with a second case involving Gibbs. In the second case, Gibbs pleaded guilty to driving while impaired by alcohol. He was sentenced to a consecutive one year in this case, which was suspended. He was also fined $500 in this case.

Gibbs was arrested in this case in July 2007, when a sheriff's deputy working a traffic complaint in the area of Bradley Lane in Oakland observed Gibbs driving. Knowing Gibbs's license was suspended for the first DUI charge, the deputy stopped the car. Gibbs was arrested after failing field sobriety tests.

"We're excited that the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce is allowing the market to be held in their parking lot," said Cheryl DeBerry, agriculture marketing specialist for Garrett County Economic Development. "The location on Visitors' Center Drive is very visible from Route 219, and should be a prime location for a successful farmers' market."

The 2008 market will also be held on different days and times.

LOCAL CHURCHES HELP DEER PARK WOMAN – Local churches worked together this spring on the home of Crystal Wilhelm. The Deer Park resident had sent a letter to The Republican telling of her stroke induced paralysis and her need for a shower facility. The United Methodist Church in Deer Park, Calvary Fellowship Church in Grantsville, Oak Grove Church of Brethren, and the Bittinger Lutheran Parish all responded with financial aid and physical assistance to build the shower. "By the grace of God, my dream has been fulfilled," Wilhelm said. "Miracles can happen, and I've been blessed with so many people whom I didn't even know cared." Pastor Randy Richardson from the Bittinger Lutheran Parish coordinated the project and worked on the installation with a crew from Deer Park United Methodist Church that included Bill Upole, Kurt Clary, Bob Tasker, Wayne Beckman, and Aaron Stalenbarger. Pictured, left to right, with Wilhelm are Mack Rush, Upole, Richardson, Paul Browning, Clary, and Tasker.

Bill Sisler, Olen Beitzel, Johnny Marple, and Barry Rush. Last year's recipient, Dave Demaree of Demaree Inflatables, presented the award to McDonnell.

Larry Roby from Rent-A-Chef, Haley Farm Bed & Breakfast, and the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce jointly hosted a private dinner for the present and previous Heise Award winners on Monday at Haley Farm Bed & Breakfast.

Garrett County commissioner Denny Glotfelty received the President's Award from Charlie Ross, president and CEO of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce. The President's Award recognizes achievement in building the business community in promoting Garrett County beyond its borders and in creating a dramatic shift that improves the quality of life for Garrett County citizens.

"Those who achieve awards, honors, and accomplishments from outside of the county that impact us all and let the world know just how good Garrett County is were the five recipients of the annual Favorite Sons and Daughters awards," according to a chamber spokesperson. The five recipients were the following:

• Crellin Elementary School, which has received three prestigious awards this year under the direction of principal Dana McCauley. It was awarded the Ernest L. Boyer 2008 Best Practices National Award for Character Education and the National Civic Star Award in recognition of its community partnerships that enrich student knowledge and achievement. The parents of Crellin students were also awarded the Comcast Parent Involvement Matters Award for their work in support of Maryland public education.

• The Garrett College Lakers women's basketball team, the 2008 NJCAA Region XX Champion, which earned the team a shot at the National Junior College Athletic Association Division II National Championship in Illinois.

• FIRST Team 1629 (the Garrett Coalition) and its robot Meshach 2.0. Team 1629 was awarded the Engineering Inspiration Award, which celebrates outstanding success in advancing respect and appreciation within a team's school and community. Team 1629 also won the Delphi Driving Tomorrow's Technology Award, which recognizes a team's elegant and advantageous machine features.

• Emily Rosser, an honors graduate at Northern High School and member of the Girl Scouts Trillium Council, received the Girl Scout Leadership and Gold Award. Rosser gave presentations and demonstrations to local schools, was Student of the Month, was inducted into the NHS Math Hall of Fame, and participated in various sports in which she received three varsity letters.

• Maria Duff, Swan Meadow student, who won the state of Maryland's sixth grade poetry content in the Young Authors Contest. With this honor, Duff and her family traveled to Baltimore for a reception and were able to sight see through the city.

Board of directors chairman Jimmy Flanigan presided over the annual meeting portion of the evening and extended congratulations to the board's outgoing member, George Jones, and welcomed new board member Shane Grady.

Door prizes for the annual dinner were provided by chamber members. Deep Creek Sweets provided a basket of chocolates, Husky Power Dogsledding provided a two-to three-hour kennel tour experience and presentation, Radio FX provided 300 hours worth of air time, Canaan Valley provided a one day/one night golf package for two, DeBerry Farm provided a jar of salsa and pepper jelly, Simon Pearce provided glassware, the Winner's Circle provided a $20 gift certificate, and Alpine Lake Resort provided a dinner gift certificate.

Jail Sentences Suspended For Two Defendants

Two men were given 30-day jail sentences, which were suspended in their entirety, by visiting Judge Edward A. Malloy Jr. after the two pleaded guilty to respective drug charges in recent Garrett County District Court.

Justin Jon Paul Evans, 23, Rosedale, and David Phillip Lurz, 21, Perry Hall, each received 18 months of supervised probation and $200 fines, and were ordered to complete 50 hours of community service each after being found guilty on charges of possession of marijuana. Lurz was not prosecuted by the state's attorney on a charge of possession of paraphernalia.

Evans and Lurz were arrested in December 2007 when the manager of a McHenry hotel contacted the police about marijuana in a hotel room belonging to the defendants. Members of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office and Garrett County Narcotics Task Force located the car of one of the defendants and conducted an exterior K-9 scan, which gave a positive alert for the presence of drugs inside the vehicle.

A search of the interior of the vehicle revealed two plastic bags containing marijuana and a smoking device containing burnt marijuana residue, which belonged to Lurz. Inside Lurz's jacket was a second smoking device containing burnt marijuana residue. Officers discovered a plastic bag of marijuana belonging to Evans inside the hotel room.

In other recent District Court news, Justin Samuel Teague, 21, McHenry, pleaded guilty to a charge of theft of a less than $100 value in a criminal summons case and received a probation before judgment (PBJ), one year of unsupervised probation, and a fine of $150. He was also ordered to complete 50 hours of community service.

Maryland State Police officers from the McHenry Barrack were dispatched to a McHenry store in April when the manager reported Teague had stolen a can of Red Bull, valued at $2.09. The manager copied the license plate of the vehicle Teague drove away in.

Keithan Jay Glotfelty, 18, Oakland, was handed a PBJ after pleading guilty to a charge of theft of a less than $100 value in a criminal summons case. He received one year of unsupervised probation, and a $100 fine, and was ordered to complete 25 hours of community service.

According to court documents, Glotfelty stole a carton of cigarettes from an Oakland store in February.

Nazir Gul, 42, Rosedale, was found not guilty on charges of second degree assault and disorderly conduct, stemming from an October 2007 incident.

DUI/DWI CASES

Among the driving while under the influence (DUI) and driving while impaired (DWI) cases heard in recent Garrett County District Court were the following:

Timothy Adam Feldman, 34, Md., pleaded guilty to a charge of DWI and received a probation before judgment, 12 months of unsupervised probation, and a fine of $250. He was not prosecuted by the state's attorney on a charge of DUI and one other traffic violation. The charges were filed against Feldman in February.

Donna Ludwig Bridgman, 42, N.C., received stet rulings on charges of DUI, DUI per se, DWI, and two other driving offenses. The charges were filed against her in January.

John Alfred Bridgman, 41, N.C., was not prosecuted by the state's attorney on charges of DUI and DWI, stemming from a January incident.

Benjamin Eric Santmyer, 25, Md., failed to appear in court on charges of DUI, DUI per se, DWI, and two other driving violations. A bench warrant was issued.

Arrested When Stopped By GC Sheriff's Deputies

A Jeep Cherokee was stopped by Garrett County sheriff's deputies early Saturday morning after the driver failed to stop for a stop sign.

The stop was conducted on Oak Street, Oakland, and a K-9 search was conducted on the vehicle, with positive results. A controlled dangerous substance (CDS) was located in the vehicle and on the driver, Joshua Lafferty, 19, Mtn. Lake Park.

Lafferty was placed under arrest on charges of possession of marijuana and possession of paraphernalia.

FINANCING TERMS TO REMEMBER

Q. What is an ARM and does it differ from a fixed-rate mortgage?

A. An adjustable-rate mortgage differs from a fixed-rate mortgage in many ways. With a fixed-rate mortgage, the interest stays the same for the life of the loan. With an ARM, the interest rate changes in relation to a index, and your payments may go up or down accordingly.

There are many factors that influence the final cost to you, such as margins, index, caps on rates, discounts, negative amortization, recasting your loan, etc. An ARM is generally a lower payment at first as compared to the fixed-rate mortgage for the same loan amount. If the interest rates remain low for a long time, this can be advantageous. However, the risk that an increase in rates would lead to higher payments should also be given serious consideration.

Some things to consider when deciding on a loan include: Will you be making any other large purchases, such as cars, in the near future? Will your income increase soon, and how long do you plan to stay in the home? If you plan to only stay in the home for a short while, the possibility of rising rates may not be a factor.

Q. What does APR stand for?

A. APR stands for annual percentage rate. This is basically the cost of the loan expressed as a yearly rate. Included in this number are your interest, points, broker fees, if applicable, and possibly other credit charges.

Q. What is PMI?

A. Better known as private mortgage insurance, PMI is insurance that lenders require of most home buyers obtaining a loan for more than 80% of the value of the home. The benefit to the lender is the assurance of being protected against loss should the borrower default on the loan. The benefit to the consumer is that it allows for much smaller down payments and allows for home ownership much sooner at an affordable rate. If the value of a home rises over time, it might be possible to reappraise the home and drop the PMI sooner.

We extend a compassionate helping hand.

STOP & LOOK

A child is born with imagination, with the ability to see the wonder of the world around him. When a child examines nature, he isn't in a hurry. He takes time to study each blade of grass, to appreciate the colors of a butterfly, to marvel at a flower or the soft fur of a kitten.

What happens to that keen sense of observation as we grow up? Much of that vision is lost as we grow older and the complexities of life require all our focus.

How wonderful if we could keep that ability to see the world through a child's eyes, as beautiful and intricate as God created it. We can all stop once in a while, and look, feel and listen; we can be challenged as Job is, to "Stand still and consider the wondrous works of God" (Job 37:14).

Visit your house of worship this week and celebrate God's creation. Stop and look. Can you remember what it is like to see Him through a child's eyes?

A Tribute to Good Fathers

Too often, good fathers are the unsung heroes of their families. They work long and hard to provide for their families, and they strive to set a good example for their children concerning responsibility, morality, and what it truly means to be a good person. They are the wise counselors and brave protectors of their families, and they do this humbly and without begrudging the very significant sacrifices which they often must make. A good father rules and guides his family at the same time as he serves it. A good father will instruct and admonish his children with patience and gentle firmness, making sure that they know right from wrong, all the while making sure that he always sets a good moral example himself. When a good father makes a decision about his family, he will do so unselfishly, thinking only of what is best for his family. Oftentimes, when a man becomes a father he may be forced to give up his personal aspirations and dreams of his youth in order to be a good father. But, a good father will do this without complaining of the sacrifice. And although not every man can live up to the ideals of the good father, those who do inspire us with their quiet heroism and self-sacrifice. We should tell our fathers how much they mean to us and let them know how much their sacrifice is appreciated, and how much we value their counsel.

Hear, O sons, a father's instruction, and be attentive, that you may gain insight; for I give you good precepts: do not forsake my teaching.

Bitter Melon May Lower Blood Sugar

Bitter melon is a commonly eaten food in areas near the tropics. The leaves and fruit have been used to make beer, teas, and to season foods. Historically bitter melon has been used to treat many conditions including infections, stomach problems, cancer, and diabetes. This fruit contains several substances that may contribute to its blood sugar lowering activity. It is not yet known which of these is most responsible for its blood sugar lowering activity.

Bitter melon has demonstrated blood sugar lowering activity in animals and in several human studies. Unfortunately, the studies in humans were small and poorly designed. More studies are needed before bitter melon can be recommended for the management of diabetes. People who are allergic to other types of melon should not take bitter melon supplements or consume the fruit. Due to its affects on blood sugar, bitter melon should be used with caution when combined with prescription medications for diabetes.

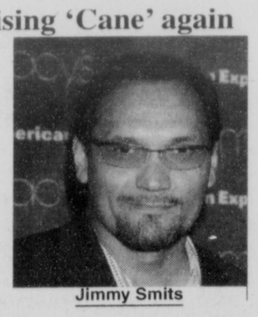
CBS won't be raising 'Cane' again

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Q: Last year, CBS aired the show "Cane," starring Jimmy Smits and Hector Elizondo. Are there any plans to resume it? —Carl and Terri Sisson, Fort Pierce, Fla.

A: No. CBS has canceled the drama, which seemed all but finished even before the writers strike, due to low ratings.



Jimmy Smits

Q: I have not seen or heard anything regarding the future of "The Unit." Can you shed some light on this? —Richard Bond, Holland, Ohio

A: You and the countless other "Unit" fans who have written will be relieved to know that Dennis Haysbert, Scott Foley and company will be back in action this fall. The series will resume in a new slot, wrapping up the Sunday-night schedule.

Q: I was dismayed to see that "Private Practice" did not return after the writers strike ended. Will it be back next season? —Lindsey Baumann, Bellevue, Wash.

A: Yes, and in the same Wednesday slot ABC gave it last season. The "Grey's Anatomy" spinoff was among the shows the network decided to wait until fall to bring back, a plan that also applies to ABC's other Wednesday offerings, "Pushing Daisies" and "Dirty Sexy Money."

Q: What happened to "The New Adventures of Old Christine"? It came back in January, then it disappeared again. —Lynn Jenei, Franklin, Wis.

A: Fear not; it'll be back, and for a longer stint next time provided the ratings hold up. Usually a midseason entry, the Julia Louis-Dreyfus comedy will be a fall starter for CBS for the first time, and the plan is to give it a full season. That may have been part of the deal for CBS hanging onto the show, since ABC reportedly had interest in picking it up for the 2008-09 lineup.

Q: Years ago, I enjoyed "Wiseguy," starring Ken Wahl. Any chance it came out on tape or disc? —Bernie Vitale, Sterling, Va.

A: Several variations can be found on DVD. The complete first season of the CBS crime drama is available, in "Part 1" and "Part 2" sets; the "Mel Profitt" arc that featured guest star Kevin Spacey has been marketed in four separate discs; and the sets subtitled "Prey for the City" (with Jerry Lewis) and "Between the Mob and a Hard Place" (with Chazz Palminteri) also have been released.

Q: What happened to "Canterbury's Law"? I hope it's not canceled. —Danette Vigilante, Staten Island, N.Y.

A: It is. Fox decided not to renew the Julianna Margulies series for a second season.

Neutered Male Cat Still Sprays

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: I have a 5-year-old neutered male cat, "Boba," who sprays urine. I always thought that neutered males didn't do this. It seems like this happens every spring. Do you have any suggestions of how to make him stop? He is an indoor cat and doesn't go outside at all. I don't know if that is what is making him do this, or if it is something that can be stopped. Thank you for any help you can give me. — Going Crazy in New York

DEAR CRAZY: Spraying is an instinctive reaction in male cats, and neutering doesn't always completely eliminate the behavior. Neutering does make the concentrated urine much less pungent, so at least there's that. Male cats mark their territory by spraying, so the action can be habitual even though the reason for spraying is gone.

You'll need to observe Boba closely to determine why he is spraying. Do you have other cats, or any other pets? How does he react to these animals? Does he react to the sight of another cat outside the window? Does he only spray in the springtime? Where and when does the spraying occur, exactly?

Rule out any underlying illnesses with a trip to the vet (who can also recommend additional steps or even anti-anxiety medication to mellow Boba out).

Cats tend to spray in the same areas over and over again, no matter how much you clean. Try putting out some deterrents — like putting his food and water near the (cleaned up) spraying area, or placing fresh citrus rinds or perfumed soap over the area. If you see Boba start to spray, make a loud noise immediately to try and distract him — several repetitions of this and he will start to associate his spraying with you not being too happy.

Stone Ax

Q. I live in western Minnesota, and recently found a large stone ax while hiking through a river valley. I suspect it is probably a Native American artifact. How can I find out more about this item? — Denise, Willmar, Minn.

A. A good place to begin might be at the Minnesota Historical Society. The contact information for the reference library is Minnesota History Center, 345 Kellogg Blvd. West, St. Paul, MN 55102-1906; reference@mnhs.org; and 1-800-657-3773. Warman's North American Indian Artifacts by Russell E. Lewis: Identification and Price Guide (Krause, $24.99) also might be helpful. For information about arrowheads, two of my favorite reference books are Antique Trader Indian Arrowheads: Price Guide by Jason Hanna (Krause, $19.99), and Official Overstreet Indian Arrowheads: Identification and Price Guide by Robert M. Overstreet (House of Collectibles, $24).

Q. I have a Hummel collection that I would like to sell. Do you have any suggestions as to how I can determine current values? — Judy, Surprise, Ariz.

A. For values, two of the better guides are M.I. Hummel: Figurines, Plates, Miniatures & More by Robert L. Miller (Portfolio Press, $24.95); and Luckey's Hummel Figurines & Plates by Carl F. Luckey and updated by Dean A. Genth (Krause, $27.95). Both guides feature the latest prices, thousands of listings and are two of the more accurate and authoritative guides available. To get the maximum price for each of your Hummel items, I recommend that you post them on eBay.

Strange BUT TRUE

• Do you suffer from pogonophobia? If so, you don't have much to worry about in this largely clean-shaven day and age. Pogonophobia is simply a fear of beards.

• I'm sure you've heard in recent years about Americans' steadily increasing girth. It's not just our waistlines that are getting bigger, though; our homes are, too. In 1950, the average new house provided 290 square feet for each family member living there. By 2003, that figure was 893 square feet, or more than three times as much space as 50 years earlier.

• The next time you're enjoying a sweet potato, you might consider the enormous distance it probably traveled before arriving at your dinner table. Eighty-five percent of the world's yams come from China.

• It was noted American poet Allen Ginsberg who made the following sage observation: "Whoever controls the media, the images, controls the culture."

• The small Minnesota town of Whalen is home to a unique celebration every year: the Stand-Still Parade. Yep, it's a parade that doesn't move. Instead of spectators lining a parade route and floats driving past, at this event the floats stand still and the people mill around to view them.

• The first Band-Aid brand bandage didn't exactly look like the Band-Aids we're familiar with today. For instance, it was 3 inches wide and 18 inches long. A bit of overkill for a scraped elbow, I imagine.

• The carnival treat that we in the United States know as cotton candy is called "barbe a papa," or "father's beard" in French.

• Researchers aren't clear on exactly why it's true, but studies show that women are better at guessing people's ages than men are.

Community Welcome To SRWA Potluck

The Savage River Watershed Association (SWRA) has invited interested members of the community to its annual potluck picnic, slated for Thursday, June 19, at 6 p.m. at Finzel Park. SRWA was founded two years ago and wishes to celebrate its successes and prepare for future goals.

One year ago this month, Jaclyn Long, an Office of Surface Mining/Volunteer in Service to America (OSM/VISTA) volunteer, was placed with SRWA for a one-year term through the Appalachian Coal Country Watershed Team to assist SRWA by leading the group in project planning, grant writing, and organizational development, necessary for the group's growth and sustainability.

Long's year of service will be over at the end of June, and Kevin Devine will be joining SRWA in July as the new OSM/VISTA volunteer. Devine will relocate to western Maryland from Kentucky and is searching for housing in the areas of Frostburg or Grantsville. OSM/VISTAs are paid a minimal living stipend, and sometimes have a difficult time finding affordable living accommodations. Persons with information about affordable housing are asked to contact SRWA through the information given below. A property caretaker situation will also be considered.

SRWA will also be electing new members to serve with the board of directors for terms up to three years at the annual meeting. Persons interested in becoming a board member should contact Long at 301-895-4005 or via e-mail at SRWAcoordinator@gmail.com.

The SRWA is a group of local landowners and other citizens dedicating to preserving and enhancing the rural nature and natural resources of the Savage River Watershed. Members work to assist interested landowners and public land managers with environmental stewardship efforts and educational outreach. Anyone who is concerned about the Savage River Watershed is welcome to join.

SRWA meetings are held at Route 40 Elementary School on the third Thursday of odd-numbered months, beginning at 7 p.m.

For more information, persons may contact SRWA via e-mail at the above address or by telephone at 301-895-4005.

SRWA is a non profit charitable organization, and donations may be sent to Savage River Watershed Association, P.O. Box 355, Frostburg, MD 21532.

THWARTING THE INVADERS – The Savage River Watershed Association (SRWA) is looking for adult volunteers to continue control efforts of Japanese spiraea in the Bear Pen Run area of Savage River State Forest. SRWA will be working on Friday, June 20, from 8:30 a.m. to noon to continue efforts to reduce the infestation using mechanical control methods. Kerrie Kyde, invasive plant specialist with the Maryland Wildlife and Heritage Service, will provide technical support, and Larry Maxim, Savage River State Forest manager, will provide work tools. Mike Gregory, Big Run and New Germany State Park manager, will provide free camping the night before for any out-of-town volunteers, and Elk Ridge NatureWorks, with the assistance of SRWA, is coordinating the project and providing snacks and drinks for volunteers. For more details or to register, persons may contact Ron Boyer at 301-895-3686 or info@elkridgenatureworks.com. Jenny Neville, a teacher at Broad Ford Elementary School, was recognized as Garrett County's Teacher of the Year and for her many contributions to the school system and students. She will represent Garrett County at the various state functions and events that lead up to the selection of Maryland's Teacher of the Year.

Lear introduced Dave Lisa Bender (both former Garrett County Teachers of the Year), who made a presentation to the group titled "The 21st Century Workforce." They noted that the 21st century economy requires a highly skilled workforce.

"The ability to graduate students with higher-level work-based skills, prepared for higher education and highly technical careers, is the key to economic prosperity and quality of life for Garrett County residents," the Benders said. "As educators and business leaders, we must ensure that our high school students receive a relevant education and preparation for entry into universities and colleges, as well as into the 21st century workforce.

"As a business, the opportunities to partner with schools are many, and the opportunities to make a difference are limitless," the Benders continued. "What it really requires is commitment, and that is what Garrett County businesses have shown – a commitment to education, a commitment to community, and a commitment of resources."

The speakers noted that some of the ways the businesses are working with schools include:

•Visiting with students and educators to explain the type of work performed by employees.

•Providing mentoring, support, and encouragement to students as they enter a career path.

•Offering internships to students so they can experience workplace roles and gain employment skills.

•Donating staff time, monetary and non-monetary resources, equipment and facilities.

•Advising educators on the skills needed for students to succeed in the workplace and sharing with students and teachers the academic skills and knowledge required for today's businesses.

"By integrating these experiences with classroom curriculum, students will be better prepared for success after high school graduation, whether they choose to enter the world of work, continue on to post-secondary education, or both," the Benders said. "Providing these types of opportunities and others will effectively change the educational outcomes for our students, the college-bound rate for our high school graduates, the skill level of our workforce, and the economic vitality of the region."

In addition to the Benders' presentation, Lisa Bender and the students from her business class at Southern Garrett High School presented a video they completed as part of a service learning project. The video is the first of a series of student-developed videos that will provide financial literacy information to high school students.

The financial literacy videos are a work in progress at both Southern and Northern high schools. The video equipment was purchased through a grant sponsored by State Farm Insurance. Rob Michaels, the local State Farm Agent, brought this grant to the attention of the school system and assisted in the grant application process.

Lear expressed his appreciation and to those who attended this year's luncheon and for their contributions to the success of Garrett County's students.

Oak Park Church Celebrates 50th Anniversary

Oak Park Church of the Brethren recently celebrated the 50th anniversary of its new church building.

No Church of the Brethren facility existed as Oakland area Brethren traveled to Maple Springs Church, Eglon, W.Va. After several meetings, interest was shown for an Oakland branch in the mid '50s. The new Oakland congregation met in various buildings in the area before the construction of the present building began in 1957.

An educational unit was added in the mid '60s by the rapidly growing congregation, with a major renovation of the sanctuary taking place in the mid '90s. The most recent addition was the Family Life Center, a multipurpose building used for sports, youth events, and large dinners. Classrooms, restrooms, a kitchen, and an elevator were also added.

Rev. David Moon, pastor of the Fairview Church of the Brethren, helped build the church and spoke of various activities involved in the initial build. Former pastor Rev. J. Rogers Fike spoke about "the love bug" that seemed to hit people, as many marriages were conducted by him in the '60s.

OAK PARK CELEBRATES 50 YEARS – Oak Park Church of the Brethren recently celebrated the 50th anniversary of its Oakland building. Above, from left, are Rev. Mel Menker, current senior pastor; Rev. Cathy Menker, current minister of visitation; Rev. J. Rogers Fike, past minister; Rev. David Moon, pastor of the Fairview Church and carpenter of the building; and Rev. Steve Abe, district executive of the West Marva District. See story for details.

Rev. Steve Abe, West Marva District, spoke of this also being the 300th anniversary of the Church of the Brethren denomination. Charter members were also recognized at the celebration, with many speaking of the activities used to establish the organized funding for the new building.

The celebration included Oak Park Church's adult praise and worship team, Kidstuff (children's praise and worship team), and Stix With Him (junior and senior youth drama team), as well as the Christian singing group United from Burlington, W.Va.

A catered meal was provided by On-Track Concessions, Keyser, W.Va., and a PowerPoint presentation ran continuously, showing pictures from the past 50 years.

Rev. Mel Menker, pastor of Oak Park Church for the past 12 years, spoke of various events that have taken place in the recent history of the church. The anniversary committee produced and distributed booklets documenting the history that also included a list of charter members, plus letters from former pastors who could not attend the event.

The church is located at 110 Church Lane, across from Southern High School. Sunday school begins at 9:30 a.m., with worship services at 8:15, 9:30, and 10:45 a.m. Rev. Cathy Menker is the minister of visitation.

GOING WIRELESS
For the most part, hearing-impaired individuals currently may have a hearing instrument in their "bad" ears and a wireless device in their "good" ears. However, it may not be too far off into the future that hearing instruments will plug into the wireless grid. It only makes sense that hearing-impaired listeners should be able to route the sound from their cell phones, wireless laptops, and personal digital assistants (PDAs). It seems logical that hearing instrument users could make the fullest use of the sophisticated listening devices to seamlessly deliver information from the Internet, GPS systems in their cars, and cell phones to their ears. In short time, hearing instruments will be the hub of their wearers' hearing world.
Research continues to work toward enhancing the quality of life of the hearing impaired, notably in the creation of today's hearing instrument marvels. We'd like to do our part by providing you with comprehensive testing and the most advanced, comfortable, dependable instruments on the market today. At AUDIBEL, we can help with acoustic appraisal of your hearing ability by an audiologist, discussion of the listening devices available, and follow-up care and service of your hearing aid.
P.S. A U.S. survey by the Wireless Rehabilitation Engineering Research Center indicates that respondents cite incompatibility with assistive technologies (especially hearing instruments or cochlear implants) as a problem among disabled individuals.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

I don't know why I was surprised when the Pittsburgh weather forecast said that June has been our wettest month. I remember several years ago when it looked like a miracle to get some hay in the barn.

In 1971 when I was a 4-H camp counselor I tried to get "Joey" ready for the Pony Club regional competition. I came home to get him and then galloped him back to the camp. Although we put mileage on him, when he competed in Frederick in 90-degree heat, he lost his steam halfway through the cross-country course, something that never happened to him before.

But my most vivid memory of June was being out of school, free to be outside and have fun with my pony or horse, and going into the woods with Cindy Stanton and Sally Poholsky.

I remember one June 11 like it was yesterday. My mother called up to my bedroom, "Joan, get up, 'Misty' has a surprise for you down at the barn."

The wonderful surprise was a new wobbly, but beautiful, foal beside her. Although it would be many years before we could ride "Flicka," it was a step in the right direction. She was so adorable, and it was a sunny day.

How I remember going barefoot, as June was warm enough to be outside without any shoes. The Bittinger gang had a swimming party at Pleasant Valley (the 4-H camp lake) on the last day of school. The gang consisted of Cindy and Sally Beachy, Susan Brenneman, Vicki Teets, Janice Murray and me. I got the worst sunburn of my life.

Another memory of June was the grass in our hayfield was very high, as tall as "Misty." When I wanted to escape the chores, I would ride her out to a telephone pole in the hayfield and tie her up, where we were out of sight.

I rarely drove the tractors, but I helped stack the bales on the wagons and the less pleasant task of unloading the wagons in the barn. It was kind of hard work for a pre-teen girl, but I realized that if I wanted to have ponies I would have to help get their food.

When I was big enough in my teenage years I did get to drive a tractor to rake the down hay in my bathing suit to get a nice cheap tan. When I was younger I was happy to hear what I am hearing now – the rumble of thunder – because it meant a break in haymaking. What I didn't fully realize was that it was a very bad thing for our farm economy.

June means pale lilac iris. I have a nice patch of them, as do many households in Bittinger. It is a shame we are in a wet period just when they are in bloom because the rain will rot them too soon. I am sorry I only picked one yesterday because the other five or so will turn into mush in these heavy rains. My lilacs have already turned brown.

Another favorite of my June memories is of my Glotfelty grandmother, Emma, whose birthday was June 19. Her birthday meant it was wild strawberries time. Cindy, Sally, and I used to comb the roadsides, as they were always loaded with wild strawberries, especially where the Glade Mennonite sign is at the corner of Accident-Bittinger Road and Rock Lodge Road, which is now in grass. We used to call that area "Strawberry Half Acre." The berries there were about as big as your fingernails.

The June of my 14th year was my first experience in horse show jumping. A show at Bruceton Mills, W.Va., was the first show in which I competed in a jumping class. I didn't win a ribbon, but "Joey" did great for a 3-year-old beginner. A couple weeks later we won our first jumping ribbon at Salisbury, Pa., which was in a huge class. I longed to win a trophy or a blue ribbon, which happened in the fall of our first season in Cumberland.

During the first stage of my training, I took "Little Joe" for long, hard walks, and in June I used to take him to the pasture where wild strawberries were growing and feed them to him. On our walks I taught him the meaning of "Whoa" and "Easy, boy," and just told him how he should behave. He did understand what I said, but that was 40 years ago.

I had to write this column one week early because on Monday (June 9) I will be in Cumberland Memorial Hospital for my foot surgery. I will be in the hospital for three days if I want Medicare to pay for my stay in Oakland Nursing and Rehabilitation Center for some therapy.

My mother is going to report that the surgery went very well and I got along fine. My cousin, who is head of the outpatient surgery, was there with me through the process. I had a good following at the hospital waiting for the outcome and until I got back to my room. My doctor was Dr. Carls, who has a good reputation as an orthopedic surgeon. So I should get out of the hospital and be in the Oakland Rehab on Thursday. I hope I get some visitors up there, as I am sure I will be homesick.

Claire turned to a rerun of "The Bachelor," in spite of the fact that I hate those kinds of shows. The bachelor was Andrew Firestone.

In the summer of 1971, the national finalists of the Pony Club were at the Firestone Estate in Ohio. That week was probably the most fun in my life. Our team from the Capital region had so much fun. But we didn't perform as well as we should have.

One of the greatest things was that Mr. Firestone bought tickets for all the participants for an outdoor rock concert featuring the band Chicago.

Little Joe was among the few horses able to complete on the cross-country course. The only flaw in our performance was a fall on a water jump.

Although it was more pleasant to compete in dry conditions, Little Joe was good in mud, much better than most other jumpers, so a wet horse show meant more blue ribbons for us.

Claire changed the sugar water in my bird feeders, as the orioles hadn't been at the feeders for a while. Some say you should change the water every week. So my hummingbird feeder is really busy today. I saw both orioles hitting it before flying to their feeder. Several hummingbirds dropped by, and I saw a tiger swallow butterfly on it.

GROUPS SUPPORT SUPER COLON PROJECT – Pictured are members of groups that have sponsored the Super Colon display that will be featured at this year's Garrett County Relay For Life. The American Cancer Society fundraiser is slated tomorrow, Friday, June 13, and Saturday, June 14, at the Southern High School track. The relay begins at 5 p.m. on Friday and continues until 9 a.m. on Saturday. Left to right are Rick Kutchman, Cindy's Fund; Sharon Brinkman-Wendle, Appalachia Community Cancer Network (ACCN); Linda Murr, Relay For Life Committee; and health officer Rodney Glotfelty, Garrett County Health Department. "The Super Colon is a 20-foot long, 8-foot high replica of a human colon, said Brinkman-Wendle. "As visitors walk through it, they learn about the importance of colorectal cancer prevention, risks, symptoms, and treatment options." The ACCN, housed at the West Virginia University Mary Babb Randolph Cancer Center, provided a $4,000 grant to Garrett County to support the cost of bringing the Super Colon to the county. The ACCN addresses cancer health disparities in the Appalachian areas of seven states. Cindy's Fund and the Health Department provided additional financial support for the cost of the Super Colon and will also provide staffing throughout Relay For Life, along with staff from the Mountain Laurel Medical Center. The Relay For Life Committee arranged the accommodations at the event for the Super Colon. For more information about the display, persons may call the Health Department at 301-334-7730.

Walter and Sue Haydel hosted a going-away party for Steve and Eileen Schlosnagle, who are preparing to move to Chapel Hill, N.C. A special long-distance guest, Carl Perider of Allentown, Pa., and who was Steve's college roommate in Garrett Hall at the University of Maryland, was among those present.

The sound of spring peepers could be heard, and a lovely crescent moon peeked through the leaves in the woods below the Haydel home in McHenry. The highlight of the evening was the burning of the Haydels' Christmas tree in the campfire. It was like a fireworks show without the noise.

I don't know how the photographs of Steve, Linda Bowman, and me will look since it was pretty dark when they were taken. We had gone through 16 years of school together, from first grade through college.

Speaking of our college days, we could have a picture of University of Maryland's Garrett Hall alumni, including Steve's roommate Carl Perider, Al Nedelberger and his wife Linda, Steve, and me.

I am enjoying the rejuvenated Pittsburgh Pirates baseball team. They seem to be winning more than losing these days.

Lenny and Sally Poholsky attended the Pirates' game on Monday when the Pirates defeated the Arizona Diamondbacks, 5-3.

Torrey Poholsky is playing on the Oakland Pen-Mar baseball team, which has games scheduled in Petersburg on Saturday and Cumberland on Sunday. Pam Poholsky, Murrysville, Pa., was a weekend visitor of the Poholsky family.

SYNTHETIC FUELS

Q. With the price of gasoline going up so high lately, I see that there is new interest in making fuel from coal. That process sounds like a good idea. How does it work?

A. It is definitely true that automotive fuel can be made from coal. It's called Synthetic fuel, or just Synfuel for short. Not only are there plants that make it today, it's been done for most of a century. But like so many nifty technologies, it's expensive. Of course, gasoline is expensive, too.

First of all, coal is composed of nearly equal parts of hydrogen and carbon, so its chemical formula is basically just C-H. To begin the process, it must be partially burned under controlled low-oxygen conditions, so as to make a mixture of carbon monoxide (CO) and hydrogen (H_2). The chamber where this happens is called a gasifier, which operates at a temperature around 1000 °C. The product is called Synthesis gas or just Syngas.

H_2 and CO are simple building blocks from which many different chemicals can be formed. Syngas becomes the starting point for making all sorts of hydrocarbon chemicals, ranging from methane to gasoline to diesel fuel to olefins and waxes.

It's not obvious how to put the building blocks together just right, but in the 1920s, two German scientists, Fischer and Tropsch, figured out a way to make liquid fuels from Syngas. Naturally, that pathway is called the Fischer-Tropsch process, and the output hydrocarbons are called FT liquids. The trick is that you need a catalyst (something that participates in the chemical reaction but is left unchanged at the end of the reaction). To build hydrocarbons from H_2 and CO, the catalyst must be a metal like cobalt or iron. By carefully controlling the reaction steps and temperature, it's possible to produce a clear odorless liquid that burns just like gasoline or diesel fuel.

During World War 2, when Germany couldn't secure a supply of oil, they used abundant coal and the F-T process to fuel their army. Forty years later, the Republic of South Africa was boycotted because of their apartheid policy, and likewise turned to coal and the F-T process. They built the large "Sasol" plant, which is still running today. In the United States, a demonstration plant was built in the 1980s, but that project was given up when the world price of oil tumbled back to $21/barrel.

Nowadays there is strong renewed interest in Synfuels, and this time nobody thinks the price of oil will collapse. Liquid fuel derived from coal is an excellent way to lessen our dependence on imported oil. The biggest customer in the world for jet fuel is the U.S. Air Force; in 2006 and 2007, the Air Force demonstrated that B-52s can fly on synthetic fuels (instead of the usual JP-8). Fischer-Tropsch liquids provide an important alternative capability, and that enhances national security.

Making synfuels requires a considerable expenditure of energy. We have plenty of coal, but still the process of starting with C-H and producing CO + H_2 is a type of burning, and that produces plenty of CO_2 as well. The phrase used today is that this process has a larger "carbon footprint." Finding ways to store all that CO_2 is presently a matter of research, not a sure thing at all.

Getting the price down is important too: another R&D goal is to switch from an expensive catalyst (cobalt or ruthenium) to a cheap catalyst (iron or nickel).

Despite both technical and economic hurdles, synfuels from coal are on their way. There are several big plants for F-T liquids under construction now. One in Mississippi should open in 2011 and will produce 30,000 barrels per day of fuel. Another being designed in Ohio would produce 50,000 barrels per day. Investors are confident that these plants will make money if the price of oil stays above $50 per barrel.

These synfuel plants are not as big as the refineries that convert crude oil into gasoline, but they'll help. Meanwhile, the driver at the pump won't feel relief from the rising price of gasoline anytime soon.

TWO NEW FLAGS were recently presented to Grantsville Elementary School by the Grantsville Sons of the American Legion (SAL) Grantsville Squadron 214. The flags, one an American and the other a Maryland, were given as part of a flag replacement program that was recently established by the National SAL organization for community squadrons to ensure the proper display of "Old Glory." The Maryland flag was donated by state senator George Edwards, who is also a member of Grantsville Post 214. Pictured above, from left, are Matt Eggleston, Grantsville Elementary School principal, accepting the flag from Frank Davis, Grantsville Squadron 214 commander.

ACCIDENT

The monthly town hall meeting was held on Thursday, June 5, at the town hall.

•Clay Riley, Thrasher Engineering Inc., was present to update the council on the water tank and sewer project. The tank is to be delivered the beginning of August. The project is scheduled to be finished by the beginning of October.

•The pre-bid meeting for the Phase 1-B sewer project was held on Thursday, June 5. The bid opening will be held on Tuesday, June 24. The project is to replace the connections between the main public sewer line and the private residence laterals. The project is tentatively scheduled to be completed by December. Details of the project will be mailed to each resident and landowner at a later date.

•Garrett County Department of Public Utilities has completed the installment of radio-read meters. The radio-read meters will allow for the meters to be read 12 months out of the year, therefore eliminating the need for estimating because of weather.

•The council held the first reading for Ordinance 2008-4 Bond Ordinance (needed for the water tank project) and Water and Sewer Rate Ordinance Amendment 2008-3. The second reading and adoption will be held during a public hearing slated for today, Thursday, June 12, at the town hall.

•The council approved Resolution 2008-2: Participation in the Community Legacy Program. The resolution is in support of Accident's participation in the Community Legacy Program through the Garrett County Municipalities Inc.

•Spring clean-up day will be held on Monday, June 16. Residents are asked to call Joe Wright at 301-616-9845, or the town hall at 301-746-6346, to register their pick-ups. Items are to be placed at curbside by 8 a.m. the day of pick-up. A detailed list of what is allowed and not allowed is located as a block ad elsewhere in this edition of The Republican.

•The townwide yard sales will be held on Saturday, July 19.

•Fourth of July brochures are located in Accident area businesses.

The July and August town meetings will be held on the 2nd Thursday of each month instead of the 1st. The time will remain the same at 7:30 p.m., at the town hall.

Thank You,

The family of Mary E. Walsh would like to thank everyone who kept her and our entire family in their thoughts and prayers during her illness. We appreciate the support, the love and the sense of community that you gave to us. The fund raiser that was held last August on her behalf showed her that the community wanted her to fight the cancer and that you loved her like she was a family member of your own. We found that our community is made of more than just people – it is made up of caring concerned angels who went the distance for someone who needed you. It was a time of encouragement and hope. Every card that was sent lifted her spirits and ours. Each prayer that was said on her behalf gave her and all of us peace and comfort. All the jugs, kisses, well wishes, flowers, cards, and food were so very thoughtful. We would like to thank the doctors and nurses form the ER along with the third floor nursing staff at Garrett Memorial Hospital for their compassion, kindness, and excellent care of our mother. To Zaina Mullennex we appreciate and thank you for all your hard work. To our church families we are thankful for the Christian love and concern. She was a beautiful wife, mother, grandmother, sister, daughter, aunt, and friend who will be sadly missed but remembered and honored by so many.

Thank you again.

MayGod bless each of you,

Sincerely,

Bill, Kim, Jake, Chance, Amy, Bryan, April, Jason, Teroy, Tabitha, Shirley, Louise, and Dale

The Art of Planting for a Successful Harvest

by Terri Rodeheaver

At our farm, spring planting season is one of the most hopeful, invigorating times in our farming operation. The longer days and the smell of freshly turned soil in the spring are downright good for the soul after a long, hard winter. Every successful farmer knows that preparing the soil properly, timing the planting just right, and providing the appropriate nutrients to the young crop are essential for it to take root and grow to its fullest potential. My contention is that these principles of planting are applicable to lots of things in life – hard work, good timing, and a nurturing environment are keys to many a successful venture.

Over the past 10 months, I have watched the planting and harvest cycle unfold in a very positive way in the county's FFA programs. Following the national trend, enrollment is up in our local FFA chapters. The county's FFA youth have worked hard throughout the year on a variety of projects. They have served as ambassadors of Garrett County and its agricultural community in a very positive manner. They have traveled to regional, state, and national competitions, and returned home with gold, silver, and bronze medals – a testament to their dedication, hard work, perseverance, and love of agriculture.

Certainly the FFA members themselves deserve a heartfelt "Congratulations!" and "Job well done!" for their work. But, like any "crop," these bright, talented and committed young people did not do this alone. These young people are interested in, and committed to, agricultural study and endeavors because there are many "farmers" in their lives who are creating a fertile soil in which their interests can grow. Their ag instructors are willing to coach and mentor them in preparation for competition, challenge them to try new things and reach previously unattainable goals, celebrate their victories, and console them in their loss. There are family members who support and encourage their agricultural related studies, despite the fact that others may not appreciate the value of their academic pursuits. There are FFA alumni who work hard in support of their organization and activities. There are businesses and organizations whose generosity help the FFA program grow. These "farmers" have planted and nourished a crop that is producing great yields. That yield is the next generation of agriculturalists who will feed and fuel America and the world.

This issue of The Republican contains information from the FFA Awards Banquet held recently at Northern High School. This high-energy event was filled with celebration of things accomplished and anticipation of things yet to come. Kudos go out to Commissioners Glotfelty, Gregg, and Holliday for attending – your presence was greatly appreciated and spoke volumes. Thanks also to Charlotte Sebold of the Board of Education and Paul Miller, president of the Garrett County Farm Bureau, for your presence and encouraging words. The evening's events were nothing short of a good dose of fertilizer for the county's FFA students and the organization, and confirm the county's commitment to agriculture, not just in word, but also in deed.

FSA Committee Nominations To Begin June 15

The nomination period for farmer and rancher candidates for Farm Service Agency (FSA) county committees will begin on Sunday, June 15, and continue through Friday, Aug. 1. Elections will take place this fall.

"I encourage all producers to participate in the county committee election process by nominating candidates by the Aug. 1 deadline," said Michael R. Kozier, executive director for USDA's Farm Service Agency in Garrett and Allegany counties. "We are counting on as much participation as possible, because county committees are an important link between the farm community and the U.S. Department of Agriculture. We have seen a trend in recent years of increased nominations of minority and women producers, and we hope that will continue."

To be eligible to serve on an FSA county committee, a person must participate or cooperate in a program administered by FSA, be eligible to vote in a county committee election, and reside in the local administrative area in which the person is a candidate.

Producers may also nominate themselves, and organizations representing minorities and women may also nominate candidates.

To become a nominee, eligible individuals must sign form FSA-669A. The form, along with other information about FSA county committee elections, is available online at www.fsa.usda.gov. The form can be found under "news and events," then "county committee elections."

Nomination forms for the 2008 election must be postmarked or received in the local USDA Service Center by close of business on Friday, Aug. 1.

FSA county committee members make decisions on disaster and conservation programs, emergency programs, commodity price support loan programs, and other important agricultural issues. Members serve three-year terms.

Nationwide, there are more than 7,800 farmers and ranchers serving on FSA county committees. Committees consist of three to five members who are elected by eligible local producers.

FSA will mail ballots to producers beginning Nov. 3. The voted ballots are due back to the local county office either via mail or in person by Dec. 1.

Newly elected committee members and alternates take office Jan. 1, 2009.

Between 2003 and 2006, the number of minority and women farmers and ranchers nominated as candidates to FSA county committees nationwide increased 35 percent. Additionally, the number of African American producers nominated as candidates tripled during the same period.

For more information, persons may visit www.fsa.usda.gov.

Host Families Needed To House Fresh Air Kids

The Fresh Air Fund is looking for volunteers to host children for the fund's Friendly Town Program, which gives New York City children a chance to experience a free summer vacation in suburban and small town communities.

Many families in the Grantsville area and throughout 13 northeastern states and Canada have housed more than 1.7 million children from low-income neighborhoods through this program. The fund is seeking still more families in Grantsville to give these children a two-week vacation in Garrett County.

"You appreciate what you have when you watch the children's joy that comes from doing things they normally would not be able to do in the city," said a Fresh Air host. "The fund needs more host families to carry on its 132nd summer tradition of sharing the joys of suburban and small town life like smelling fresh flowers, casting a fishing line for the first time, or even hearing the crickets chirp."

There are no financial requirements for hosting a Fresh Air child, and hosts can select the gender and approximate age of their visitor. First-time visitors are 6 to 12 years old, and those returning may participate in the program through age 18.

Those seeking more information about hosting a Fresh Air child this summer may contact Alice Orendorf at 301-245-4326, or call the Fresh Air Fund at 1-800-367-0003. Information is also available at the fund's web site: www.freshair.org.

PRINTED ON RECYCLED PAPER

Garrett County, Maryland • Thursday, June 19, 2008 • www.therepublicannews.com

JUST ONE DAY AWAY! Despite the recent, and unusual, summer-like weather for the past several weeks (excluding the last few cool days), the season is still not officially here. But it will arrive very early this Saturday morning, much to the delight of all who enjoy spending time outdoors. Broadford Lake beach is a bit sparse in the photo above, but the number of tanners and bathers will most certainly increase over the next several days. (Parents are strongly reminded to keep a close eye on their wee ones around water.) To help kick off the summer of 2008, contained within this issue of The Republican is our annual Summer Sensations publication, which is loaded with information and advertising to help both residents and visitors have a more fun-filled season. Additional copies will be available at newsstands all over the county. Photo by John McEwen.

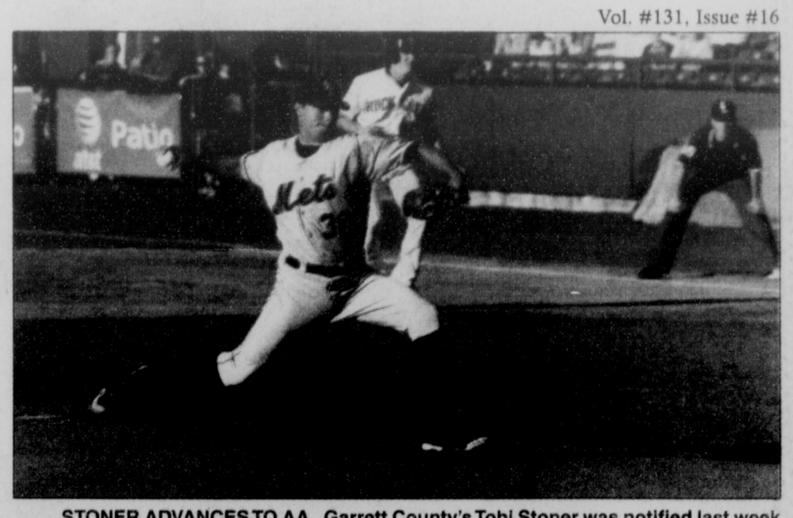
Hearing Slated On Proposal To Prohibit Turbines

The Garrett County commissioners will hold a public hearing next Tuesday, June 24, at 10:30 a.m. in their meeting room at the courthouse on a proposal to amend the Deep Creek Watershed Zoning Ordinance.

The proposal was submitted by Nancy-Elizabeth Nimmich, Pleasant Valley, and Barbara Boone, Oakland, to establish "performance zoning" throughout all of Garrett County.

Under the amendment, a new Article 12 would be added to the ordinance that would define and prohibit commercial wind turbine structures. It would also define the territorial jurisdiction of the new article to include all lands in Garrett County except incorporated municipalities.

All interested persons may attend the hearing to voice their views on the subject or submit written testimony to the Garrett County commissioners.



STONER ADVANCES TO AA Garrett County's Tobi Stoner was notified last week that he has been promoted to play AA professional baseball for the New York Mets. The former Southern High School/Davis & Elkins College star was the only Mets starter promoted from the AAA St. Lucie Mets to Binghamton, N.Y., and brings an impressive 2.60 earned run average to the next level. Stoner allowed 46 hits and 15 earned runs in 52 innings pitched this spring, striking out 48 batters and allowing a team batting average by opponents of only .238. In his first start at Binghamton last Friday, Stoner pitched five complete innings against the Florida Marlins Minor League team, giving up just one run on three hits, walking four, and striking out five. The Mets won the game, 3-2, and Stoner came out of the contest with a 1.80 ERA. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Stoner, Mtn. Lake Park.

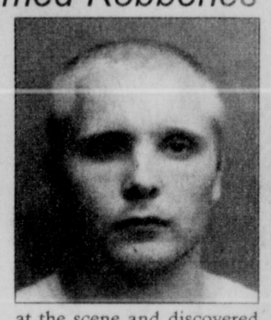
Meyersdale Man Suspect In Three Local Armed Robberies



A Meyersdale man was connected to both recent armed robberies at two Grantsville businesses when he wrecked the get away car in a third robbery committed Friday morning, according to Lt. M. Frye of the Maryland State Police, McHenry Barrack.

Grantsville Market was struck twice by Marty Schroyer, 29, the first time Sunday, May 25, during which he pointed a semi-automatic handgun at the clerk and demanded cash, and Friday morning around 4 a.m. when he brandished a knife and stole $500.

Schroyer allegedly aimed a semi-automatic gun at the clerk in a June 1 robbery of Fuel City and made away with cash.

Schroyer fled the Friday robbery scene in a car he stole from his sister-in-law, Crystal Gale Schroyer, then crashed on Route 669 four miles north of the state line on a road leading out of Grantsville into Somerset County.

Maryland and Pennsylvania state police converged at the scene and discovered Schroyer had fled.

Troopers and a K-9 unit from the McHenry Barrack recovered evidence from the crash site that led them to Schroyer, who was walking along the road nearby, while a medevac helicopter conducted an aerial search using heat source equipment.

Schroyer then confessed to the three recent robberies. Pennsylvania authorities charged him with theft by unlawful taking, receiving stolen property, and numerous traffic violations in Pennsylvania, but Maryland officials are seeking charges against him for brandishing a firearm and a knife.

Maryland authorities are working on paperwork that will allow them to extradite Schroyer, and applied for a warrant to serve him.

Commissioners Asked To Look At Safety Issues

Safety was the topic of the public commentary portion of last Tuesday's Garrett County commissioners' meeting. Deep Creek Lake Property Owners Association president Scott Johnson asked the officials to continue their efforts to improve traffic safety. Oakland councilman Jay Moyer asked them to review a police issue concerning Broadford Lake Park.

Johnson thanked the commissioners for previous measures they have taken to address road safety issues, but encouraged them to do more, not only for his road, State Park, but for the entire county.

"People who live here want a safe environment; people who come here to relax want a safe environment," he told the commissioners. "And if we have cars speeding up and down roads that aren't well marked, aren't enforced with speed control, we have a potential to ruin our number one industry, tourism, and to put a negative impact on second-home sales."

Johnson said both tourism and home sales "drive" revenue to the county, which is why it is important to improve safety.

"I would like to continue the dialog outside of this forum, and will assist in any way that I can to bring resources to help resolve what I think is an issue of importance," he told the commissioners.

Johnson indicated that such "stakeholders" as the Chamber of Commerce, Department of Natural Resources, Maryland State Police, neighborhoods, and the media could be recruited to help.

Johnson also suggested that the commissioners expand a traffic flow study being conducted on State Park Road, look into establishing benchmarks to promote safety (speed limits, enforcement, etc.), and indentify problem areas.

Two particular problems are on Rt. 219 at Deep Creek Lake near Uno's and Trader's Landing. Both places have pedestrian crosswalks and businesses with heavy traffic going in and out of parking lots. An accident occurred at Trader's Landing as recently as June 7, Johnson noted.

A driver was traveling north on Rt. 219 and was turning his car into a business entrance when it was struck by a truck that was traveling behind him. The truck driver sustained an

Crellin Resident Sentenced For Assault Charge

A second-degree assault case involving a 60-year-old Crellin area man was heard last week in Garrett County Circuit Court. Judge Jim Sherbin sentenced Ervin Estil Sliger to five years in the Division of Corrections for the charge.

All but 18 months of the sentence was suspended, and Sliger will be on probation after he is released from jail.

He was found guilty by the judge after a trial in April. Investigators had charged Sliger in October with inappropriately touching a 6-year-old girl, who was visiting his residence with her family, according to the state's attorney.

In other Circuit Court proceedings from last week, Victor Frank Gardea Jr., 28, Grantsville, admitted to

GC Health Dept. Reports Another Case Of Rabies

Environmental Health Services of the Garrett County Health Department has reported the fifth case of laboratory confirmed rabies in the county for 2008.

A raccoon submitted to the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene laboratory was confirmed positive for rabies last Thursday, June 12. The incident occurred on Monday, June 9, near Chestnut Grove Road when a raccoon approached a chained dog and a fight occurred.

The dog's owner shot the raccoon and placed it in plastic bags, taking precautions not to come in contact with the wild animal or any bodily fluids. The owner also avoided handling the dog for several hours, according to the Health Department.

The currently vaccinated dog will be given a rabies booster shot and will be monitored for 45 days.

ATV Crash Leaves Teen Injured; Flown To Cumberland

A 13-year-old male juvenile of Grantsville was flown by Maryland State Police medevac Trooper 5 to Cumberland Memorial Hospital Wednesday afternoon after he was ejected from an all-terrain vehicle (ATV).

Police reports state that the juvenile was operating a 2007 Arctic Cat DVX250 on Hemlock Road in Grantsville around 12:30 p.m. when he lost control of the vehicle and left the roadway. The ATV struck a tree and the juvenile was ejected from the vehicle.

He was wearing a helmet, but still sustained injuries that required medical attention.

Northern Garrett Rescue Squad and the Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department also responded to the accident.

Psych. Evaluation States Thompson Not Responsible In February Murder

Christopher Andrew Thompson will not be held criminally responsible in the bludgeoning death of his father, Andrew Clever, in the view of forensic psychiatrists at Clifton T. Perkins Hospital Center, where he was evaluated.

The 23-year-old was charged with first degree murder in February after he placed a 911 call saying he believed he had killed someone at their Avilton home, reports indicated. Maryland State Police officers reached the house around 5 p.m. and took Thompson into custody without incident.

"We got the evaluation on June 2, and there wasn't enough time to study it before a plea hearing scheduled for the next day, so that hearing was canceled," said Thompson's public defender, Ray Strubin.

Reports from the Feb. 1 incident show that Thompson told police he had been prescribed medications for obsessive-compulsive disorder and that he had head voices telling him to kill.

Clever, 49, was Thompson's adoptive father since Thompson's age of 9, was an assistant principal at Beall Elementary School in Frostburg, and had been a teacher in Allegany County schools for 10 years.

The charges against Thompson were later lodged via an indictment by the county's grand jury.

A hearing is slated for Aug. 8 at 9:30 a.m. in Garrett County Circuit Court.

"The judge will have to make a decision whether or not to accept the recommendation from Perkins," Strubin said.

Thompson is currently being held at the Garrett County Detention Center.

Pulling Events At Grantsville Days Must Be Canceled

The 31st annual Grantsville Days Committee has announced that all pulling events held at the track have been canceled for this year.

These events are the garden and farm tractor pulling contests scheduled for Saturday, June 28, and the horse pulling contest, which was to be held Sunday, June 29.

According to committee chairperson Gerry Beachy, the pulling track at Grantsville Park had been utilized by the town while installing a pee-wee football field adjacent to the track. The town council decided to use the track along with the football field to make the field regulation-size so that it could be used for official competitions.

The wet conditions this spring made the track surface so muddy that it can't be used for any pulling contests without spending "several thousand dollars," Beachy said. The decision to cancel came after the situation was discussed with the contractors, town and county officials, and pulling contest coordinators.

"The Grantsville Lions Club regrets having to cancel these important events at such a late date," said Beachy. "All other scheduled events will be held as listed in the Grantsville Days brochure."

Additional information can be obtained by contacting Beachy at 301-895-5387.

LOCAL ARTIST IN ACTION – The opportunity to watch local artists create their various works will be afforded to the public next weekend during a tour of several local studios. Artist Julie Turrentine of Snowbird Creations is shown as she paints with glass. The artisans of Garrett County, in conjunction with the Garrett County Arts Council, invite the community to visit Turrentine's studio and many other working artists' workplaces in the local area on Saturday, June 28, and Sunday, June 29. A map brochure will be available at a number of locations around the county, including The Gallery, the Shoppe at Heritage Square, Englander's, Fireside Deli and Wine Shop, the Visitors Center in McHenry, real estate offices, and the Ruth Enlow libraries in Oakland, Accident, and Grantsville. The brochure includes information about participating artists, a description of their media, and a map with detailed directions. Blue balloons will mark the route to each studio. Visitors may start anywhere on the tour, and follow the route in ascending or descending numerical order. For more information, persons may visit the Arts Council Gallery on Alder Street, or call 301-334-6580.

Local Business Receives Best Technology Service Award

GOVERNMENT CONTRACTS CONSULTANTS (GCC) was named the Best Technology Service company during the 2008 Maryland Incubator Company of Year awards presentation in Baltimore last week. The company is located in the Garrett Information Enterprise Center (GIEC) at Garrett College. Last August, GCC received an $18.5 million military contract to provide administrative support services for the Naval Air Systems Command at Patuxent River Naval Air Station. See story. Pictured, left to right, are GCC founders/owners James and Shirley Bailey and GIEC director Lydia Reisler. This is the second consecutive year that a GIEC business has received the Best Technology Service Award. Sycamore Associates won the honor last.

Government Contracts Consultants (GCC) received the Best Technology Service Award during the 2008 Maryland Incubator Company of Year (ICOY) ceremony in Baltimore last Tuesday. Seven other companies across the state were recognized in various categories during the event.

GCC is headquartered in the Garrett Information Enterprise Center (GIEC), a business incubator located on the campus of Garrett College in McHenry. This is the second straight year that a company in the local incubator has won the Best Technology Services category. Sycamore Associates received the award last year.

Owned by Shirley and James Bailey, GCC is a Small Business Administration certified HUBZone company established in 1997. The company moved from Allegany County to GIEC in February 2007. The company employees 140 people and has field offices in San Diego, Calif.; Annandale, Va.; and Norfolk, Va.

The company provides database development/maintenance and computer programming services, acquisition training, pre- and post-award acquisition support, administrative support, and mail and distribution support. GCC's customers are from industries and federal and state governments.

Since moving into GIEC, GCC has hired 16 Garrett County residents and worked with the college to find interns to fill various roles within the company.

Shirley Bailey teaches courses in government contracting through Garrett College's Continuing Education and Workforce Development division. The company is also developing an acquisitions training program for students.

GCC's clearance level is rated as "active top secret." Last August, the company received an $18.5 million military contract to provide administrative support services for the Naval Air Systems Command at Patuxent River Naval Air Station for a five-year period.

The company has also provided information technology and support services to the Department of Homeland Security in Washington, D.C.; the Commander Naval Air Forces Atlantic and Pacific in San Diego, Calif.; the Navy's Submarine Learning Facility in Norfolk, Va., and Groton, Conn.; the U.S. Coast Guard Station in Baltimore; the Federal Communications Commission in Washington, D.C.; the Army's Space Program Office at Fort Belvoir, Va.; and the Army's Contracting Center of Excellence in the Pentagon.

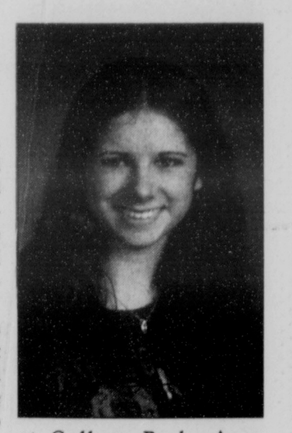
Sponsored in part by the Maryland Department of Business and Economic Development and the Maryland Technology Development Corporation, the ICOY award winners are chosen by a selection committee of regional industry leaders and early-stage investors.

The purpose of the awards is to publicly recognize achievements by current clients and graduates of Maryland incubators and to provide a forum for the nominees to increase their visibility in the business, technology, and investment communities.

Since 2001, the ICOY Awards have honored 33 new and early-stage companies for their achievements. Recipients have been selected from the biotechnology, computer technology, and pharmaceutical industries. There are about 15 business incubators located across Maryland.

HOSPICE HONORS DECEASED – Hospice of Garrett County recently held its annual memorial service to honor the memories of deceased hospice patients, board members, and volunteers. The service was held at the Bittinger fire hall. Providing the pastoral message was pastor Randy Richardson, Emanuel Lutheran Church and Hospice chaplain. Music was provided by Nancy Elizabeth Nimmich, social worker for Hospice, with Karen Otto, Hospice board of directors, as pianist for the evening. Jane Sealing, Hospice director of bereavement, and Millie O'Haver served as co-chairpersons of the event. Debbie Workman, Hospice volunteer coordinator, read the names of the deceased. Above are executive director Brenda Butcher and president Beverly Beard lit candles representing those who have died. Below from left, beginning with the front row, are Otto, Butcher, Beard, Sealing, Nimmich, and O'Haver. Back row: piper Paul Browning and Richardson.

To Represent GC At National Horse Bowl



Ashleigh Friends, a Northern High School student, has been selected to represent the Maryland Horse Bowl team at the 2008 Eastern National 4-H Horse Round-up in Louisville, Ky.

At the horse bowl, teams of four face off in front of a panel of judges and a moderator. One-on-one questions are restricted to one player from each team, whereas open questions may be answered by any member of a team. In order to get a chance to answer, competitors must ring a buzzer faster than the other players. Both teams and individuals compete for awards.

Friend has participated in the Maryland State Horse Bowl competition, which took place in March, at College Park. As a representative for Garrett County, she placed fifth in the state.

The 2008 Maryland Horse Bowl team also includes McKenzie Barnard, Howard County; and Katie Reynolds and Katie Pontowic, both of Baltimore County. Ashleigh is the first representative to be chosen from Garrett County to compete at the national level.

Driver Charged After Driving Off Roadway

A report of a vehicle that had traveled off the roadway had Garrett County sheriff's deputies responding to Broadford Road Saturday.

Upon arrival the deputies located the vehicle and made contact with the driver at the scene. The driver was identified as Douglas Rodeheaver, 50, Oakland.

Through investigation it was determined that Rodeheaver had been operating the vehicle while intoxicated. He was arrested and charged with DWI and driving under the influence.

Four Taken To GCMH Following 3-Vehicle Accident

A three-vehicle collision that occurred at the intersection of Maryland Highway Rt. 135 and Sand Flat Road sent four people to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, one of which was a 6-year-old passenger. Garrett County sheriff's deputies responded to the Monday afternoon accident.

Nancy Filsinger, 50, was traveling eastbound on Rt. 135 in a 1998 Volkswagon and slowed her vehicle, intending to make a left turn onto Sand Flat Road. She was struck from the rear by Lisa Marie Elliott, 28, operating a 2008 Ford Focus, also traveling east on Rt. 135.

After being struck by Elliott, the Filsinger vehicle crossed into the westbound lane and struck a 1998 Ford van driven by Marjorie Hardesty, 65. The van then collided with the westbound guardrail before coming to rest. The van and the Volkswagon both appeared to be totaled.

The operators of all of the vehicles, plus a 6-year-old male passenger, were all taken to the Garrett Memorial Emergency Room for treatment of injuries. Southern Rescue Squad and Deer Park Fire Department also responded to the scene.

Elliott was charged with failure to control speed to avoid a collision.

Man Arrested For Possession Following Stop

A man was arrested Monday when Garrett County sheriff's deputies executed a traffic stop on Friendsville Road for a speeding violation.

Jason W. Sines, 34, Bruceton Mills, was arrested for driving on a suspended West Virginia license.

A search of the vehicle led to the discovery of marijuana and suboxone. Sines was charged with controlled dangerous substance possession of marijuana, CDS possession not marijuana, driving on an out-of-state suspended license, a speeding violation, and a seatbelt violation.

Public Land Usage Charge Issued To Pittsburgh Man

The Maryland Natural Resources Police charged Ronald G. Jones, 73, Pittsburgh, Pa., with prohibited public use of buffer strip and land use encroachment on Deep Creek Lake on June 9.

NRP observed Jones and his employees allegedly disturbing earth and vegetation on the Deep Creek Lake buffer strip with a front-end loader. Jones was issued two citations and was ordered to immediately cease work.

The buffer strip is an area above the 2,462-foot lake elevation that is not presently fenced or posted by the Department of Natural Resources to limit or exclude use by the public. Except as authorized by permit issued by the lake manager, a person may not construct, place, or maintain a dock, mooring buoy, or other facility or structure, or modify land or vegetation in or on the waters of the lake or on the buffer strip.

Relief From Poison Ivy, Oak and Sumac

Poison ivy, oak, and sumac are toxic plants that may lead to contact dermatitis in susceptible individuals. Urushiol is the chemical substance contained in these plants that is responsible for causing the skin irritation. It causes a typical red, itchy rash. Swelling and blisters may be present. Once exposed to urushiol, a reaction will typically develop within 12 to 48 hours. Poison ivy and poison oak typically grow 3 leaflets to a stem. Sumac typically has 2 rows of leaflets on each stem. A skin reaction may occur as a result of touching the toxic plant, coming into contact with an object that has come into contact with the plant (such as a jacket), or inhaling the smoke from burned toxic plants. Although the rash is not contagious, urushiol may be transmitted from person to person, thereby inducing a reaction.

Although the rash caused by poison ivy, oak, or sumac will typically resolve without treatment within 1 to 3 weeks, treatments are available for the alleviation of associated signs and symptoms. Medications available over-the-counter include hydrocortisone cream, calamine lotion, and diphenhydramine. Cold, wet compresses also may be used for 15 to 30 minutes several times daily. An oral steroid, such as prednisone, may be prescribed for more severe reactions.

Three-Vehicle Crash Results In Injured Juvenile

Three vehicles were involved in a Friday afternoon crash in front of Arrowhead Market on Garrett Highway, during which a female juvenile was injured and taken to the hospital.

A 16-year-old female juvenile, Oakland, was operating a 2006 Chevy Trailblazer on southbound Route 219 when she stopped for traffic ahead of her, but Nina M. Bounds, 45, Deer Park, who was traveling one car back from the juvenile, failed to stop her 1993 Mercedes 190E. Bounds hit the rear of a 2006 Cadillac Escalade driven by Tracey L. Jones, 42, Ripley, W.Va., and Jones struck the juvenile's car.

The juvenile was transported by Northern Garrett Rescue Squad to Garrett Memorial Hospital for treatment of injuries, and Bounds was charged with failure to control the speed of her vehicle in order to avoid a collision.

Dfc. Brad Williams of the McHenry Barrack said it may be years before Maryland officials are able to bring Schroyer to Maryland because of the charges he already faces in Pennsylvania. According to Williams, Schroyer violated parole in his area, and Maryland authorities are using the warrant to keep Schroyer detained.

HELPING EACH OTHER OUT – Members of the Bittinger Volunteer Fire Department Auxiliary recently made a donation of $2,500 to the Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department for its new firehouse. The link between the two fire departments dates back to the late '60s. At that time, the Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department loaned a truck to the Bittinger area so it could serve as a Station 2 for Grantsville. In 1973, the Bittinger Volunteer Fire Department was formed, and Grantsville agreed to sell the loaned truck to Bittinger for $1,000. Pictured above, from left, are Scott Smith of the Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department; Kathryn Bowser, Bittinger Auxiliary treasurer; and auxiliary members Marjorie Brenneman and Jenny Miller.

Personnel, MSP Prevent Juvenile Detainees' Escape

An alleged attempt by three teenagers to help a pair of juvenile detainees escape from the Savage Mountain Youth Center on Wednesday was thwarted when personnel at the center reported a suspicious vehicle parked near the facility to the Maryland State Police, McHenry Barrack.

The barrack received the call around 12:45 a.m. Investigation by Tfc. S.M. LeMay revealed that the vehicle contained 22-year old-Brittany Prager of Denton, as well as two 17-year-olds (also from the Eastern Shore). These individuals had driven to the youth camp to allegedly assist two detainees in an escape attempt.

Their purpose was to drive the escapees away from the area after leaving a cell phone for them to use, according to Tfc. LeMay, but the escape attempt was discovered by staff at the camp earlier in the day.

One of the 17-year-olds was also found to have controlled dangerous substance paraphernalia in their possession, according to MSP. Prager was taken to the Garrett County Detention Center awaiting a bond review. The two 17-year- olds were charged and released to their parents.

RECEIVES WOW AWARD – Southern High School freshman Claire Wilkinson (right) recently received the Woodman of the World Award for American History. Wilkinson was presented the award by her honors U.S. history teacher Matt Redinger. "Claire was one of the very best social studies students I have ever taught. She had a great ability to take the information presented and apply it to higher level thinking questions," Redinger said. "Her work in class was excellent. In fact, she only missed a few questions all semester on tests and quizzes." He said her greatest asset, as it pertains to American history, was in her understanding of the past and how it applies to where the country is today. Wilkinson is the daughter of Don and Marsha Wilkinson, Oakland.

RECEIVE WOW AWARDS – Robbie Browning (left) was the recipient of the 2008 Woodmen of the World Proficiency in American History Award at Dennett Road Elementary School. Andrew Hauser (right was the recipient of the award at Yough Glades Elementary School. Both achieved the highest average among all of the students in their classes.

Two Sent To GCMH Following Vehicle Collision

A motor vehicle collision involving a motor scooter and a truck occurred on Gorman Road last week, sending two to Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

The mishap occurred near Baker Farm Road, where Paul Kip Burns, 37, was operating his scooter south on Gorman Road, with his 4-year-old son as a passenger. Richard Allen Reall Jr., Oakland, was traveling behind Burns's scooter in a 2005 Ford truck.

Burns slowed his vehicle to make a right turn onto Baker Farm Road, when Reall failed to immediately slow his truck for the scooter. Burns drove his motor vehicle to the left side of the southbound lane and into the path of the truck, resulting in a collision.

Both subjects on the scooter were wearing helmets. Each was transported to Garrett Memorial by Southern Rescue Squad with apparent minor injuries. Oakland Volunteer Fire Department also assisted at the scene.

Burns was charged with failure of motor scooter operator to ride right of roadway while traveling at speed less than traffic. Reall was charged with failure to control speed to avoid a collision.

A Learning Opportunity...

The Garrett County commissioners have somewhat unexpectedly scheduled a public hearing for 10:30 a.m. next Tuesday, June 24, an event that could range from nothing more than a purely political, token gesture, to one of the most important hearings in the history of the county. The topic of discussion and consideration will be the adoption of performance zoning for the county.

Most likely the former will be the case, as the hearing was scheduled simply because the commissioners received a petition requesting it. It certainly was not their idea, nor their desire. The goal of the petition signers is to throw another road block in front of wind energy developers who are poised to erect massive towers in several areas of the county.

However, there are other reasons besides regulation of wind industry development that performance zoning is needed in Garrett County. This column has been utilized a number of times to list those reasons, all having to do with increasing – not curtailing – the protection of private property, property rights, and property values. The fact of the matter is, the great majority of people (including this writer) are ignorant about the distinct differences between county-wide zoning and performance zoning. They are not the same. Many simply cringe and stop listening the moment the word "zoning" is mentioned, and it is time – right now – to get beyond that.

Therefore, just as this column was used to strongly urge people to attend the public meeting on wind energy development earlier this year at the college, the same call is now issued for next Tuesday's hearing. Those opposed to wind turbines in Garrett County should certainly be there, and those in favor of them should also be there to give their side. But again, beyond the wind turbine controversy, and regardless of which side of the fence one may be on when it comes to wind turbines and zoning in general, residents should attend just to become more informed. This will be an opportunity to learn. It is hoped that many large groups who have a stake in this will be represented, such as farmers, realtors, sportsmen, business owners, second-home owners, etc.

County commissioners are elected to serve their constituency, and elected officials tend to make decisions based upon the majority opinion of those constituents. Many times the majority opinion results in the correct decision, but not always. Occasionally the desire of the majority is not in the long-term best interest of the county. Zoning has always been a dirty word (primarily because of the aforementioned ignorance), so to date none of our commissioners have had the courage to push for it. And if only 15 or 20 people show up at next Tuesday's meeting, nothing is going to change. It's just that simple.

With all of this said (written), we hope the commissioners will take steps to have a much larger, back-up location for next Tuesday's meeting.

To the Editor:

While visiting a friend of mine who lives in Garrett County, I had what I thought would be a pleasurable experience of watching a ball game in the Grantsville Park on Wednesday (June 11th) evening. Well, much to my surprise I got to watch the coach verbally assault a lady (who I later found out to be a player's mother) and then she was greeted with the same assault by another mother from the team and then the coach's wife.

It was my understanding that the first mother (the one assaulted) had initially asked to speak to the coach, but from what I witnessed she didn't get a chance to speak at all; the coach started yelling, the other mother came in yelling, and then the coach's wife came in yelling the most horrible four-letter words imaginable. Enter another woman taking up for the first mother who also had some things to say about the assault on the first mother.

While I live in Frederick, and the violence is much greater there, I have to wonder what kind of role model this coach and his wife think they are. I thought that Garrett County would be a great place for kids to be raised, but when you have coaches (and coaches' wives) like this, I guess it's just a matter of time before the violence level peaks.

Please remember that kids learn what they live, and I certainly hope that the coach is a big enough man to apologize to all the kids who got to see how a coach should not act.

To the Editor:

There is a public hearing on performance zoning on June 24 at 10:30 a.m. in the county commissioners' office. This is a requirement whenever there is proposed amendment to a county zoning ordinance. This "hearing" is to discuss an amendment to the Deep Creek Zoning Ordinance to prevent industrial wind development; but predictably, they have given short notice and scheduled it at an inconvenient time for working people.

As is too often the case, this is an example of what the "public hearing" process is really about. We the interested public feel it is important enough to readjust our schedules to speak out about such an important subject, but when our elected officials were asked to reschedule this important meeting to a more suitable time, they refused – remaining unyielding and too rigid to reschedule this hearing to accommodate the schedule of the lawyer who proposed using performance zoning.

This is the kind of action characteristic of a hostile government, not government concerned about the good of the people or even better policy. So, citizens of Garrett County, in spite of this obstacle, please adjust your working schedule to attend this important hearing.

Thank you,
Debby Ward
Mtn. Lake Park

To the Editor:

The departure of Maryland Public Service Commission Chairman Larsen leaves the once-proud, consumer protection agency right where it was when he came on board to restore its credibility. Following the rampant politicization of the agency under Governor Ehrlich and then-Chairman Schisler, there were high hopes that Governor O'Malley would do the right thing and re-regulate the energy industry. Following the "free light bulbs" fiasco and the BG&E 72% rate hike, expectations were high.

Not only has that not happened, but it could be reasonably argued that things have gotten worse. Utility rates continue to increase at an alarming rate, and one electricity generator – wind power – has actually been deregulated and heretofore protections regarding environment, health, and safety removed against the wishes of Senator Edwards, Delegate Beitzel, the People's Counsel, the Department of Energy, and the Department of Natural Resources.

Most of the new governor's appointments to the commission either have close ties to the industries they are supposed to be regulating or to prominent energy lobbyists.

I guess one could rightfully say, "Not much has changed, has it?" An honest performance evaluation of Governor O'Malley and Chairman Larsen would yield about the same results as those of Governor Ehrlich and Chairman Schisler. Surely the citizens of Maryland should not expect more of the same.

To the Editor:

I have spent the last 20 years of my life as an elected member of the Garrett County Board of Education. During that time I have enjoyed, and taken pride in, the accomplishments of our fine students, teachers and our school system in general. I believe it is one of the best school systems in the nation.

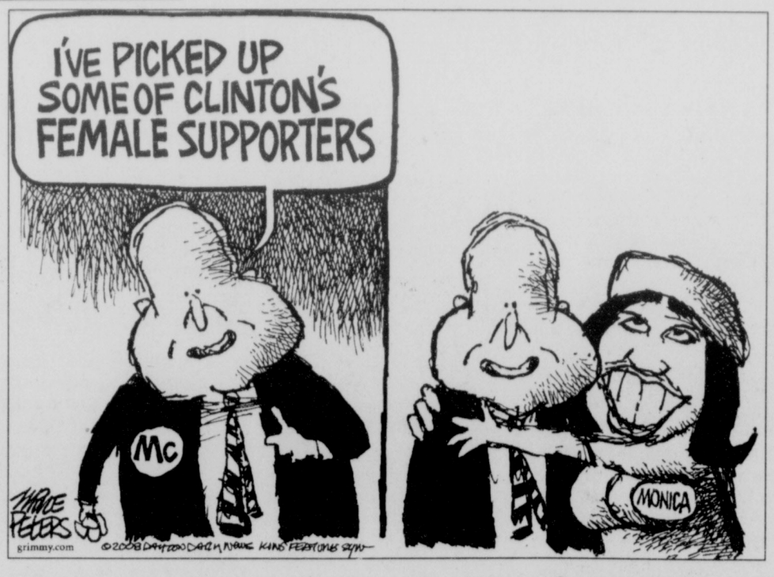
At this time, however, I would like to draw attention to one of my fellow Southern High School alumni, Margaret Fletcher Michaels, a graduate of the class of 1971. Recently I was asked to read a book she had written and published called, Time After Time. I did not want to read it because I usually read only nonfiction; however, after some prompting I promised that I would read her book.

My plan was to read a chapter a day, in which case I would be through with it in about two weeks. That was my plan; however, it did not work out that way. Once I started reading her book I couldn't put it down. It had history, romance, action, adventure, and a great twist at the end. This book should be made into a movie. It is that good!

If you like fiction, but find it hard to believe that a local author could write a great fiction book, then do yourself a favor and get this book. Read it, and I bet you will be entertained. It is available locally at the Book Mark'et.

Margaret, well done and keep up the good work, for you are another talented graduate of the Garrett County school system.

Sincerely,
Rodney Durst



Safety Issues

airbag deployment injury and was taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

"Everybody knows that's a pretty busy place," Johnson said about the Trader's Landing area.

Commissioner Ernie Gregg noted that the State Highway Administration is conducting safety evaluations in the Trader's Landing and Uno's areas, and that private stakeholders are involved in that process.

"Plans are being made and work is being done to upgrade lighting, particularly in the Uno's area," Gregg said, adding that the state is still evaluating signage issues at Trader's Landing.

Gregg said he has suggested using rumble strips on the highway to help make drivers more aware of the crosswalks.

Commissioner Fred Holliday said drivers in other areas of the country know that they must stop for pedestrians in designated crosswalks.

"[But] in Garrett County, we just don't want to do that," he said. "And I don't understand why we can't get that message."

Johnson said that is why he suggested involving stakeholders, to get help in educating the public about road safety issues.

Moyer said he felt that much of the problem stemmed from people concentrating on their cell phones instead of their driving.

He suggested creating no-cell-phone zones in areas with serious pedestrian/vehicular interactions. Moyer noted, however, that the state may not allow that to be done. Perhaps, Sen. George Edwards could look into the issue, the councilman said.

Moyer was at the commissioners' meeting to address another public safety issue: police enforcement at the Broadford Lake Recreational Area.

The lake is owned by the town of Oakland, but is in the jurisdiction of Mtn. Lake Park, which does not have its own police force. As a result, legal issues concerning police enforcement are complicated.

Currently, an Oakland officer can enforce laws/make arrests only if a county deputy is present or if the sheriff's office has specifically requested that the town handle a case, Moyer explained.

Garrett County sheriff Gary Berkebile also noted that if Oakland officers see a violation occur, Maryland emergency situation laws allow them to act.

Recent vandalism at the lake has prompted Oakland officials to readdress a mutual aid agreement between the town and county and to clarify jurisdictional issues.

"There are some things we need to start enforcing, like trespassing," Moyer said, adding that theft was also increasing. "Just recently, the sound system was taken out."

Gregg said there were all kinds of extenuating circumstances, but if the law allows it, he personally would like to see Oakland Police have the authority to make arrests.

Berkebile indicated that the county is the one that has to decide who has "blanket authority" over the lake. He suggested that the commissioners forward the issue to county attorney Mike Getty to see what the county's involvement is and to see how Mtn. Lake Park enters into the matter.

"Because you may have a conflict of issues," Berkebile said. He added, however, that he had no objection to Oakland having authority at the lake.

The commissioners agreed to have the county's attorney look at the issue.

"We'll try to expedite this," Gregg said.

The commissioners did not hold a public meeting this week. Their next scheduled meeting is Tuesday, June 24.

She and Bill maintained homes in Hyattsville, Berwyn Heights, Boblingen (near Sttutgart, Germany), Potomac, and then retired to their long-time vacation home on Deep Creek Lake, McHenry, in the mid '90s. Pianist Roldan Returning To Penn Alps

Music at Penn Alps will welcome back pianist Nancy Roldán this Saturday, June 21, at 7:30 p.m. in a solo recital at the Great Hall at Penn Alps, Grantsville.

Roldán has been guest artist in solo and chamber music performances in international festivals such as the American Liszt Society's Festival, the Great Romantics Festival, and the Ravello Festival in Italy. Recent performances include solo and chamber music concerts in Brazil, Canada, and the U.S. Roldán has premiered numerous works by contemporary composers, including Argentine composer Carlos Guastavino, whose work she has championed since her early career.

A long-time audience favorite at Music at Penn Alps, Dr. Roldán features both classical piano compositions, such as Debussy's Pagodes (from Estampes) and works by contemporary 20th century composers of Latin America, such as Tres danzas argentinas by Alberto Ginastera

The program will also consist of: Franz Liszt's Two Chants Polonaises; Malagueña by Ernesto Lecuona; and with Mussorgsky's famous Pictures at an Exhibition.

Dr. Roldán is a member of the two-piano team Lester/Roldán, and the violin-piano duo Roldán/Cueto. Recordings include Horizons: Piano Music of Latin America (Centaur Records, Inc.,) Music of the Americas (The Lester/Roldán Duo, Centaur Records,) On Wings of Angels (with violinist José Cueto,) and Celebration; Music of Thomas Benjamin. Her most recent CD is The Lester-Roldán Duo; A 30th Year Celebration.

She is a graduate of the Universidad Nacional de Cuyo in Argentina and holds master and doctorate degrees from the Peabody Conservatory, where she also taught for many years. She is president of the Baltimore-Washington Chapter of the American Liszt Society, and founder of the chapter's American Liszt Society/William Garrison Festival and Piano Competition. Her long association with Music at Penn Alps resulted in the organization presenting the young winners of that competition in concert in Grantsville in 2006 and 2007 through the Alta Schrock Memorial Fund.

The concert performance is underwritten by Arthur & Barbara Weldon and sponsored by Railey Mountain Lake Vacations. Tickets are $15 for adults; youth under-19 are admitted free of charge. For program and ticket information, persons may telephone 301-895-4250.

After the performance, audience members are invited to meet and talk to the artist at an informal reception.

Music at Penn Alps is a non-profit organization dedicated to presenting classical music and American traditions.

Dr. Roldán will offer a workshop for area music students, teachers, and musicians on Sunday, June 21, from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m., focusing on Latin rhythms and their influences on classical and modern styles of composition and performance. The workshop will take place in the Great Hall at Penn Alps and is sponsored by the Dr. Alta Schrock Memorial Fund. For registration and information, persons may telephone Nancy Salmon at 301-729-4171.

THE COUNTRY GOSPEL QUARTET will perform during the "Working on a Building" Country and Gospel Music Gathering, slated Saturday, July 19, from 11 a.m. until 4 p.m. at Trinity United Church of Christ. The church is located along Twin Churches Road in New Germany. Proceeds will benefit the Mt. Beulah Church Restoration Fund. The Country Gospel Quartet is scheduled to play at 3 p.m. Pictured are Dick Miller, guitar/vocals/songwriter; Joe DeGiovanni, keyboard/bass/vocals; and Tom Woods, banjo/guitar/fiddle/vocals. Not pictured is Irv Ullery, guitar/dobro/vocals. The Country and Gospel Music Gathering will feature "good old mountain music by good old mountain bands" throughout the day. Also scheduled to perform are Dave's Mountain Music, 11 a.m. to noon; Hammers & Strings, noon to 2 p.m.; Broken Glass & Rusty Hinges, also noon to 2 p.m.; Loretta Hummel with Robert Broadwater and Harry Minnick, 2 to 3 p.m.; and Bob Yonke, time to be announced. Oakland Slates Town's Wednesday Summer Schedule

"Wonderful Wednesdays" have officially started with yesterday being the first and a plan to carry on until Aug. 28.

"The annual event brings out many people to downtown Oakland," said Oakland Main Street manager Jack Cougle. "What 's better than coming downtown and spending the day shopping and dining?"

The weekly event will feature many shopping and dining specials offered by local businesses every Wednesday of the event. Also featured are Pleasant Valley Dream Rides carriage rides, a schedule of artisans at The Gallery, and the Mountain Fresh Produce Market from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

"On various Wednesdays there will be other things going on, such as tai chi, possibly area upstart musicians, guest speakers, artists at The Gallery, and health checks, to name a few," said Cougle.

Those who may have ideas for the event, or a musical group or street performer to add to the list, should contact Cougle at 301-334-5095.

Gallery Presents "Possessed" By Painter Corrigan

"Possessed" is the new one-person show currently on exhibit at the Gallery in Oakland. It consists of mixed media abstracts by Bob Corrigan and will be open until July 26.

The Garrett County Arts Council will host a gallery reception for the artist on Thursday, June 26, from 6 to 8 p.m. after the council's annual membership meeting, which will start at 5:30. The public is invited to attend both.

Corrigan is a retired government worker, residing in Everett, Pa., but most of his art contacts are in western Maryland, where he participates in art groups and organizations, teaches workshops, and belongs to artists' cooperatives.

He was born in Providence, R.I., and lived for 10 years in New Hampshire and then in Washington, D.C. Now he said he appreciates the Allegheny Mountains, where he finds it "a great place to live and paint."

A self-taught watercolorist, Corrigan dropped his artistic endeavors for nearly 17 years during his working career. He started painting again upon retirement in 1997. After a year of reacquainting himself with watercolor, he started producing mixed media abstracts.

"It isn't as easy to do an abstract as most people think. There's more to it, especially in the use of color and composition," he said.

Additional information about the "Possessed" exhibit and the June 26 reception for the artist is available by calling the Garrett County Arts Council at 301-334-6580 or through the council's web site at www.garrettarts.com.

Bluegrass, Gospel Music Prog. Slated At Folk Mtg. House

Loretta Hummel and Robert Broadwater will present a country bluegrass and gospel music program on Monday, June 23, at 7:30 p.m. in the Folk Meeting House, located along Rt. 669 in Springs, Pa.

Hummel, who lives along Lower New Germany Road in Garrett County, has been singing and playing the guitar since she was a child. She has composed numerous songs and recorded several CDs.

Fiddle player Robert Broadwater will accompany Hummel.

Admission to their performance is free and open to the public. The program is sponsored by the Springs Historical Society.

The Springs Historical Society also hosts the Springs Farmers Market, held every Saturday from 8 a.m. until 1 p.m., and the Springs Museum, open Wednesday through Friday from 1 until 5 p.m., and Saturday from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m.

For more information, persons may call 814-445-6945 or 814-662-4366, or visit springspa.org.

Oakland Main Street To Hold Movie Night

Oakland Main Street has scheduled its second free downtown movie night for Saturday, June 21, at the pocket park at Alder and Second streets at dusk (approx. 9:15).

The movie scheduled for this showing is Calendar Girls, which was a hit film in 2003. It is based on the true story of 11 Yorkshire women who set out to raise money for the Leukemia Research fund, by posing nude for an alternative Women's Institute Calendar.

The illness of John Baker, husband of Rylstone Women's Institute member Angela Baker, gave the women the inspiration, and it was in his name the calendar was produced.

The movie will be running in conjunction with the Wild Women's Weekend also being held that weekend. Donations are accepted and it will be cancelled if it rains.

GC Arts Council To Host Annual Public Reception

The Garrett County Arts Council will host its annual membership meeting and public reception on Thursday, June 26, at the Gallery, Oakland. The business meeting is scheduled to begin at 5:30 p.m., with the reception to follow from 6 to 8 p.m.

The meeting agenda will include announcements of grant awards, presentation of the council's annual "Friend of the Arts" award, and election of officers and board members.

The public gallery reception following the meeting will include complimentary refreshments provided by board members. The reception will feature multimedia abstracts by Bob Corrigan. All friends of the arts are invited to attend.

"Our annual gallery reception provides a great opportunity for people to meet, mix, and share thoughts on the state of the arts in Garrett County. Additional information is available by calling the Garrett County Arts Council at 301-334-6580 or by visiting the council's web site at www.garrettarts.com.

Chautauqua Set July 5-8; History Noted

The annual Chautauqua program hosted by the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival will return for its 14th season July 5-8 on the Garrett College lawn. Each evening will feature a scholar/actor giving a dramatic portrayal of a famous historical personage. There will also be performances by various local musical groups.

According to a GLAF spokesperson, "Chautauqua" was named for the Chautauqua Lake area in upstate New York, where the movement began in 1874 as a Methodist summer retreat. A wide range of religious lectures and educational programs attracted a huge following and turned Chautauqua, New York, into a popular summer resort.

As it evolved, the Chautauqua movement presented the latest thinking in politics, economics, literature, science, and religion, the spokesperson continued. By 1900, more than 400 summer communities had developed from the original Chautauqua model, and touring companies presented lectures, debates, and performances at sites throughout the country. Theodore Roosevelt, himself an active participant, dubbed Chautauqua "the most American thing in America" because of its enormous popularity and accessibility.

In Maryland, the tradition dates back to the late 19th century, when Chautauquas took place in Mountain Lake Park, and at Glen Echo Park in Montgomery County. In its heyday between the 1880s and World War I, this program attracted thousands to the community for symphonies, operas, plays, and nationally prominent speakers, including President Taft, Samuel Gompers, William Jennings Bryan, and Billy Sunday.

While increased access to radios, movies, and cars led to a gradual decline in the Chautauqua movement by the 1930s, its legacy lives on through continuing education programs at community colleges, and humanities councils nationwide. The Chautauqua program at Garrett College is one of several held throughout the state under the auspices of the Maryland Humanities Council. It is jointly sponsored by the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival (GLAF), the Garrett County Arts Council, and Garrett College.

The theme of the program this year is "Civil Rights: Taking a Stand," with portrayals of Martin Luther King Jr. (July 5), George Wallace (July 6), Rosa Parks (July 7), and Malcolm X (July 8). Each evening's program will begin at 7 p.m. with music, followed by the featured portrayal at 7:30. All programs are free and open to the public, though contributions will be accepted to offset production costs.

A detailed article about the Chautauqua performers will appear in next week's issue of The Republican, and is included in the Summer Sensations edition contained in today's issue.

For further information, persons may contact the GLAF office at 301-387-3082, or go to the GLAF web site at www.artsandentertainment.org.

TENT TROUPE COMING TO GLADES PARK – Tent Troupe, a traveling summer "big top" tent theater, will arrive in Oakland and perform on Friday, June 27, at Glades Park. A matinee for children of all ages will be held at 1:45 p.m., featuring a variety of classic short stories, fables, and folk tales. The evening show will begin at 7:45. The public is invited and no admission is charged, but freewill donations will be collected. A non-profit endeavor of St. Luke Lutheran Church in Silver Spring, Tent Troupe is a performing arts ministry designed for and by high school students. Since its inception in 1970, Tent Troupe has visited 375 towns in 29 states and Canada. This year Tent Troupe's play is called The Curious Savage. It is described as a "fanciful comedy that champions the virtues of kindness and affection in a world largely motivated by greed and dishonesty." A spokesperson said the shows are carefully selected with the intention of making audiences think about some of the basic questions encountered in life. "The plays focus on people who, by their lifestyles, make you consider challenging questions as you leave our tent," said the spokesperson. Tent Troupe's local visit is being sponsored by St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Oakland. For more information, persons may contact the church office at 301-334-2668. The Tent Troupe web site is www.tenttroupe.org. Pictured below are the actors of Tent Troupe. Seated from left are David Phelps, Eric Bowers, and Carly Martin. Standing in the same order are Elaine Sledge, Adam Doolyl, Lily Schmidt, Paul Turner, Matthew Farrar, Molly Martinez, Lara Kochnowicz, and Daniel Ernst.

Young Authors Recognized For Poetry, Stories

The Garrett Reading Council hosted the Young Authors Contest reception and dinner recently at Penn Alps Restaurant in Grantsville. Several local young people were honored for their writing accomplishments.

Festivities began with winners of the 2007-2008 contest reading their original poems or short stories. Then West Virginia author Marc Harshman spoke with the group, discussing his sources for stories, two of his children's books, and his inspiration for writing them.

Winners and their families participated in the final activity, which was a Literacy Lottery. For this event, participants purchased tickets to try to win baskets of books and writing supplies that were donated by members of Garrett Reading Council.

All winners of the Young Authors Contest received a printed anthology of their poems and short stories and several gifts. Garrett Reading Council's reception, dinner, and gifts were funded in part by a grant from the state of Maryland International Reading Council (SoMIRAC).

"Warm Summer Nights," selected for the 6th Grade Poetry category, written by Maria Duff of Swan Meadow School, was chosen for the 6th Grade Poetry category at the state level as well. Maria was able to at-

Real Estate Facts by...

IN YOUR OWN BACK YARD!
Are you aware that over two million people in the United States have real estate licenses? With that many practitioners, the seed quickly separates from the chaff, with a small percentage rising to the top in quality service to buyers and sellers.
As you consider the mountains of documentation, financing, negotiating, marketing, inspections and the like, where would you begin to locate the agent best suited to your needs? It makes sense to start at home, with those individuals who participate in neighborhood organizations, local government, charities, etc.
It makes sense to work with someone who is active within and knowledgeable about the local community. More information for your choice of representative can be found through open houses, advertising, and referrals and recommendations from other agents, neighbors, and local business leaders.
Once you've interviewed and selected a real estate agent, make sure your relationship is clearly defined and documented. Some agents represent sellers, while others exclusively represent buyers. Make sure your representative explains how he or she works with all parties to the transaction, and provides a complete "agency disclosure" to document your relationship.
Then your agent will begin discussion of local market conditions and how they come to bear upon your listing or your purchase. A carefully selected representative from your community will provide all the information you need to move forward with confidence. Garrett Goes 3-1-1 In Hillbilly Classic Then Stuns Bridgeport

The Garrett County American Legion baseball team fared pretty well in the Hillbilly Hardball Classic this past weekend as it turned up three wins, one tie, and one loss. Garrett's first win of the classic came over French Creek Valley, 11-3, on Friday and was followed by an 8-8 tie with Morgantown Post 2. The local team then beat Moundsville, 4-1, on Saturday. On Sunday, Garrett downed the Jefferson Bulls, 4-2, but lost in a French Creek Valley retaliation, 13-2.

Garrett tacked on a staggering win over Bridgeport on Wednesday with a score of 15-2 at Garrett College.

The Hillbilly Hardball Classic will not have a champion determined this year because of rain outs.

Garrett opened play on Friday with an 11-3 victory over French Creek Valley, Meadsville, Pa., on the Davis & Elkins College diamond.

Garrett's Matt Sisler struck out 10 and allowed no walks in 6 2/3 innings before Kyle Gillum took the mound.

Corey Carr guided the Garrett offense with three singles and one RBI, while Tyler Stevens, Jake Briley, and Reece Duncan each recorded two singles, with Stevens knocking in two runs an Briley, one. Jason Ashby singled in one run in an 11-hit attack.

Garrett's second game on Friday ended early in an 8-8 tie with Morgantown Post 2 because of rain at West Virginia Wesleyann.

Ashby had a no-hitter going before Morgantown posted five runs in the fifth to whittle away Garrett's 7-0 lead. Morgantown took advantage of 10 walks and four hit batters.

Stevens drove in two on a homer and singled as Garrett recorded 11 hits. Ashby rapped three singles and had two RBI, Carr hit two doubles and knocked in a run, Dan Warnick singled twice and had an RBI, and Briley doubled in a run.

After a 2-hour, 45-minute rain delay on Saturday, Garrett and Moundsville were unable to resume play after the third inning and Garrett was awarded a 4-1 win.

All of Garrett's runs came in the opening inning as Duncan tripled in a run and singled, Carr drove in a run with the first of his two singles, and Briley belted a two-run single.

Only Moundsville's Nick Robertson recorded a hit during Trey Beasom's three innings of pitching. Robertson's hit was a single and it came in the first inning.

Ashby belted a two-run home run in the first inning of Garrett's first contest on Sunday and Tyler Stevens whirled a four-hitter to push Garrett's 2-0 lead to a 4-2 win over the Jefferson Bulls.

Ashby's homer gave Garrett a 2-0 first-inning lead, and Carr had an RBI single in the fifth to give the leading team another run. Jefferson scored a pair in the bottom of the inning to cut its deficit, then Ryan Sweitzer singled home a run in the Garrett sixth to make it 4-2. Also contributing to Garrett's seven hits was Jake Briley with a double.

In Stevens' complete-game effort, he allowed four hits and one earned run, he struck out five and didn't allow a single walk.

Colton Distese hit a two-run homer for Jefferson, which had four hits.

French Creek Valley turned the tables on Garrett and avenged it's Friday loss with a 13-2 win.

Like Friday's contest, Garrett had a brief lead after scoring twice in the first inning, and held on to the advantage for three innings. French Creek, which was aided by six Garrett errors, exploded with 12 runs in its final three at-bats and recorded 11 total hits.

French Creek pitcher Jake Carter held Garrett to just four hits in six innings. He was aided on offense by Scott Morian, who scattered three singles and drove in four runs.

Dan Warnick rapped two singles for Garrett.

Nothing could stop Garrett Wednesday evening, and with the help of several Bridgeport mistakes, Garrett cruised to a 15-2 triumph.

Pitching for the winning team was Matt Sisler, who struck out 10 , gave up just three hits, walked two batters, and hit one.

The Bridgeport defense saw four pitchers combine to walk 12 Garrett batters and hit four.

Garrett scored first in the first inning, and added four runs in the fourth to make it 5-0. The team exploded for eight runs in the fifth inning, and added two for extra security in the sixth.

Bridgeport's two runs were scored in the sixth inning on a Sean Cumpston two-run homer.

Ashby led Garrett with two base hits and an RBI. Briley doubled and singled, and Duncan recorded an RBI single.

Garrett (7-1-1 overall) will visit Fort Cumberland for a noon doubleheader on Saturday at Legion Field.

Oaks Shake Off Orioles, Split Twinbill With Clarksburg Sox

The Oakland Oaks Pen-Mar team opened up its home season at Garrett College on Saturday with a 1-0 win over the Cumberland Orioles, then the Oaks traveled to Clarksburg to take on the Clarksburg Red Sox on Sunday. The teams split the doubleheader with Oakland taking the first game, 6-3, and losing the nightcap, 8-3, but no further information was provided.

Saturday's nightcap was rained out and will be made up at a later date.

Oaks pitcher Greg Beachy posted a four-hitter shutout of Cumberland Saturday in a well-fought pitchers' duel with Chad Chambers. Beachy scattered four singles, walked two, and struck out seven, while Chambers allowed five hits over six innings, walked three, and fanned four.

Scoring the only run of the game was Oakland's Bryan Lenhart in the bottom of the sixth. Eric Johnson singled, stole second, and advanced to third on a single by Billy Reams, who reached second on the throw to third.

After an initial walk to Matt Miller, Lenhart lofted a sacrifice fly that drove in Johnson.

Reams had two singles and was the only multiple hitter for the day.

The second game of the scheduled twinbill was postponed by rain. Cumberland is currently 5-2.

The Oaks will play again this Saturday at 1 p.m. on their home field at Garrett College with Tri-State of Cumberland. The Oaks stand at 5 wins and 2 losses.

"The college has one of the most beautiful fields in the tri-state area with excellent facilities," said a spokesperson for the Oaks.

Starting their 35th consecutive year in the league, the Oaks team comprises high school, American Legion, and college players from the tri-state area. The Pen-Mar League allows these players to return to the area to play summer ball at a higher level.

The Pen-Mar league was founded in 1949, and started as a league to counteract local leagues with paid players and ringers.

The Oakland team was founded in 1973, with Southern High School being the home field. The first manager of Oakland was Terry Helbig, who was assisted by Wayne Bosley. Helbig continued to manage until 1999, and stayed an officer until 2007. Assisting him over the years were Sam Glotfelty, George Brady, Ernie Shotwell, Christian Smith, and John Helmick.

The team was turned over to Dave Martin of Martin's Auto Body in 2000, and taken over by Craig Bosley in 2001. Bosley continues to coach the Oaks, and is assisted by Matt Miller and James Altobello.

Several players have been drafted into the Major Leagues, playing in the big league or on a farm club. Players from Oakland who have gone on to play are Toby Stoner, AA New York Mets; Francis Mouse, Chicago White Sox and the Kansas City Royals; Mike Gustave, Minnesota Twins; and John Kruk, San Diego, Philadelphia, and Chicago. Kruk also played in the Phillies/Toronto World Series and was named to the NL All Star Team at least once.

The Oaks won the league championships in 1986, 1989, 1995, 1998, 1999, and 2004. The team was runner up in 1988, 1997, and 2003.

Powerhouse teams in the league in the 1970s were Everett, Tri-Towns, and Romney, then the 1980s featured Oakland, Everett, and Tri-Towns. The 1990s included Oakland, Tri-State, Cumberland, and Parkersburg.

Coach Bosley noted his appreciation to Terry Helbig for his hard work and help in keeping the league going throughout the years.

To follow the team's progress for the remainder of the season, persons may check the Pen-Mar web site www.freewebs.com/penmarleague/.

Sharpless No-Hits Keyser And State Farm Earns 10-0 Victory

Jeremy Sharpless guided State Farm to a near-perfect 10-0 win over Keyser Timbrook at Broadford Park in a recent Hot Stove contest as he no-hit Keyser and struck out 10. His only slip-up was walking one batter in the five-inning game. That was the only batter to reach base against him all evening.

Christian Glotfelty carried the weight from the plate with a double and three singles to knock in three runs. Scott Bittinger hit a single and had three RBI, and Sharpless recorded a pair of singles.

The Keyser pitching staff had trouble keeping things under control with a combined eight walks and four hit batters, although they did team up for eight strikeouts.

After two scoreless innings, State Farm put itself on the board with three runs in the third. It widened the gap to 8-0 with five runs in the fourth, then scored two runs just for kicks in the fifth inning to make it 10-0.

Shane Peck made two outstanding plays in the fifth inning to prevent Keyser from getting base hits.

After starting the season with four straight losses, State Farm has now won five in a row to improve to 5-4. It will play Culver Design at Broadford Park on Monday at 7 p.m.

First Week Of GC Basketball Camp Draws 45

The first week of Garrett College basketball camp is under way, with 45 area boys and girls participating, according to camp director and Laker head coach Dennis Gibson.

Other members of the camp staff are former and current Garrett players Antoun Townsend, J.T. Lewis, Reco Siler, Brian Koonce, Derrick Sherman, Joe Tressler, and Kory Gibson.

"These guys are unmatched in their enthusiasm in working with these young kids," Gibson said. "A lot of youth cannot afford a basketball camp, and for these guys to put their hearts into teaching the game of basketball and making it as fun as they do makes me proud to have them here.

"Some of them travel a long way to help out as former Lakers, and I cannot say enough about their commitment. You can tell that the kids really enjoy developing their skills as they learn new ideas and perspectives on basketball from them," he said.

Registration for the second week of camp, designed for youth in grades 1 through 4, will continue until next Monday, June 23, at 9 a.m. (the first day of the camp). The cost of the camp is $35. Every camper receives a trophy and a camp T-shirt.

"We can also accept beginner and novice 5th graders who may want to attend this week as well," Gibson said, adding that this camp is for basic skills enhancement.

Interested parents may telephone Coach Gibson at 301-387-3051 to receive a registration form, or they can download a from the Garrett College Athletics web site.

Garrett College Baseball Camp June 30-July 3

Garrett College will hold a youth baseball camp the week of June 30 to July 3. It will convene each day from 9 a.m. to noon., and is designed for children ages 6-13.

Parents may contact GC head coach Eric Hallenback to register a camper and/or to obtain more information. He can be reached via telephone at 301-387-3331 or 301-501-3025. Persons may also obtain information at the following web site: www.garrettcollege.edu.

Sailboat Racing On Deep Creek Lake

GET THEE BEHIND ME, NEMESIS!
by Dan Muss

All the forecasts for Saturday were for pretty unstable weather involving showers with a strong threat of thunderstorms in the afternoon. But the winds were very nice at about 10 mph and there was a moderate turnout on the starting line. The wind was WSW and principal race officer (PRO) Gordie Clefton decided to set the course in the "slot" between Turkey Neck and Thousand Acres, our usual racing venue.

So, with the windward mark off Blakeslee Point and the wind veering between W and SW, we decided to stay on port tack on the right-hand side of the windward course for the most part. Five minutes before our start the wind swung to the SW, and the pin end of the line was heavily favored. We timed the line and were approaching the pin on the starboard tack when Rissell, in Nemesis, slipped across the line on port as the horn for the start went off. I was in a real pickle; there was no room between his stern and the pin, so I luffed up to slow down and then tacked to port behind and 5 feet to windward of Nemesis. In this position he should have given us grief, as the wash off the leach of his main would give us terrible air. But we have new sails and we were able to break this lee bowing.

We led around the windward and offset marks, popped the spinnaker, and were ahead by about five boat lengths as we reentered the slot. The wind first veered around to the SSW as we hauled down the spinnaker, and then it almost died. As we crept toward the leeward mark, the wind came up from behind us and suddenly there was Nemesis boiling up below us. He had an inside overlap for a while, but as the breeze reached us we were able to break it and round first. But we had had a shower and everything was wet, so that in this light air I could not read the tell-tales on the jib, and the tell-tale on the windward shroud was wrapped around the spinnaker halyard. So, sailing blind upwind, I did not sail as high as Rissell, and he took us. There he was out in the middle and we were stuck on the Thousand Acres shore with very little wind. I thought Nemesis would sail away, but a breeze came up on our shore and we were able to regain the lead.

At this point we became confused because we saw championship fleet boats heading back to the Turkey Neck club after rounding the windward mark for the second time. The committee boat was still on station, so I bore off enough to get within hailing distance of the committee, and they yelled back that the course was shortened and the finish was at the windward mark. As we got closer we saw that the patrol boat had set up a finish line, and we finished first with Nemesis behind us.

As we watched the boats go out for the second Saturday race, a thunderstorm rolled through to the north of us and the PRO canceled racing.

Sunday we had much better conditions, with scattered clouds and a nice breeze from the north. The PRO, Tom Wolffe, set a good windward-leeward course and, again, Rissell in Nemesis had us at the start. We caught him briefly on the first leg, but he had us by a bunch sailing downwind. On the second long beat, Peters took us, and we headed downwind in third place with Nemesis far ahead. But on that spinnaker run, my crew, fearless Marilyn Filemyr, did a sparkling job flying the spinnaker and we passed Peters and closed in with Rissell. On that last short beat to the finish the new sails did their job and we nosed out Nemesis by ½ boat length.

Charles Buffington with Jim Munford up were first around the windward mark in the championship-gold fleet. But they failed to round the offset mark. Harry Carpenter, with his wife Karen, then followed them! They are both very experienced racers and both were disqualified. Oh, well, we all make mistakes.

SS&A Handed Loss By Fort Ashby; Downs Casselman

Sweitzer, Simson, & Associates came up short in a Rec League baseball contest with Fort Ashby VFW, 9-5, Friday in Frankfort, but bounced back with a 5-2 win over Casselman Valley at Southern High School on Wednesday.

Skyler Minke led Fort Ashby's 10-hit attack on Friday with a pair of singles that drove in three runs before rain put a stop to play after the sixth inning. His teammates Austin Cook, Dylan Wagoner, and Cody Spotts all provided two-run singles.

Chris Halbritter came on in the fourth inning to relieve starter Brian Forrester and got credit for the win. Together, they allowed nine hits.

Spencer Barnard belted a triple and a single and drove in three runs for SS&A, while Shane Weaver added a double and a single.

Pitcher Ryan Sweitzer started for SS&A then turned the game over to Nick Tressler in the sixth. The pair yielded ten hits.

SS&A improved to 4-2 with Wednesday's triumph over Casselman Valley.

Barnard earned the win by fanning seven and allowing no earned runs in a complete-game effort.

Making up some of SS&A's eight hits was catcher Cody Lewis with two singles, Josh Noble with a two-run single, and Shane Weaver with a base hit and an RBI.

Casselman had five hits, each from different batters, but their names were not provided. Both Casselman runs came off an error in the sixth inning. James Baer collected six strikeouts in a complete-game loss.

Sisters Recognized For Placing Lake Property Into Preservation Easement

by Glenn Tolbert

There are 120 acres of land along Deep Creek Lake that the laws say must be preserved in their current state. They will retain their feel of what the area was like before being "discovered" and developed. No one is allowed to build or in any other way make changes to this land.

Preserved by efforts of the Allegheny Highlands Conservancy, the land is not a park for the public to tour or to visit, but is set aside to allow Mother Nature to have some lakefront property of her own.

The conservancy is described as "more than a land trust." It is a non-profit organization that works with willing landowners to conserve land by accepting land donations called easements. Landowners are allowed to choose their own particular vision for their land, such as allowing farming or timber harvesting. The conservancy also allows options whereby some sites may be designated for a home or a building to be built in the future, with the rest of the land designated as an easement.

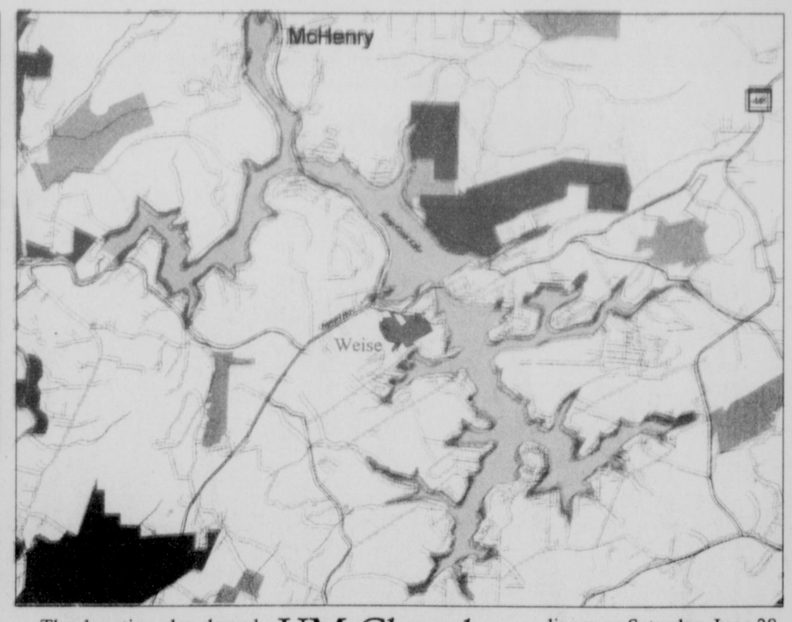
Dr. Kathryn Weise, a pediatric intensive care physician at the Cleveland Clinic whose family has been coming to the lake since the 1950s, says she and her sister Carol Bartram put the aforementioned 120 acres just off Glendale Road under the care of the program because of the "good feeling" of knowing that the land will be preserved for perpetuity.

"We worked with state preservation organizations to set it up," she said. "The value of the easements was ascertained by the value of the easements for the tax incentive part of the program.

"One hundred years from now someone else will own the property, but the easements will still be in place," she explained.

Dr. Weise says hers is not a wealthy family, but has invested wisely over the years, first going into debt to buy a parcel of land at the lake and working a Christmas tree farm on the initial small piece of property.

Because of its proximity to the lake, there is no question that the 120 acres is quite valuable, but as Dr. Weise pointed out, "Our goal has been to be able to preserve it and be able to afford to use it rather than to sell it for a lot of money, and this process allows that, while adding to the environmental stability of the area.



LOCAL LANDOWNERS HONORED The Maryland Environmental Trust (MET) hosted conservation professionals from land trusts throughout Maryland at the Maryland Land Trust Alliance Conference on June 6 at the Howard County Conservancy in Woodstock, where two Garrett County landowners received a state award. Sisters Kathryn Weise and Carol Bartram received the Dillon Award for Outstanding Conservationist Landowner, created from an endowment from sisters Alberta and Louise Dillon, who bequeathed their entire Garrett County property to the MET in 1984. Weise and Bartram were selected for the award this year for their easement donation of property to the MET, a move which will preserve approximately 125 mostly wooded acres of property near Deep Creek Lake. Pictured from left above are Carol Bartram, their mother Virginia Weise, and Kathryn Weise, who is also pictured below looking over the property with land preservation colleague Robert Lewis, a Garrett County resident who serves on the Allegheny Highlands Conservancy board. Above right is a map that shows the 125 donated acres (in red), which are located just south of Glendale Road, overlooking the lake.

If that also adds to the value of adjoining property, all the better.

"Land is only worth what you sell it for," she continued. "We didn't want to sell it. So it felt good to both preserve open space in the very heart of an area that is being rapidly developed, and to get some relief from taxation."

The Dillon Award for Outstanding Conservationist Landowner was created from an endowment from another pair of Garrett County sisters, the late Alberta and Louise Dillon, who bequeathed their entire Garrett County property to the MET in 1984. This award for 2008 was presented at the 2008 Maryland Land Trust Alliance Conference, held June 6 at the Howard County Conservancy's Gudelsky Center in Woodstock, to Weise and Bartram for their easement donations at the lake.

The sisters were accompanied at the presentation by their mother, Virginia Weise, whom they thanked for originally buying the property and presented with a bouquet of flowers.

Alverta and Louise Dillon, who were retired school teachers, donated a perpetual conservation easement and then bequeathed their entire Garrett County property to the Maryland Environmental Trust in 1984.

"Alverta and Louise were dedicated naturalists and enthusiastic about conservation and enhancement of the many resources found on their land," stated Rebekah Howey of the MET. "Their generous bequest is maintained as an endowment to support the activities and mission of MET, in accordance with the wishes of the Dillon family. The Dillon Award is made annually by MET to a landowner for outstanding conservation."

The Weise/Bartram easement also protects a sense of family history, Howey explained, as the property has been in the Weise family for over 50 years and was passed down to Kathryn and Carol from their parents.

The donation also slowed development in the Thayerville area of the lake, Howey explained.

"Over-development of the Deep Creek Lake region threatens to undermine the area's greatest asset – its natural beauty," she added.

"The similarities to the Dillon sisters, including the obvious Garrett County connection, the commitment to conservation, and the family history of the property, deserve special mention. The Allegheny Highlands Conservancy worked closely with MET to preserve this land and protect the natural resources in Garrett County," Howey said.

The conservancy board sees part of its role as helping to solve the dilemma facing many Garrett County landowners – how to hold on to their property with an ever-increasing tax burden, or selling it for increasingly attractive purchase offers. Because heirs may not be interested in farming and forestry, owners are torn between wanting the land to remain as it has been for generations, or subdividing it to sell for financial benefit.

Dr. Weise says that anyone in such a dilemma may want to consider contacting the AHC president, Kevin Dodge, at 301-387-3328 or contact the conservancy via e-mail at alleghenyhighlandsconservancy@yahoo.com.

MEETS PITTSBURGH CELEB Michael Moon, who just completed the first grade at Broad Ford Elementary School, got a surprise when he and his class recently went on a field trip to the Pittsburgh Zoo and Aquarium. Kelly Frye, a newscaster on WTAE Channel 4, happened to be in the area at the time. She pulled Michael aside to ask him about his trip to the zoo, and agreed to pose for this photo. Michael was a member of Kim Weimer's class.

Broad Ford Class of 2008

Eyes of brown, eyes of blue
Class of '08 from Broad Ford School
You've graced our halls
You've touched our hearts
But the day has come and we must part.

Now on your walk from day to day
With a lot of work and hearty play,
What lies ahead is up to you
By choices you make and what you do.

Now part those waves and climb the hills
Use all your knowledge and your skills;
Become whatever you may be
Climb to the top and then you'll see.

Man Sentenced For Two Days For Heroin Possession

Visiting judge Edward A. Malloy sentenced a 21-year-old Boyds man to a 60-day jail term, 58 days of which were suspended, on drug charges in a recent Garrett County District Court case.

Members of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office and Garrett County Narcotics Task Force were dispatched to a McHenry residence in December 2007 for a complaint about an odor of marijuana coming from Pierce Alexander Grandi's room. Grandi consented to a search of his room, which connected to other residence room by a bathroom. Inside Grandi's room were several pieces of homemade marijuana smoking devices and a plastic bag containing marijuana seeds and stems, of which Grandi denied possession.

Officers searched the connecting room and recovered a smoking device and a chunk of marijuana, of which none of the residents claimed possession.

A search of Grandi's vehicle revealed a capsule of suspected heroin.

Grandi pleaded guilty to a charge of possession of a controlled dangerous substance (CDS) other than marijuana. In addition to his jail sentence, he received one year of supervised probation and a $150 fine. He was not prosecuted by the state's attorney on charges of possession of marijuana and paraphernalia.

In other District Court news, Chad Lane Frazee, 21, Friendsville, pleaded guilty to a charge of possession of paraphernalia and received a $50 fine in a case heard by Judge Malloy. Also during the hearing, Frazee pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while impaired (DWI) and was handed a 60-day jail sentence, all of which was suspended except 58 days, as well as 18 months of supervised probation and a $307 fine.

A sheriff's officer found Frazee's vehicle in a ditch on Route 219 north of Hoyes Road in November 2007 and noticed an odor of alcohol about his presence, according to court documents. Frazee failed a breathalyzer test, and a search of his vehicle incident to arrest revealed marijuana, a smoking device, and a marijuana grinding device.

Frazee was not prosecuted on a charge of possession of marijuana, nor was he prosecuted on four additional driving violations.

Judge Malloy handed David Lansdale Sweitzer Jr., 18, Oakland, a 60-day jail term, which was suspended in its entirety, a one-year supervised probationary period, and a $100 fine after Sweitzer pleaded guilty to a charge of possession of marijuana.

Members of the sheriff's office and the task force executed a search and seizure warrant on Sweitzer's residence in May and confiscated three marijuana smoking devices, five plastic bags containing marijuana, and a marijuana plant. A person at the residence told officers the contraband belonged to Sweitzer, according to court documents.

Sweitzer was not prosecuted by the state's attorney on charges of possession of a CDS with intent to distribute and possession of paraphernalia.

Philip Ray Coddington, 41, Oakland, pleaded guilty to a charge of possession of marijuana and was handed a 60-day jail sentence and a $57 fine, which were both suspended.

A sheriff's officer was dispatched to a motor vehicle accident on Oakland-Sang Run Road in December 2007 and made contact with Coddington, the driver of the vehicle. In the officer's report, he noted Coddington did not have an odor of alcohol about him, but that he could not walk in a straight line and had difficulty standing.

Coddington admitted to taking ibuprofen and hydrocodone. At the sheriff's office a bag of marijuana fell out of his pants pocket, and an additional bag was found in his boot.

Judge Malloy handed Coddington stet rulings on charges of DWI by drugs and/or alcohol and DWI by CDS, as well as two other driving violations.

Laura M. Moffitt, 36, McHenry, received a PBJ from Judge Price after pleading guilty to a charge of possession of paraphernalia in a criminal summons case. She received 12 months of unsupervised probation and a fine of $500, $400 of which was suspended.

Moffitt gave police officers the consent to search her residence, and officers discovered a smoking device containing burnt marijuana residue.

Johnathon Thomas Vinson, 21, McHenry, and Sherman Reed, 20, Catonsville, received stet rulings from Judge Malloy on respective charges of possession of marijuana and paraphernalia, stemming from separate December 2007 incidents.

Kathy Lynn Kisner, 50, Terra Alta, Brenda Kay McGuire, 43, Oakland, and Jennifer Lynn Stone, 25, Oakland, all pleaded guilty to charges of selling alcohol to a minor and received probation before judgments (PBJs) in criminal summons cases heard by Judge Price.

The defendants were all caught selling alcohol from local businesses to police cadets during Garrett County alcohol compliance checks. According to reports, Kisner did not ask to see the underage cadet's ID, while both McGuire and Stone looked at the cadets' IDs, but still completed the transactions.

Kisner, McGuire, and Stone were each charged $50 and were handed 12 months of unsupervised probation.

EYEING HEARING LOSS IN INFANTS

It can be difficult for a parent to discern if an infant has a hearing loss because babies do not respond to hearing tests in the way that older children and adults do. However, it is imperative that hearing losses in infants be diagnosed early because hearing is so critical to speech and language development. It comes as welcome news, therefore, that researchers have uncovered a new way to detect hearing loss in infants by looking into their eyes. As a natural response to sound, the pupils of the eyes dilate. Researchers used this "pupillary dilation response" (PDR) to measure humans' ability to hear and found that the pupils dilated in proportion to the volume of the sound.

Put your child's hearing future, or yours, in the hands of a caring professional. When a hearing impairment is discovered, it is the job of the audiologist to find the perfect match between patient and remedy, regardless of the wearer's age. He or she will take into consideration all the many factors that can affect the success of treatment of a hearing loss. Let us do what we do best–call on AUDIBEL for comprehensive testing, experienced evaluations, custom fittings, quality hearing products, and follow-up care.

P.S. It should be noted that, after hearing a loud sound several times, humans tend to ignore it (habituation).

Class B CDL Course Slated In Grantsville

The Mountaintop Truck Driving Institute, a division of Garrett College, has scheduled a Class B commercial driver's license (CDL) course from July 14 to Aug. 1, Monday through Friday, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Training will be held at the institute, located in Grantsville.

A Class B license allows drivers to operate any single vehicle with a gross vehicle weight rating of 26,001 or more pounds, with any such vehicle towing a vehicle not in excess of 10,000 pounds.

To qualify for the training, an individual must have a valid, full driver's license; be at least 18 years of age in order to obtain a learner's permit for CDL intrastate license; and be at least 21 years of age for an interstate license.

To register for the course, the student must already possess the following paperwork: a current Maryland Department of Transportation physical that cannot expire during the training period; a drug screen fewer than 60 days old; and a Class B CDL learner's permit.

The course will cover the essentials to obtain a license, including the following: pre-trip inspections, various skills in the yard, and over-the-road instruction, along with a basic overview of map reading and log books.

Students will drive a dump truck and will have practice time with a 10-speed transmission using Class A tractors.

At the completion of training, the student will demonstrate at his or her local Motor Vehicle Administration office to obtain a Class B license.

These traffic signs are confusing. We want to go the right way, but how do we know which way that is?

For all we know about reading traffic signs, there are still times when we make a wrong turn. Our lives can feel the same way. We think we have a read on all our problems, yet there are times when our differing aims and directions create stress, tension, and conflict.

Wouldn't it be great if everything flowed in the "right" direction?! God can be the key to improvement here. From the Golden Rule to the Good Samaritan, we gain positive insights from Him; the Good Shepherd who provides a sense of spiritual direction.

God provides excellent directions for all who are going His Way. Explore His path at your house of worship this week!

Work Out Your Salvation with Diligence

Most of us probably spend more time each day thinking about and preparing our daily meals than we do thinking about where and how we will spend eternity. These relatively minor concerns of the day, from what we will eat, to what we will wear, and generally, how we will maximize our pleasures and minimize our pain and suffering, have a tendency to crowd out the more important, spiritual concerns. If we spend more time thinking about eating than about our salvation, perhaps this is merely a reflection of the fact that we value our stomachs more than we do our souls. And, if we spend more time fantasizing about our material possessions than we do about our spiritual ones, then again, this is merely a reflection of where our treasure is. All great religious figures have reminded us of this. Jesus warned: "Do not lay up for yourselves treasures of the earth, where moth and rust consume and where thieves break in and steal, but lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust consumes and where thieves do not break in and steal. For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also." (Matthew 6:19-21) Consider too, the last words of Buddha, which could just as well have been uttered by Jesus: "All compounded things are impermanent. Work out your own salvation with diligence." And finally, consider the advice of Paul to "work out your own salvation with fear and trembling," i.e., humbly and with complete dependence to God. (Philippians 2:12)

For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whoever believes in Him should not perish but have everlasting life.
New K.J.V. John 3:16

Lycopene Supplementation & BPH

Lycopene is found in several foods, particularly tomatoes and tomato-based products. It is a natural pigment that provides color to various fruits and vegetables. Lycopene is part of a group of compounds called carotenoids. These compounds exhibit antioxidant activity, which reduces damage to body cells. Lycopene has been shown to exhibit antioxidant activity in animal and laboratory studies. Study results in humans, however, have shown mixed results.

One recent study evaluated the effect of lycopene supplementation on benign prostatic hyperplasia (BPH). This is a condition in which the prostate gland becomes enlarged and leads to difficult urination. It commonly occurs in men over the age of 50. In this study, 40 study subjects received either lycopene 15 mg daily or a placebo. At the end of six months, those who received lycopene had significantly less enlargement of the prostate gland and fewer symptoms of BPH than those who received the placebo pills. There have been no reports of any serious side effects with usual doses of lycopene.

'Trees' shaken out: Anne Heche series over

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Q: What happened to "Men in Trees"? –Lynn Wilkerson, Des Moines, Wash.

A: ABC has been playing off the remaining episodes of the Anne Heche series on recent Wednesdays, but it won't be back next season. Things were shaky for the show as early as spring last year, when it was replaced on Thursdays by "October Road," which fared better than expected and delayed the return of "Men in Trees." (Ironically, "Road" is now canceled, too.) During the past season, "Trees" was on again, then off again; that clearly didn't help, and now, it's literally a done deal.

Q: In the first "That's Entertainment!" movie, a very young Elizabeth Taylor was featured singing a song about spring. May I know the full title of the song, its composer and if it is included in any CD available for purchase? I have the "That's Entertainment!" soundtrack, but that particular tune is not featured. –Victoria Ungson, Santa Clara, Calif.

A: It's "Melody of Spring," from a film that generally isn't regarded as a Taylor classic, the 1947 comedy-drama "Cynthia." It was written by Hans Engelmann, and we can't find any trace of a soundtrack from that movie being released, either "back in the day" or more recently during the CD revolution (when many vintage soundtracks either have been reissued or released for the first time).

Q: Please settle a family bet. We are trying to verify if the young lady playing Chloe on "The Young and the Restless" is Leslie Leighton, the actress from "Melrose Place." –John Pride, Dallas

Anne Heche

A: It's actually Laura Leighton, and no, that's not her. Elizabeth Hendrickson, previously a daytime regular on "All My Children," is playing the part of Chloe.

Q: I am a big fan of "Matlock," and I watch all the reruns. How many different actresses played the title character's daughter? –Leila Johnston, Frankenmuth, Mich.

A: Two. Linda Purl played Charlene, Andy Griffith's younger daughter and fellow lawyer, during the show's first season on NBC, then Brynn Thayer played elder daughter Leanne, also an attorney, for a couple of years in the mid-'90s, after the series had moved to ABC. Thayer had a different role in a "Matlock" episode before she joined the show as a regular.

Q: Is Richard Thomas of "The Waltons" fame the spokesman for Mercedes-Benz? –Susan Herbert, Aliso Viejo, Calif.

A: Yes, that's him.

On Dean's List At Allegany Coll.

Twelve local residents were named to the Allegany College of Maryland dean's list for the spring 2008 semester, Dr. Bruce Exstrom, ACM vice president of instructional affairs, announced.

To be eligible for the dean's list, a student must earn a 3.8 grade point average or higher on a 4.0 scale and be enrolled in five or more semester hours of course work.

The local students named to the spring semester dean's list are as follows:

Mariel E. Hady, Bittinger; Bethani N. Gillum, Crystal L. Good, Baylee Martin-Selders, Ronald Richter, Kelly J. Stein, and Robin A. Winter, all of Grantsville; Brian M. Covell, McHenry; Jodi M. Roberson, Mtn. Lake Park; Stephanie A. Disimone and Victoria J. Phillips, both of Oakland; and Sara E. Parks, Swanton.

Correction Noted

In last week's edition of The Republican, it was stated in a headline that Laura "Sue Ann" Bell made the president's list at Alderson-Broaddus College for the fifth straight year. She actually made the list for five straight semesters. She also maintained a 4.0 GPA instead of a 3.0.

MAKE SENSE OF REAL ESTATE VOCABULARY

Q. What is the MLS?

A. MLS stands for Multiple Listing Service, which is a provider for agencies to exchange listing information with one another in a uniform format. This allows a listing to be marketed to all of the participating agencies in the area on a real time basis.

There are rules and regulations that govern how and when listings are entered, as well as the information that is provided with each listing. All of this information is kept in a large database that is accessible to brokers and realtors who are members of the MLS. The MLS enables both parties to search for homes using general criteria, such as number of bedrooms, baths, garage, and acreage, or very detailed searches to include size, style, exterior finish, view, development, location, etc. The results containing detailed information – as well as photographs – can be e-mailed as a link to prospective clients.

This is one advantage of working with a realtor. He or she has the ability to get the information to you as soon as it becomes available, as opposed to other advertising methods.

Q. Why do some listings say "home warranty?"

A. This means that the seller has purchased, or is offering, a home warranty on the house and it will be transferred to the purchaser at closing. The coverage is usually for one year from closing. There are numerous warranty companies that offer this service, and the coverage varies. The cost usually starts at $399, and increases depending on the size of home and coverage selected. There are usually deductibles per claim, and pre-existing problems are not normally covered. The warranty can quickly pay for itself if the heating or cooling system fails.

Several companies make the coverage available to sellers at no cost until the home is sold. If you have a claim during the listing term, some companies provide coverage, even though you have not paid for the warranty. This is a very good choice when listing a home to protect from unforeseen problems. It also offers an incentive to purchasers, making your home a little more attractive.

Warranties can be renewed yearly, and are available for most homes even if they are not for sale. For more information on warranties, persons are encouraged to call or visit a local real estate agency.

We extend a compassionate helping hand.

Salem To Salem Ride Slated For Next Saturday

The sixth annual Salem to Salem Millennium Ride will begin at 5 a.m. on Saturday, June 28. This event is organized by the Western Maryland Watchmen of the Christian Motorcyclist Association (CMA) and benefits the Salem Children's Trust, located near Avilton.

The ride is more than 1,000 miles long. Each year, participants ride their motorcycles to some Salem city that is at least 500 miles away from the children's trust and back again, usually within the same day. Event organizer Terry Russell refers to this as a "low volume, high commitment ride." Each rider is asked to raise a minimum of $100 for the children.

"We don't get as many riders as a lot of typical rides, but we hope to raise at least $5,000," Russell said.

Riders who complete the event in under 24 hours qualify to become members in the Iron Butt Association. Russell notes, however, there is no need to complete the ride within 24 hours to benefit Salem. Organizers instruct the riders not to have donations be contingent upon completing the ride, because that could encourage a rider to go beyond his or her safety limits.

The Iron Butt Association and Salem ride organizers stress safety.

"This is an endurance event for seasoned, experienced riders," Russell said. "Riders need to know their limits and are responsible for their own safety. The object is not to go fast; the object is to keep going. There are no awards for finishing first; it is not even recognized."

Additionally, the Salem Millennium Ride is not a race.

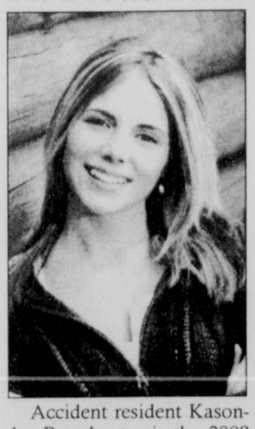
"This is not about speed, it is about endurance and using good sense," said Glenn Emerick, fellow Millennium rider and president of the western Maryland CMA chapter.

Salem Millennium Ride organizers are still finding different Salem cities to travel to each year. But sometimes they do not take the most direct route in order to keep the total mileage over 1,000 miles.

The riders have been to Salem cities in South Carolina, Indiana, New York, Kentucky, and Michigan. This year they will travel to Salem, N.C., if weather and safety conditions permit. Organizers reserve the right to change the destination or the date at the last minute if they feel it is necessary for rider safety.

Those interested in participating in the Salem Millennium Ride are asked to contact Russell at 301- 729-0173 or trnssellcma@hotmail.com. Persons who want to support the event may give donations to a rider or directly to the Salem Children's Trust.

Scholarship Awarded To K. Broadwater



Accident resident Kasondra Broadwater is the 2008 recipient of the Donna Jennings Garman Scholarship. Broadwater graduated earlier this month from Northern High School and will attend Garrett College this fall as a secondary education major.

The intent of the Donna Jennings Garman Scholarship is to honor a graduating senior who exhibits "character, integrity, and a willingness to help others."

The scholarship is funded by Jamie Nicklin-Cicali, daughter of Donna Garman, who resides in Charlotte, N.C., with her husband Marc. Garman currently resides in Keyser, W.Va., with her husband Charles.

READY FROM SALEM TO SALEM – The sixth annual Salem to Salem Millennium Ride will begin at 5 a.m. next Saturday, June 28. Organized by the Western Maryland Watchmen chapter of the Christian Motorcyclist Association, the event benefits the Salem Children's Trust. Participants will ride from Salem to Salem, N.C., and back again, logging more than 1,000 miles. See story. Pictured are Terry Russell, Salem Millennium Ride organizer, and Glenn Emerick, president of the Western Maryland Watchmen.

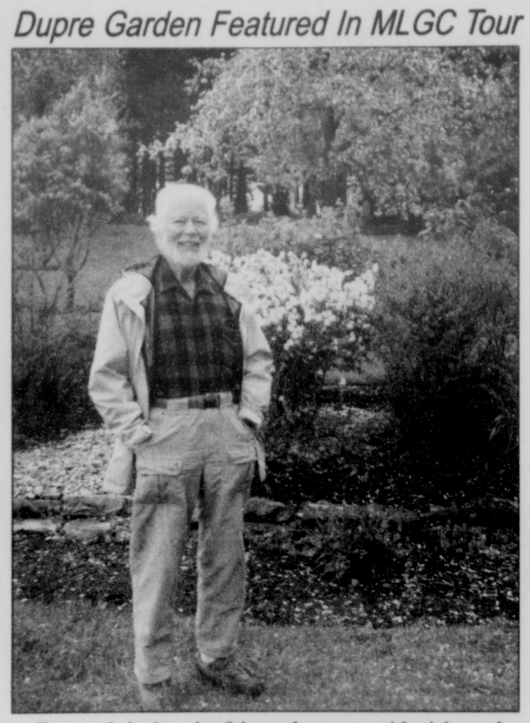
Dupre Garden Featured In MLGC Tour



Featured during the 8th annual Secret Country Gardens tour sponsored by the Mountain Laurel Garden Club will be "Woodhill" at the home of Vladimir Dupre. The tour is slated for June 28 from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. Two other private property gardens will be on the circuit this year.

Woodhill was designed and executed in collaboration with Rick and Diana Cropp, owners of Maple Lane Nursery, and is an arboretum with eight sculptural spaces, or "rooms," where trees and shrubbery provide a framework for flower accents.

During the past 22 years, Dupre has observed many permutations while experimenting in the garden, and said he has learned what works for him and for nature.

"It's an expression of my love of nature, creative energies, and enjoyment of hard, physical labor," he said. "I particularly like odd shapes, various textures, unusual trees, and in the last few years, dwarf conifers."

A recently acquired sculpture, "What Would I Give You," designed for the site, is featured in one "room." Dupre describes the structure as "delightfully provocative."

Visitors to this extensive garden will view his "quiet room," where the owner relaxes under a large maple tree overlooking the Potomac River valley.

Tickets for the tour, which include a short description of each garden, a map, and written directions, may be purchased in advance at six locations: Gregg's Pharmacy, Green Acres Garden Center, and Buds to Blooms, all Oakland; Nature's Own, Sang Run Road, McHenry; Annie's Restaurant, Accident; and Beachy's Pharmacy, Grantsville.

On the day of the tour, members of the Garrett County Historical Society will sell tickets at the Gazebo in Oakland. The cost of a ticket is $7. Tickets for raffle prizes will be available on the day of the tour, as will be refreshments. There will also be a perennial sale.

Proceeds from the tour will be used by the Mountain Laurel Garden Club for the continued beautification of local communities as well as the encouragement, through club activities and programs, of gardening and sound conservation practices.

A portion of the proceeds will be donated to the Garrett County Historical Society.

For more information about the tour, persons may contact Kathie Smith at 301334-3249 or log on to www.mountainlaurelgardenclub.org.

The Mountain Laurel Garden Club is a member of the National Garden Clubs Inc., the Central Atlantic Region, and the Federated Garden Clubs of Maryland Inc.

Hits Curb While Turning; Charged With DUI/DWI

An Oakland man was arrested by Garrett County sheriff's deputies following a single-vehicle accident Monday evening.

Deputies responded to Gorman Road, Loch Lynn, for the accident. Russell Dillsworth, 34, was operating a 2005 Dodge Ram truck on Maryland Highway, when he attempted to pass a vehicle on the eastbound shoulder.

His vehicle struck the eastbound bridge curb, puncturing both passenger tires. He was located with his vehicle on Gorman Road. Investigation of the accident led to charges of driving while intoxicated and driving while impaired.

Dillsworth was released after seeing a District Court commissioner.

Medbank Covers Prescription Bills For The Uninsured

Garrett County residents who are chronically ill and require daily medications, but do not have prescription coverage through private insurance or Medicaid, may qualify for assistance through the Garrett County Medbank Program. To participate in the program, a person must also meet the financial guidelines set by each pharmaceutical company.

Angela Lucas is coordinating this program for local residents through the Garrett County Health Department's Adult Evaluation and Review Services (AERS).

"On behalf of lower income, uninsured or underinsured patients we apply to drug manufacturers to obtain medications at no or low cost to the patient," stated Lucas. "The drug companies determine final eligibility based on income and asset information provided."

Referral are accepted from the individual, physician, or concerned agency representative. AERS personnel then visit the applicant to determine eligibility for Medbank, as well as other community programs. Applicants will be required to submit detailed income and asset information for the household and must supply documentation to Medbank along with prescription information.

The Medbank coordinator manages the application process, which includes a financial needs questionnaire. When a physician's signature is needed, the application will be forwarded to the physician's office and then mailed to the pharmaceutical company along with the prescription. The total process can take up to 6 to 8 weeks.

Those seeking more information may call Angela Lucas at 301-334-7742 or 301-895-3113.

Farming On The Mountaintop

Young Sheep Owner Featured In Publication

Local teenager Kim Cogley was featured in the summer 2008 edition of Out Here; Living & Loving the Good Life magazine for her hobby and dedication to raising Navajo churro sheep.

Cogley, 13, owns two sheep – Arctic, a donated Navajo churro ewe, and Norman, a young Navajo ram she bought.

One of 50 applicants, Cogley recently received the chance to participate with 16 other teens in the Youth Conservationist Program, which helps youth participate in the conservation of heritage wool sheep breeds by linking young people with the owners of heritage breeds. She says she hopes her two sheep will be the foundation of her own heritage flock, as stated in the article.

The program, developed 10 years ago by Virginia residents Richard and Donna Larson, also helps promote lesser-known breeds like Cogley's Navajo churro, which is the oldest breed in the United States.

Cogley and her sheep live on her family's 4-acre farm in Swanton. She is the daughter of Norman, for whom she named her ram, and Donna Cogley.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• The next time you're in New York City and feel like indulging yourself, you might want to consider stopping by the Wall Street Burger Shoppe. That's the fine establishment where you can purchase the city's most decadent — and expensive — hamburger. This luxury starts with a pure Kobe beef patty and is topped with aged Gruyere chesse, wild mushrooms, black truffles and foie gras, and the brioche bun is topped with flecks of gold leaf. The price tag for this extravagant indulgence? $175.

• It was 17th-century Spanish writer Baltasar Gracian who made the following sage observation: "It is better to sleep on things beforehand than lie awake about them afterwards."

• If you're like the average American, you eat roughly 17 pounds of potato chips every year.

• If you've ever been laid off work, you know what a terrible experience it can be. Imagine, though, how much more traumatic it could have been if your erstwhile employer didn't even have the decency to tell you in person. That's exactly what Radio Shack did a couple of years ago, firing 400 of its employees via e-mail.

• Do you have a matutinal routine? Unless you're a hard-core night owl, you probably do. "Matutinal" simply refers to something that occurs in the morning.

• At one time, the game checkers was known as "chess for ladies."

• If you're a man who shaves his face every day, you can figure that at an average of 10 minutes per shave, you spend 60 hours every year with a razor in your hand.

• On June 29, 1613, the Globe Theater, where most of Shakespeare's plays debuted, burns down. The Globe was built in 1599 from the timbers of London's very first permanent theater, Burbage's Theater, built in 1576. The galleries could seat about 1,000 people, with room for another 2,000 "groundlings," who could stand on the ground around the stage.

• On June 28, 1857, Emerson Hough, one of the most successful writers of adventure novels of the Romantic Western genre, is born in Newton, Iowa. One of his most popular works, "The Covered Wagon" (1922), established many of the conventions of the genre that continue to be popular today.

• On June 27, 1922, the American Library Association awards the first Newbery Medal, honoring the year's best children's book, to "The Story of Mankind" by Hendrik Willem van Loon. The award was named for John Newbery, the 18th-century English bookseller and author who was considered the father of children's literature.

• On June 26, 1948, U.S. and British pilots begin delivering food and supplies by airplane to Berlin after the city is isolated by a Soviet Union blockade. By July 15, an average of 2,500 tons of supplies was being flown into the city every day with planes landing every four minutes around the clock.

• On June 25, 1967, the Beatles record "All You Need Is Love" in front of an international television audience. The three-minute version recorded on the TV show however, was cut down to four minutes for release as a single.

• On June 24, 19[illegible], comedian, actor and musician Jackie Gleason dies. He was one of TV's most popular stars in a number of shows, including "The Honeymooners" and "The Jackie Gleason Show," which ran throughout most of the 1950s and '60s.

Signs of Illness in Hamsters

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: One of my pet hamsters died just a week after I got it at the pet store. I would really like to know why it died, because the pet store would not tell me. The only clue I have is that it had a wet tail before it died. I'd like to get another hamster, but how do I know if I'm getting a healthy pet from the store? — Hamster Lover

DEAR HAMSTER LOVER: That's an important question, and one all potential hamster owners should pay attention to. Many, if not all, pet stores have "as is" policies regarding hamsters and other very small pets like goldfish, because so many of them fall ill or die soon after being purchased. But you certainly don't want to bring home a hamster that's already sick — not only are you stuck with trying to make it well, but the illness can quickly spread among your other hamsters.

When purchasing a new hamster, look for these telltale signs of illness or injury:

—Wet tail (indicates diarrhea, a clear symptom of illness or worms)
—Lethargic, with dull eyes
—Huddles in one corner for a long time, doesn't respond quickly to being picked up or petted
—Runny nose and watery eyes
—Rough, matted or patchy fur
—Bites or scratches from other hamsters

If you notice any of these signs, don't buy that hamster, and notify store management so that it can isolate the sick hamsters from the healthy ones.

I also recommend that anyone wanting to keep a hamster collect as much information on caring for these small pets as possible. A smaller pet is not necessarily an easier pet to keep — it depends entirely upon you for its health and welfare.

Collecting

Q. I have a bobbing-head figurine that was issued in 1961 to promote the Dallas Cowboys. It is in its original box and "mint." I have been offered $500, but wanted to check with you before I made a decision. — Ken, Albuquerque, N.M.

A. Bobbing Head Dolls 1960-2000, by Tim Hunter (Krause, $19.95), is one of the more user-friendly guides for collectors. According to Hunter, your figurine is worth about $3,000 in mint condition.

Q. I have several newspapers from the 1940s, including a New York Daily Mirror from 1945 and the New York Herald Tribune announcing the death of President Roosevelt. How much are they worth? — Janis, Mesquite, Nev.

A. Most World War II newspapers are fairly common and generally sell in the $5 to $15 range, depending on both the headlines and content. For a second opinion, you might want to contact a dealer who specializes in vintage newspapers. Two who have built good reputations with collectors are Timothy Hughes, P.O. Box 3636, Williamsport, PA 17701; and Steve Goldman, P.O. Box 359, Parkton, MD 21120. Mark Mitchell is a certified appraiser. His address is 3002 Winter Pine Court, Fairfax, VA 22031.

Q. I am writing in regard to red glass dishes originally sold by Montgomery Ward at least 30 or 40 years ago. Where do you think I can find a set? — Jen, Sioux Falls, S.D.

A. One of the better china search companies is Replacements, P.O. Box 26029, Greensboro, NC 27428; and 1-800-737-5223. Be prepared for sticker shock, since discontinued china patterns sometimes can be quite pricy.

Beautification Committee Offers Preview Of Alpine House Tour

The Alpine Lake Beautification Committee will host its annual Leisure Living House Tour next Sunday, June 28, from 1 to 5 p.m. at Alpine Lake Resort, located on Alpine Lake Road off Route 7 between Oakland and Terra Alta.

Nestled in the Appalachian Mountains of West Virginia, the community was formed to retain as much of the wildness of the surroundings as possible in a residential community.

The center of the community is a 154-acre lake fed by artesian wells and streams, which provides recreational opportunities for residents and guests. The lake is surrounded by an 18-hole golf course, a lodge with a restaurant and other amenities, and over 450 homes, five of which will be open for visitors during the tour.

Each of the open homes is distinctive in style featuring designs that harmonize with the natural settings to provide spectacular views of the surrounding mountains, forests and lake, according to a committee spokesperson. A brief overview of each of the open homes is as follows:

LIVING LEISURELY WITHIN LOGS – Joan and George Evans will open their log house, pictured above, to the annual Leisure Living House Tour, hosted by the Alpine Lake Beautification Committee, on Sunday, June 28. The tour will take place from 1 to 5 p.m. at Alpine Lake Resort. See story.

• The home of Skip and Dottie Creamer was built in 2002 by Rick Connor of Lenox, W.Va. It has unobstructed views of the lake, lodge, golf course, tennis courts, and the old ski slope. The two-level home has recently undergone renovation of the lower level.

• The Jeff Daugherty home was built in 2003 by Homes For All Seasons.

"The mountain views on the outside and the art work of family and friends on the inside make this a very special home to tour," the spokesperson said.

• Joan and George Evans' log home began in 1985 as a Hearthstone, and was constructed by Grove Construction. Alterations to the house were done in 1999 by Homes For All Seasons and again in 2006 by Rustiques to create the existing house. The home features a screened porch, a deck with a hot tub, and a finished lower level with an office and sewing room.

• Barbara Horne's home is known as "Horneytoad's Lilly Pad" because her son gifted her a sign that included her late husband's nickname. The two-level open floor plan home that Grove Construction built on two sloping lots features four generations of artwork, collectibles, photos, and furniture.

• Barb and Frank Ross said they wanted their second Alpine Lake home to be practical and easy to maintain, as well as beautiful, so they purchased a Castle Homes of PA modular home from American Homes of Morgantown to meet their needs. The home has a finished lower level and an attic storage area to supplement the main living area. They said their home easily accommodates their pets and the hobbies they enjoy now that they are retired.

There will be a raffle of a handmade item created by an Alpine Lake resident at each house on the tour, with proceeds of the raffle donated to the Terra Alta Ambulance Service. Refreshments will be served to those attending at the Alpine Lake Boathouse.

Home tour tickets are available at the Alpine Lake Lodge for $10 each. Each ticket includes a $1 discount that may be used any time for a meal at the Alpine Lake Restaurant.

The proceeds from the tour will benefit the Beautification Committee, which completes projects around the community to enhance its natural beauty.

Other sponsors of the event include Homes For All Seasons, Snowy Creek Builders, Clutter Realty, Gregg's Pharmacy, BB&T Bank, and Bob Burket/Rent-a-Hubby, Rustiques, Clear Mountain Bank, Patrick Kane of Coldwell Banker/Deep Creek Realty, Utterback Mountain Properties, and Dusk to Dawn.

Thank You

We want to thank everyone for all their love and support during the illness and passing of our loved one, Danny Benson. Thanks to all for the wonderful cards & flowers, the good food and mostly the love and support of our church family and friends. Thank you for making our time of grief a little easier.

We also want to thank the Arthur Wright Funeral Home and Rev. Michael L. Daniels for the beautiful service. Also, thanks for the nice service from the VFW Post 578. If we've forgotten anybody, we are sincerely thankful for your love and support. Again, we are forever grateful.

Ridgeview Valley

The new Ridgeview Valley Community has slated its grand opening for Saturday, June 28. The village-style community is located just off Rt. 219 in McHenry.

In 1911, the Harvey family established a dairy farm on land that was lush with trees. Many of the trees had to be removed to accommodate the 200 head of cattle the family brought to the farm. As the farm flourished, it gained a reputation for the maple syrup produced from the maple trees on the farm and the horse feed the fertile land produced.

Today the site of that farm is known as Ridgeview Valley, and the Harvey family who developed it is remembered by the preservation of the family home which will eventually become the residence of the manager of the home owners association.

Sharing a vision to create a community in the Deep Creek Lake area, three husband and wife teams of investors worked together to create and develop the concept of Ridgeview Valley. Ridgeview Valley offers an environmental friendly, planned community and home sites beginning at approximately one-half acre in a 308 acre setting.

"Ridgeview is designed for people who enjoy an active lifestyle," said Sandy Bello, director for Ridgeview. "You'll even be able to take the kids to the indoor pool in the community center, which also includes an exercise facility, party room, and a private massage sanctuary."

There are miles of hiking and biking offered on several cross-country trails. Also available are tennis, basketball, and volleyball courts, as well as a playground and multipurpose field. Guests may also enjoy a musical performance or organized entertainment in the outdoor amphitheater. For those looking for some relaxation, there is a lounge and a reading room.

"Ridgeview Valley is located on some of the most beautiful land you have ever seen," said Christie Barbone, Lakeside Title. "It feels hidden from the world, peaceful and tranquil."

Located less than five miles from Wisp Resort, Deep Creek Lake, and various shopping and services, Ridgeview allows a relaxing atmosphere, while not far from entertainment.

"Ridgeview is a planned village-style community in harmony with – not competition with – the natural beauty surrounding Deep Creek Lake," said Bello. "The ideal second home provides the perfect setting for pursuing your outdoor passions while getting to know your neighbors and enjoying family and friends.

Those seeking more information about Ridgeview Valley Community may visit its web site at www.ridgeviewvalley.com.

RIDGEVIEW VALLEY OPENS – The Harvey family dairy farm, established in 1911, will officially be open and known as Ridgeview Valley, an environmentally friendly, planned community with home sites beginning at approximately one-half acre in a 308-acre setting. The original farmhouse was built in the late 1800s, and it was restored as the Ridgeview Valley sales office and eventual home of the Ridgeview Valley Home Owner Association manager. See story for details.

Local Resident Seeks New Toys For Charity Drive

Local resident and member of the Cumberland Marine Corps Chuck Nolan is collecting toys for the fourth annual Marine Corps Reserve "Toys for Tots" charity fundraiser, which includes a motorcycle drive. It is Nolan's second year of involvement with the drive.

Nolan is asking individuals to donate a new, unwrapped toy for children who are less fortunate.

"You can help some less fortunate children have a very merry Christmas," Nolan said. "If you would like to participate, give your toy to me before June 22."

The date of the motorcycle ride is June 22, and will start at the Hen House, located on Route 40. Those who wish to ride should meet at the Oakland American Legion at 10:30 a.m.

For more information, persons may call Nolan at 301-334-3096.

Garrett County Studio Artist Tour Weekend To Take Place June 28, 29

Artists of Garrett County, in conjunction with the Garrett County Arts Council, are inviting the community to visit the working artists' studios on Saturday and Sunday, June 28 and 29, in a countywide tour.

Area studios will be open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. both days. Artists will be discussing and demonstrating their crafts, inviting and answering questions regarding their artistic process and the business of making art, and will sell their hand-crafted artworks.

The tour is free and will feature pottery, jewelry, weaving, fused and stained glass, furniture, photography, woodcarving, sculpture, painting, collage, and printmaking.

"The beauty of Garrett County often appears in the work of our artists. It may be the mountains, the lake, the farmlands, or a simple butterfly," said planning committee member Julie Turrentine. "As you make your way from studio to studio, you will agree that inspiration comes easily sometimes just looking out of your window."

Although there are 20 artists involved, there are just 12 stops on the studio tour. Some artists will set up shop as guests in other artists' studios.

"My studio is the out-of-doors and wherever my camera takes me," said nature photographer Caroline Blizzard. "I am set up to travel with framed and matted photography but no real place to show it at my home. Teaming up with Julie Turrentine of Snowbird Creations Glass Studio has proven to not only be fun for me, but also for the visitor who gets one-stop shopping and demonstrations."

Digital photographer Roger Lueck will do the same, and share a space at furniture maker Bob Newman's workshop.

Potter Pam Snyder and painter Eric Smith will set up alongside Alan and Sue Arnson at the Loft Shop near Bittinger.

"Eric Smith and Sue Arnson have taken classes and worked together in both watercolor and printmaking, so to see their artwork side by side will be educational as well as pleasing," said Natalie Atherton, an arts council

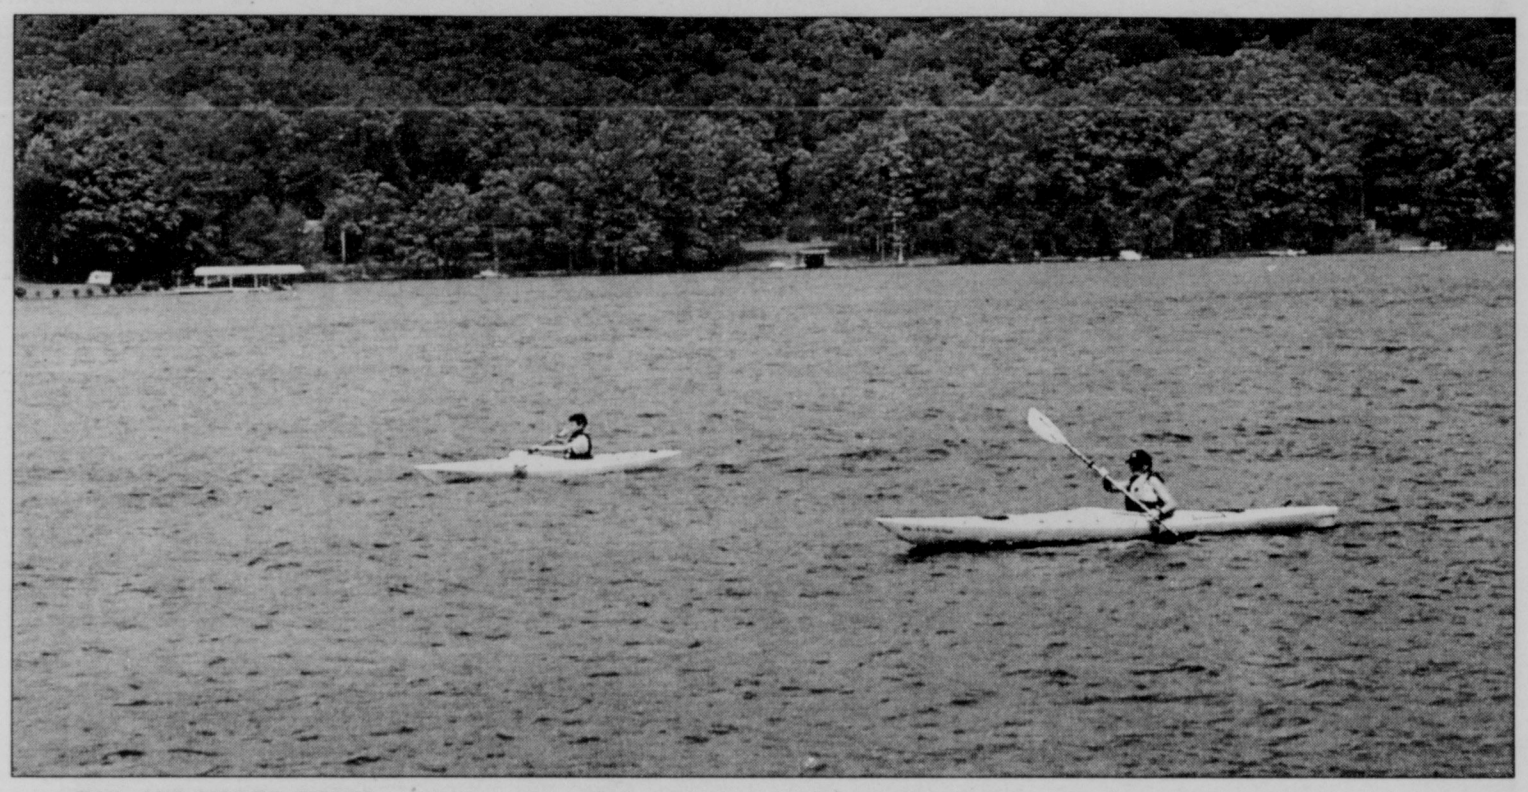
Summer Nears And Farmers' Markets Open



SAIL AND MOTOR BOATS aren't the only craft that can be enjoyed on the surface of Deep Creek Lake, as flat-water kayaking is also popular. Kayaks and canoes are available for rent at several locations in the county.

The near arrival of summer has welcomed back the popular outdoor Mountain Fresh Produce Farmers' Markets in Oakland and McHenry, where local vendors sell everything from produce and honey to candles, artisan items, and hand-made articles of clothing. For more visibility, the McHenry Farmers' Market has moved from its previous location at the Garrett County Fairgrounds to the parking area of the Visitors Center.

"We have moved it up the street a little bit at the Visitor's Center parking lot on Visitors Center Drive," said Cheryl DeBerry, agriculture marketing specialist for Garrett County Economic Development. "There was nothing wrong with the former location; we just think this will be more visible."

Opening day for the McHenry market will be Thursday, June 19, and it will be open on Mondays and Thursdays from 4:30 to 6 p.m. until Aug. 28.

"Having the market on Monday and Thursday evenings will allow people leaving work to stop by the market on their way home," said Lori Schmuck, a vendor at the McHenry Farmers' Market. "They can have the freshest vegetables and baked goods in the county on their tables that evening."

The McHenry market is fairly new compared the familiar Oakland market, located in the Mountain Fresh Pavilion, which is open Wednesdays and Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. until Oct. 29.

After practically 20 years, DeBerry says the Oakland market continues to be a success.

CELEBRATING INDEPENDENCE DAY is always a blast in Garrett County – literally. A great way to conclude a day of cookouts, swimming, and games is by attending the annual – and free – July 4th concert of the Garrett Community Concert Band under a huge tent at Garrett College. The 40-piece band, conducted by Moe Turrentine, presents a variety of patriotic marches, show tunes, jazz, and other musical genre, at the conclusion of which is a fireworks display from atop Marsh Mountain. The concert, which will begin at 7:30 p.m., is sponsored by Sincell Publishing Company, publishers of The Republican newspaper. The Garrett County Chamber of Commerce and a number of local businesses sponsor the fireworks. The college grounds offer an excellent vantage point from which to watch the display. There will also be a fireworks display at Broadford Park on July 3, sponsored by the town of Oakland and various businesses.

"fanciful comedy that champions the virtues of kindness and affection in a world largely motivated by greed and dishonesty."

The troupe travels to a different town each day, performing for hundreds of people. Every day the teenagers erect and strike nearly two tons of tent, pack and unpack four truck loads of equipment, prepare their meals, and participate in family meetings and daily devotions.

The teens and their assisting adults present two shows each day: the matinee for children and the full-length evening presentation.

"Troupers and staff experience life as a family, loving, caring, sharing and giving as an expression of their faith in Jesus Christ. They share their 'ministry by example' with all they meet along the road," a spokesperson said.

"The shows are carefully selected with the intention of making audiences think about some of the basic questions encountered in life," said the spokesperson. "The plays focus on people who, by their lifestyles, make you consider challenging questions as you leave our tent."

Tent Troupe's local visit is being sponsored by St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Oakland. For more information, persons may contact the church office at 301-334-2668. The Tent Troupe web site is www.tenttroupe.org.

"Civil Rights: Taking A Stand" Is Theme Of 2008 Chautauqua

Chautauqua, the annual living history program of the Maryland Humanities Council, returns to Garrett College in McHenry for four consecutive evenings in July, beginning July 5. This year's theme is "Civil Rights: Taking a Stand" with portrayals of Martin Luther King Jr., Malcolm X, Rosa Parks, and George Wallace.

Held under a tent on the Garrett College lawn, each evening's program will begin at 7 p.m. with entertainment by local musicians, followed by the evening's featured performer at 7:30 p.m. Though admission to each program is free, contributions will be accepted to help offset program costs.

Each evening, an actor or scholar will portray one of the aforementioned historical characters, adopting the character's style, mannerisms, accent, and fashion of dress. After each historical portrayal, the performer will answer audience questions — first in character, then as a scholar of the character portrayed.

On July 5, following an opening performance by the Mountain Top Dixieland Band, Professor Lenneal Henderson of the University of Baltimore will portray Martin Luther King Jr., a seminal figure in the civil rights movement. An inspiring leader and powerful orator, King was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize for his work, which eventually led to the landmark Voting Rights Act of 1965 and to the end of segregation in the South. Professor Henderson, who is quite active in promoting African-American history and culture, has also portrayed Thurgood Marshall on several occasions.

Classical and flamenco guitarist Dmitri Ostrogorsky will precede cultural historian Doug Mishler's portrayal of the controversial Alabama governor George Wallace on July 6. Infamous for his 1963 schoolhouse door proclamation of "segregation forever," Wallace was the symbol of southern resistance to civil rights, who nevertheless made peace with and gained the support of black leaders later in his career. Since 1995, Mishler has appeared at the Maryland Chautauqua as P.T. Barnum, Theodore Roosevelt, William Lloyd Garrison, Henry Ford, and Upton Sinclair.

The July 7 program will open with Hammers and Strings, playing traditional Appalachian music. That performance will be followed by actress Gwendolyn Briley-Strand's portrayal of Rosa Parks. Her arrest resulting from her refusal to give up her seat to a white passenger on a Montgomery, Ala., bus on Dec. 1, 1955, resulted in the 381-day Montgomery Bus Boycott and marked the beginning of the modern civil rights movement.

Briley-Strand, known for her portrayals of Parks, Harriet Tubman, and Sojourner Truth, has appeared at the White House, the Smithsonian, and the Kennedy Center, as well as museums, schools, and cultural organizations.

The barbershop quartet That's It! will lead off the July 8 program, followed by Charles Everett Pace's por-

MOUNTAIN LAUREL GARDEN CLUB READY TO HOST ANNUAL TOUR – The Mountain Laurel Garden Club's 8th annual garden tour, featuring four private home gardens in Garrett County, will take place on Saturday, June 28, from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. Members of the garden tour committee, which is chaired by Katharine Smith, have worked for many months to plan the event, which will feature three local private gardens. Features of the day will include conservation information, raffles, refreshments, and a perennial plant sale. Gardens on tour this year are those of Vladimir Dupré, Rita Liller, and Dorothy and David Tuel. Several members of the garden tour planning committee are pictured. Seated from left are Lynn Grimm, conservation chairman; Smith; Marjorie Carlino; and Dorothee Bittinger. Standing in the same order are Carolyn Crabtree, herbs committee chairman; Debra McCombs; and Barbara Chesley.

GARDEN CLUB TO RAFFLE HERB CHAIR – Two raffles will be held as part of the 8th annual Secret Country Gardens tour, sponsored by the Mountain Laurel Garden Club (MLGC) and slated for Saturday, June 28. The gardens of Dorothy and David Tuel (Si Innamoro), Vladimir Dupre (Woodhill), and Rita Liller (Tranquility Gardens) will be the tour stops this year. One of the raffle prizes will be a chair herb planter, similar to the one shown above. The other prize will be a book, The Perennial Gardener's Design Primer by Stephanie Cohen and Nancy Ondra. The "herb garden in a chair" meets the goals of the MLGC by promoting recycling and horticultural practices, a spokesperson noted. The Herb Committee of the club is preparing the chair to be filled with plants of lavender, thyme, sage, oregano, and dill, an assortment that may be used for cooking, potpourri, or simply enjoyed for the fragrance and visual beauty. The chair may be placed on a deck, porch, or any convenient spot in the yard or gardens where the herbs may be cut when needed. Known by many names throughout the horticultural world, writer Stephanie Cohen has taught herbaceous plants and perennial design at Temple University for more than 20 years. She was the speaker at the MLGC's June luncheon. Raffle tickets will be available the day of the tour. Further coverage of the event will be published next week. For information, persons may contact Kathie Smith at 301-334-3249 or log on to www.mountainlaurelgardenclub.org.

Borrow up to $2,000. Take up to a year to pay it back. Contact a loan officer for details. Applicants must meet eligibility requirements.

trayal of the charismatic and controversial Malcolm X. Malcolm X rose to prominence as a leading spokesman for the Nation of Islam, advocating black separation and non-engagement, though he later modified some of his more strident views and embraced orthodox Islam. Charles Everett Pace performs on a full-time basis at Chautauqua's and other events throughout the nation, having portrayed Langston Hughes, Frederick Douglass, Scott Joplin, and W.E.B. DuBois in addition to Malcolm X.

Chautauqua is a tradition in Garrett County that dates to the last years of the 19th century in Mountain Lake Park. Summer Chautauqua's of the era, featuring guest appearances by famous actors, performers, orators, and politicians, filled the town's circular Bashford Amphitheater and necessitated special excursion trains on the B&O line to accommodate the audiences.

This year's Chautauqua at McHenry is a presentation of the Maryland Humanities Council in association with Garrett College, Garrett Lakes Arts Festival, and the Garrett County Arts Council. Additional information is available by calling 301-387-3082 or 301-334-6580.

THE PRE-SHOW ON JULY 6 at this year's Chautauqua at Garrett College will be provided by Russian-born and trained Flamenco and classical guitarist Dmitry Ostrogorsky. Cultural historian Doug Mishler's portrayal of the controversial Alabama governor George Wallace will follow.

Welcome To Garrett Country Market

Years ago you could count on your local butcher to provide your family with the freshest meat products available. Perfectly aged and hand carved right in front of you to your exact specifications. The butcher took great care in the meat products he served his patrons because these were the same products he served his own family. Your butcher got to know you, your tastes and what you liked to eat. He would even give tips in how to prepare and serve the fresh quality products he sold you.

These local butcher traditions are alive and well at Garrett Country Market. A USDA slaughter / meat processing facility, butcher shop and country market. Nestled in the mountains of Garrett County in Western Maryland, we raise our animals on our farms and / or with our local family farm partners.

- Source Verification - We know where all livestock came from, how they were fed.* (both grass fed / finished and grain finished products available.)

The concert gets under way at the race track at 8 p.m. Church grew up in Granite Falls, N.C., and recalls being 4 years old, standing on a table at a local restaurant, and singing "Elvira" to a waitress and a handful of patrons who would reward him with change. Included on the CD are "Lightening," "Guys Like Me," and "Pledge Allegiance to the Hag," featuring Merle Haggard.

Oakland Churches Schedule Ecumenical Vacation Bible School

St. Peter's Catholic, St. Mark's Lutheran, and St. Paul's United Methodist churches in Oakland are now planning their Ecumenical Vacation Bible School. The school will be held Monday through Friday, July 28–Aug. 1, from 9 a.m. until 12:30 p.m.

The openings and closings will be held at St. Paul's, located at 4th and Oak streets, along with the younger classes, and older students will walk across the street to St. Peter's Sunday School building.

All students from 4 years old (on or before July 1) through those going into ninth grade are invited to attend.

"We encourage pre-registration so that there will be enough booklets, craft supplies, and snacks for your child," said Kathy Shaffer, VBS director.

Registration forms are available at the three churches and Shaffer Ford Sales Inc., Oakland.

Persons interested in assisting with the Bible school may call Shaffer at 301-334-5490 (home) or 301-334-2121 (work).

WALLEYE OF A LIFETIME – Randy McLeod reeled in this monster in April while fishing off his dock at Deep Creek Lake. The walleye weighed 8 pounds and was just over 30 inches long. McLeod said he was using a large minnow for bait. Rather than having it for dinner or mounted for hanging on his wall, McLeod threw the fish back, saying that he supports the idea of catch and release, especially with bigger fish. "I hope this one will pass along her genes and lay another million eggs in the lake," he said, adding that he does like to "keep a few smaller fish for the frying pan." Garrett County offers many wonderful places for fishing.

The dinners are prepared by Bittinger Mennonite Church families and are served in their homes to winning bidders.

Demonstrations will be held throughout the day at various locations on the fairgrounds. Visitors will see basket weaving, chair caning, ice-cream making, soap making, milking, and butter churning. A quilting demonstration will take place from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m. in the 4-H building.

Quilted items will be on display in the 4-H building from 8 a.m. until 1 p.m., at which time they will be taken down to be auctioned at 1:30 p.m. on the 4-H stage. Each year 20 king- or queen-size quilts are auctioned, as well as such smaller items as crib or wall quilts, table runners, and Christmas skirts. All items are hand quilted and locally made.

Food is also featured during the Country Fest. Breakfast will be served from 8 until 10 a.m. on the fairgrounds. The menu will include pancakes, sausage, biscuits, and gravy.

Lunch begins at 11 a.m. Visitors can stop by the "Sandwiches & Such" booth or the Lions Club pavilion, where they will find chicken barbecue dinners.

Additionally, funnel cakes, homemade ice cream, fresh raised doughnuts, and hand-rolled soft pretzels will be offered throughout the day.

Festival goers will also be able to shop. Crafts, homemade baked goods, handmade noodles, jams, jellies, gifts, cards, flowers, fruits, vegetables, and "wholesome" books will be sold.

The Country Fest and Auction is sponsored by the Bittinger Mennonite Church and School. Proceeds go toward church/school building and expansion projects. Ten percent of the revenue will also go to Christian Aid Ministries – a nonprofit Mennonite group headquartered in Berlin, Ohio – to minister to the "physical and spiritual needs of the world."

Approximately 2,200 visitors from various parts of the country, many of whom were from the Baltimore and Washington, D.C., area, attended the last Country Fest and Auction.

For more information about this year's event, persons may visit online at countryfest.org.

Town Of Oakland Ready To Rock With '08 Little Yough Summer Music Festival

Oakland Main Street and the town of Oakland have announced the 2008 summer schedule of the Little Yough Summer Music Festival. The concert series has been expanded to 10 Friday performances this year.

The series will begin on Friday, June 20, and will continue every Friday through Aug. 29 (with the exception of July 4th). The series, which highlights both local and national performers, was launched in 1996 by a group of local volunteers. Audience numbers have grown from a small group to more than 1,000 attendees each week, according to a spokesperson.

The concerts take place at the Mountain Fresh Pavilion in downtown Oakland, next to the Little Youghiogheny River. Each show will begin at 7 p.m. The concerts are free to the public. Guests are invited to bring blankets or lawn chairs, as seating is limited. Refreshments are available for sale.

The season will open on Friday, June 20, with singer/songwriter John Moossa from Richmond, Va. Moossa fronts a band of "seasoned veterans of the Richmond club scene," the spokesperson said. Their music includes the styles of reggae, blues, folk, and rock. The group's repertoire of original music is described as "lively, funky, dark, and fun."

On Friday, June 27, the Hillbilly Gypsies will take the stage. The West Virginia string band specializes in its own homegrown style of Appalachian old-time music with a bluegrass sound. In addition to playing original music, the Hillbilly Gypsies perform an eclectic mix of traditional bluegrass standards as well as old fiddle tunes.

Karen Collins and the Backroads Band will perform on Friday, July 11. One of the Washington, D.C., area's top retro honky-tonk groups, the Backroads Band plays classic country music. Its sound is described as "vintage country from the 1940s to the 1970s, plus original roots songs written in that early country style."

The band Swingtime will appear on Friday, July 18. Swingtime is a "big band" featuring sax, full brass, and rhythm sections as well as a vocalist. Primarily a swing band, the group's playlist includes classics as well as smooth jazz, ballads, waltzes, big band favorites, and tunes from Broadway.

The Dennis McClung Blues Band will return to the Little Yough stage on Friday, July 25. From Fairmont, W.Va., this group presents a hard-driving sound.

Raddy's New Orleans Second Line Band will take the stage on Friday, Aug. 1. The group will present New Orleans sounds, as well as international styles such as Latin, salsa, and others.

National Road will perform on Friday, Aug. 8. An acoustic music band, National Road is based in Frostburg, and is made up of the following instruments: guitar, mandolin, fiddle, resonator guitar, bass, and dobro, as well as vocals. National Road delivers a variety of music including bluegrass, country, classic rock, and Americana. The group's set list includes songs by the Rolling Stones, Willie Nelson, the Grateful Dead, Pink Floyd, Led Zeppelin, Flatt and Scruggs, and Ledbelly. The band also plays a number of original songs which are included on its debut CD.

THE HILLBILLY GYPSIES will be part of the Little Yough Summer Music Festival line-up, slated to appear on Friday, June 27, at the pavilion in Oakland. The West Virginia string band specializes in its own homegrown style of Appalachian old-time music with a bluegrass sound. See story.

Queen City Funk & Soul, a Cumberland based rhythm and blues soul band, will perform on Friday, Aug. 15. The well-known group plays a variety of soul, funk, and R&B selections from the estate appraiser. The common interest of the group is a love of music and enjoyment in performing the rollicking, fun, and toe tapping style of Dixieland Jazz.

Following the jazz performance, Professor Lenneal Henderson of the University of Baltimore will portray civil rights leader and orator Martin Luther King.

The Sunday, July 6, program will open with the performance by Dmitry Ostrogorsky, Russian-born and trained Flamenco and classical guitarist. Ostrogorsky started playing the guitar when he was 16 years old and has been playing for the last 14 years. Trained by the master Dmitry Goryachev, he creates his music on a handmade Russian guitar, crafted by Gorge K. Babichev.

He started teaching when he was 18, giving private lessons in Russia. "All of my students were successful in different ways, some publicly," he said. "I like to do this."

He played at the St. Petersburg Conservatory and at festivals before coming to America in 2002. He said he would like to teach eventually, but he wants to get his degree first and improve his language skills. He said he likes living in Garrett County, which he describes as "slightly softer" than Petersburg, and enjoys being a student at Garrett College.

Ostrogorsky's performance will be followed by that of cultural historian Doug Mishler portraying the controversial governor George Wallace in his initial resistance to and later confirmation of the civil rights movement.

The Monday, July 7, program will begin with indigenous Appalachian folk music performed by Hammers and Strings. The quartet features Roy Peterman playing bass, Scott Rush on fiddle, Chet Roth on guitar, and Betty Mattingly playing hammer dulcimer and autoharp. The quartet has performed together for 15 years and will entertain with old-time traditional polkas, blues, and Irish music, along with a sing-along song.

Actress Gwendolyn Briley-Strand will follow the musical performance with her portrayal of Rosa Parks, whose heroic refusal to give up her seat on the Montgomery, Ala., bus sparked the beginning of the modern civil rights movement.

Tuesday, July 8, will feature the barbershop quartet That's It! opening the evening. Formed in late 2005, That's It! is registered with the Barbershop Harmony Society. The foursome consists of members from the Allegany County and Clarksburg-Fairmont chapters of the society, and has competed on several occasions in the Mid-Atlantic District, which stretches from Virginia to New York City. Volunteers from the audience are hypnotized and then do "crazy and interesting things," a spokesperson said. DeLuca said he keeps it "PG rated." "Hypnosis is supposed to be a state where you are dealing directly with someone's imagination. You are bypassing their analytical facilities. You are basically influencing their behavior through suggestions and they are not critically analyzing," DeLuca said. He has appeared on Good Morning America, the CBS Morning Show, Dateline NBC, CNN, PBS, and many other national television and radio talk shows. For ticket information, persons may go online at www.artsandentertainment.org or call the GLAF office at 301-387-3082.

Hamlisch holds the position of principal pops conductor with the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra. He is also the pops conductor for the National Symphony (This is the first time that anyone has held such a position) and San Diego Symphony Orchestra. He said he believes in the power of music to bring people together.

"Music can make a difference. There is a global nature to music, which has the potential to bring all people together," Hamlisch said. "Music is truly an international language, and I hope to contribute by widening communication as much as I can."

Lawrence Loh was recently promoted to resident conductor of the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra starting in the 2007-2008 season and is entering his third season as music director of the Northeastern Pennsylvania Philharmonic. He was brought to national attention in February 2004 when he substituted last-minute for an ailing Charles Dutoit with the Dallas Symphony Orchestra. Conducting Stravinsky's Petrouchka and Berlioz's Symphonie Fantastique.

"Wisp Resort has generously offered rooms for the musicians, the performance venue, and financial support as part of the season sponsorship," Case noted. "Without Wisp Resort, these concerts just would not be happening."

Other season sponsors are Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty, First United Trust and Investments, Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, Sincell Publishing Company, and Total Biz Fulfillment.

Event sponsors for the symphony performances include Robert and Marcene Huebner, Ed King and Doug McClive, M&T Bank, Railey Realty, Charles A. Walch M.D., Lucinda Williams, and Sandra and Ihor Zakaluzny.

Sponsor partners for the PSO performances are Dr. Alan and Sue Arnson, Wendel and Ruth Beitzel, David A. Burdock Funeral Home P.A., the Carl Del Signore Foundation, Iris and Peter Halmos Private Foundation, Tom and Kathy Johnson, Margaret Kaiser, M.D. and Eric Tribbey, Paul and Willetta Mateer, Rebecca Rubenstein and Bennett Leaderman, Stewart Funeral Home, and Marvin Heise — the Four Seasons Restaurant at Will O' the Wisp.

In addition to the sponsors, large gifts and grants have been given by Audrey and Howard Naylor, the Garrett County Arts Council, the Maryland State Arts Council, Mid Atlantic Arts Foundation, National Endowment for the Arts, and Pennsylvania Performing Arts on Tour.

Gardening With Good Intentions

by Mandy Geisler

If increasing gas, electric, and food prices are straining your finances, now is a better time than ever to be proactive about it. Plant an organic garden and harvest your own vegetables, and you'll save money on gas usage to the store and the cost of overpriced produce. Not only do you know where your food is coming from, but you know what chemicals are not on your veggies.

Without writing a novel about organic gardening, I will share a few key components of converting an existing garden to organic, keeping it alive, and the benefits of organic farming. Besides sun and water, all you need for organic farming is non-genetically grown seeds.

If you already maintain a hearty garden but use chemicals pesticides and fertilizers, consider what you are putting into your mouth and leaving in the soil.

Chemical pesticides and fertilizers were developed after Word War II to improve farmers' economic prospects by reducing damage to food crops caused by bug invasions, rodents, and plant disease. These chemicals became popular among home gardeners because they made the job of growing food easy, but for whatever reason, people continue to ignore the fact that pesticides are poison – intended to kill insects, plants, and rodents – and create some risk to anything living, be it human or pet.

Instead of using nitrate-containing chemicals, combine products you already have around the house for healthy pest control. Fertilizers and chemicals from home lawns and gardens often end up polluting our creeks, rivers, and lakes during rainstorms and become harmful to wildlife and humans.

It's important to resist a bug genocide on your garden until you see what the insects are actually doing to the plants. Plants can outgrow minor damage, so before purchasing a cure-all synthetic pesticide, encourage the natural predators of plant insects to hunt in your garden. Consider investing in an army of ladybugs to help keep invaders at bay. Ladybugs, as well as frogs, lizards, and birds, eat aphids. Ladybugs may be bribed in with a bowl of water and plants with small blossoms like sweet alyssum and dill. The predators will feed on nectar in between main courses.

It sounds basic, but install a birdfeeder in your garden. Chickadees will eat aphids, while thrushes will gorge themselves on slugs and snails. Frogs are also partial to snails, but you'll need a pond if you want them to breed.

Keeping the soil healthy is key to reaping healthy, or any, vegetables. Compost replaces nutrients in the soil over the winter, and composting with organic debris, leaves, food wastes, grass clippings, etc., is the most efficient way to fertilize and nourish your soil. Not only will you decrease the amount of trips you take to the dump, but you'll be more resourceful with your waste. According to a DNR sustainability fact, food waste is responsible for 24 percent of all trash in the U.S. Composting is cheap and it improves the soil structure, texture, and aeration.

The easiest way to make compost to use as organic fertilizer and a type of mulch is to start a compost pile in a bin in your yard. Into your compost pile, throw grass clippings, leaves, weeds, food scraps, coffee grounds, and other decomposable items and wait 6 to 24 months for it to break down on its own. The compost on the bottom of the pile will break down first, and turning the pile occasionally will speed up the process of earthworms, insects and micro-organisms breaking down the organic materials. Wood decomposes slower, so leave it out if you want to speed things up.

Unfortunately, ideal growing conditions for food crops are also ideal conditions for weeds. When it comes to weed control, a little elbow grease is usually what it takes. For stubborn roots, break out a hoe and go to town. Also effective is spreading newspaper or mulch in between crops. Both methods work by limiting air and sunlight to the soil and therefore stifling the weeds.

"We pull or hoe, but the trick is to plant your stuff so close together that when it grows, the plants are close enough to prevent weeds from growing," said Agnes Lichtner, co-owner (with husband Mike Palencar) of the Riverside Hotel in Friendsville, which relies heavily on an organic garden in the back yard to support the hotel's vegetarian restaurant. "Also, the more you plant, the less weeds you'll have to pull, and the less worry about how your crop will be destroyed by bugs – they can't get it all."

But don't get overzealous with planting. Only plant what you can manage and eat.

"Keep your garden sized for your time," Lichtner suggested. "Don't plant so much that you're wasting harvests, or so much that it discourages you from working the garden."

If you prefer to spray plants with a solution to kill weeds, then mix one liter of vinegar, ¼ cup of salt, and two tablespoons of liquid dish soap and fill a few spray bottles.

Spending time in the garden plucking the revisiting weeds will also mean spending a lot of quality time with pestering bugs. The Maryland Department of Natural Resources suggests you keep bugs at a distance the earth-friendly way by choosing mosquito, tick, and insect repellants free of diethyl-meta-toluamide (DEET).

The chemical DEET is an effective solvent, and can dissolve some plastics, rayon, spandex, other synthetic fabrics, and leather, as well as painted or varnished surfaces. Sure, DEET kills mosquitoes, but if it can eat away at plastic, how can it not harm me if I put it on my skin? As an alternative, look for natural plant-based ingredients such as geranium, citronella, tea tree, catnip, marigold, lemon balm, lavender, peppermint, and oil of lemon eucalyptus.

The central principle organic gardeners follow is growing plants in harmony with nature, which includes planting seasonal crops and plants that are non-invasive to the area.

"Plant what your area and soil will allow and don't fight nature," Lichtner said.

Lichtner and Palencar harvest vegetables for their restaurant as far into the fall season as possible, then are sure to support local farmers.

All the work you do to keep your garden toxin free will not go unrewarded. In studies that compare organic to non-organic produce, tests show organic farming can increase, sometimes dramatically, the nutrient density of what we put in our mouths, and when you find a bug in your salad it's just a gentle reminder that your food was grown without chemicals. Growing our own food is proof of something tangible being accomplished.

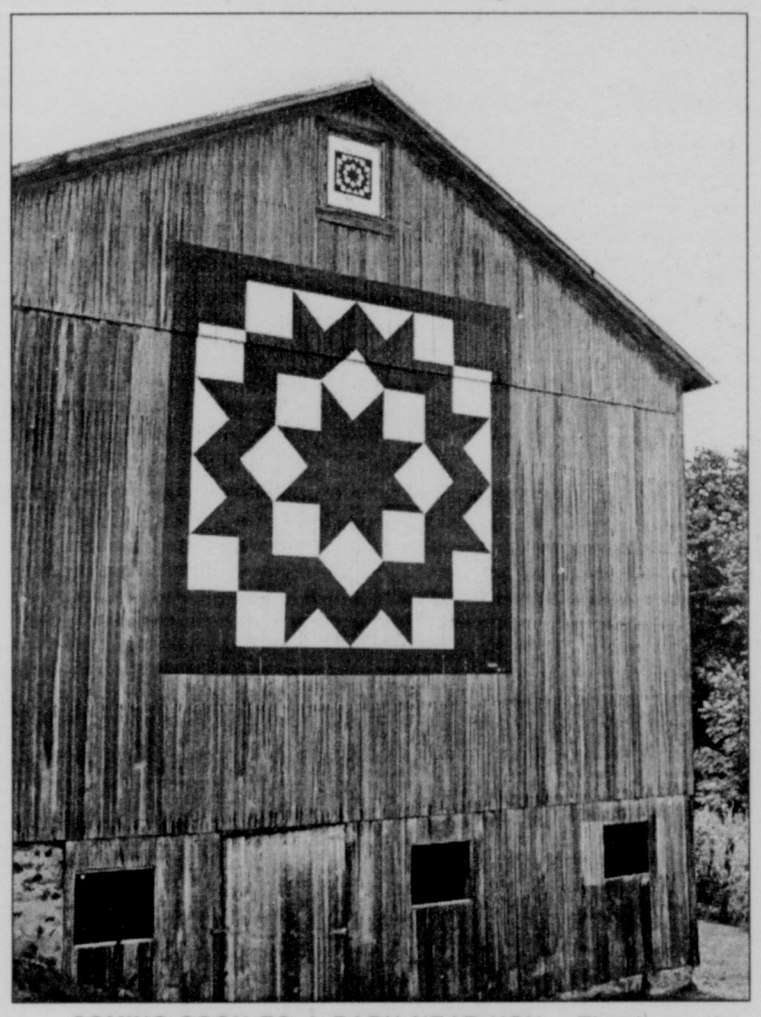
Natural Beauty Of Area Barns To Be Enhanced With Painted Quilt Blocks



COMING SOON TO A BARN NEAR YOU – Thanks to the efforts of the recently formed Barn Quilt Association of Garrett County, barns like the one pictured above will soon be part of the local landscape. The photo was taken by Karen Barnard Reckner as she drove through Monroe County, Ohio, several years ago. The drive inspired Karen to start a similar project in Garrett County. The quilt block pictured is called the "carpenter's wheel." See story.

by Brenda Ruggiero

A drive through the Garrett County countryside is surely a pleasant one for those who enjoy natural beauty. Rolling hills, trees, and plenty of farmland combine to create a picturesque view of nature.

A group of local ladies is currently working on enhancing such a drive through the county. Their idea involves adding painted quilt designs to the sides of barns throughout the area.

Known as "barn quilts," the concept originally began when native Appalachian Donna Sue Groves purchased an old farm in Adams County, Ohio, that included an old tobacco barn. Her mother was an avid quilter, and Donna painted a quilt block on the barn in her honor. Since then, the idea has spread, and barn quilts can be found in at least 19 states.

One example is Grundy County, Iowa, where 25 barns and corncribs include painted quilt blocks. The buildings are spread over seven towns, and visitors are invited to drive the "Quilt Loop" to view the artwork. Maps are printed in a brochure to encourage self-guided tours. The brochure also includes information about other attractions in the area.

Local Barn Quilts

In Garrett County, the "barn quilt bug" was first caught by Karen Barnard Reckner, a lifelong resident of the county. She noted that she has always been interested in art, crafts, and particularly textiles.

"I thought I would take up quilting when I retired," she explained. "After seeing a girlfriend's love for the art of quilting, I was inspired to take it up. It quickly became a wonderful diversion from the routine of everyday chores."

Although she is not ready to call herself a quilter, she admits to being "quite the fabric collector." She also noted that there are "tons of designs playing around in my head that will be created some day."

Karen's introduction to barn quilts occurred about two years ago when she read a story in a quilting magazine about the quilts in Ohio, where numerous counties are involved in the project.

"I located the one that was closest to us and decided to take a road trip," Karen said. "I spent the afternoon driving through the Ohio countryside and seeing all the glorious, colorful patterns and scenic beauty."

A seed was planted for Karen on that journey, and it has continued to grow.

"The more I thought about it, the more I felt this would be a perfect project for Garrett County," she said. "I thought about the agricultural history of the area, the towns that are treasures yet not frequently visited by our county tourists, and about our Appalachian artistic heritage. Developing a driving tour with a focus on barn quilts would tie all these things together."

Karen contacted Donna, the founder of the project, and she was willing to share information with her.

Getting Others Involved

Although the idea often got buried under the regular work on Karen's desk, it was always in the back of her mind, and she wanted Garrett County to be the first county in the state of Maryland to start barn quilts.

She shared the idea with three ladies who she thought would share her enthusiasm: Beverley Williams, Joyce Bishoff, and Cheryl DeBerry.

Beverley noted that when Karen first shared the concept of barn quilts with her, they were both excited about bringing the project to Garrett County, but neither had time to concentrate on it then.

"I was traveling last fall with my husband and friends and saw quilt blocks on barns in Kentucky and Tennessee," she said. "It was really exciting to actually see some, and I talked with Karen when I returned about getting the project started here. She said she knew two others who were interested, and we decided to meet and brainstorm how to get the project started here in Garrett County."

Joyce's family owns and operates a dairy farm, and is involved in various community efforts.

"We are concerned about maintaining an agricultural presence here in Garrett County," she explained. "I feel it is a wonderful opportunity to do something that will support the agricultural community while providing something of interest for the visitors. I hope it will help provide a reason for the visitor to spread out from the Deep Creek Lake area."

Karen originally spoke to Cheryl about the project be-

Tips For Fishin' With the Kids...

The red and white bobber bobbed on the surface of the small pond. Although it was still early in the day, summer insects buzzed and whirred in the warm, still air. My t-shirt clung damply to my back and my pony tail itched. But, my eyes were glued to the bobber until they were almost crossed.

Then it happened. The unmistakable "plop" of the bobber going under and the slight tug on my line that meant I had a fish. I was 6, it was summer, and I was fishing with my mom. What could be better?

With school now out for the summer, many fortunate youngsters will get the same opportunity I enjoyed, but many won't. Today, so many factors vie for kids' attentions elsewhere — video games, television, malls, and cell phones — to name a few. And, most households include two working parents, and many others are single-parent households, leaving no one at home to take the kids fishing. Too bad, because memories to last a lifetime can be made during summer days, and all you need are water, a little gear, and some time.

If you are introducing a youngster to the idea of fishing for the first time, there are a few things to keep in mind to ensure the experience is enjoyable, rewarding and worth repeating. Here are a few things I remember from that summer of long ago, but they still apply today:

•Keep it short and simple. Limit the first fishing experience to a couple of hours. Kids have limited attention spans, especially younger ones. Instead of fishing from a boat, bank fish on a pond or small lake. This way, if the fish aren't biting, kids are not stuck in a boat and can do other things like explore, swim, or picnic.

•Select a spot that will ensure fish are caught. If young kids catch a fish they are more apt to get "hooked" on the sport. Go to a small pond that has been stocked with game fish or a dock where plenty of bluegill and crappie hang out. Check with your local conservation or Department of Natural Resources office for locations. And the key is to have the kids fish — not the adult.

•Bait and gear should be simple, too. For me, digging for worms was as much a part of the thrill of going fishing as anything else. Kids can still dig their own or you can take them to the bait shop so they can pick out their own and learn about worms and minnows as well. Gear can be anything from a bamboo pole, line, and hook to the simple $20 spincast rod and reel combo like the Bass Pro Shops TinyLite™ offered on the web site www.basspro.-com.

•Don't forget safety! Be sure youngsters are outfitted with a properly fitting life vest anytime they are around water. Stearns® has a nice selection of life vests and jackets for kids like the new On The Edge Protek Child Life Vests for $14.99 available on the web site www.-stearnslifevests.com. Also, take a snack, plenty of water, band-aids, sunscreen, and insect repellant.

•Finally, this is the perfect time to teach simple conservation messages. Even young children can be taught some important lessons about the earth around them. Teach them the concept of "catch and release," picking up litter and cleaning up after themselves, and even water quality.

The rewards for taking a kid fishing are many — seeing their faces light up when they land their first fish, reliving your own similar experience, and making memories to last a lifetime. And, by helping to pass on simple traditions like this, you are doing your part to help ensure a future outdoors for others and inspiring others to do the same. This summer, go grab a rod and reel and a kid (or adult), and go fishing.

Summer: Prime Time For Deer Ticks

From the Garrett County Health Department

Now that summertime is here, we like to spend more time outdoors. By doing this we put ourselves at risk for Lyme disease if we don't take precautions. Lyme disease is a potentially serious illness that is spread by the bite of one type of tick found on deer or other animals, commonly called the deer tick or black-legged tick.

The disease is caused by corkscrew-shaped bacterium called borrelia burgodrfei. The disease is transmitted by the bite of an infected deer tick (Ixodes dammini), which is carried by the white-footed mouse and white-tailed deer.

The deer tick is smaller than the dog tick. The pinhead-sized (nymph) most often causes Lyme disease. It is hard to see and is easily missed during body checks. The ticks transmit the bacterium to humans while in this nymphal stage. Luckily for potential victims, a tick has to be attached to a human host for 36 to 48 hours before an infectious dose of B. burgdorferi will be transmitted.

Signs and symptoms of Lyme disease occur in different stages, with different symptoms in each stage. Initially, fatique, fever, headache, muscle and joint pain, swollen lymph glands, and the characteristic skin rash that resembles a target "bull's-eye," called Erythema migrans, can occur. However, the rash may not occur in some persons. Some signs and symptoms may not appear for weeks to months after a tick bite. Arthritis may be the first sign, followed by central nervous system problems if untreated.

Lyme disease is difficult to diagnose because it mimics many other diseases, like influenza or viral infections. Joint pain can be mistaken for arthritis, and neurological signs may mimic those caused by other infections. The testing methods have a high degree of specificity and sensitivity. Early in the disease process the interpretation of test results is difficult and sometimes misleading, therefore diagnosis is sometimes based on signs and symptoms. Treatment of Lyme disease with antibiotics under a physician's care will usually result in complete recovery if treated in early stages of the disease. Symptoms may recurr and additional treatment may be necessary in a small percentage of persons.

Preventing tick bites is essential in lessening a person's chance of ending up with Lyme disease. This can be done by avoiding tick-infested areas in May, June, and July. Wear light-colored clothing so ticks can be seen easier. Tuck pants legs into socks or boots prior to wooded excursions. Wear a long-sleeve shirt and hat, and stay in the center of the tail to avoid overhanging trees, brush, and grass.

These ticks are just waiting for a luscious taste of blood. Spraying insect repellent containing DEET or permethrin on pants, socks, and shoes will help deter these critters. If a tick attaches itself to your body, remove it with tweezers, grasping as close to the head or skin's surface as you can and pulling steady and straight back until the tick is removed. Do not crush the tick body, and wash your hands thoroughly with soap and water after removal.

For more information, persons are advised to contact their family physician or call the Garrett County Health Department at 301-334-7760.

The ladies' first meeting lasted for nearly four hours in a local restaurant. Finally, their plans were set into motion, and the Barn Quilt Association of Garrett County was formed in January 2008.

Beverley serves as president, Joyce as vice president, Karen as secretary, and Cheryl as treasurer.

The Association's mission statement reads:

"The mission of the Barn Quilt Association of Garrett County is to provide a sustainable heritage tourism attraction/activity while preserving and celebrating the unique agriculture, history, and arts culture of our area through visual combinations of barns and quilt designs, to educate the public and showcase our Appalachian tradition."

Currently, the group's goal is to have at least one quilt panel placed on a barn by the Autumn Glory Festival.

"We're conservatively shooting for one by Autumn Glory, but we all think we'll have more by then," Cheryl said. "We already have two donations and a couple farmers with barns ready to be decorated. We hope that in a few years we'll have barn quilts painted across the county, with multiple driving tours/loops."

Volunteers Invited To Help

However, before the project could get started, there were needs that needed to be met. These included more monetary donations (each barn quilt block is estimated to cost $300), materials, volunteers, and of course, barns.

To help move the project forward, the group held a kick-off meeting on April 12 at St. Paul's United Methodist Church in Oakland. Persons interested in helping the project were invited to attend.

At the meeting, informa-

Association Gives Boaters Tips On How To Save Fuel

With boaters facing record high fuel prices this summer, Boat Owners Association of the United States (BoatU.S.) has some tips that could help stretch their fuel dollars:

•Leave the extra "junk" home: Don't load the boat up with weight you don't need. Do a little spring cleaning. Unused equipment that has been collecting mildew in the bottom of lockers for years should be removed.

•Tune her up: An engine tune-up is an excellent investment and should easily pay for itself over the summer.

•Tune your prop: If your boat goes 30 mph with a like-new prop and only 27 mph with a prop that's dinged and out of pitch, that's a 10% loss in fuel economy, or, you're wasting one out of every 10 gallons you put in your tank.

•Paint the boat's bottom: A fouled bottom is like a dull knife. It takes a lot more fuel to push your boat through the water.

•Keep the boat in trim: Using trim tabs or distributing weight evenly will help move your boat through the water with less effort – and less fuel.

•Install a fuel flow meter: A fuel flow meter is like a heart monitor; when consumption starts to rise, it's an early warning that something is amiss. A fuel flow meter al-so allows you to select a comfortable cruising speed that optimizes the amount of fuel being consumed.

•Do the math: If you don't want to spring for a fuel flow meter (about $300), you can calculate your fuel mileage by dividing distance traveled by gallons at fill-up. Using your logbook, you can then approximate fuel flow using average speeds and time under way.

•Get a discount: Many of the 885 BoatU.S. cooperating marinas around the country offer up to 10 cents off a gallon of gas. To get the discount, all you have to do is to show your BoatU.S. membership card. If you aren't al-ready a member, join online now for a special rate of $19 by going to BoatUS.com/membership or calling 800-395-2628.

BoatU.S is the nation's leading advocate for recreational boaters, providing its 650,000 members with a wide array of consumer services, including a group-rate marine insurance program that insures nearly a quarter million boats; the largest fleet of more than 500 towing assistance vessels; discounts on fuel, slips, and repairs at over 885 cooperating marinas; boat financing; and a subscription to BoatU.S. Magazine, the most widely read boating publication in the U.S. For membership information, visit http://www.BoatUS.com, or call 800-395-2628.

Barn Quilt Blocks

tion was presented about the project. Donna Sue Groves spoke about successful barn quilt projects, how to get started, and key issues. Committees were created, leaders were selected, and the group began its work on the project.

Future Plans

The group members moved quickly after their planning meeting to begin putting all the aspect in place and to move forward.

"I think I've heard that there are about 600 barns in Garrett County," Beverle said. "I believe we will easily have 50 to 75 barns painted with quilt blocks within the next few years."

Members of the association noted that once the idea takes off locally, they believe it will continue to spread.

"I truly want Garrett County to be the first county in the state with barn quilts, and I know I'm being a little selfish in that respect," Karen said. "Maryland's agriculture is still one of the biggest industries in the state, and there are many areas where this project would be a good fit."

Cheryl described the project as "infectious," with the excitement growing with each person she talks to.

"I hope this project will just blossom and we get volunteers of every age helping with all the different aspects of Garrett Barn Quilts," she said. "I hope we can get lots of farmers interested in the project for their barns. As tourists drive through the less populated areas of Garrett County to see the barn quilts, I believe outlying businesses such as restaurants, agritourism sites, and stores will see an increase in their sales."

For more information or to make a donation to the project, persons may visit garrettbarnquilts.org.

NFPA Reminds Cooks To Include Fire Safety In Grilling Recipes

Fire safety is an essential ingredient in any recipe that calls for cooking on an outdoor grill. In 2005, fire departments responded to an estimated 8,300 home fires involving grills, hibachis, or barbecues, according to a National Fire Protection Association (NFPA) report. These fires caused $137 million in direct property damage.

"The last thing anyone wants to do when grilling is to create a situation that ends with a home or something else on the property catching fire," said Lorraine Carli, NFPA's vice president of communications. "Taking steps to keep grills a safe distance away from kids, pets, and things that can burn like branches, deck railings, and overhangs will help prevent home fires and injuries caused by grills."

Six of seven home grill fires involved a gas grill, and the leading contributing factor was a leak or break in hoses or other equipment. The leading factor in charcoal grill fires was something that could burn too close to the grill.

For general grilling safety tips, audio clips, statistical information, and a slide show on how to prepare your gas grill for grilling, visit http://www.nfpa.org/grill-ing.

NFPA offers the following safety tips:

•Gas and charcoal BBQ grills must only be used outdoors. If used indoors, or in any enclosed spaces, such as tents, they pose both a fire hazard and the risk of exposing occupants to toxic gases and potential asphyxiation.

•Position the grill well away from siding, deck railings and out from under eaves and overhanging branches.

•Place the grill a safe distance from lawn games, play areas, and foot traffic.

Keep children and pets away from the grill area. Declare a three-foot "kid-free zone" around the grill.

•Put out several long-handled grilling tools to give the chef plenty of clearance from heat and flames when flipping burgers.

•Periodically remove grease or fat buildup in trays below grill so it cannot be ignited by a hot grill.

Charcoal Grills

Purchase the proper starter fluid, and store the can out of reach of children and away from heat sources.

Never add charcoal starter fluid when coals or kindling have already been ignited, and never use any flammable or combustible liquid other than charcoal starter fluid to get the fire going.

Gas Grills

Check the gas cylinder hose for leaks before using it for the first time each year. A light soap and water solution applied to the hose will quickly reveal escaping propane by releasing bubbles. If you determine your grill has a gas leak, by smell or the soapy bubble test, and there is no flame:

Turn off the gas tank and grill.

If the leak stops, get the grill serviced by a professional before using it again.

If the leak does not stop, call the fire department.

If you smell gas while cooking, immediately get away from the grill and call the fire department. Do not attempt to move the grill.

Use only equipment bearing the mark of an independent testing laboratory. Follow the manufacturer's instructions on how to set up the grill and maintain it.

Never store propane gas cylinders in buildings or garages. If you store a gas grill inside during the winter, disconnect the cylinder and leave it outside.

NFPA has been a worldwide leader in providing fire, electrical, building, and life safety to the public since 1896. The mission of the international non-profit organization is to reduce the worldwide burden of fire and other hazards on the quality of life by providing and advocating consensus codes and standards, research, training, and education. Visit NFPA's web site at http://www.nfpa.org.

Warm-Up Tips For Safe Camping On Cool Nights

The early summer months are the perfect time to enjoy the outdoors with family and friends. But if you're planning a camping vacation or a weekend getaway, make sure you are prepared for dropping temperatures at night, particularly in Garrett County.

While a safely constructed campfire remains one of the best outdoor traditions for heat, weather changes can bring rain and cold spells that keep campers inside their tents and RVs to stay warm.

Keeping warm while camping when it's cold is simple. Portable propane heaters are a good additional heat source to take the chill out of a spring night outdoors around the camp or picnic area. Propane cook stoves are also handy for heating soups and hot beverages.

However, the Camp Safe Coalition warns campers to never use any outdoor-only propane product inside a cabin, tent, truck cap, camper, RV, or other enclosure. These products burn fuel and rapidly consume oxygen for combustion, which produces carbon monoxide (CO) as a byproduct. Campers run the risk of carbon monoxide poisoning when products labeled for outdoor use are used inside, especially overnight while sleeping.

There are a variety of heaters now available that are approved for safe use indoors or in well-ventilated enclosures if the warnings and instructions accompanying the product are followed. Low combustion catalytic heaters, such as the Coleman® Black-Cat™, burn oxygen at a very low rate and produce very low, non-harmful levels of carbon monoxide. Heaters with oxygen depletion systems (ODS), such as the Mr. Heater® Buddy™ Heaters, shut off automatically if oxygen levels indoors start to fall.

The Camp Safe Coalition urges campers to follow these tips to remain safe this season:

Always read the manufacturer's packaging and operating instructions for proper use and proper ventilation.

Heaters labeled or identified as "outdoor use only" must never be used indoors or in enclosed areas such as tents, campers, houses, and vehicles.

Carbon monoxide poisoning, which can easily be mistaken for a cold or flu, is often detected too late. Know the symptoms: headache, dizziness, weakness, nausea, vomiting, sleepiness, and confusion. Consumers who experience any of these symptoms should extinguish any possible source of CO and move to an area with fresh air.

No matter how cold, no fuel-burning appliance should be operated overnight in an enclosed area while sleeping, even products labeled indoor-safe. To keep warm overnight, stick with the basics:

•Eat a good meal — especially one rich in protein, carbohydrates and fat — to get your inner furnace going.

•Wear layers of clothing to bed. Keep your head covered to avoid loss of body heat.

•Use a foam mat or cot to eliminate ground chill and moisture.

•Use a sleeping bag designed for cold weather camping.

To request a free copy of the Camp Safe Coalition's propane products safety brochure, or for more information, visit www.camp-safe.org; contact Camp Safe at 888-226-7487; or write to P.O. Box 45002, Cleveland, OH 44145. Camp Safe is an organization dedicated to educating the public about the safe use of camping products.

The Garrett County Recreational Trails Task Force has been and is currently working on trying to connect the existing trails in Garrett County to form a larger network of trails. As we do this there are times when it is necessary to ask Private Landowners for Easements to cross their land.

In working towards this goal we ask that Recreational Users respect Private Landowners. While walking these trails, always stay within the confines of the trail, but if you want to leave the trail, always ask for written permission to access private land and please respect the six inch blue markings on trees signifying a private boundary. Remember that private property does not have to be marked.

These measures will do us all a favor when we work with willing landowners.

Sincerely,
The Garrett County Commissioners' Task Force on Recreational Trails.

We open our doors and welcome you!

Safety Tips For Spending Time Outdoors Offered

With warmer weather upon us, the call to head outdoors is loud and clear. Boating, camping, RV recreation, fishing, canoeing, and numerous other outdoor sports enjoy a popular resurgence each summer. Unfortunately, accidental injuries typically accompany this resurgence, according to the Consumer Product Safety Commission. That's why having the proper gear on hand to reduce the threat of injury is so important, say safety experts from First Alert and Lehigh:

•Pack a first aid kit. Include bug spray, sunscreen, antiseptics for cuts and scrapes, a snakebite kit, and pain relievers, along with other emergency supplies.

•Learn CPR and how to treat serious injuries. Cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) and basic first aid skills are essential, especially if you find yourself in an isolated area. CPR skills can help prevent choking hazards and resuscitate victims after a swimming accident. Know how to deal with breaks, sprains, and head and neck injuries.

•Safely secure outdoor recreational and camping gear. A tie-down that absorbs shocks and holds items firmly in place is best. A new stretch cord called Cordzilla from Lehigh features a bungee encased in a flexible polypropylene rope for added strength to help keep items safe and secure.

A NUMBER OF BEACHES are located in Garrett County, affording the sun-craving, water-loving public opportunities to come out and spend a relaxing day on/in the sand. The beach pictured above is located at Deep Creek Lake State Park. Similar sunny spots can be found at Herrington Manor State Park, Broadford Park, and New Germany State Park. But don't forget the sunscreen!

•Keep campfires low and away from brush, trees, cars, tents, and other potential hazards. One stray spark from a campfire is all it takes to ignite nearby brush or potentially toxic materials.

•Keep a fire extinguishing spray nearby and never leave fires unattended. Make sure family members know where fire extinguishers are located and how to use them. First Alert® offers a portable and effective new fire extinguishing spray, TundraT, designed for easy, one-hand use. No pins to pull or hoses to maneuver, and Tundra cleans up with a damp cloth, so it's environmentally friendly.

•Watch the weather. Keep a portable radio on hand to stay on top of current weather forecasts. Inclement weather can arrive with little warning, so stay in the know and be prepared to move to a nearby shelter.

The summer fun is under way, with more than 59 million Americans planning to take to the water this season, according to the National Marine Manufacturers Association. In addition, one-third of Americans place themselves among the camping public, based on a recent Travel Industry Association survey.

Markets Open

"I think there are a lot of reasons," she said. "It's a producer-only market. It's not reselling vegetables. They have to make, bake, or grow everything (sold) at the market. It's also a great location."

Having reliable vendors during consistent hours makes supporting local farmers convenient, and helps boost the local economy.

One change this year at the Mountain Fresh Produce Farmers' Market will be reusable market bags in an effort to reduce the use of plastic bags, which may sit in landfills for thousands of years. DeBerry said these reusable bags will be available for customers to purchase and use over again. She said this is a growing trend in farmers' markets, either going bag-free or reducing the use of plastic bags.

Looking ahead, the Oakland market will host a farm celebration day, with antique farm equipment and tractors on display, on July 26. Children's activities like vegetable art and sculptures will be available, as will a "guess the farm item" contest, where farmers bring in obscure items and visitors have to guess what they are for a prize.

On Labor Day, the market will hold Customer Appreciation Day with a free corn roast for visitors, and the market will be open extra days.

WEDNESDAYS ARE "WONDERFUL" IN OAKLAND during the summer months from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. when the town "rolls out the red carpet" for visitors and residents alike with special activities. Stroll through the town and enjoy store specials, carriage rides, a farmers' market, entertainment, art exhibits and demonstrations, and more this season during Wonderful Wednesdays.

Teaching Children To Be Sun Safe At Camp This Summer

Sports and other outdoor activities are daily events for children attending camp. If children are not properly protected, the time they spend outdoors can lead to painful sunburns, premature aging, and skin cancer.

"Just one blistering sunburn in childhood can double the risk of developing melanoma later in life," said Perry Robins, MD, president of the Skin Cancer Foundation. "That risk can be vastly reduced by following some simple sun safety guidelines."

To keep children protected from the harmful rays while at camp, the foundation recommends training children in sun safety. UV protection should be a regular part of the lessons learned at home and at school. Kids should be well versed about the dangers of the sun and how to protect against them. Here are a few lessons to review before sending campers off this summer:

•Instruct children how to apply sunscreen before going outside. An SPF 15+ sunscreen (water-resistant formulas are especially good) needs to be used regularly. Teach children to apply 1 ounce (2 tablespoons) of sunscreen to all exposed areas 30 minutes before outdoor activities, and reapply every two hours and right after swimming or heavy sweating. Remember to tell kids not to forget those easy-to-miss spots, such as the back of ears and neck, as well as the tops of feet and hands.

•Cover up with sun-protective clothing. Ideal sun-safe clothing includes long-sleeved shirts, long pants, and a wide-brimmed hat. But since campers typically wear only T-shirts and shorts, they should take some extra precautions:

1. Wear T-shirts with a dense weave in dark or bright colors.
2. Wear at least a baseball cap.
3. Wear UV-blocking sunglasses.
4. Wear long shorts.
5. Apply an SPF 15+ sunscreen to all exposed areas.

•Encourage kids to seek the shade when outdoors. While large shade trees provide some protection, tell children to find a pavilion where they can seek shade during outdoor activities. Ideally, most activities should be scheduled for early morning or late afternoon since UV is most intense from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

With proper guidance, children can learn to protect themselves and enjoy summer fun without sacrificing the health of their skin. For additional information, visit www.skincancer.org.

The first organization in the U.S committed to educating the public and medical professionals about sun safety, the Skin Cancer Foundation is still the only global organization solely devoted to the prevention, detection, and treatment of skin cancer. The mission of the foundation is to decrease the incidence of skin cancer through public and professional education and research. For more information, visit www.skincancer.org.

Gov. O'Malley Proclaims June As 2008 Great Outdoors Month

Maryland governor Martin O'Malley proclaimed June 2008 Great Outdoors Month, encouraging Maryland residents and visitors to spend time enjoying the state's diverse and bountiful outdoor recreation opportunities.

"Whether in the mountains of western Maryland, near the shores of the Chesapeake Bay or Atlantic Ocean, or places in between, I hope citizens and visitors will take advantage of warm June weather by enjoying one of the countless outdoor activities that abound across our state," said Governor O'Malley. "Spending a morning, afternoon, or weekend outdoors fishing, hiking, biking, boating, or bird watching can strengthen our personal health and well-being, as well as relationships with family and friends."

Governor O'Malley also talked about the personal responsibility that each Marylander shares in passing along an appreciation for our environment to the next generation.

"Every Marylander has a role in continuing our legacy of caring for our natural resources," he said. "Sharing a favorite outdoor activity with a young person helps him or her connect with our natural world and can inspire a lifelong path of personal development and stewardship."

To ensure that all Maryland children have an opportunity to experience and connect with nature, Governor O'Malley recently signed an executive order establishing the Maryland Partnership for Children in Nature. This coalition of state, local, private, and non-profit partners is charged with promoting the well-being of youth by accelerating environmental learning, connecting communities to parks and public lands, and expanding opportunities for structured and unstructured outdoor time in nature for both play and learning.

Maryland celebrated National Trails Day on June 7, during which hundreds of organizations and parks from across the nation participated in events that celebrate the United States' superb network of outdoor trails.

"Maryland's public lands offer more than a thousand miles of trails through forests, wetlands, grasslands, and other natural areas," said DNR Secretary John Griffin. "From hiking and horseback riding to cycling and paddling, our state's public lands offer nearby, affordable, and safe opportunities for everyone to enjoy time outdoors."

For a full listing of trails, visit http://www.dnr.state.md.us/publiclands/.

"Get Hooked On Safety" Photo Contest Noted

BoatU.S. Angler, which offers services and information for boat-owning fishermen, encourages anglers to wear a life jacket this fishing season. From now until September 30, anglers can submit photos of themselves, friends, or family fishing while wearing a lifejacket to enter the "Get Hooked on Safety" contest at http://www.BoatUSAngler.com

One winner each, selected from four categories, will receive a Mustang inflatable life vest valued at $150. The categories include: fishing photos; holding a catch; family photos; and the best fishing story that accompanies a photo. Everyone in a photo must be wearing a life jacket.

"A life jacket helps ensure you'll make it back home safely," said Mike Pellerin, director of BoatU.S. Angler. "Over two-thirds of all fatal boating accident victims drowned, and of those, 87% were not wearing their life jacket. You just never know when wind, weather, waves, or other factors will conspire against you."

Pellerin said that the biggest complaint from anglers about wearing a life jacket is that they are uncomfortable. "But if you haven't taken a look at the new inflatable or sports-style vests, you're missing out. You can bait a hook, cast with ease, and stay cool and comfortable all day long," he added.

No purchase is necessary to enter the contest. For complete details and contest photos, go to http://www.BoatUSAngler.com.

From the nation's largest association of recreational boaters, BoatU.S. Angler offers services such as on-the-water and on-the-road towing, insurance, fishing and safety information, and fuel and shopping discounts, and helps protect the interests of boat-owning freshwater anglers.

RED, WHITE, AND BOOM – At least two opportunities to enjoy fireworks as part of the annual Independence Day celebration will be available to residents and visitors to Garrett County next week. The first will be at Broadford Park, Mtn. Lake Park, where the town of Oakland will present its display next Thursday, July 3, at 9:30 p.m. A charge of $5 per car will be collected at the entrance of the park. The annual Fire on the Mountain display will be set off from the Bear Claw Tubing Park at the Wisp Resort in McHenry on Friday, July 4, beginning at approximate-ly 9:15 p.m. Prime viewing locations for this display include the scenic overlook along Rt. 219 at McHenry, from a boat on Deep Creek Lake in that area, and on the lawn of Garrett College, where a free concert by the Garrett Community Concert Band will precede the display (7:30 p.m.). In the event of rain, July 5 is the alternate date for both displays.

New DPU Sewer, Water Rates To Take Effect July 1

Garrett County Department of Public Utilities director Linda Lindsey announced several increases to the water and sewer rate schedule during the county commissioners' public meeting on Tuesday. The revised rates will begin on July 1, the director told the commissioners.

For the Deep Creek Lake Sewer System, the impact fee will change. A $975 fee will be collected for each additional ½ bath in excess of three bathrooms. Currently that same amount is charged for each ½ bath over 3½ bathrooms.

The quarterly operation and mainenance fee for the DCL system will increase. For one to three bathrooms, the cost will be $82 per ERU (equivalent residential user); 3½ to six bath-rooms, $141 per ERU; and six or more bathrooms, $221 per ERU.

The quarterly operation and maintenance fee will also increase for non-DCL sewer systems. For one to three bathrooms, the fee will be $80 per ERU; 3.5 to six bathrooms, $139 per ERU; and six or more bathrooms, $219 per ERU. Those systems are Bloomington, Chestnut Ridge, Crellin, Deer Park, Friendsville, Gorman, Hutton, Jennings, Kitzmiller, Shady Acres, and Weber Road.

The annual inactive fee for the DCL system will also increase from $136 to $328 per ERU. For all other DPU sewer systems in the county, the inactive fee will also increase from $136 to $320.

Currently, operation, maintenance, and inactive ERU fees are the same for all DPU sewer systems. Lindsay noted, however, that the DCL system will be "separated out" from the others in the new schedule. The DCL system is more costly to operate and maintain than the others, she explained.

In the new DPU water schedule, all customers will see a change in the "ad-

Guy Awarded Title Of Miss Maryland's Outstanding Teen

Joanna Guy of Swanton was crowned Miss Maryland's Outstanding Teen last Friday at the historic Maryland Theatre in Hagerstown. Guy, a 16-year-old rising senior at Southern High School competed against 20 other contestants from around the state. She received a $500 scholarship and the opportunity to represent Maryland at the Miss America's Outstanding Teen pageant in Orlando, Fla., from Aug. 12 through 16.

Guy will also spend the coming year traveling throughout Maryland promoting her service platform of teen mentoring. She has served for the past three years as a volunteer tutor and mentor in the after school program sponsored by the Garrett County Health Department at Southern Middle School. As the incoming student member of the Garrett County Board of Education, she is working to create a county-wide cross-age mentoring program. Through the program, she said she hopes to engage high school students with younger teens to help them bridge the transition from middle school to high school.

During the pageant last week, the contestants were judged in six phases of competition, the most heavily weighted of which was a private press conference-style interview with a panel of five judges, and a talent presentation.

Guy performed the song "I Could Have Danced All Night" from the musical My Fair Lady. The competition also included evening gown and sportswear modeling, as well as an onstage question and a review of each contestant's academic record.

"I'm thrilled at the opportunity to represent Maryland at the national competition," Guy said. She also expressed gratitude to the teachers, instructors, and coaches who helped her acquire the diverse skills needed for success in the competition, as well as to the many local sponsors who supported her in her quest.

The Outstanding Teen state and national programs are part of the Miss America organization, "the world's largest provider of scholarships for young women," according to the program. The Miss America's Outstanding Teen pro-

31st Annual Grantsville Days To Begin With Traditional Parade

The 31st annual Grantsville Days celebration will be held this weekend, Friday through Sunday, June 27-29. A wide variety of events and activities are slated for the weekend, beginning on Friday evening with the traditional Grantsville Days parade through the downtown area, beginning at 6:45 p.m. and coordinated by the Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department. Most of the other activities will take place in the town park.

Highlights of the weekend include fireworks on both Friday and Saturday nights, along with a variety of free entertainment. Local businesses have sponsored the event for the past 31 years. Each event is sponsored by one or more businesses, resulting in no charge to the public, according to Gerry Beachy, Grantsville Days chairman.

The celebration was founded by the Grantsville Business Association with the idea of creating a homecoming event, or reunion, to allow residents and friends to come to Grantsville for an old-fashioned picnic, Beachy said.

The Grantsville Lions Club, which coordinates the celebration, and many other local non-profit organizations depend on Grantsville Days to raise funds that are given back to the community in the form of help for the needy and community projects, Beachy noted.

The park includes two playgrounds, a new horse shoe pitch, two ball fields, a large basketball court, four tennis courts, two volleyball courts, a recreation pond, and three pavilions.

Local businesses have come forward again to sponsor the two nights of fireworks, with Grantsville Foodland sponsoring the Friday night display.

The new local group, Lake Effect, will perform on Saturday, June 28, at 4 p.m. Other entertainment will include Windfall on Friday night after the parade, bluegrass music starting at 11 a.m. on Saturday, followed by Straight Ahead Jazz at 2 p.m. Following Lake Effect will be Perry Kamp and Kompany at 7 p.m.

On Sunday, local churches will gather at Pavilion #3 in the park for an interdenominational church service coordinated by the Grantsville Ministerial Association at 11 a.m. Follow-

Property Owners Voice Concerns During Zoning Proposal Hearing

About 75 local property owners attended a public hearing Tuesday morning at the Garrett County commissioners' meeting room on a proposed Deep Creek Watershed Zoning Ordinance amendment. Thirty people spoke during the tense 2½ hour event, which, at times, was punctuated with shouts and a few tears.

Submitted by Nancy-Elizabeth Nimmich, Pleasant Valley, and Barbara Boone, Oakland, the proposal would establish "performance zoning" county-wide.

Under the amendment, a new Article 12 would be added to the watershed ordinance that would define and prohibit commercial wind turbine structures. It would also define the territorial jurisdiction of the new article to include all lands in Garrett County except incorporated municipalities, explained John Nelson, director of the Garrett County Department of Planning and Land Development.

Nelson noted that he had received five e-mails/letters prior to the hearing from residents stating their views on the proposal. Boone also submitted a petition bearing the signatures of 271 residents who favor the amendment.

County attorney Mike Getty did not attend the hearing. But in a letter to the commissioners dated March 12, Getty stated, "There is nothing in the provisions of Article 66B, however, that suggests that you can use the provisions of § 10.01 'outside' the zone where the local jurisdiction has actually chosen to exercise its authority.

"To be clear, performance zoning is something

A GREAT WAY TO CELEBRATE THE 4TH – The birthday of the country will be celebrated next week on the 4th of July, and the Garrett Community Band will present a concert under the big tent on the lawn of Garrett College, now a popular local tradition for the holiday. Garrett Lakes Arts Festival, Garrett College, and Garrett County Arts Council invite the community to this free concert, which will begin at 7:30 p.m. The program will feature classic American music, works by Aaron Copland, Big Band numbers, patriotic tunes, and jazz. The group, which involves area musicians ranging in age from 15 to 80-plus, is under the direction of Moe Turrentine. Guests are invited to pack a picnic or purchase food and ice cream on site provided by Jearbryo's Restaurant and The Creamery. Chairs will be provided under the tent, but there is also space on the lawn to spread blankets and lawn chairs. The evening will culminate with the annual Fire on the Mountain fireworks display, which will immediately follow the concert. This show is being sponsored by the Sincell Publishing Company. Burglary Reported At Swanton Store; Man Apprehended

A burglary at Swanton Store, Swanton, was reported to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office on Thursday, which ended in the arrest of an Oakland man.

An employee of the store called police while the burglary was in progress, and later identified Scott David Collins, 25, as the suspect. Collins had left the store prior to the deputies' arrival.

A general broadcast was given and Maryland State Troopers found Collins at a business located off Spring Glade Road. A trooper attempted to apprehend him, and Collins fled to a nearby wooded area.

MSP Trooper 5, as well as officers with the Garrett County Sheriff's Office and Maryland State Police responded to assist in the search. Collins was then apprehended in the Accident area.

He is charged with 2nd degree burglary and misdemeanor theft. He was taken to the Garrett County Detention Center to await a bond hearing.

Officer Discovers Warrants, Drugs In Recent Arrests

A traffic stop led to the arrests of two out-of-state persons on Sunday, according to Tfc. Upole of the Maryland State Police, McHenry Barrack.

Upole's stopped William Gary Riggleman, 37, Long Beach, Miss., for a speeding violation on eastbound Route 135 west of Swanton Road, and Riggleman was subsequently arrested on two active arrest warrants.

A search of the vehicle incident to arrest revealed items of marijuana and paraphernalia, of which the passenger, Tammy Lee Ward, 42, Panama City, Fla., claimed possession.

Ward was charged with possession of marijuana and possession of paraphernalia.

Both persons were transported to the Garrett County jail awaiting a bond hearing.

IS IT REAL? One may certainly think so, viewing this Eastern screech owl peering out of a tree. The whole thing is wood, though, expertly carved by Hazel Wright of Hoyes, who won first place for this work of art at the 38th annual Ward World Championship Wildfowl Carving Competition 2008, held in April at Ocean City. She and Mtn. Lake Park resident Sam Butt both came home with impressive showings in the event, which involved more than 600 artists from all parts of the world. Holiday Fest To Benefit The Dove Center

The Oakland Community Center, formerly the Armory, will be the site of a new five-day holiday event, the Festival of Trees. To be held over Thanksgiving weekend, Nov. 26–30, the festival will kick off the holiday season with thousands of holiday lights, exhibits, and daily events for all ages.

"Festival of Trees has been a successful fundraiser for many organizations from hospital foundations to veterans groups for over 30 years in many regions of North America," said Cherie Ross, event co-chair and vice president for development for the Garrett County Community Action Committee.

"It gives many local organizations, businesses, and residents a chance to get in the holiday spirit by working together to create a display that will be enjoyed by others, while benefiting a project in the community," stated Karen Reckner, event co-chair and director of business services for the Chamber of Commerce.

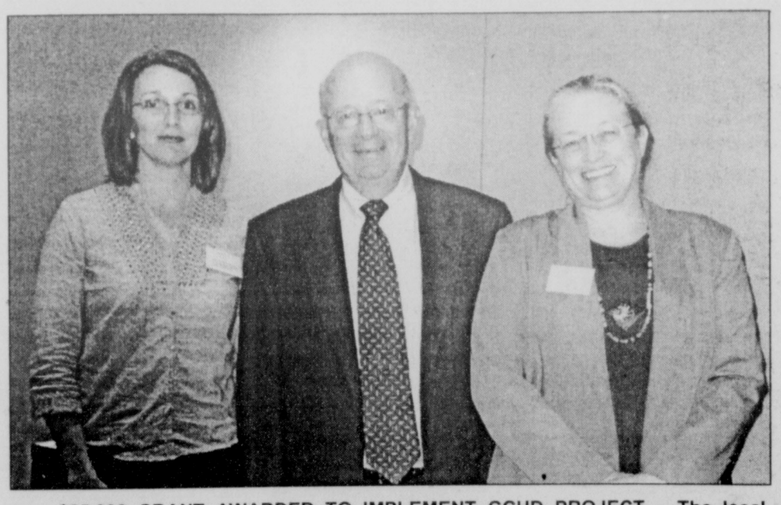
Festival of Trees will feature exhibits of decorated trees, wreaths, centerpieces, and gingerbread houses that will be auctioned. Various activities will be scheduled for all ages throughout the weekend.

Proceeds will support the Dove Center's Capital Campaign Building Fund. A new facility is needed, as the current shelter is too small to serve families that are displaced as a result of family violence in Garrett County. The center's counseling services has outgrown its current space as well.

The Dove Center served over 450 victims of domestic and sexual violence last year, including adults and children. According to statistics, the numbers served were 75% higher in the first quarter of 2008 than the same quarter last fiscal year.

The Dove Center's board of directors and the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, along with community members throughout the county, will meet regularly to plan the event. Festival of Trees is also accepting donations of artificial trees, working mini lights, and lighted yard decorations. All donations should be in decent condition.

Details and daily events will be released closer to the event. Those interested in serving on a committee or simply participating in the event should contact Pam Trickett at 301-334-4272.



$25,000 GRANT AWARDED TO IMPLEMENT GCHD PROJECT – The local management board of the Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families Inc. was recently awarded a $25,000 grant to implement the "ReadOn Garrett County" project. The Maryland Home and Community Care Foundation awarded $152,651 in grants to 11 organizations throughout the state this month. The awards were presented at the foundation's 11th annual award luncheon, which was held in Lutherville. The foundation, under the leadership of Joseph F. Cavagna, funds public and private nonprofit organizations in new and experimental approaches that reach individuals with unmet or underserved health care needs. The establishment also supports education of professional staff to strengthen skills in advanced care delivery, training of others, management, and/or evaluation. The goal of the ReadOn Garrett County project is to improve health behaviors by providing parents with loaner computers that will read health information and anticipatory guidance aloud. The Garrett County Health Department's Healthy Families/Early Care unit will implement the project beginning with the text of the Beginnings Pregnancy Guide and the Beginnings Parents' Guide, which will be scanned into the loaner laptops. Expectant parents and parents with infants enrolled in Healthy Families will access the information by reading along on the computers. Additional information about the Beginnings Life Skills Progression Curriculum, which is based on the latest scientific research, is available online at www.beginningsguides.net. The GC Partnership will work closely with the developers of the Beginnings guides to evaluate the impact of the innovative use of technology to deliver health information to parents with small children. Those seeking more information may contact the Partnership at 301-334-1189 or Healthy Families at 301-334-7720. From left, are Karen Keefer, GCHD special projects coordinator; Cavagna, foundation chairman; and Lucia Biers, Partnership research and evaluation director.

Six Suffer Minor Injuries In Two-Vehicle Collision

An accident occurred between a 2000 Chevy Cavalier and a 2001 Dodge Caravan Sunday afternoon after the driver of the Cavalier allegedly failed to yield to oncoming traffic when making a left-hand turn on Route 219 in front of Grantsville Plaza, according to the Maryland State Police, McHenry Barrack.

Brenda Wilburn, 41, Grantsville, the driver of the Cavalier, was attempting to make a left turn into Grantsville Plaza from the northbound lane of Route 219 around 12:45 p.m. when she crossed into the path of the on-coming Ca van driven by Beverly Faner, 48, Meyersdale.

Faner's vehicle struck Wilburn's vehicle in the right front side, and all persons inside both vehicles were transported to Cumberland Memorial Hospital to be treated for minor injuries.

The accident report sent by the McHenry Barrack stated Goldie Wilburn, 74 Grantsville, a passenger in Wilburn's car, and Arthur Allen Faner, 44, Meyersdale, who was riding in Faner's vehicle, were injured. Additional passengers in Faner's vehicle were Deborah Faner, 24, and James Faner, 22, both of Meyersdale.

Wilburn was charged with failure to yield to oncoming traffic while making a left turn. The investigation was conducted by Cpl J.R. Pritts Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department and Northern Garrett Rescue Squad also responded to the mishap.

Deer Triggers Cycle Accident With Two Hurt

A motorcyclist and his passenger were transported to the hospital for non-life threatening injuries when a deer crossed their path on Route 135 east of Chestnut Grove Road Friday night.

Curtis Richard Clary, 51, and Cheryl Janette Clary, 47, both of Friendsville, were traveling on a 1995 Harley Davidson Sportster westbound on 135 around 9 p.m. when a deer ran into the road.

The bike collided with the deer and both riders were transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

The Deer Park, Tri-Towns, and Bloomington volunteer fire departments and Southern Garrett Rescue Squad also responded to the scene.

Cyclist Ejected From Bike In Route 42 Crash

A Pennsylvania motorcyclist was ejected from his bike Saturday when a 17-year old driver cut him off while exiting the Funny Farm Citgo in Friendsville, according to the Maryland State Police, McHenry Barrack.

Michael A. Dziedzicki, 47, Smock, was traveling southbound on Route 42 in front of the Funny Farm when a gold Jeep Grand Cherokee allegedly entered the roadway from the Funny Farm using the "entrance only" access road.

Dziedzicki applied his brakes and attempted to avoid the Jeep, but was ejected after putting the bike on its side, according to police reports.

The driver of the Jeep drove away from the scene, but was later located and identified. Charges are pending.

Dziedzicki was transported by Northern Rescue Squad to Cumberland Memorial Hospital.

Arrested On Charges Of DUI, DWI, Negligence

A Mtn. Lake Park woman was charged with driving under the influence early Sunday morning after deputies conducted a traffic stop on her 1997 Dodge passenger vehicle.

Lindsey Marie Ferguson, 19, was stopped after deputies reportedly observed her vehicle travel off the roadway several times. Contact with Ferguson made one deputy suspicious of impairment.

She did not perform sobriety tests to the deputies' satisfaction and consequently was placed under arrest. She was charged with DUI, driving while impaired, negligent driving, and violation of an alcohol restriction.

She was later released.

TECH CAMPS SLATED FOR JULY – Summer is here and, for some, it is time to sign up for Garrett County's summer technology camps. The Garrett County Board of Education offers tech camps for students completing grades 1st through 5th. First and second grade students will build and learn about simple machines, while third, fourth, and fifth graders will build and program their LEGO machines to move. Beginning students will work on the dactasaur, and returning students will focus on the advanced color sorter. The camps are offered during the month of July. Those seeking more information can call Cheryl Gnegy, Board of Education, at 301-334-8926. Information is also available at the BOE web site, www.ga.k12.md.us, under "Tech Camp 2008." 3-Year-Old Sent To GCMH After Accident

A two-vehicle accident at Trader's Landing, Garrett Highway, sent a 3-year-old passenger to Garrett County Memorial Hospital for minor injuries on Sunday.

Investigation determined that Devon N. Boyles, 28, Morgantown, W.Va. had been traveling north on Garrett Highway when she collided with a vehicle attempting to make a left turn.

The vehicle that was struck was being operated by a 46-year-old Baltimore resident, who suffer no injuries. Boyles had a 3-year-old passenger in the vehicle with her. He was transported to GCMH for minor injuries.

Deep Creek Fire Department responded to the scene to assist with traffic control. Boyles was cited for failing to reduce speed to avoid a collision. The toddler was later released from Garrett Memorial.

Sharing Our Independence...

A "To whom it may concern" e-mail was received in our newsroom recently from an area soldier who is currently serving in Iraq. He is Johnny Hull, a native of Terra Alta and a graduate of both Preston High School and West Virginia University.

2nd Lieutenant Hull is a medical platoon leader/medical operations officer based near Kirkuk. His platoon of 25 medics support and treat over 1,200 troops for everything, from coughs to acne to life-threatening battle injuries.

The purpose of his letter was to ask for support in assisting an Iraqi civilian who was critically injured some three years ago. He explained that his unit is bound by U.S. military "medical rules of engagement," which state that his unit is not permitted to treat or provide supplies for Iraqi citizens unless their injuries are caused by coalition forces. The injuries to 20-year-old Nida Abdulla were evidently caused by coalition forces, but the family has no proof of that since they were incurred some three years ago.

"Nida lives less than 100 meters from our patrol base," Hull writes, "but local hospitals gave up on her over two years ago, telling the family to never bring her back. Our goal is to acquire as much as we can in the way of medical supplies from the U.S. public since our military cannot supply them."

Hull says that his primary goals are to obtain a twin-size hospital bed and a wheel chair to allow her to go outside.

"I am asking for assistance with any supplies you may be able to send, whether it is a bed, linens, tubing, suction equipment, or a package of latex gloves," he writes. "As a father, a brother, and a son, I feel obligated to assist in sustaining this girl's life and bettering her condition to the best of my abilities while I am here in Iraq. I do not want to leave this country without being a part of helping this young woman. If you know anyone else who would be willing to help us, please refer them to me for guidance."

Next week we Americans will once again celebrate our precious independence and freedom, gifts that should not only never be taken for granted, but also, if given the opportunity, shared with others on the planet who may not be as fortunate as we. Lt. Hull is trying to do just that in his role as a U.S. soldier, to bring at least some sense of freedom and independence to this young Iraqi woman. How fitting and satisfying it would be for us here at home to pitch in and help him. While Nida is just one person, the opportunity is here to assist many other ill and injured Iraqi citizens if many Americans respond to Lt. Hull's request, enabling him and his crew to aid many others in need.

His e-mail address is johnny.b.hull@us.army.mil.

Letters to the Editor

Writers of letters to the editor are reminded that letters will not be published if they exceed 400 words, do not include contact information, and/or are deemed to be libelous.

Editor's note: A letter that appeared in this column last week (June 19) was submitted by a Hillarie J. Jones of Frederick. The writer accused a local youth baseball coach and his wife of negative behavior during a recent game. There is reason to believe, however, that a person of this name and residing in Frederick does not exist, leaving the credibility of the contents of said letter in great doubt.

To the Editor:

With the issue of the proposed 219 bypass still coming up, why doesn't the town of Oakland install a 4-way stop, or stoplight, at the corner of 4th Street and Memorial Drive? That is a dangerous intersection, especially for those trying to get onto Memorial Drive from 4th Street. With buildings being demolished, and the new Walgreen's going in, it's going to make matters worse.

With the issue of lighting up a walking trail that cannot be utilized much in the winter months, why isn't the American Flag flying near the Oakland Train Station properly lit? It does fly at night. Also, why is the Garrett County flag that's torn not replaced with a new one? Last, where is the "kiddie train" that the town of Oakland purchased for $9,000?

In closing, if the Oakland police can't enforce laws at Broadford Park, how can they enforce laws at Southern High School? According to where the city limits start on High Street, Southern is out of their jurisdiction too. Yet, when school is in, the Oakland City Police patrol that area.

Bill Detrick
Oakland, MD

To the Editor:

I recently read an article in the Cumberland Times-News about Southern High School altering the student handbook. If approved by the board it would allow a shorter stay in the alternative program for first-time offenders. I applaud the person or persons who are trying to do this. The alternative program for first-time offenders does more harm than good. It teaches the student many things that we as parents do not want our children to know about. I can only hope as a parent myself that this policy change is being done for all the right reasons and not to let certain offenders out early to play a sport. I feel that there should be consequences for everyone who violates school policy.

I have a few questions that I would like to ask the board before this is voted on at the July 8 meeting. If this policy is passed, when does it go into effect? If passed, will this allow the students who were put into the alternative program last year to get out early? If so, how is that fair to the students (first time offenders) who already did their time in alternative? If you are arrested and put in jail, and the law changes, you do not get out early. I would also like to know what is considered prior suspension and history. How far does it go back, and could you please define history.

I have one more question for the board. Last September I met with Dr. Teets and expressed concern over the drug policy in the student handbook. He said that I should contact the board about expressing my concern over the drug policy. I did contact Phil Lauver and have heard nothing. I was wondering if the new handbook will be the same in regard to the drug policy. Distribution and use is a 10-day suspension with a student up for expulsion. Possession is just a five-day suspension and then you are back in school. Shouldn't there be zero tolerance on drugs?

I urge all parents who are reading this letter to come to the next board meeting and stand up for your child's rights. We as parents need to be involved in our children's education and policies that effect them.

To the Editor:

I am writing in regard to the Grantsville Days cancellation of track events. If the town of Grantsville knew that they had no money to repair the track that was used for a football field, why would they wait until the very last minute to say the cause was wet conditions?

Gypsy Broadwater, Leo Miller and other volunteers, along with the county, made the track so there was no problem with the drainage, and the track itself could be maintained for track events for a long time.

Franklin Broadwater took a lot of his time and effort, just as Gerry Beachy, Duane Stein, and others too numerous to mention, to make Grantsville Days a success. To the sponsors, Grantsville Lions, Grantsville Auto Supply, and others who always contribute to the tractor pull, horse pull, and garden tractor pull so these events could take place, I say thank you!

You know I feel bad for the Grantsville Vol. Fire Department. These are volunteers who give their time to make sure that we citizens are taken care of in an emergency or just things in general. We know we can count on them. They are making our community better by building a new fire hall, and this is the one year that the track events could have helped them in their fundraising booths. So let's remember to support the firemen and the Grantsville Lions.

Mary Alice Broadwater,
Broadwater Heavy Towing

To the Editor:

As chairman of Grantsville Days, I have worked with Franklin Broadwater for many years to have an extremely successful tractor pulling contest. I have also worked with the Confluence Fire Dept., Will Shaffer, Dave and Wanda Warnick, and in past years, Leo and Helen Miller, with all the other contests drawing huge crowds at Grantsville Days.

I was notified Tuesday, June 17, by Mayor Edwards that the pulling track could not be made ready for the pulling events. The council prioritized in January to build a pee-wee football field next to the pulling track. Commissioner Fred Holliday and I were assured at a council meeting that the pulling track would be ready this year. The Grantsville Fire Department was also assured at another council meeting that there would be a pulling track. The GVFD coordinates the parade and has several food and game booths, raising funds for the department. They depend on attendance at the contests for a large part of their sales.

To make the football field regulation size, a drainage ditch was removed and dirt was placed on the existing track that was originally built by community volunteers, Gypsy Broadwater, and Garrett County Roads. Heavy spring rains caused extremely muddy conditions due to lack of drainage. Costs to make the track ready for the pulling contests were estimated to be $18,000.

As chairman I had to notify all the local newspapers and radio stations about the cancellation of all pulling contests. I notified 27 business sponsors and returned $2,000 in sponsorships. All week, Franklin and Allison Broadwater, Dave and Wanda Warnick, and my wife and I have been trying to explain why the track is not ready. The town should assume full responsibility for this tragedy. To dispel rumors about responsibility, it is my opinion that the council dropped the ball on their promise. Franklin Broadwater, the Garrett County Roads Dept. and others should not be held responsible for this situation. The town of Grantsville is solely responsible for having no track.

Interested persons wanting more information should attend the next council meeting on July 7. For those wanting to attend a tractor pulling contest, one is being held in Listie, Pa., on Saturday.

Chairman

To the Editor:

I was at the Garrett County commissioners' June 24 public hearing on performance zoning, which can be used to prohibit industrial wind turbines on county ridgelines. Over two dozen residents spoke, many with raw emotion and obvious frustration over the lack of safeguards against this industry. Coming up with a way of regulating this now effectively unregulated industry should be a high priority with our elected officials. However, I am concerned that no one seems to be looking out for the property rights, health, and safety of those having to live or work next to such developments.

For example, Synergics Wind Energy LLC plans to build a 60 MW wind plant on Four Mile Ridge, just above Frostburg Road and near 35 homes. These homeowners, if they choose to stay, will have had no choice in deciding whether they want these large industrial structures, the attendant noise, visual pollution, and loss of property values. In their arrogance, Synergics has already entered into a 20-year contract with Delmarva Power & Light Co. to sell their power there, and the project has not yet been built! There needs to be some way of regulating this industry so that county residents living near a ridgeline are not faced with a future of living with turbines. Residents and visitors alike should not have to see turbines on every privately owned ridgeline in the county.

So, is performance zoning the answer? Here is what I have learned: Performance zoning is different from conventional or Euclidean zoning, which is a system of zoning characterized by the division of land uses into specified areas. In contrast, performance zoning is goal-oriented and requires less administrative involvement, since variances, appeals, and rezonings are not necessary. It also gives more flexibility, rationality, transparency, and accountability both to the municipality and to the developer, allowing more of a range of land uses, as long as their impact is not negative. Performance zoning can avoid the sometimes-arbitrary nature of the Euclidean approach, and better accommodates market principles and private property rights with environmental protection. Also, performance zoning is more effective in the preservation of natural features, since it evaluates directly the impact, rather than indirectly through listing permitted and denied uses. Performance zoning would safeguard our basic human rights, our property, and our county's natural heritage from these intrusive, landscape-altering wind developments.

Editor's note: The writer of the following letter to Senator Benjamin Cardin is a local resident who is a former manager of the Westvaco paper mill at Luke. It has been edited to conform with the 400-word limit for letters to the editor.

Dear Senator Cardin,

I am writing to plead for your support of the energy initiatives outlined by President Bush earlier this week. These include the removal of offshore oil drilling restrictions, opening ANWR and oil shale resources for oil production, and expediting permits for the construction of oil refineries. If we were to announce a major "Manhattan" style project to expedite the development of these resources, it would have an immediate impact on OPEC. Undoubtedly they would attempt to reduce oil prices to prevent the loss of future business and would do everything in their power to discourage us from making the required capital investments.

I am strongly in favor of developing more "green" initiatives for energy, but we need to "buy time" while the transition is being made. Meanwhile, we are giving our country away through the debasement of our currency. We are enriching many nations that are not particularly friendly to the U.S., and they are using their oil wealth to support terrorism and other nefarious activities. It is difficult to envision any improvement in our situation as long as oil imports remain excessive, currently averaging 58 percent of total consumption.

It has been widely reported that perhaps as much as 40 percent of the increase in oil prices is due to the decrease in value of the dollar relative to other currencies, particularly the Euro. If we could bring both political parties together to announce a major initiative to develop domestic oil and natural gas supplies, we would send a very strong message to the rest of the world and the dollar should quickly start to recover. I cannot think of another action that could have a more significant impact.

If our nation moves now in a very aggressive fashion, we can avoid a potentially disastrous situation and can secure our energy and economic futures while we are developing and deploying long-term "green" alternatives.

A "Manhattan" style program could provide many high-paying jobs for American workers, dramatically improve the trade imbalance, reduce dollars going to unfriendly governments, strengthen the dollar, reduce the cost of oil, secure our energy supplies, and provide the time required to develop efficient "green" energy alternatives.

Please give this recommendation thoughtful consideration. Our country needs united and determined leadership to overcome these serious problems. We have done it in the past, and can do it again.

Thank you for your consideration.

Very truly yours,
Philip H. Emery, Jr.

ing the church service will be a variety of performing Christian groups, including God's Ambassadors, All Things Common, the Dave Marsh family, the Alan Birkby family, and One Way. The Country Parson, Jerry Rogers, will be the MC for the gospel festive.

The Grantsville fire department, the leadership of which is currently engaged in raising money to build a new firehouse, have several food and game booths. The proceeds will all go toward the new facility.

Although various pulling contests have been a central part of the Grantsville Days celebration for many years, the 31st annual event will not feature any such competition. The track could not be made ready in time for the contests, Beachy said. But all other scheduled events will be held as planned.

Again this year, there will be many local, non-commercial food booths, including the Grantsville fire department ice cream and hamburger booth and the Grantsville Lions Club chicken dinners, on Saturday and Sunday, starting at 11 a.m. There will also be a variety of sales, food, and information booths, and rides for small children.

For more information about events at Grantsville Days, persons may call Beachy at 301-895-5387. For further information about the pulling contests cancellation, persons may contact Mayor Paul Edwards at 301-895-3144. Persons may call the same number to reserve a pavilion this summer.

Voice Concerns

that I believe you could adopt in the zoning district that you created: the Deep Creek Watershed Zoning District," Getty continued. "There is no apparent suggestion, however, that the legislature intended performance zoning to be a tool in any context other than where local jurisdiction has exercised the authority granted by the article."

Article 66B delegates basic planning and land use regulatory powers to the state's towns and non-charter counties, including Garrett.

Commission board chairman Denny Glotfelty asked those who wished to speak at the hearing to try to keep their comments brief and to stick to the specific topic: performance zoning.

"It's not about property rights; it's not about windmills," he said. But many residents still addressed the pros and cons of both issues.

Several speakers said zoning would take away their basic rights and freedoms.

"I believe this is about power – power over private property owners," said Deer Park resident Jerry Plauger about the proposal.

He said he admired the amendment supporters for standing up for what they believe in.

"But so I'm I," Plauger said. "I've always said, 'We've got one thing to protect in Garrett County and that's freedom. Once you trade it off to the government, things change."

"I think we ought to have some rights with what we do with our property," said Keith Cummings of the Underwood area.

Zoning may be good in the beginning, he said, but as time goes by, many freedoms end up being taken away. Cummings said residents need to ask themselves if zoning is what they want, and is it going to be good for them in the long term?

"We don't need people to tell us what to do with our property," said Don Riley, Pleasant Valley. "If I want to build something. I will build it. If I want to lease it out to wind power, I'll lease it. I own that property. I pay taxes on it. I don't want to see zoning on Backbone Mountain."

Others asked where one property owner's rights ended and another's began.

"I think sometimes your freedom as a property owner is going to infringe on my freedom as a property owner," said New Germany area resident Kathy Tunney.

She said she and others ought to have the right to weigh in on the issue of wind turbines being built near their properties.

"We want the right to say something about what our freedoms and rights are," Tunney said.

Liz McDowell, who lives near Tunney, said wind turbines were just one example of what could happen on one person's property that could impact a neighbor's lifestyle. She said such questions as how close is too close to my boundary line?, and how tall is too tall?, therefore, needed to be addressed.

"You have to step in, whatever it is, whether it's a turbine or something else, when it impacts the quality of life, impacts the health of livestock, or whatever," McDowell told the commissioners.

She asked them to please do something about the issue, whether through zoning or by some other means.

President Scott Johnson, Deep Creek Lake Property Owners' Association, said there is a critical need for some form of zoning throughout Garrett County, especially given the present debate over wind turbines.

Because the state recently abandoned "effective regulation" of the siting of wind turbines, the only way to regulate the devices is through local land-use regulations, Johnson said. As a result, Garrett County is currently powerless to impose any "meaningful" controls over turbines because it has no countywide land-use regulations.

"A total prohibition of wind turbines certainly does not seem to be warranted, especially in light of the legitimate needs for additional sources of generation of electricity," Johnson said. "On the other hand, however, total abandonment of any regulation of the siting of turbines is equally, if not more, inappropriate."

The POA, therefore, he said, believes that the commissioners "should move with dispatch" to extend zoning throughout the county.

Johnson added that zoning was needed for many reasons, not just turbines.

"The county is losing vital control over the direction of its growth; cries are being heard frequently about the disappearance of affordable farm land, and anomalies are occurring on a regular basis, such as the construction of a bar in proximity to a church," Johnson said.

At the conclusion of the hearing Boone said, "To clarify, performance zoning is not illegal. It is legal in the state of Maryland. Whether the county chooses to use it is another question."

She noted that the county also has other documents that it uses at its own discretion: the comprehensive plan and the heritage plan.

"When it suits your purposes, you quote it; when it doesn't, you ignore it, say that it's not enforceable," Boone told the commissioners. "But the language that is in both of those plans is absolutely contrary to industrial wind turbine development."

According to William C. Wantz, a Hagerstown attorney hired by Boone and several other local residents, "Performance zoning, as a land use technique expressly authorized in §10.01, may be exercised in Garrett County, in or outside the Deep Creek watershed, whether or not in combination or concert with Title 4 zoning [of Article 66B]."

Wantz did not attend the public hearing.

"What are you going to do to protect our health, our safety, while we are enjoying our property and our natural resources?" Boone asked the commissioners.

"We'll consider your comments we heard here today," Glotfelty to the speakers at the end of the hearing.

The commissioners have not scheduled another public hearing on the proposed zoning amendment, as several residents requested at Tuesday's hearing.

County administrator Monty Pagenhardt said no official action is required by the commissioners regarding the comments at the hearing or the petition.

"They will stand behind the opinion of the county attorney," Pagenhardt said Wednesday about the county commissioners.

This year, the class participated in the Wounded Warrior Project, which helps injured service personnel (men and women) who are making the transition from hospital to rehabilitation. One part of the project provides backpacks filled with essential items needed to make the transition. The cost of one backpack is $99, which the class set as a goal. Instead, they raised a total of $702. On the day that the students closed the project, they honored all local veterans. The students wrote thank-you letters to the veterans and made a booklet of poems that they had written. More information about the project can be found at www.woundedwarriorproject.org. The check is the first of many that Allegany/Garrett Titles & Settlements LLC and the Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department hope will result from the promotion that the Title Company is doing to raise funds for the Fire Department Firehouse Fund. Allegany/Garrett Titles & Settlements LLC has agreed to donate the following: $100 for all purchase closings with title insurance held in their Grantsville Office for Grantsville property in election district number 3, $50 for all refinance and cash closings held in their Grantsville office for property in election district number 3, and $25 for all deeds (only) prepared for Grantsville residents in election district number 3. The donation was generated by the transactions of Charles and Sandra Murray, William and Helen Bender, Gary W. Kamp, Kevin and Trisha Broadwater, Justin Heslop, and James H. Donahue. Allegany/Garrett Titles & Settlements LLC can be reached at the Grantsville Real Estate Center located at 144 Main Street, Grantsville, 21536, or by calling 301-895-3377. Other businesses that want to help with the Firehouse Fund or to make a donation may contact the Firehouse Committee at P.O. Box 189, Grantsville, 21536. Donations should indicate "new firehouse fund" in the memo section of the check. A wall of tiles will be placed at the entrance of the new firehouse social hall. Each tile will cost $100, and can contain memorials, honorariums, or other names. For more information, persons may call Gerry Beachy, co-chair, at 301-895-5387. Pictured above, from left, are Paul Edwards, Grantsville mayor; Braskey, DeVore, and Stein.

New Rates

ditional usage over 6,000 gallons" rate. Currently, $6 is charged per 1,000 gallons of usage over 6,000. But, effective July 1, $6 per 1,000 gallons will be charged for usages between 7,000 and 50,000 gallons, and $7 per 1,000 gallons will be assessed for usage over 50,000 gallons.

"That will help the larger water users to contribute to costs," the director said.

A new ready-to-serve (RTS) fee will also be added to the DPU water rate schedule. All water service connections allocated and/or purchased that remain inactive status after two year will be charged annually.

Lindsay said the RTS fee was added because inactive water connections impact what the DPU can do for other potential customers.

"When we commit to plats for developers and commit to providing them public water service, we tie up those allocations," Lindsay said.

Even though no water is being used, inactive allocations are still considered when the DPU calculates how many customers a well can serve. A new well, therefore, may have to be drilled for new customers, even though some current ones are not yet using water and not paying for the system.

"This will help fund for those allocations that have been committed but have not been constructed yet and are not contributing to the user fees," Lindsay said about the RTS fee.

That fee will be established at 50 percent of the yearly operation and maintenance fee for a ¾-inch meter service.

"It's basically 50 percent of $54 for a quarter, so that's $108 per a connection," Lindsay said.

A new bulk-purchase item has also been added to the new water rate schedule for all DPU systems. Those wanting to purchase water to fill swimming pools, clean bridges, for road construction, etc. will be charged $9 per 1,000 gallons.

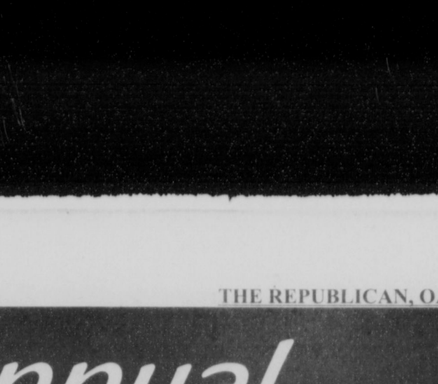
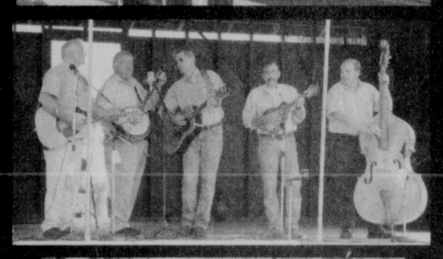
Grantsville Days History

In 1977 the Grantsville Business Association decided to have an event that would encourage local organizations to work together to sponsor a fun weekend for the community. It was designed as a non-commercial "homecoming" event for people who had moved away from Grantsville — a chance for them to return to Grantsville to renew old acquaintances and to have family reunions. The participating organizations would be able to use the event for fund-raising, and it was decided that food booths would be limited to non-commercial, local church, and community organizations. The tradition has continued to the present day, and that's what separates Grantsville Days from other events that allow commercial food vendors. The food concessions are centered around the local Lions Club chicken BBQ, which is held both Saturday and Sunday.

The 3-day event is now coordinated by the Grantsville Lions Club. Through the years, 2 nights of fireworks have been added and are now sponsored entirely by local businesses. Many local people donate their time and expertise to make Grantsville Days successful. The entire community joins together each year to have a successful weekend. There are many activities for persons of all ages, including tennis, basketball, and children's games. Unique tractor and horse pulling contests have been added with great enthusiasm from the community. Other events include a western line dance demonstration and tale weaving.





A new stage was constructed in 1994 to showcase the excellent, free entertainment offered all 3 days. Visitors are encouraged to bring lawn chairs for a weekend of superb, continuous performances. Similar community events are held each year, but we feel Grantsville Days is unique. Ask anyone who has attended and you will hear the same answer: They are looking forward to the next Grantsville Days. Each year the attendance grows, so the word must be getting out. A huge, new playground was dedicated in 1996. The community response was fantastic. You won't see a nicer playground anywhere in the area and probably not even in major cities. Kids visit the playground from miles around. You have to see it to believe it!

In 1998 a new, large pavilion was constructed. Now there are 3 in the park for groups to have picnics. They are always reserved in advance every weekend during the summer months . The new pavilion allowed the Lions to shorten the waiting list for use of the buildings.

RIDERS REPRESENTING GARRETT COUNTY – Native Garrett County mountain bike racers Malachi Artice, 16, of Friendsville and Billy Sode, 25, of Oakland like to keep it local when it comes to riding bikes. With the abundance of trails in the county and regional competitions at Wisp, these racers live it up in an area that other bikers will travel hours to get to. Sode and Artice were two among hundreds of racers that competed in the Wisp/Racers Edge Downhill MTB Race Weekend, also known as the Capital Cup, held Friday though Sunday at Wisp Resort. See story. Pictured above, Sode (left) and Artice wait for the downhill event to begin while talking about their most anticipated spots on the course. Photo by Mandy Geisler. The next biking event at Wisp will be the MAC Series Finals on Sept. 20 and 21.

Artice, Sode Represent Garrett County At Weekend Bike Event

Hundreds of mountain bike racers flocked to Wisp Resort this past weekend to compete in the Wisp/Racers Edge Downhill MTB Race Weekend, also known as the Capital Cup. From Friday to Sunday, racers put forth their best abilities on the Wisp's dual and downhill courses.

Two local racers, Malachi Artice, 16, Friendsville, and Billy Sode, 25, Oakland, were among those racing, and both are in their first year in the racing circuit. The event consisted of dual slalom and downhill races from Friday through Sunday and experience levels ranged from pro and semi-pro to a beginner's division.

In the dual race, Artice rode the course, which he said had a couple of good jumps, in 55 seconds flat. It was his first slalom race. Sode finished first in the expert open class in the dual slalom, executing the course in 48:55, even though he said he has more experience in downhill riding. Their times for the downhill course were not provided.

The downhill course, which twisted through the trees along the ski trails, ranked among other medium-level courses with its rock drop and several sharp turns. The racers were fortunate to have dry trails on Saturday and had comments of it being an enjoyable and fluid course.

The parking lot of the Wisp was spotted with tents, RVs, and trailers, and almost every car in the lot had at least one bike on the back. Many riders were racing in teams, but there were also individuals, both male and female.

Racers were able to rest easy on the way to the starting gates of the courses as they accompanied their bikes up Chair 1, which provides a sprawling view of Deep Creek Lake.

"For a lot of people, traveling is the only way to ride bikes," Artice said. But events at Wisp and gas prices keep Artice and Sode at local races.

The next biking event at Wisp will be the MAC Series Finals on Sept. 20 and 21.

Jen Sober Takes 3rd In Rocky Gap Tri; Trains Hard For SavageMan

by Mandy Geisler

As if preparing for the upcoming fall SavageMan Half Triathlon isn't demanding enough, local athlete Jen Sober has not only been entering races left and right, but has been placing in the top three.

Jen's most recent endeavor was last Saturday's 21st annual YMCA Rocky Gap Triathlon, in which she captured a third place win in the women's division. The triathlon consisted of a quarter-mile swim, an 8-mile bike ride, and a 3.1-mile run.

"The start of the swim was crazy crowded and I got run over bad," she said. "It felt like a bunch of bulls were stomping over me, but I got through it."

Of the 231 athletes in Saturday's race, Jen, 35, placed 28th overall in 58:13 and took third place in the female overall division behind Lori Winebrenner (55:10) and Lauryn McFawn (56:19).

The overall winner of the race was Dr. Vinnie Monseau, Morgantown, W.Va., in 45:23. He was followed by Derek Clark, Morgantown, in 47:40 and Erik Scott, State College, Pa., in 47:50.

A Cumberland resident, Winebrenner battled back from recent injuries and illness to win the women's division for the third straight year. She placed 14th overall.

McFawn, a recent graduate of Allegany High School where she capped an outstanding high school career with three Maryland Class 1A championships and two 3200-meter run titles, placed 19th overall.

Jen has been placing anywhere from first to third in recent races ranging from 5Ks to triathlons to half-marathons. She entered in so many races to not only help her stay motivated for SavageMan, but to meet some goals she had set in the beginning of the year. She said competing in several triathlons will help her in the transitions between swimming, biking, and running, as well as help calm her nervousness. With more experience comes more confidence.

"I came into the new year with a couple of goals. One was to do the full SavageMan half iron triathlon, and the other was to break 20 minutes in a 5K by the Autumn Glory 5K. I have been really smart with my training, and already reached my 5K goal."

How's that for keeping up with New Year's resolutions?

"The swimming and biking have really helped my running, but also, I have more focus on competing and training then ever before," she said of her recent races.

The SavageMan half consists of a 1.2-mile swim in the open and sometimes choppy waters of Deep Creek Lake, followed by a 56.9-mile bike ride through Deep Creek Lake, Savage River Forest, and New Germany state parks, and finishing with a 13.1-mile double loop run around Deep Creek Lake State Park, which includes two treks up the rocky Meadow Mountain Trail.

Jen competed, among a gang of other local athletes, as a team in last year's SavageMan. Her team, called the Local Yokels, was made up of Russel Bounds, John Simson, and herself.

For the past 15 years, Jen has been in the fitness industry, and she has a bachelor of science degree in exercise physiology. She teaches a variety of fitness classes locally, including body sculpting and kickboxing, which challenges almost every muscle in the body.

Being in top physical shape, Jen has to keep a watchful eye on her amount of training and weight.

"I eat a ton of calories to prevent losing weight – good calories, that is!" she said. "If I loose weight, I will surely get sick, so I keep a close eye on that."

Too much weight loss and/or overtraining for an athlete can be detrimental combination :hat leads to injuries. Overuse injuries such as stress fractures, muscles soreness, and extreme fatigue can hinder an entire season of training.

"I have been training hard, but smart," Jen said. "I progress with each event rather than trying to do too much at once. I also make sure I stretch a lot get some massages here and there."

Thus far, only two local athletes are signed up for all three legs of the SavageMan half triathlon, and that other person is Don Wilkinson. Don finished exceptionally well in the event last year, placing third in the 45-49 age division.

Jen and Don have supported each other during training, and Jen said they are looking forward to working together through the race.

Next up for Jen is a half iron triathlon in Morgantown on June 29, during which she said she hopes the training she has been doing for the last 20 weeks will peak.

"I have been doing a lot of running races in Morgantown to help get me faster, and in fact, at 35 I am running faster than I ever have in my life."

So what's her motivation? Well a little bit of talk, mind tricks, and being a role model to others, for starters.

"I have always been a goal setter. Once I set a goal, I go after it. Especially if I tell people, I'm locked in to them. I don't want to say, disappoint anyone, but instead inspire others to also set goals and stick with them. I have always followed the saying 'When you believe in yourself, anything can happen.' So I have played a great positive mental game with myself in my training and competition."

So, the next time you see a person running or biking on the road, give them a little wave. It might be Jen or Don, and encouragement goes a long way when you're on mile 30 of a 50-mile training ride.

Oakland Blasts Tri-State In Home-Field Doubleheader

Oakland's Pen-Mar baseball squad entertained Tri-State in a Saturday twinbill at Garrett College and captured a 5-1 win before blasting the Titans out of the ball park in a 10-0 blanking in the second game.

The first game on Saturday was slow moving until Oakland brought a bit of life to the game in the fourth inning when it scored all five of its runs.

Billy Reams produced a key double in Oakland's big fourth, and also recorded a single, while Jamie Clark drove in a run on a suicide play. Eric Johnson had two singles and Joe Wilt doubled.

Greg Beachy held Tri-State to just three hits as he fanned 11 and walked four.

Brian Powell was tagged with the loss despite allowing only two earned runs and striking out eight. Powell also helped himself at the plate by tripling and scoring the Titans' run on a Matt Wright single. Justin Jenkins doubled.

The Titans committed 10 errors on the day, five in each game.

Oakland totally dominated the second game with the help of Torey Poholsky, who one-hit the Titans while allowing one walk and striking out five in five innings of work.

After a scoreless first inning, Oakland scored once in the second and three times in the third to grab hold of a 4-0 lead. The Oaks had a four-run fourth and got their final two runs in the fifth to set off the 10-run rule.

Reams hit a double, a single, scored twice, and recorded two RBI to lead the battery of the winning team. Bryan Lenhart provided two singles and an RBI, while Danny Flores had three RBI and two singles. James Altobello finished with an RBI double, Chris Shirco had a double, and Trey Peterson smacked two singles, scored two runs, and had an RBI.

Oakland will host Mt. Storm on Sunday.

Garrett Sandwiches Substantial Win Between Two Close Games

Garrett sandwiched a substantial victory between two close ones over Cumberland in recent American Legion baseball action. Garrett first managed a 5-4 win over Cumberland in the first game of a weekend doubleheader, then went for a 12-3 thrashing in the second game. Garrett then edged Cumberland for a second time, 9-8, in a recent contest in McHenry.

Garrett won the first game on Saturday at Legion Field with a triple play after Cumberland rallied to within one point late in the game.

Garrett rode a 5-2 lead into the bottom of the seventh inning of the opening game, but Cumberland rallied with Shane Malloy hitting a double to lead off the inning, and Cody Ellsworth following with a single. Both scored on a John Taylor single, and a Scott Rice single put runners on first and second with no outs.

The next batter popped up a bunt to pitcher Jason Ashby, and the runners on first and second were picked off to complete the rare triple play.

Ashby hit a two-run home run during a three run third and also singled for Garrett. Matt Sisler rapped three doubles and Tyler Stephens singled three times. Jake Briley and Tommie Reams had RBI singles.

Cumberland was led by Jason Robinson, who slugged a solo homer. Ellsworth recorded a double and a single in the seventh, and both Taylor and Rice finished with two singles.

Garrett pitchers Sisler and Stephens teamed up to strike out eight while allowing 10 hits. Ellsworth pitched a complete game for Cumberland and allowed 11 hits and fanned eight.

In the second game, Briley gave all the offense his team needed for the 12-3 win by whacking two home runs and knocking in five. He cleared the bases with a three-run shot in the fourth inning before driving in two with a blast in the sixth.

Smith assisted in the Garrett victory with a double and two singles, giving him six hits on the day.

Corey Carr had an RBI double and Reams, an RBI triple. Nick Tressler hit two singles and Stephens recorded an RBI double and a single.

Cumberland received four hits from Malloy, doubles from Robinson and Ellsworth, and an RBI single from Hupe.

Garrett led 9-3 after four innings, then scored once in the fifth and twice in the sixth for insurance.

In Garrett's third recent win over Cumberland, Briley gave Garrett a 5-1 lead in the third inning with a three-run homer, and it looked as though Cumberland was headed for a big loss until it scored five runs in the seventh to bounce back into the game and eventually knot the score at 8-8.

Two innings later, Cumberland's pitcher balked at the plate and yielded Garrett's winning run.

Ashby led off the Garrett ninth with a double, and Briley was intentionally walked to put runners at first and second. Both advanced on a wild pitch, and with first base open, Trey Beasom was being intentionally walked when the Cumberland pitcher slipped to score Ashby.

Briley added a double and a single to his home run, and Ashby tacked on two singles to his double. Carr knocked in a run on a double, Reams hit two singles and had an RBI, Beasom doubled, and Tressler had an RBI double and a single.

Malloy had three singles for Cumberland, and Logan Harden hit a two-run double that capped the five-run inning. Scott Rice had a double and a single, while Derek Barb finished with an RBI double and a single.

Garrett (10-1-1 at the mid-season mark) will play this evening at 5:30 at Legion Field.

Hartley's Pizza Gets Just One Hit Out Of Smith In Wisp's Shutout

Alex Smith kept his cool at the plate as he one-hit Hartley's Pizza to spark Wisp's 11-0 shutout in Hot Stove league baseball action Wednesday evening.

Smith struck out four in five innings, walked only one, and allowed just a single. Of the two runners that reached base, neither made it to second.

Smith was backed at the plate by Garrett Rayner, who had the contest's only extra-base hit with a run-scoring triple, while Andy Umbel, Cody Humberson, Mike Burns, and Josh Bittinger recorded two singles and an RBI apiece. Smith joined the offense with an RBI single.

L. Bennett singled for Hartley's only hit.

G&S Coal/NewPage Improves To 9-3; Defeats Ridgeview, Team One

Two wins this week in Hot Stove baseball action put the team sponsored by G&S Coal/NewPage at a 9-3 season mark. The first win came in an 8-3 defeat of Ridgeview Enterprises on Monday, and the second, a 7-5 triumph over Team One Auto Mall in a make-up game on Tuesday.

Steven Holtschneider and Jordan Montgomery both tripled as G&S out-hit Ridgeview, 6-2, in Monday's contest at Holler Field.

Cody Malone picked up the win at the plate for G&S after working the first four innings. He was relieved by Jacob Miller in the fifth, and together they held Ridgeview to just two singles.

Malone finished with a single and a double for G&S, which recorded six hits.

Tied at 5-5 in the fourth inning, G&S surged past Team One Auto with two runs in the sixth for Tuesday's 7-5 win.

Holtschneider produced three of G&S's seven hits with all singles, which helped his team get out of a 5-2 deficit in the second inning. Jacob Miller smacked a triple and a single and Malone doubled.

G&S scored its tie-breaking run on a passed ball. Mitchell Morris followed with an RBI single to make it 7-5.

Calvin Hilliard hit a double and a single for Team One (4-7).

G&S will face the Fort Ashby Lions this evening at Holler Field.

Team One Auto Handed Loss By Grant County

The Hot Stove baseball team sponsored by Team One pushed for two runs in the final inning of Wednesday's game with Grant County Mulch, but it wasn't enough to prevent a 5-4 defeat. Team One also lost to G&S Coal/NewPage in a 7-5 loss on Tuesday. See other story for results.

Grant County got the final out of the game, which was played at Broadford Park, on a play at the plate to stop a Team One rally.

Cameron Oates and Derek Feaster both went 2-for-3 for the winners, and Josh Evans had a single and three RBI to lead the winning offense.

Grant County (6-4) took a 5-2 lead into the bottom of the seventh. After scoring runs on a sacrifice by Austin Bolyard and a ball hit by Garrett Hoffman that went for an error, Team One's Tyler Alt belted a two-out double to left field.

Grant County Mulch leftfielder Shawn Brown relayed the ball to shortstop Evans, who fired to catcher Feaster, who tagged out the baserunner for the final out.

Cork's Allows Just Two Runs In Wins Over Keyser, East Hardy

The Cork's Cars Hot Stove baseball squad ran over both its opponents this week with whopping victories. Cork's first blasted Keyser Moose in a 12-2 runaway victory on Saturday at John Kruk Field, then prevented East Hardy from scoring at all in an 8-0 contest at Broadford Park on Tuesday.

Nathan King and Corey Helbig belted back-to-back fourth-inning home runs as Cork's Cars sailed to a 10-hit victory over Keyser Moose.

King added a double and two singles to his stats and had a team-high three runs batted in as Cork's scored in every inning but the second.

Tyler Sweitzer earned the win as pitcher by allowing two runs while striking out 10. He yielded eight hits and walked one in the complete-game performance.

Brent Parrish recorded three of Moose's eight hits, all singles, and Bobby Spencer finished with two singles.

King initiated Cork's 8-0 walloping of East Hardy with a two-run blast in the first inning, and would drive in a total of three runs in addition to displaying noteworthy performance as pitcher.

King's shutout included 11 strikeouts and only five allowed hits over seven innings.

Contributing to Cork's 11-hit attack was Ryan Bennett with three singles, Derek Getson with a double, and Corey Helbig with two singles. Getson's double drove in two runs.

All of Cork's runs came in two-run spurts. It got two off King's homer, two in the third, and two more in each the fifth and sixth innings.

East Hardy was led by Foltz, who had a double and two singles.

Cork's Cars (9-2) plays Culver Design Build tonight at Hampshire High School.

Sweitzer, Simson, And Associates Falls To WEPCO, Legion Post 13

The Rec League baseball squad sponsored by Sweitzer, Simson, and Associates experienced a disappointing week with losses to WEPCO Federal Credit Union, 5-4, and to American Legion Post 13, 12-9.

WEPCO produced runs in the final two innings and edged its way past Sweitzer, Simson, and Associates in a recent contest in Westernport. SS&A led until WEPCO's sixth inning run, which tied the game at 4-4.

Marcus McGinnis drove Derek Cessare in for the game-winning run on a single to lift WEPCO to the win. McGinnis finished with two RBI and three singles.

Ryan Colmer rapped a solo homer in the sixth, while Thomas Holtschneider and Cessare had a pair of singles each.

Shane Weaver doubled and singled twice to lead SS&A, which had six hits, and Reece Duncan had two singles.

SS&A took a 4-1 lead after the fifth, but WEPCO starter Jeremy Shingler got comfortable and collected his ninth strikeout as his team rallied.

In a game of big innings on Tuesday at Donahue Field, SS&A had a hard time suppressing the American Legion offense.

Bryan Carter belted a two-run triple and Dylan Norris singled home to go-ahead run in the fifth inning that lifted American Legion.

Sailboat Racing
On Deep Creek Lake

TOO MUCH, THEN TOO LITTLE

A few weekends ago races were canceled because of winds over 30 mph; we could have used some of that breeze on Saturday. Accuweather predicted 5 mph at noon, but what we had was more like 0-3, more or less out of the NW. Now our racing guidelines require the principal race officer (PRO) not to start a race without a consistent breeze of 4 mph or greater. The PRO should have called it off or postponed to see if a steady breeze would appear later, but he didn't, so we all crawled out to the starting line.

When we got there we were surprised to see that the course for the Flying Scots was windward-leeward two times around! In that light air it would have taken hours to go around twice. We learned later that the PRO had changed the course to once around one minute before the first start. But by that time most boats were avoiding the starting line because another class was starting. So the PRO sent the rescue boat around to tell racers about the shorter course, but Ray Gauthier, out in front of the championship fleet, didn't hear until he was already past the finish line heading to the windward mark for the second time. Someone hailed him and he turned around and sailed (slowly) across the finish. But the postscript to this story is that the next day Ray chose an RAF (retired after finishing) for that Saturday race because he had received outside "help." He didn't need to do that!

In that Saturday race we had a good start, but stalled at the windward mark while the rest of the masters sailed by. Frank Meehan, with his wife Geri up, won by a bunch, but the Silvermans — Alan and Lyn — came from behind to finish second. The best thing I can say about that afternoon was that kind power boats began towing racers back to the club.

On Sunday we had a lovely SW breeze, but we were amazed to see the PRO set the line in the slot between Turkey Neck and Thousand Acres. The course should have been between Penn Cove and Zepp's Point on Turkey Neck, where a windward-leeward course would have been perfectly aligned with the wind. My crew, Fearless Marilyn Filemyr, and I led for most of the race until, at the last leeward mark, we had trouble getting our centerboard down, and so the spinnaker came down late and Meehan, Rissell, Peters, and Silverman all closed the gap. It was an extremely tight tacking dual for that final leg, and we managed to beat out Rissell at the finish.

Our racing rules do not close either the starting or finishing lines as is the case with many racing venues. (The reason is that our lake is quite narrow and closing those lines would seriously restrict sea room.) So, on the second beat of Sunday's race, and blissfully unaware of the proximity of the finish line, I tacked away from the shore onto starboard and did not see a Laser approaching the finish line on port. As soon as I saw the Laser I tacked back onto port to avoid it, as it was obviously finishing, but I was too late; the Laser tacked away to avoid us. The irony was that it was our son Andrew, who had been visiting us for the last few weeks, and this jog lost him his first first-place finish at Deep Creek! I felt terrible.

CARTWHEELS WITH A.R. – Andrew Robinson (aka. A.R.), the 2007 Amateur Freestyle Kayaking Champion, will give a free talk and kayaking demonstration this Saturday at 3 p.m. at the Adventure Sports Center International, McHenry. The demo will include several freestyle stunts by kayakers on the recurculating white-water course, including cartwheels. A.R. is a rafting and kayaking guide at ASCI and has been involved with whitewater sports for five years.

Free Kayaking Talk/Demo Set At Sports Center

The Adventure Sports Center International (ASCI) will host a free kayak demonstration, with Amateur Freestyle Champion Andrew Robinson and former National Slalom team member Brian Homberg, this Saturday at 3:30 p.m. at the center's recirculating whitewater course atop Marsh Mountain.

"Combine kayaking and gymnastics and you have the sport of freestyle kayaking – brightly colored boats that spin and maneuver through the rushing whitewater as paddlers do tricks with names like blunts, backstabs, cartwheels and flat-water loops," said Sue Fowler, community programs coordinator for ASCI.

Robinson, 2007 Amateur Freestyle Champion and Homberg, former National Slalom team member will give a talk and demonstration on kayaking, which will focus on different types and styles of boats, the equipment needed to kayak, and the type of training needed to become a national champion.

Robinson and other ASCI staff and paddlers will also demonstrate maneuvers on the "waveshapers" at the world's only mountaintop whitewater course. The demonstration is open to the public and free of charge.

Robinson (aka. A.R. or A Rob) is an raft guide and kayak instructor at ASCI. A.R. grew up on the Potomac River and, at the age of 16, a rafting trip on the Upper Youghiogheny got him hooked on whitewater. He has been boating for five years. His love of outdoor sports led him to enroll at the Adventure Sports Institute at Garrett College and live in an area rich with whitewater rivers and rock climbing venues. All his river time paid off last summer when he won the amateur division of the 2007 Freestyle National Championships.

SS&A Falls

Post 13 scored four times in the first inning and led 5-0 before SS&A recorded a seven-run fourth, which the Legion then answered back with a six-run fifth.

Trailing 8-5 in the bottom of the fifth, Carter ripped a two-run triple and scored on an overthrow at third base to tie the game at 8-8. Norris followed with his RBI single a few batters later to give the Legion the lead for good.

Carter finished with a triple, a single, and two RBI, Mike Bradford had a double, a single, and two RBI, A.T. Zembower had two singles and two RBI, and J.R. Shuck, a double for the winners.

Spencer Barnard belted a homer and knocked in two runs for SS&A (5-4), which received nine bases on balls. Andrew Sisler hit a single and drove in two runs, Derek Taylor doubled, and Cody Parsons and Shane Weaver each singled twice.

Next up for SS&A is a contest with Personal Best on Friday at Southern High School.

Casselman Defeated By WEPCO; Drops 13 Runs On Barrelville ODC

Casselman Valley came up a few runs short in a Monday evening Rec League baseball contest and was handed a 12-8 defeat by WEPCO Federal Credit Union, but the defeated team rebounded with 18 runs in an 18-6 conquest of Barrelville ODC at Dickel Field on Wednesday.

Casselman Lumber let go of a 4-2 lead in Monday evening's contest when WEPCO Federal Credit Union had two big innings in a row.

Casselman was ahead 4-2 in the second inning when WEPCO scored five runs in the third inning and knotted the score at 7-7. Thomas Holtschneider sparked a five-run fourth with a solo homer, Jeremy Shingler had an RBI single, and Bill Freeman knocked in a run in the decisive inning to sever the tie.

Shingler finished with two singles, Ryan Colmer had a two-run double, Marcus McGinnis tripled, and winning pitcher Jamie Stowell had an RBI double for WEPCO.

Matt Watson led Casselman, which had 11 hits, with a solo homer and a single. Neil Kamp stroked a double and two singles, and Teddy Linton and Brandon Beachy produced RBI singles for Casselman.

The comeback win kept WEPCO unbeaten at 7-0-1.

Casselman exploded for 13 runs in the final two innings of Wednesday's contest to ensure a win over Barrelville ODC. Casselman led 5-2 after scoring three runs in the top of the fourth. The fifth inning went scoreless and Casselman reeled off eight runs in the sixth to go ahead 13-2. Barrelville got two runs back in the sixth, but those were overshadowed when Casselman scored five more times in the seventh.

Neal Kamp had three hits, including a solo home run during the sixth inning. His other two hits were run-scoring singles. Richard Vogt also had three runs batted in.

Dustin Klots had a double, a single, and two RBI, Justin Rosenberger hit a two-run double, Aaron Beiler added a double, a single, and two RBI, Mark Watson smacked a two-run single, and Tyler Southerly, an RBI single for the winning team.

Barrelville's bats were paced by Pat Winebrenner's three singles and Nick Logue had a two-run single. Barrelville played the whole game with just eight players.

Casselman will play Chessie Federal Credit Union at the Frostburg Armory on Monday.

Free Life-Saving Demos Offered By Sports Center

The Adventure Sports Center International (ASCI) has invited the public to watch how professionals train for rescue situations around swift moving water and in the wilderness in two free demonstrations on Saturday, July 5.

Attendees will have the opportunity to learn proper rescue techniques and procedures for individuals that happen to be the first responder at the scene of a water emergency at 10:30 a.m. at ASCI recirculating whitewater course.

"You will have a chance to learn the basic use of whitewater rescue equipment including throw ropes, as well as, witness a live rescue simulation conducted by professionals in the whitewater course at ASCI," said Sue Fowler, community programs coordinator.

Walter Augustine, who will be giving the demonstration, is the Rescue School coordinator for ASCI. He is an ACA swift water trainer, CPR instructor, wilderness medicine instructor, basic life support instructor, and an instructor of advanced cardiac life support. Augustine served in the Marines in Operation Desert Storm and has participated in many search and rescue operations and serves as an EMT with Northern Garrett Rescue Squad. He said he has a deep passion for rivers and has been rafting for 25 years.

Then at 1 p.m., a second demonstration will be given on wilderness rescue.

Being in the wilderness and facing an emergency situation requires skills when 911 is not an immediate option.

The public is invited to witness a demonstration of how professional rescuers react and handle injuries in the aftermath of a wilderness accident and learn what one can do for his or herself to rescue or to help others. Spectators will be welcome to join in as rescuers or as 'victims.' Theatrical makeup will be used to create a realistic look on the 'victims.'

Next Concert Of Music At Penn Alps To Take Place In Cumberland

Music at Penn Alps will present an evening of classical music at Windsor Hall, Cumberland, on Saturday June 28, at 7:30 p.m. The program will be performed by the West Virginia Piano Quartet, which will be joined by string bass player Andrew Kohn in the featured work Quintet in A Major (The Trout) by Franz Schubert. The ensemble will also present a world premiere titled Quintet for Piano and Strings, written for the group by WVU resident composer John Beall.

This concert marks the first time in its 16-year history that Music at Penn Alps has staged a concert at a venue other than the Great Hall in Grantsville. It launches a new partnership with Queen City Promotions, the non-profit organization that operates and programs the Windsor Hall venue. The hall is accessible to those audience members requiring elevator service and is located along Baltimore Street in downtown Cumberland.

The West Virginia Piano Quartet was founded in 1994 by four West Virginia University faculty members. Two of the original members, James Miltenberger, piano, and William Skidmore, cello, are joined this year by Mikylah Myers McTeer, violin, and Maggie Snyder, viola.

Miltenberger received his DMA and master's degree from the Eastman School of Music and has performed extensively as a soloist throughout the United States, Europe, and Japan. Skidmore has presented numerous recitals throughout the eastern United States and was a member of the Baltimore Symphony for four seasons.

McTeer has performed internationally as a soloist, chamber musician, and orchestral player throughout Asia and Europe. Snyder has toured internationally with the Metropolitan String Quartet, and nationally with the Rafferty/Snyder Duo.

Kohn's performance credits include the Baltimore, Cincinnati, and Pittsburgh symphonies; he is currently a member of the Pittsburgh Opera and Ballet Theatre Orchestras; and an active solo performer.

Composer Beall is a graduate of Baylor University and the Eastman School of Music. He is composer in residence at West Virginia University. His music is performed throughout the world.

This performance is being underwritten by Dr. Peter B. and Iris Halmos, and is sponsored by the Allegany College of Maryland. Further funding for Music at Penn Alps concerts at Windsor Hall has been provided through a grant from the Community Trust Foundation, serving Allegany, Garrett, and Mineral counties.

Tickets are $15 for adults, and youth under 19 are admitted free of charge. For program and ticket information, persons may call 301-895-4250.

After the performance, audience members are invited to meet and talk to the artists at an informal reception. Music at Penn Alps is a non-profit organization dedicated to presenting classical music and American traditions throughout the tri-state region.

MPA TAKES IT ON THE ROAD – Music at Penn Alps will do something new this weekend, expanding its venue to Cumberland for the MPA concert Saturday. An evening of classical music will be held at Windsor Hall, Cumberland, on June 28 at 7:30 p.m. The program will be performed by the West Virginia Piano Quartet, shown above, who will be joined by West Virginia University faculty member Andrew Kohn, pictured below, on the string bass. See story.

Celtic Harp Music To Be Featured At St. Paul's Church

Celtic harpist Lynne Barnes will play Christian selections at St. Paul's United Methodist Church, Oakland, on Sunday, June 29, during the 8:30 and 10:45 a.m. worship services. The public is welcome.

A graduate of Mansfield (Pa.) University, Barnes has taught music and has served as organist and choir director in New England, the mid-Atlantic region, and Washington state. Her main instruments are harp and positive organ.

In addition to her public performances, Barnes gives lessons in Celtic harp, piano, guitar, and Appalachian dulcimer. She recently retired as music director at St. Luke's Lutheran Church, Cumberland.

St. Paul's Chancel Choir usually sings on Sunday mornings, but during the summer special music is offered at 10:45 a.m. and sometimes at 8:30 a.m.

St. Paul's is located at the corner of Fourth and Oak streets. For additional information, persons may call the office at 301-334-2391, e-mail mychurch1@verizon.net, or visit gbgmumc.org/paulsumc.

Acoustic Concerts With Greg Latta Slated At NGSP

New Germany State Park has announced the scheduling of two acoustic concerts featuring Greg Latta. The performances will be given on Saturday evenings, July 5 and August 2, at 7 p.m. in the park's Lake House.

Dr. Latta will sing and perform a combination of Appalachian, Irish, old-time, and traditional music using instruments such as the Appalachian dulcimer, guitar, banjo, mandolin, cittern, bouzouki, mandola, and recorder.

Latta is proficient with more than 15 instruments. He is a 3-time winner of the Mid-Eastern Hammered Dulcimer Championship, placed twice in the National Hammered Dulcimer Championship, and won several awards in the Friendsville banjo competition. He is also host and producer of the radio show Just Plain Folks, and a member of the Frostburg State University faculty.

The performances are free to the public and suitable for all ages. Accommodations for individuals with disabilities will be provided upon request. Seven days advance notice is requested. For more information, persons may call the park office at 301-895-5453, or email mmccormick@dnr.state.md.us.

Canaan Valley To Present Wheeling Symphony July 5

The Canaan Valley Resort in Davis, W.Va., will host a "Wind Fest" weekend, and will once again present a free holiday concert by the Wheeling Symphony at the resort's ski area. This year's event will also feature the Mountain Stage Band. The concerts will be held on Saturday, July 5, beginning at 3 p.m. Guests are encouraged to arrive early and are permitted to bring lawn chairs, blankets, and coolers. Food and beverages will be available for purchase.

The Windfest weekend will begin on July 4, featuring wind-propelled devices "of every size and shape," according to Troy Cardwell, general manager for Canaan Valley Resort.

"Wind Fest has become one of our biggest events of the year," said Cardwell. "Children and adults alike enjoy making and flying their own kites and being dazzled by the large 'stunt' kites being flown."

He said the weekend will offer kite flying demonstrations and kite building workshops by Wings Over Washington, a kite hobbyist organization. The group will fly some of its own creations, including a 250-square foot para-kite, an 80-foot scuba diver, and "OLO," one of the largest Octopus kites in the world at 130 feet long, he said.

A fireworks display will take place on Friday evening in nearby Thomas, W.Va., beginning at nightfall.

Fools Farce Set To Open July 9 At Our Town

Our Town Theatre will present the stage place Fools, a farce, on July 9 through 13. The show starts at 8 p.m. on all dates except the 13th, when it will begin at 2 p.m.

The play, directed by Christie Hamilton, features a cast of 10 players: James Naylor, Tatiana McCasky, Jack Spencer, Lynne Elmlinger, John Wilson, Seth Lewis, Patty Sherrard, Sue Lisantti, Joshua Elmlinger, and Alexis Kulscar.

Hamilton said the play opens as Leon Tolchinsky, an ambitious young schoolteacher, arrives in the village of Kulyenchikov, a town "that seems to have an inordinate amount of stupid people living in it," she said.

Leon meets with Doctor Zubritsky and his wife, Lenya, who have hired him to educate their daughter, Sophia. Leon is introduced to Sophia, with whom he falls in love, even though she proves to be just as unintelligent as the rest of them, if not more so.

"Hilarity ensues as Leon tries first to educate Sophia and then to come up with a plan to marry her and save her and the rest of the townspeople from an eternity of stupidity," Hamilton said.

Tickets are $5 each on Wednesday, Thursday, and Sunday; and $8 each on Friday and Saturday. Persons are advised to make reservations by calling the theatre at 301-334-2668.

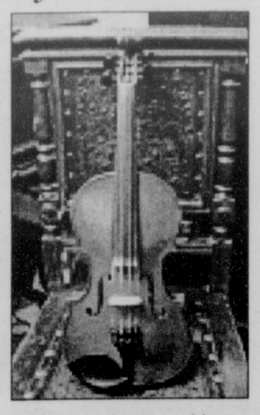
S. Craver, Garrett County Native, Announces Recently Released CD



Garrett County native Shawn Craver recently released a new CD, produced by BinfordHouse, that features the fiddle music of the Allegheny and Potomac Highlands. The disc, titled Fiddle in the Laurel, 12 Traditional Tunes From the Potomac and Allegheny Highlands Played on Solo Fiddle, was made public just after Father's Day.

"When you talk about the fiddle, bluegrass music comes to mind," said Craver. "It's important to know that fiddling has been in the U.S. since colonial days, or even before. Bluegrass fiddling was developed in the 1940s. The style of fiddling I was aiming for is much older."

Much of the current "old-time" fiddle scene revolves around the Southern Appalachians in places like Galax, Virginia, western North Carolina, and other southern states. Little music has been released into the world from places like western Maryland, southwestern Pennsylvania, and north central West Virginia, according to Craver.

"I have been making a list of fiddlers going back to the 1800s who played this pre-1900 music or had access to that tradition, and the list is growing into 30 something from Garrett County alone," Craver said Fiddling was such a part of life back in the 1800s in the mountains, and the tunes I chose for the CD are literally centuries old." Craver says he's currently not aware of a collection of tunes specifically from western Maryland and the surrounding counties.

All but two of the 12 tunes are played on a fiddle that was made by Roger Skipper, another Garrett County local. Skipper's acoustic instruments are currently in high demand, and according to Craver, they are some of the best you can get anywhere.

The disc also includes detailed liner notes about the source of the tunes and other stories about them. More information is available at www.shawncraver.com.

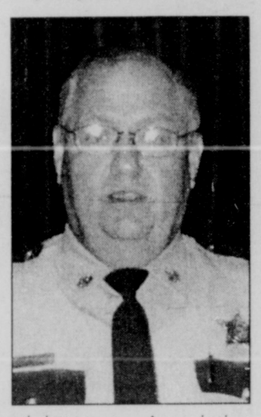
Blum Named DC Employee Of Year



Correctional officer Kevin Blum was recently recognized as the Garrett County Detention Center Employee of the Year for 2007. The award was presented at the 33rd annual Maryland Correctional Administrators Association meeting held in Ocean City.

"Corporal Blum is one of those behind the scenes employees who goes about his duties quietly and efficiently each and every day, " said a spokesperson with the Garrett Bureau of Investigation. "If it needs to be done, you can count on Kevin to take care of it with little fanfare and no need for recognition."

Corporal Blum is responsible for many mission critical tasks and working the midnight shift. He is said to accurately complete each task without supervision.

"Kevin has a lot of responsibilities that most folks take for granted," said a coworker. "He does a magnificent job with the schedule and 99% of the time satisfies everyone's needs for the time they request off." It was also stated that Blum is an honest and dedicated employee who is a fun person to be around while still completing all tasks professionally.

Blum is one of the primary training officers as well. It is his responsibility to ensure that all new staff has the foundation to build a career with the GC Detention Center. "He has the upmost respect of all the officers in the entire agency," said another coworker. "With his quiet, patient demeanor, he is able to impart his wealth of knowledge, and his professional conduct to the younger, less experienced officers."

"We are honored to present Corporal Blum as our 2007 MCAA Employee of the Year."

Truck Recovery Training Classes Taught Locally

South Side Salvage of Salisbury, Pa., and Grantsville sponsored a truck recovery training program on June 21 and 22. The training was conducted by Wes Wilburn, nationally known recovery expert, who owns a consulting firm and travels across the United States training in new techniques and safety for recovering wrecked vehicles.

The heavy-duty class focused mainly on single lane technique and expertise, which improves the recovery of rollover and road lane clearance. According to a spokesperson, this method is most desirable because it enables much less disruption of traffic flow. It only uses one lane for the procedure of up-righting heavy duty equipment. It can also save quite a lot of money in creating less damage to overturned equipment.

The event was organized by William Oester, president of South Side Salvage and Oester Trucking, with the help of his wife Linda, who is secretary of South Side Salvage and general manager of Oester Trucking. They were also assisted by Dan Burd, safety director, and Sally Mack, safety secretary.

"I thought it would be an asset to train others in proper recovery techniques after I attended classes myself," Oester said.

He invited Wilburn to provide the training for his own employees in house last year, then decided to extend the offer of the class to other towing companies this year. He provided the wrecked trucks to use in the demonstrations, since he has access to them from his salvage yard.

Ted's Towing of Baltimore also brought a heavy-duty wrecker to assist in the training.

In addition to the employees of South Side Salvage, a total of 27 men attended the class, traveling from points in Pennsylvania, Maryland, West Virginia, and Ohio. All individuals who passed the classes will receive a certification in heavy-duty recovery through Wes Wilburn Consulting Firm.

PRACTICING TRUCK RECOVERY – South Side Salvage recently sponsored a truck recovery training program in the area. The heavy-duty class focused mainly on single lane technique and expertise, which improves recovery of rollover and road lane clearance. See story.

Revised Child Passenger Law Effective June 30

Effective June 30, Maryland law will require children up to age 8 to use a child safety seat or booster seat when riding in a motor vehicle, unless the child is 4'9" tall or taller or weighs more than 65 pounds. The current law requires children to use safety seats until they reach 6 years of age and weigh 40 pounds.

"This change will help protect older children who are not ready for adult seat belts," said Diane Lee, Garrett County Health Department highway safety coordinator. "Even after reaching the current requirement of age 6 and a weight of 40 pounds, most children are not tall enough for adult seat belts to fit properly."

Proper fit for a seat belt means the lap-shoulder belt fits low on the child's hips and across the mid-chest, Lee explained. If the belt fits across the child's neck or stomach, the child could be injured in the event of a crash.

The change in the law means some children who have been secured with adult seat belts under the current law will have to return to a safety seat or booster seat, said Lee. The appropriate seat for most 6- to 8-year-olds is a booster seat, which is designed to raise the child up so that adult seat belts will fit properly. Booster seats do not have harness straps and are not permanently installed in the vehicle, but require a lap/shoulder belt to protect the child.

"We've seen too many children seriously injured in crashes because they were not adequately protected with the proper safety seat, and the updated law will protect more children than ever before," said Lee. "We know that using the right seat for the child's age and size can greatly reduce the risk of injuries when traveling on Maryland's busy highways."

Lee noted that boosters are generally the least expensive type of safety seat, with some starting as low as $13. For families who cannot afford to purchase a safety seat, a loaner program is available at the Garrett County Health Department. For more information, persons may call the health department at 301-334-773 or 301-895-3111. For more information about Maryland's child passenger safety laws, persons are encouraged to visit the Maryland Kids in Safety Seats web site at www.mdkiss.org.

SAFETY SEAT LAW TO CHANGE – Changes t Maryland's child safety seat law will take effect ne Monday, June 30, requiring children up to age 8 to us a child safety seat or booster seat when riding in motor vehicle, unless the child is 4'9" tall or taller and/ weighs more than 65 pounds. In the photo above, Heath Lander, AmeriCorps member at the Garrett County Healt Department, assists 7-year-old Patrick Lee with hi booster seat. See story for details.

SHS Valedictorian Deemed Robert C. Byrd Scholar

The Maryland State Department of Education has announced that Julie Swerbinsky has been named a Robert C. Byrd Honors Scholar. The 2008 Southern High School valedictorian is the daughter of Debra and Joe Swerbinsky, Mtn. Lake Park.

Swerbinsky is one of 109 students across Maryland to be named a Robert C. Byrd Honors Scholar this year. Each honoree receives a four-year scholarship worth up to $1,500 per year, based on cost of attendance, to be used for undergraduate study at any institution of higher education.

The scholars were chosen from more than 500 nominees made by public and private high school principals from across the state.

"Maryland is fortunate to have so many talented young people at our high schools, and this program gives us a chance to celebrate and honor their many accomplishments," said Dr. Nancy S. Grasmick, state superintendent of schools. "These students are among our nation's best and brightest, and this program gives them a financial boost as they begin college."

The Robert C. Byrd Honors Scholarship Program is designed to promote student excellence and achievement. The program recognizes exceptionally able students who show promise of continued excellence as they pursue higher education.

Principals at both public and private schools were invited to nominate students from the top 1 percent of their graduating classes for this award. GED graduates also are considered for the honor.

Scholars were named in all 24 public school systems, as well as at private schools.

Oral Cancer Is Said To Kill More Marylanders Than Other Cancers

by Diane Lee, GCHD

By now you know about colonoscopies, mammograms, PSA tests, and PAP tests. But do you know about perhaps the easiest exam you should have each year? It takes about two minutes and it's painless –it's an exam for mouth cancer.

Mouth cancer will kill more people this year in Maryland than melanoma or cervical cancer. Every day two people in Maryland are diagnosed with it, and only 50 percent of those diagnosed with mouth cancer will survive five years.

Fortunately mouth cancer is highly preventable if the correct steps are taken. Adults over 40 years of age should get an annual oral exam from their dentist, hygienist, physician, or other health care provider. Since 90 percent of those diagnosed with oral cancer use tobacco products of some kind, quitting the use of all tobacco products significantly reduces the risk of developing oral cancer.

Early detection of oral cancer is crucial for increasing the odds of survival if diagnosed with the disease. Be sure to ask for an exam for mouth cancer at your next appointment. Even if you wear dentures you should have your mouth examined once a year to check for mouth cancer. If you are under the age of 40 but use tobacco products, you should also be sure to have a screening exam annually.

Remember, early detection can save your smile and your life – get checked today. For more information about oral cancer screening and prevention programs in your area, call the Garrett County Health Department at 301-334-7777 or visit www.-maryland-oralcancer.org.

Tuel Garden To Be On MLGC Tour

The Mountain Laurel Garden Club will host its eighth annual Secret Country Gardens Tour this Saturday, June 28, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Participating in the tour will be Dorothy and David Tuel with their garden that incorporates both old and new landscaping. The Tuel property is one of three tour sites this year.

Italian for "to fall in love with," the name of this garden, Si Innamoro, expresses the feeling the owners said they have about this property located at Deep Creek Lake. Both close friends and family members have contributed plants to their garden over the last couple of years, where much time is spent with family gatherings. The stonework in front of the house and the pond on the property are among the highlights to view. Yucca plants and ferns are featured species of the gardens.

The challenges for the Tuels have been in the form of drainage and poor soil, as well as their puppy, who they said "digs as fast as we plant." A stone walkway addresses the water issues. A focal point of the property is a stone wall in the front, along with an original Wisp chairlift chair suspended between two trees.

Sitting on the stone patio overlooking the lake is the Tuels' favorite spot, they said, where they can view the old pines and mountain laurel mingled with the new shrubbery and perennials.

Dorothy said her favorite aspect of the garden has been maintaining the rich history of the property while adding their own plants and designs.

Conservation is a focus of the Mountain Laurel Garden Club. Conservation committee members will be in attendance at this garden along with guest Kim Madigan, recycling coordinator for Garrett County, to answer any questions regarding recycling in the county.

Tickets for the tour, which include a short description of each garden, a map, and written directions, may be purchased in advance at six locations: Gregg's Pharmacy, Green Acres Garden Center, and Buds to Blooms, all Oakland; Nature's Own, Sang Run Road, McHenry; Annie's Restaurant, Accident; and Beachy's Pharmacy, Grantsville.

On the day of the tour, members of the Garrett County Historical Society will sell tickets at the Gazebo in Oakland. The cost of a ticket is $7. Tickets for raffle prizes will be available on the day of the tour, as will be refreshments. There will also be a perennial sale.

Proceeds from the tour will be used by the Mountain Laurel Garden Club for the continued beautification of local communities as well as the encouragement, through club activities and programs, of gardening and sound conservation practices.

A portion of the proceeds will be donated to the Garrett County Historical Society.

For more information about the tour, persons may contact Kathie Smith at 301-334-3249 or log on to www.mountainlaurelgardenclub.org.

The Mountain Laurel Garden Club is a member of the National Garden Clubs Inc., the Central Atlantic Region, and the Federated Garden Clubs of Maryland Inc.

FSU Student To Be PR Assistant For United Way

DESIREE LAKE

Frostburg State University senior Desiree Lake will be completing a 3-credit practicum this summer for the County United Way. Under the direction of Executive Director Mary Beth Pirolozzi and practicum advisor Dr. Elesha Ruminski, Lake will be focusing specifically on public relations for Garrett, Allegany, Mineral, and Hampshire counties.

"I will be writing press releases and public service announcements," Lake said. "My main goal is to illustrate how the United Way and the community can unite to solve problems. It's a partnership, and everyone plays a significant role. Not only will I be helping a generous organization, but I will gain valuable work experience as well."

Lake will also attend the annual executive meetings, help plan a June board retreat, prepare for the second annual United Way Kick-Off Campaign and presentation of Community Caring Awards at Frostburg State University, and start on a design for the newsletter.

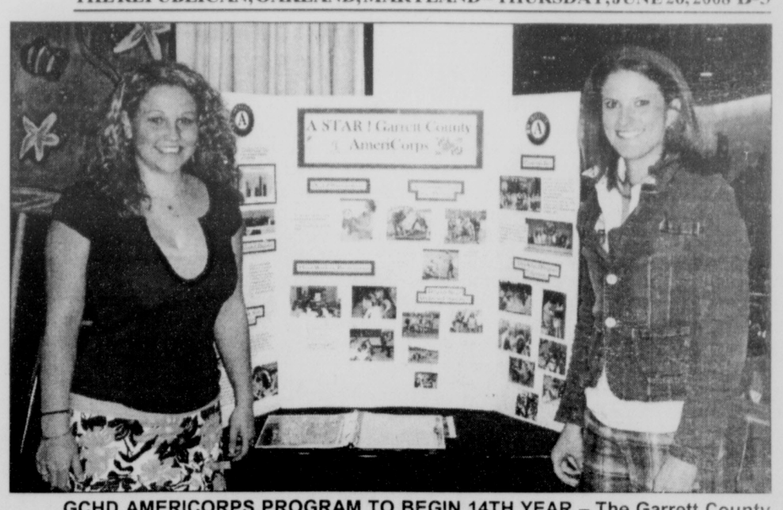
Lake came upon the internship while attending the Sloop Leadership Institute; a 2-two day retreat for Frostburg State University juniors and seniors. Pirolozzi was in attendance, and was introduced to Lake there.

"When meeting her at Sloop, I was impressed that she immediately introduced herself and talked about her interest for a professional career," Pirolozzi said. "Then, after asking about my background and current position, without skipping a beat, she asked me if I had any intern opportunities or needed any assistance in my office. I like self-starters and someone who takes the initiative to make things happen; that's what I saw in her."

Dr. Elesha Ruminski, Lake's practicum advisor, is an assistant professor of the communication studies department at Frostburg State University, and coordinator for the leadership studies minor.

"I have known Desiree since late in the fall 2008 semester, when she was elected secretary of the Communication Club," said Ruminski. "She is ambitious, well-organized, and professional; she steps up to take on leadership in various contexts as needed. I hope Desiree gets a good sense of how to apply the communication skills and theories she has learned at FSU in her public relations efforts for the United Way."

Lake resides in Bear, Del., and is the daughter of Gary and Becky Lake. She is pursuing a double major in communication studies and mass communications. She is also working on a double minor in public relations and French. She will be completing her undergraduate career in the spring of 2009.



GCHD AMERICORPS PROGRAM TO BEGIN 14TH YEAR – The Garrett County Health Department is anticipating the start of its 14th year of AmeriCorps service in August. "I really enjoy working with all the kids in the different programs," said current AmeriCorps member Hana Smith, pictured at left. Members help with the health department after-school programs and direct a teen health theater troupe. They also assist in the child safety seat program and highway safety program. Additional responsibilities include a dental education program, coordinating agency recycling, and Adopt-A-Highway projects. "Members receive a living allowance as well as an educational award," stated one spokesperson. Beitzel, Skipper Honored For Efforts In Community Service

Two young women of Garrett County were honored as State Service Stars on May 12 at the Turf Valley Resorts and Conference Center, Ellicott City. Each year two students are selected from each county in Maryland to be recognized as having completed quality service activities, and this year's local recipients are Amanda L. Beitzel and Rachel K. Skipper. Beitzel was able to attend the ceremony, however Skipper could not.

In order to qualify for the Service Star Award, students must be enrolled in high school, exceed expectations for service learning programs in their districts, have 100 hours or more of documented service through at least three different service sites, and strive to act as a role model to their peers.

Beitzel, who completed 295 hours of community service, is a 2008 graduate of Northern High School. She said she enjoyed her work with the After School Program the most.

"I participated in the After School Program when I was in middle school, so I really enjoyed giving my time and energy back to such a worthwhile program."

She is also involved with the PTO, 4-H, SADD (Students Against Destructive Decisions), and said she enjoys working with the elderly at the Goodwill Mennonite Care Home.

AMANDA BEITZEL

RACHEL K. SKIPPER

Beitzel said her future plans are to attend Garrett College for two years before transferring to Allegany College to become an RN. She is the daughter of Steve and Jenny Beitzel, Grantsville.

Skipper, a 2008 graduate of Southern High School, completed 388 hours of community service and is active in her church with various activities, including a mission trip.

"My mission trip sticks out most when I think of a service event that had a lot of meaning," Skipper said. "I saw people in the worst situations possible and was able to help them, even if it was just by providing a few meals.

Skipper is also involved with local theatre, Rotary Christmas Project, and the Elks Club, where she assists with the making of valentines for veterans. Skipper said she plans to attend a four-year college and major in mathematics with a special interest in actuarial science. She is the daughter of John and Kathy Skipper, Oakland.

The Maryland State Department of Education has developed a service project over the past several years and this year's service project was to sponsor the Casey Cares Foundation, which reaches out to critically ill children and their families by customizing fun and uplifting activities. Beitzel raised $100 for the project and presented the money to Casey Baynes, executive director of the foundation.

Beitzel noted her appreciation for the local businesses and individuals who gave her donations.

"Recognizing and supporting our youth is more important than ever before in America's history," said Dr. George Stevens, USAA founder.

Jessica is the daughter of Mike and Melanie Cooper.

Ask The Everyday Scientist

by Dr. Tom Sheahen
ODD MOTOR FUELS

Q. In addition to making motor fuel from coal, I've heard that you can make it from garbage and all sorts of stuff. Is any of that true?

A. It really is true, in some sense – you can make motor fuel out of just about anything, if you're willing to spend enough money doing so.

First of all, you can take the grease that french fries are cooked in and run a diesel engine on that. That has already been demonstrated.

Perhaps the best example of fuel-from-garbage comes from our military forces in Iraq. The commander of the Marines out in far-western Anbar Province decided to take kitchen waste and food garbage and turn it into fuel. A big tank called a biodigester did the conversion.

His motivation and reasoning was based on military necessity. At first, all their fuel was brought in by trucks, and every one of those trucks was an additional target for the enemy to attack. To minimize risk to our forces, you would of course want to minimize the number of trucks going down the road. Making your own fuel on-site is one good way to reduce that traffic.

The reason this is possible is very simple: Just about every organic chemical, including fossil fuels like coal, oil, and natural gas, are made up of carbon (C) atoms bonded to hydrogen (H). Food waste is somewhat similar: There is water in it, there are also chemical bonds with oxygen, but still there are many C-H chemical bonds. The process we call "burning" requires fuel and oxygen; and "fuel" usually means C-H bonds.

When a C-H bond breaks, it releases energy, which is the whole idea – release energy and generate heat, which can do such work as pushing a piston, which moves something down the road. From the steam locomotives of bygone days to the most modern jet aircraft, the pathway of energy to heat to work to motion is what fuels are all about.

In a biodigester, the process breaks some of the chemical bonds, and creates other new bonds. A fair fraction of the energy in the chemicals (the garbage, for instance, or agricultural waste) is used up running the process, but at the far end of the line, out comes a hydrocarbon fuel. Natural gas is one such hydrocarbon; liquid fuels are another. The liquid fuel is certainly not gasoline, but it will run a diesel engine. (Diesel trucks are able to burn lower-grade fuels.) And every gallon of fuel produced on-site is a gallon that doesn't have to be trucked in.

But what about the cost? Out in Anbar Province, where Marines' lives are on the line, the commander doesn't give a whole lot of thought to getting the lowest price per gallon – he simply wants to maximize the amount of fuel that can be obtained from the waste. On a farm in America, there is a high front-end price for buying a biodigester, but after that, animal waste is free, and so the economics might work out favorably. Manufacturers of biodigesters conduct research to improve the efficiency of their equipment, but there is still a long way to go to get the price down to where biodigesters would be widely used.

Think about astronauts up in the space station for six months or more. The primary power supply for the station is electricity from solar panels. Some of that electricity is used to operate equipment for cleaning up waste. You can't just throw your garbage overboard, and you don't want to lift-off extra fuel if you don't absolutely have to. To keep functioning, the station has to include a complete sewage-treatment facility, which converts all forms of waste back to something useful. It takes a lot of electricity and is expensive, but the system works.

How long will it be before biological waste makes it into the fuel supply? Not any time soon. Unconventional sources of fuel such as tar sands and shale oil are very costly today, and so is liquid fuel from coal; but all of those processes are a lot cheaper than any method that uses garbage.

SPEAKER-IN-THE-EAR INSTRUMENTS

The biggest benefit associated with open-fit hearing instruments is that they do not occlude the ear canal. Instead of fitting tightly inside the ear (like an in-the-canal instrument) or having an ear mold (like a traditional behind-the-ear instrument), open-fit instruments consist of a behind-the-ear component that delivers sound through a clear tube to the ear. They are most appropriate for those with high-frequency hearing losses and normal low-frequency hearing. For those with more severe hearing losses, a modification to the open-fit instrument, called a "speaker-in-the-ear" instrument, may be programmed to address hearing losses across a wider range. Speaker-in-the-ear hearing instruments provide greater gain via a speaker enclosed in the thin plastic tubing that rests in the bowl of the ear.

You might suspect that you need help with your hearing, but you probably aren't aware of the many kinds of instruments and other enhancement devices that are available today. It takes the knowledge, experience, and dedication of a hearing specialist to accurately assess an individual's hearing loss and then match and custom-fit that individual with the most appropriate hearing aid. We care about your hearing abilities at AUDIBEL, and we'll do all we can to bring the sounds of life back to you.

P.S. Unlike other open-fit hearing instruments, speaker-in-the-ear instruments do not deliver sound down an acoustic tube, which means that these nearly invisible hearing aids are able to provide improved sound quality.

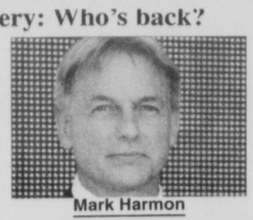
New 'NCIS' mystery: Who's back'?

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it



Mark Harmon

Q: Will "NCIS" return next year with a new cast, or was the season finale the end of the series? –Dean Coleman, Van Buren, Ark.

A: It's safe to say that of all the season-ending cliffhangers, the one on which we've received the most mail is that of Mark Harmon's CBS drama. The show will return with new episodes come fall, but since Harmon's character apparently is inheriting a new team, it's hard to say at this point which of the other regulars will be back.

We will mention this: Last year at this time, it seemed Hugh Laurie might be losing most of his "House" co-stars on Fox in one way or another, but they all returned, if not exactly in the same capacity in all cases. Just something to be kept in mind by those who fear their favorite "NCIS" star might not be back.

Q: What happened to "New Amsterdam"? I really enjoyed it, and it just stopped. Will it be back? –Gloria Wagner, San Antonio

A: It wasn't a good time for fans of the immortal detectives played by Nikolaj Coster-Waldau (Fox's "New Amsterdam") and Alex O'Loughlin (CBS' "Moonlight") when the networks announced their fall lineups last month. Both shows bit the dust, so to speak.

Q: One of the best programs last season was "Terminator: The Sarah Connor Chronicles." It would be a big mistake for Fox to discontinue it; should they, I for one will not watch Fox again. –Dennis Beauvais, Denver

A: Whoa, hold the threats! Fox has renewed the show for another season. You can keep watching.

Q: I was wondering if there is going to be a "Gilmore Girls" movie. I didn't like how the seventh season ended. –Mark Russell, Dayton, Ohio

A: Not that we know of, though we'd never say "never." What turned out to be the final episode of the show was designed so it could be either a season finale or a series finale, since The CW hadn't made that call yet when the story was filmed. If a follow-up special ever comes to pass, chances are good that whoever commissioned it would want creator and executive producer Amy Sherman-Palladino involved; she wasn't present during the series' last year.

Q: Is Efrem Zimbalist Jr. still working? And how about his daughter, Stephanie? I haven't seen them in anything in years. –Carol McFarlin, McKinney, Texas

A: The elder Zimbalist ("The FBI") hasn't appeared on camera in several years, and most of his work this decade has been in cartoon voice-overs. He's been heard as Bruce Wayne's manservant, Alfred, in several "Batman"-related projects.

As for former "Remington Steele" star Stephanie, she continues to take the occasional television role. Her movies such as "Truth" and "Malpractice" turn up often on Lifetime and Lifetime Movie Network; she also did guest shots on "Judging Amy," "Crossing Jordan" and "Touched by an Angel."

Our citizens are diverse...representative of all ages, all national descents, all races, religions, and creeds. We are unique, for such a diverse "melting pot" has not been previously known to man. Yet, in all the years since 1776, there has been only one Civil War fought on our soil. Our United States of America is a nation wholly dedicated to the preservation of peace and freedom.

As we celebrate our nation's birthday on the 4th of July, as the outburst of festive fireworks and the refrain of the "Star Spangled Banner" ring in our ears, consider also this historic echo, the foundation on which our nation was built...The Declaration of Independence. Remember the concluding phrase... "and for the support of this Declaration, with a firm reliance upon the protection of Divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our Lives, our Fortunes, and our Sacred Honor."

Plant the Seed of Goodness

Most people have good hearts and would like to see the world transformed into one where love and compassion are the dominant motives, but unfortunately, the world isn't so easily transformed. Hatred, violence, and pugnacity are deeply seated in the human psyche, and the evildoing which flows from these sources is strongly resistant to change. So, how might we work to transform the world into a better place? There are many ways to make the world better. Ghandi suggested that "We must become the change we want to see in this world." Jesus counseled us to "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you." And, the law of karma claims that if we treat others well, our good deeds will return to us. Surely, there is some simple, yet profound wisdom in all of this. The quiet, unassuming example of a good person is often more effective at inducing change than the self-righteous moralist on their soapbox. Perhaps the attempt to transform the world into a better place is more like planting a seed than inducing a wholesale change of heart. And although we don't now which of our kind words or actions will take root and grow in someone else's heart, we should keep on planting those seeds and watering them with the hope that they will grow.

And other seeds fell into good soil and brought forth grain, growing up and increasing and yielding thirtyfold and sixtyfold and a hundredfold.
R.S.V Mark 4.8.

Congestive Heart Failure and Hawthorne Supplements

Hawthorne is an herb that has been used to treat digestive disorders in Traditional Chinese Medicine for centuries. The flowers, leaves, and berries of the plant are used as supplements. Recently, hawthorne has been used in the treatment of congestive heart failure (CHF), a disorder in which the heart weakens over time. CHF leads to an inability of the heart to pump blood to the rest of the body at a normal rate. This in turn causes fluid to build up in the body, particularly the lungs. Symptoms include shortness of breath, fatigue, and swelling in the feet and legs.

A review of the effects of Hawthorne on CHF was recently published. People who got hawthorne experienced a significant increase in exercise tolerance and decreased shortness of breath and fatigue compared to placebo pills. Side effects from this supplement may include nausea, fatigue, sedating. Hawthorne may also add to the effects of blood pressure medications and sedatives.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• If you have plans to travel to Indiana this September, you might want to head to the small town of Harmony. That's where, on the third Saturday of September every year, you'll find the Big Whopper Liar's Contest, in which contestants compete to see who can tell the most original, exaggerated lie.

• You might be surprised to learn that it was noted author and philosopher Ralph Waldo Emerson who made the following observation: "Being perfectly well-dressed gives a feeling of tranquility that religion is powerless to bestow."

• In ancient Egypt — around 1500 B.C. — baldness was considered to be the absolute height of feminine beauty. Women of the nobility often had special gold tweezers that they used to pluck their hair, and then they polished their heads to a high sheen with buffing cloths.

• Those with entirely too much time on their hands have determined that there are precisely 336 dimples on a regulation golf ball.

• Studies show that men not only laugh louder than women, they also laugh longer and more often.

• If you think weddings in the United States are getting out of hand, you might want to consider this: In a traditional Korean wedding, the engagement gifts alone can cost $40,000 or more.

• Every year, there are more than 50,000 earthquakes throughout the world.

• The next time you're upset and thinking about tossing something across the room, try to keep in mind the results of a study conducted in 1999, in which researchers found that venting anger on inanimate objects actually increases aggression rather than decreasing it.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On July 2, 1900, in the sky over Germany, Count Ferdinand Graf von Zeppelin successfully demonstrates the world's first rigid airship. The 420-foot, cigar-shaped craft was lifted by hydrogen gas and powered by a 16-horsepower engine.

• On July 4, 1914, director D.W. Griffith begins shooting "Birth of a Nation," one of the most controversial movies in the history of American filmmaking. Griffith spent about $100,000 to make the silent film, a Civil War epic that used groundbreaking techniques, including multiple camera angles.

• On June 30, 1936, Margaret Mitchell's novel "Gone with the Wind" is published. A New York editor encouraged Mitchell to make one important change to the manuscript: the heroine's name. Mitchell agreed to change it from Pansy to Scarlett, now one of the most memorable names in the history of literature.

• On July 5, 1946, French designer Louis Reard unveils a daring two-piece swimsuit he dubbed the "bikini," inspired by a U.S. atomic test that took place just days earlier off Bikini atoll in the Pacific. Reard kept the mystique alive by declaring that a two-piece suit wasn't a genuine bikini "unless it could be pulled through a wedding ring."

• On July 6, 1957, Althea Gibson defeats Darlene Hard 6-3, 6-2 to become the first black tennis player ever to win Wimbledon. Gibson won the U.S. Open in 1958, and was named Female Athlete of the Year by The Associated Press in both years.

• On July 3, 1971, singer Jim Morrison is found dead in a bathtub in Paris. Morrison, 27, was taking a sabbatical from his hit rock band, The Doors, when he died of heart failure, likely caused by a drug overdose.

New Dog Battles for Dominance

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: I have a 19-month-old cocker spaniel that is new to our home. Ginger is constantly growling at our older dog, 9-year-old Buster, and they often get into fights. What can I do to stop them from fighting? — John F., Tampa, Fla.

DEAR JOHN: There's no quick solution to this problem. What's happening is that Ginger, the spry young dog, is in an active contest with Buster, the old hand, for first place in a two-dog pecking order.

Many dog owners assume that one good-natured dog will get along fine with another friendly pooch in the same household. Some also think that treating all dogs equally will keep them peaceful. But pet researchers are coming to different conclusions about the "pack mentality" and the dominance of one dog over another. Some believe that recognition and enforcement of the pecking order is a very important step toward keeping order in the household.

Another factor in your situation is that Ginger and Buster are evaluating their places in the family. Until recently, Buster was top dog — the only dog, in fact. Ginger, who may have been the dominant member of her litter or her household, is confused at her new status as second fiddle. Neither dog is willing to concede its claim to the throne.

So, it's up to you to decide. You have to choose which dog will be the more dominant of the two. And you have to reinforce that decision by treating the leader like a top dog. When the dogs come inside, pet the dominant one first. At dinnertime, feed the dominant one first. And so on. Establish the pecking order, placing yourself at the top as the decision maker, and then promote either Ginger or Buster.

In a short period, the fighting should stop, as should most of the growling. If it does not, consult a professional trainer or a behaviorist, and your veterinarian.

Collecting

by Larry Cox

Q. My brother collected old cameras and lenses. I'm interested in finding out what, if anything, they are worth and where I can possibly sell them. Although a friend bought several, I put others on eBay with no results. Whatever advice you can give me will be appreciated. — M.J.Q., Sinsinawa, Wisc.

A. One of the better general reference books is The Antique Trader Cameras and Photographica Price Guide edited by Kyle Husfloen (KP Books, $19.99). This easy-to-use book features more than 1,500 detailed descriptions and 1,300 illustrations. It is available at larger bookstores or from the publisher, KP Books: www.krause.com, and 1-888-457-2873.

There are two publications that might also be helpful: CameraShopper, P.O. Box 1086, New Canaan, CT 06840; and Shutterbug Ads, 5211 S. Washington Ave., Titusville, FL 32780. John S. Craig is a dealer who buys and sells antique and collectible photographica — cameras, daguerreotypes, stereo viewers and literature. Contact him at Craig Cameras, P.O. Box 1637, Torrington, CT 06790; john@craigcamera.com; and www.craigcamera.com.

Q. My mother collected candles, and we now have about 300 of them. There are horses, witches, Christmas designs, castles and many others — some of them from as early as the 1950s. Where can we sell them? — Mary, Cedar Crest, N.M.

A. My advice is to list them on eBay. Although this will take time and patience, you will get the maximum amount of money for your collection.

Garrett County Board of Realtors, Inc.

Editor's note: June is National Home Ownership Month, and in observance of that designation, the Garrett County Board of Realtors is providing these informational Q&A columns through June.

Q. How do I determine the asking price for my home?

A. Realtors can perform a competitive market analysis (CMA) to assist you in determining a list price. The process begins by gathering all the information about your home and then comparing it to homes that have sold, homes on the market, and homes that did not sell. Comparable homes should be of similar style, location, size, age, amenities, etc., if possible.

Financial adjustments are made to compensate for the differences in the homes, to arrive at a reasonable listing price range. The sold homes will give you an indication of what the market has borne for similar homes in the past, while the homes on the market are your competition and are a reflection of current market conditions.

While a CMA is not an appraisal, realtors use most of the same methods and techniques as an appraiser uses when arriving at their value. The final listing price is ultimately the homeowner's decision, but the motivation and reason for sale should be factored into the pricing after the CMA to determine which end of the range is more appropriate.

Q. If I am making an offer, will the realtor tell me about others?

A. Not unless the seller has instructed the realtor to do so. While it may seem in the seller's best interest to inform all parties of the possibility or existence of another offer, that's not always the case.

Some purchasers – when told there is another person bidding – may not be interested in getting into a bidding war, or just don't want the pressure and hold off as a result. The worst-case scenario is when both parties involved do not offer, and, instead of two offers to decide from, there are none.

The best option when you are really in love with a home is to put your best foot forward, as you may not get a second chance for a counter offer. When a counter offer occurs, keep in mind that a counter offer is a rejection of the previous offer, and a new offer in return. The importance of this is that each time a counter is made, the previous offer is gone.

Also note that any offer can be withdrawn until it is accepted, which means until the contract is signed and delivered to all parties, either party may rescind their offer. For this reason, timing is always of the essence.

Big Beef Recall Proves Small is Safer

by Billie Best, April 2008

It has been widely reported that on February 17, 2008, Westland/Hallmark Meat Company, of Chino, California, issued the largest beef recall in history. 143 million pounds of beef, most of it already eaten, was recalled because the USDA Food Safety Inspection Service was embarrassed by an undercover video, which surfaced on Youtube at the end of January, showing extreme animal abuse, and proving that sick animals were being put into the food supply. Even as they were demanding the recall, according to the New York Times, "Agriculture officials said there was little health risk from the recalled meat because the animals had already passed pre-slaughter inspection and much of the meat had already been eaten. In addition, the officials noted that while Mad Cow disease was extremely rare, the brains and spinal cords from the animals—the area most likely to harbor the disease—would not have entered the human food chain." This story raises two important issues about USDA food safety policies: 1.) The difference between food safety inspection processes in very large plants versus very small plants, and 2.) The efficacy of the National Animal Identification System as a food safety program.

1.) The difference between food safety inspection processes in very large plants versus very small plants

In a very small USDA-inspected meat processing plant, one that slaughters a cow an hour, or about 8 to 10 cows a day, the USDA inspector sees every animal individually for a visual health inspection before the animal is killed. If the inspector deems the animal healthy looking, the processor may then kill the animal. Once a cow is killed, it is eviscerated into a stainless steel tray and the heart, lungs, and liver are separated and visually inspected to ensure the tissue is healthy looking. The head is removed and placed in a separate tray where it is also inspected. After evisceration, if the inspector discovers anything indicating the animal was not in good health, the inspector may demand the carcass be quarantined until further inspection, or that the carcass be destroyed and removed from the premises. In a very small USDA-inspected meat processing plant—whether the animals being processed are cows, pigs, sheep, goats, lambs, turkeys, or chickens—slaughter work does not begin until the inspector is present and gives permission to proceed, the inspection is one continuous process from live animal to carcass, and the inspector has absolute authority over the process. One small-scale meat processor I spoke with said having a USDA inspector in his plant was like driving your car with a state trooper in the back seat. Yes, the state trooper's presence is going to ensure you comply with the rules of the road to the letter of the law, but it's also very intimidating, and creates a situation where absolute authority may be corrupted without the presence of checks and balances to ensure fairness. Yet, if we all drove our cars with a state trooper in the back seat, there would probably be many fewer traffic accidents. Where is the USDA inspector in a plant that processes 100 cows an hour? How much time does he spend looking at each animal? Where is the inspector in the fabled plants that process one thousand cows an hour? How many USDA inspectors are there per animal per hour in large meat processing plants? How much time lapses between the visual inspection of the live animal and the time the animal is killed? Are each animal's vital organs examined before the carcass is processed? Is each animal given the same rigorous, individual inspection it would receive in a very small meat processing plant? How did it happen that sick animals made it onto the kill floor at Westland/Hallmark? Where was the USDA inspector? Do the owners of multi-million dollar processing facilities, with hundreds of employees, producing thousands of pounds of meat a day, have the same experience with their USDA inspectors as the owners of very small meat processing plants? Did the owners of Westland/Hallmark Meat Company feel like they were driving their business with a state trooper in the back seat?

Evidently not.

If the presence of USDA food safety inspectors is what ensures the safety of our meat supply, then the meat processed in very small USDA-inspected facilities, where each individual animal receives inspection at multiple points in the process, must be significantly safer than meat processed in very large USDA-inspected facilities where each animal is inspected at fewer points in the process, and inspections are more rapid, making them more superficial. Conversely, if the inspection processes in very large USDA-inspected facilities are adequate to ensure food safety; then the enormous cost-burden of current USDA inspection regimens for small-scale processors seems unjustified.

2.) The efficacy of the National Animal Identification System as a food safety program

The National Animal Identification System (NAIS) is one of the largest government programs ever proposed, and undoubtedly one of the most invasive and expensive, creating a massive new bureaucracy on the scale of the IRS for animals. According to the USDA, it is a food safety program intended to protect animal health and human health. In NAIS, the USDA proposes every livestock animal in the nation be tagged, from birth to death, with an identification number that includes a premises ID number for the location where the animal is kept. All animal movements would be reported via websites so a database search could locate the animal and/or the animal's premises within 48 hours. This feature is known as 48-hour trace-back. Would NAIS have prevented the largest beef recall in history? No. The Westland/Hallmark beef recall, which occurred weeks after the meat was distributed in the marketplace, was not for tainted meat or food found to be unsafe; it was a punishment for breaking food safety rules, spotlighting lax inspection processes, and embarrassing the USDA. Would NAIS have prevented any of the beef recalls of the past few years? No. Those beef recalls were made after meat was distributed in the marketplace and eaten by people who became ill. Industrial meat processors, wholesalers, and retailers do not maintain individual animal identification from kill to packaged table cuts. The cows were separated from their identification in the course of processing the meat. Without DNA testing, the best trace-back system could lead only to the date of consumption, dates of production, and batch numbers, but not to an individual animal. And consider this, one bite of tainted hamburger could contain meat from two cows from two different farms. Which one would we blame? In an industrial system where the meat in a hamburger comes from more than one cow, how does NAIS ensure food safety? It doesn't.

Why small is safer

The technology, machines, and money in large scale industrial meat processing plants give the appearance of being safe compared to the low-tech, age-old systems of smaller facilities, but the fact is personal attention and care for quality ensure food safety, not technology. USDA inspectors are better able to ensure safety in smaller facilities that operate at a slower pace. Likewise, NAIS gives the appearance of creating a food safety system until you look at how industrial meat is processed, packaged, and sold, and see all the disconnects in the information chain between the animal's identification and what ends up in your mouth. And NAIS doesn't protect animal health either. It gives the appearance of protecting animal health until you see the cost of NAIS is lower per animal for the largest operators—one ID each for the 20 birds in your back yard versus one ID for the entire 20,000 bird flock in a chicken factory—providing a direct incentive to lower NAIS implementation costs by concentrating animals in the numbers and places that nurture pathogens of both animal and human disease. Proponents of large-scale industrial meat processing facilities and NAIS are getting away with "playing the food safety card." But if we look at the facts, we see small-scale processing is safer for human and animal health because people working in small places are more accountable. There is less time/distance between the components of a smaller system enabling faster trace-back when problems do arise. In small facilities, carcass profitability and source verification are built into processing, sales, and marketing activities. And producing smaller batches of product presents less risk. When is comes to raising livestock and processing meat, small isn't just safer, small is smart.

Daycare Utilizes Health Department Wellness Program

Pam's Curtain Climbers Daycare, owned by Pam Schroth, Accident, is taking advantage of a six month Operation Jumpstart wellness plan offered free by the Garrett County Health Department. The mission of Operation Jumpstart is to promote wellness plans for businesses or organizations to educate and motivate employees to exchange poor health habits for better long-term health goals.

As one part of its Operation Jumpstart, Pam's Curtain Climbers had a lesson on bike safety and were fitted with bike helmets.

"Whether you require a complete wellness plan or support for your current program, outreach staff will work with you to develop a plan that meets your needs," Custer said.

Businesses and organizations interested in Operation Jumpstart may call the Garrett County Health Department at 301-334-7730 or 301-895-3111.

DAYCARE GETS JUMPSTART ON HEALTH – Accident daycare service Pam's Curtain Climbers recently utilized the free Garrett County Health Department-sponsored "Operation Jumpstart" program, which promotes wellness plans for businesses or organizations to educate and motivate employees to exchange poor health habits for better long-term health goals. Children at Pam's Curtain Climbers listened to a bike safety lesson and were fitted for bike helmets. Pictured above modeling their helmets, in the front row, from left, are Samantha Keller, Jackson Strout, Skylie Savage, and Haylee Jones. In the back row, same order, are Madison Kildorf, Zac Brown, Landon Hook, and Dustin Keller. Kneeling beside the children is Sharon Custer, outreach worker for the Accident/Bittinger area. See story.

Zion Lutheran Women Convene

The Women of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of America at Zion Lutheran Church, Jennings, held their monthly meeting on June 2. The three-session summer Bible study titled "Come to the Waters" was introduced. The first session, "Water, Water Everywhere,' was led by Leota Baker, and focused on the abundance of water and water imagery in the Bible. The principal emphasis was a closer look at baptism and the connection between water and the Word.

Judy Stanton presided over the business meeting. An announcement was made about the West Virginia-Western Maryland Synodical Convention of Women of the ELCA, which will be held Aug. 1-2 at Comfort Suites in Mineral Wells, W.Va. The theme will be "Bold Women in Praise and Prayer." All units are requested to send a love offering to the convention, which will be used to support the scholarship fund for female seminarians, the Lutheran Campus Ministry at West Virginia University, and the printing and mailing of the periodical, Lutheran Lines.

A gift offering was received from Viola Meyers, a former member of Zion's unit. A birthday offering was presented by Leota Baker.

A tribute to the memory of Kenneth Durst was made through a gift offering. This was sent to the Women of the ELCA-Churchwide and designated for "Serving the Poor," a world hunger program.

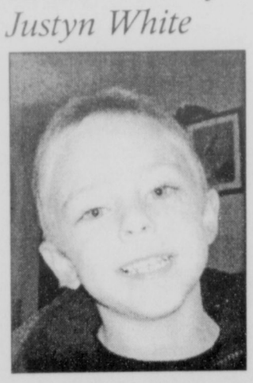
Spaghetti Dinner Slated To Benefit Justyn White



A spaghetti dinner will be held Sunday, July 13, at the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad Hall, Mtn. Lake Park, beginning at noon. Raffles and a silent auction will also take place during the dinner.

Proceeds benefit 5-year-old Justyn White, son of Michelle and Josh White, Oakland. Justyn was born two months prematurely, suffered brain hemorrhages, and, as a result, has cerebral palsy. Since he was 2 months old, Justyin has had physical therapy, Botox injections, castings, and braces, but his condition is worsening.

Justyn now needs selective dorsal rhizotomy surgery, which will take place on July 24 at St. Louis Children's Hospital in Missouri. He needs the surgery to help him live a more normal, active life. If Justyn does not have the operation, he will have many more complications as he grows, including leg and spine deformities, according to a family spokesperson.

The approximate cost of the surgery and hospital stay is $38,000, and Justyn's insurance is not accepted by the hospital, according to the spokesperson. As a result, the boy's family and friends have scheduled a variety of fundraisers. They are also asking for donations.

Donations may be deposited in the Justyn White Benefit Account at WEPCO Federal Credit Union, Oakland, or mailed to Wendi Rodeheaver, 414 Maple Avenue, Oakland, MD 21550.

CONTEMPLATING THEIR NEXT MOVES – Participants and families of the Partners After School @ Grantsville program recently held a Family Chess Night. The event was led by Northern High School teacher Shawn Nicklin, who helped secure a Chess in Maryland Schools grant. As a result, the Partners After School @ Grantsville program received a variety of chess supplies and each student was given his or her own chess set. The after-school program is sponsored by the Garrett County Community Action Committee, Partnership for Children & Families, Grantsville CSAFE (Collaborative Supervision and Focused Enforcement), and the Maryland State Department of Education. Pictured in the front, left to right, are Ben Deltero and Andy Beachy. Seated behind them are Wayne Menges and Jill Wood.

SHS Graduate Accepts Foreign Service Position

Benjamin Peracchio, a former Oakland resident and a 2003 Southern High School graduate, has accepted an appointment as a foreign service officer with the U.S. Department of State.

Peracchio will begin diplomatic training in the Public Diplomacy sector of the Foreign Service in Washington, D.C., in July. After six weeks of training, he will be officially sworn in and receive his first posting abroad.

Foreign assignments typically last one year for hazardous posts to two years for less dangerous locations.

In the Public Diplomacy sector, Peracchio's duties could range from working in an embassy press office to assisting military personnel in provincial reconstruction and rebuilding civic infrastructure.

Peracchio graduated from Asbury College in Wilmore, Kent., with a bachelor of arts degree in media communication. He has been working as a production manager for the past year at WLOS/WMYA News in Asheville, N.C.

Relief from Myasthenia Gravis Symptoms

Myasthenia gravis is an neurological condition that results in decreased strength of certain muscles resulting from a breakdown of communication between nerves and muscles. Acetylcholine is a chemical that normally carries nerve signals to muscles. Myasthenia gravis occurs when the immune system produces antibodies that interfere with the normal transmission of this chemical. Affected muscles may include those of the legs, arms, and eyes. Muscles that are responsible for chewing, talking, and breathing also may be affected. Double vision, drooping eyelids, and difficulty talking are potential signs and symptoms of this condition. Rarely, emergency medical attention may be required if a person's breathing is adversely affected.

Although there is no cure for this condition, medications available for relief of symptoms include pyridostigmine and neostigmine. They work to improve muscle strength by improving neuromuscular communication. Steroids decrease the production of antibodies. These drugs can lead to serious side effects when used for an extended period of time. Mycophenolate mofetil and cyclosporine affect the immune system and are sometimes prescribed for this condition.

Report Notes Deficiencies In Middle Schools; Gives Recommendations

Middle school students need additional class time and more rigorous math instruction at earlier grades, according to a report released this week.

"The Critical Middle: A Reason for Hope," the work of the Maryland Middle School Steering Committee, includes 16 recommendations designed to ignite greater academic improvement in grades six through eight.

The report also calls for increased instruction in foreign languages, improved programs in reading and writing, better teacher preparation, and integrated instruction in science, technology, engineering, and mathematics (STEM).

"Our middle schools can be a launching pad for higher-level learning, and this report offers school systems a variety of ideas to make that happen," said State Superintendent of Schools Nancy S. Grasmick. "We are committed to helping students maintain and accelerate their educational progress throughout the middle years."

Educational progress slows across the board in Maryland during the middle school years, mirroring a pattern found nationally. For example, 80.5 percent of Maryland third-graders score in the proficient range in reading and 78.6 percent in mathematics, while just 68.3 percent of eighth-graders score proficient or better in reading and 56.7 percent in math. Moreover, while all students are improving, the increases in achievement have been less dramatic at the middle-school level.

Dr. Grasmick established the Middle School Steering Committee in 2006 to help accelerate improvement in those grades. Performance data reveals that no matter the school configuration — a traditional grade 6-8 middle school, K-8 school, 6-12 school, or something else — academic progress suffers during the middle years.

Strengthening student performance in the middle grades has been a desire among educators for decades, according to Grasmick. The advent of school accountability systems over the past 10 years pinpointed the fact that academic improvement slows once students leave elementary school.

"Too many eighth graders are leaving middle school without the knowledge and skills they need to do high-school-level work," the new report says.

To prepare students for the difficulty of secondary school, the middle school years need an upgrade in rigor. Additional instructional time, through an extended school day or more summer programs, is one way to accomplish this. As local systems add instructional hours, the report says there also should be increased professional time for teachers, so that interdisciplinary teams may engage in collaborative work and plan instruction.

Steering Committee members acknowledged the critical role that caring adults must play during the middle years.

"While a connection to caring adults alone has been shown insufficient to promote achievement gains in the middle grades, a balance between supportive relationships and academic demands promotes both achievement and social/emotional well-being — a balance that is particularly important for the adolescent learner," the report says.

The report calls for all Maryland middle school students to complete algebra by the end of the eighth grade.

"The best preparation for the 21st century's global economy is a strong background in math, for today's science and technical subjects require advanced mathematics, and algebra is the gatekeeper course for it," the report says.

Among the other recommendations included in the report are:

•Provide students integrated math, science, and technology instruction with a focus on problem-solving and real-world application.

•Enroll every middle school student into a world language course by the sixth grade.

•Provide all students instruction in the fine arts that develops literacy in music, dance, theater, and visual arts.

•Teach information literacy and use technology in all subjects.

•Provide accelerated and enriched instructional pathways for gifted and talented learners.

•Ensure that teachers are prepared to work specifically with middle school students.

The Steering Committee has been co-chaired by Gerald Scarborough, assistant superintendent for curriculum and instruction in the Harford County Public Schools; Ilene Swirnow, director of elementary and middle school initiatives in MSDE's Division of Leadership Development; and Mary Gable, director of instructional programs in MSDE's Division of Instruction.

DAR AWARDS CADETS MEDALS – The Youghiogheny Glades chapter of Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR) awarded medals and campaign bars to Cadet 1st Sgt. Kelly Friend of Southern High School and Cadet 1st Lt. Kimberly Riggin of Northern High School at a recent ceremony. Both cadets have been junior JROTC members for two years and have been actively involved in school activities and events. According to Aletta Marts, chapter regent, the cadets demonstrated loyalty and patriotism and earned a record of military and scholastic achievements during their participation in the JROTC program. She also said the cadets were chosen because of their qualities of leadership ability, dependability, good character, adherence to military discipline, and a fundamental and patriotic understanding of the importance of JROTC training. Friend, Marts, and Riggin are pictured above, left to right. The presentation was attended by other members of the chapter – Lillian Reckner, Charee Reckner, Dorothy Cathell, Martha Kahl, Wilda Sanders, Marilyn Posten, and Rosanne Sherwood. The Accident Band performed patriotic musical selections.

Judge Malloy Jr. Shelves Swanton Man's Sentence

Visiting judge Edward A. Malloy Jr. handed a Swanton man a six-month jail sentence, which was suspended in its entirety, after the man pleaded guilty to a charge of inhaling a harmful substance in recent Garrett County District Court.

An Oakland police officer and a witness both saw Keith Cameron Maiorino, 37, allegedly inhale fumes from an aerosol can in January, according to court documents.

Maiorino was given 18 months of supervised probation and a $100 fine.

In other recent District Court cases heard by Judge Malloy, Aaron Shane Dewitt, 37, Oakland, pleaded guilty to a charge of unlawful taking of a motor vehicle and received a 60-day jail term, all of which was suspended, as well as one year of unsupervised probation and a fine of $100.

Hilltop Auto, Grantsville, reported to the Maryland State Police, McHenry Barrack, in February that Dewitt failed to return a rental car on its due date. About 10 phone call attempts by personnel at Hilltop Auto to Dewitt failed.

Jonathan Ray Oester, 30, McHenry, was handed a 30-day jail sentence, which was suspended, after pleading guilty to a charge of doing business without a trader's license. He also received 18 months of unsupervised probation and a $200 fine.

Court documents report that Oester was notified in March that he was in violation of doing business in the state of Maryland without a valid trader's license.

Jace Lucas Edge, 22, Oakland, pleaded guilty to a charge of attempted theft of less than $100 in a criminal summons case and was sentenced to 30 days in jail. His $57 in court fees was suspended.

Personnel at an Oakland store reported to Garrett County Sheriff's officers in March that Edge attempted to steal a bottle of liquor from the store. After being confronted by the employee, Edge left the bottle in the store and fled on foot, according to police reports.

Harold Ernest Dillsworth III, 21, and Justin David Dillsworth, 20, both of Oakland were ordered to complete 40 hours of community service, respectively, after receiving stet ruling on drug charges.

Harold was stetted on charges of attempting to manufacture/distribute a controlled dangerous substance and possession of marijuana and paraphernalia. Justin's stet rulings were on charges of possession of marijuana and paraphernalia. The charges were filed against both defendants in November 2007 by members of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office and Garrett County Narcotics Task Force.

Salliann Abes Summerville, 50, Oakland, was not prosecuted on charges of possession of marijuana and paraphernalia. The charges were filed against her in January by members of the sheriff's office and narcotics task force.

Denise E. Paulinski, 42, Oakland, was not prosecuted on charges of theft of less than $100 and uttering a bad check of less than $100. The charges were filed by the sheriff's office in May 2006.

If you could see me now
If you could see me now you wouldn't shed a tear. Though you may not understand why I'm no longer there. Remember my spirit that is the real me because I'm still very much alive, I've just been set free, Oh, if you could only see! I have beheld our Father's face and I've touched my Savior's hand. All of Heavens angels rejoiced as I entered the promised land. Beyond the gates of pearl I've walked on the golden streets. I've touched the walls of jasper and dipped my foot in the crystal sea. The beauty is beyond words and nothing could compare, I've even seen your mansion and someday I'll meet you there. Let Jesus be your guide because His Word will show you the way! So please don't cry because we will meet again someday.

IRS Increases Mileage Rates For Taxpayers

The Internal Revenue Service announced this week an increase in the optional standard mileage rates for the final six months of 2008. Taxpayers may use the optional standard rates to calculate the deductible costs of operating an automobile for business, charitable, medical, or moving purposes.

The rate will increase to 58.5 cents a mile for all business miles driven from July 1, 2008, through Dec. 31, 2008. This is an increase of 8 cents from the 50.5 cent rate in effect for the first six months of 2008, as set forth in Rev. Proc. 2007-70.

In recognition of recent gasoline price increases, the IRS made this special adjustment for the final months of 2008. The IRS normally updates the mileage rates once a year in the fall for the next calendar year.

"Rising gas prices are having a major impact on individual Americans. Given the increase in prices, the IRS is adjusting the standard mileage rates to better reflect the real cost of operating an automobile," said IRS Commissioner Doug Shulman. "We want the reimbursement rate to be fair to taxpayers."

While gasoline is a significant factor in the mileage figure, other items enter into the calculation of mileage rates, such as depreciation, insurance, and other fixed and variable costs.

The optional business standard mileage rate is used to compute the deductible costs of operating an automobile for business use in lieu of tracking actual costs. This rate is also used as a benchmark by the federal government and many businesses to reimburse their employees for mileage.

The new six-month rate for computing deductible medical or moving expenses will also increase by 8 cents to 27 cents a mile, up from 19 cents for the first six months of 2008. The rate for providing services for charitable organizations is set by statute, not the IRS, and remains at 14 cents a mile.

The new rates are contained in Announcement 2008-63 on the optional standard mileage rates.

Taxpayers always have the option of calculating the actual costs of using their vehicle rather than using the standard mileage rates, according to the IRS.

Several Weekend Arrests Made By Maryland NRP

Several individuals received alcohol-related charges issued by members of the Maryland Natural Resources Police over the weekend, according to the police blotter.

Chad M. Kolich, 30, Hagerstown, was stopped on Friday by NRP for allegedly not displaying proper navigational lights on his vessel while on Deep Creek Lake. He was subsequently arrested for several alcohol-related violations.

Kolich was transported to the Maryland State Police, McHenry Barrack, for processing and charged with operating a vessel while under the influence of alcohol, operating a vessel while impaired by alcohol and/or drugs, and operating a vessel between the hours of sunset and sunrise without proper navigational lights. He was released on his own signature.

In an unrelated incident, NRP charged three individuals on Saturday with alcohol violations in the parking lot of Swallow Falls State Park. Citations were issued to Jeffery R. Zutter Jr., 22, Nathaniel J. Meals, 21, and Mark Z. A. Zeher, 22, all of Pittsburgh, Pa., for consuming an alcoholic beverage in a non-designated area.

An individual may not consume or possess an open container of an intoxicating beverage in a parking lot, roadway, trail, or other designated area within a state park.

Also on Saturday, NRP charged three individuals with alcohol violations in a camping area of Potomac Garrett State Forest. NRP charged William A. Hack and Cody D. Prahl, both 19 and of Oil City, Pa., with possession of an alcoholic beverage by a person under 21 years of age and possession of fireworks in a state forest. Ronald A. Hack Jr., 21, Oil City, was charged with furnishing alcoholic beverages for underage consumption.

Later Saturday night, Patrick C. Hanagan, 20, Frederick, Christopher J. Reisberg, 18, Westminster, and Mark G. Gilliece Jr., 18, Mt. Airy, were all charged with possession of an alcoholic beverage by a person under 21 years of age after NRP observed them in the campground area of Swallow Falls State Park.

All area contractors and their employees associated with electrical, plumbing, and HVAC (heating, ventilating, and air conditioning) work are invited to attend all GCEMA meetings.

Jamie Rodeheaver, deputy fire marshal for the state of Maryland, will be the guest speaker. TEETS ANNIVERSARY

The children, grandchildren, and great-grandchildren of David and Wilma Mae (Henline) Teets, Horse Shoe Run, invite all to join them in celebrating the 60th wedding anniversary of that couple.

They were married June 26, 1948, and the celebration will beheld July 4, at the Maple Spring Church of the Brethren.

Friends and relatives are invited to join them between the hours of 6 and 8:30 p.m. for an evening of visiting, reminiscing, and sharing. The family requests that there be no gifts.

Cards may be addressed to the Teetses at Rt. 1, Box 288, Horse Shoe Run, WV 26716.

EGLON 4-H

The June meeting of the Eglon Mountaineer 4-H Club was held at the Eglon Memorial Building. The meeting was called to order by Trevor Spaid and the pledges were led by Nathan Cussins. Jonathan Blamble led the devotions and recorded the attendance.

Guest speaker for the evening was Melinda Stoner, a physician's assistant at the Wellspring Family Medicine office in Oakland. She talked to the members about the causes and treatments for MRSA and other virulent fungus infections. She explained that due to the overuse of antibiotics it has grown more difficult to treat the MRSA virus. She also discussed childhood vaccines and complications stemming from their use, and addressed the need for booster shots of these. Melinda is a graduate of Alderson-Broaddus College, and the daughter of Bruce and Mary Teets at Eglon. She resides in Eglon with her husband, Chaz. She also is a former 4-H'er.

Members attending this meeting included Danielle and Jonathan Blamble, Nathan Cussins, Jesse Schalker, Trevor and Wesley Spaid, and Chad and Sydney Vandevender. Also attending were leaders and parents, Linda Lewis, Charlotte Cussins, Jackie Blamble, Marilyn Schalker, Angie and Ron Spaid, and Teresa Vandevender.

AURORA CEOS

The June 17 meeting of the Aurora CEOS club was held at the Community Building with eight members present. Opal Myers presided at the meeting and also presented the devotions, "The Love of Friends."

Jeannie Whitehair said that she felt like the "preacher speaking to the choir" when presenting the lesson on "Lasting Marriages."

The Relay for Life yard sale netted $397.79 for that purpose. There will be a work day on July 15 when the club will gather at the home of Pat Stemple at 10 a.m. to make "boo-boo" bears, Linus blankets, and heart pillows. At this meeting, members are asked to also bring items to fit the MAD backpacks given to foster children on the move.

The international student will be in Preston County on July 7 and there will be a covered dish dinner at 6 p.m. in the Extension Office to provide the opportunity to meet her.

The Buckwheat Festival exhibit will be about health issues, with the club deciding which to promote. A cooking, canning, and craft workshop will be held at the Preston County 4-H Camp in August.

The next regular meeting will be held Aug. 19, with Dorothy Spaid the program leader and Dean Sisler providing devotions.

CAMP FAMILY TO SING SUNDAY

GETTING READY FOR THE BENEFIT DOG WALK – Garrett County Humane Society members are preparing for their big fundraiser, Christmas in July for Our Best Friends, slated for Saturday, July 12, at the fairgrounds in McHenry. One of the featured activities is the Benefit Dog Walk. But, as evidenced in the photo above, interested persons do not have to walk a dog in order to participate. Laurel Baker, left, and Sarah Baker are shown trying to persuade a "reindeer" to join their effort to raise funds for local animals. Registration for the walk is from 9:30 to 10 a.m., with the walk scheduled for 10 a.m. For this activity, persons collect pledges from friends to sponsor them for the one-mile walk. Anyone who collects more than $25 in pledges will receive either a T-shirt or a dog-walk ball cap donated by Terry Boggs/Railey Realty. First-, second-, and third-place prizes will be awarded, which include savings bonds from area banks and special gift cards, to the top three pledge collectors. "Last year, more then a dozen walkers collected about $3,000, which was amazing," said Lisa Baker, Humane Society president. "Start collecting your pledges now. Brochures and sponsor forms are available at all area veterinarian offices or by calling 301-334-1561." Other Christmas in July activities include free demonstrations, a Fido Costume Contest, and a silent auction. Among the auction items will be the large lifelike reindeer pictured above, which was donated by Rob Michael, State Farm Insurance. Handmade by the Hansa Toy International Inc., the donation is valued at more than $700. "This reindeer would be a great addition to your cabin or to your store window at Christmas time," Baker said. "I hope we have some hefty bidding on this guy. He is beautiful. Come and join us on July 12. Your money helps us help homeless/neglected animals and supports our spay/neuter assistance program. The Garrett County Humane Society is a non-profit volunteer organization that has helped thousands of pets and pet owners since 1983."

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

It is hard to write Notes from Bittinger when I am here in the Oakland Nursing and Rehabilitation Center waiting for a brace for my ankle. Although I like the nursing staff and my therapists and have had lots of visits from my girls and others, I look forward to getting out and home again. When that will be I am not sure. Linda Buckel brought me a big basket filled with goodies from our church members, who included magazines, lotions, and a beautiful pair of embroidered pillowcases made by the women of St. John's Lutheran Church. My collection of flower bouquets is the envy of the other residents, and I have also received lots of greeting cards from people from all over Garrett County.

The primary decorations in my room are a collection of various snapshots of my girls. Some are very old, especially like the one of Meredith asleep in her highchair, and the most recent one of my three girls.

The staff is very impressed by the devotion of my girls. I don't know how I would survive in here without them. It is not my idea of a great way to spend this summer, being a patient in a nursing home, even though it is a nice one.

I was hoping for my new brace yesterday, but something must have gone wrong, as I am not expecting it until at least today. I called the brace company and they told me they are waiting for a purchase order from here.

LOCAL NEWS

Ed and Bonnie Ulrich celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary at Emmanuel Lutheran Educational Building following Sunday morning's church service. A large crowd attended with many out-of-town visitors present. Ed and Bonnie are parents of two sons who were both in attendance. One son lives in Pittsburgh and the other son in Colorado. We send our congratulations to Ed and Bonnie and wish them many more happy years together.

Dr. Ralph Buckel Jr. and wife Sarah from Chestertown visited his mother, Ethel Buckel, this past weekend. They were leaving on Sunday to attend a convention of the Maryland Veterinarians Medical Association at Rocky Gap State Park for several days.

Alana Weir and McKenna Stanton will be spending the summer visiting Aaron and Cindy and Sam Stanton.

Rodney and Marci Glotfelty and family spent the past week in Hilton Head, S.C., on vacation.

The bears are back around our homes and being their usual bad selves. They were on the Bass porch the past week and tore a bird feeder down in my mother's front yard.

Sheila reported that a mother and three cubs were wandering through their woods close to their house last week. The deer are also moving around, so watch out for them on the roads.

The Bittinger Lutheran Parish Old-Fashioned Hymn-Sing and Ice Cream Social are to be held on Sunday, July 10 at 6:30 p.m. at Emmanuel, Bittinger. Gather to sing your favorite hymn and enjoy a cool treat afterwards! A freewill offering will go the ELCA World Hunger Appeal.

Parish Bible School will be held at St. John's this Sunday, June 29, at 10 a.m. at St. John's. We will be kicking off our week of Vacation Bible School that day. We are also planning to honor our graduates at this service. Plan to attend and bring a friend.

VOLUNTEERS RECOGNIZED BY GCHD – The Garrett County Health Department recently hosted a western themed volunteer appreciation dinner at the Bittinger Mennonite Church. A total of 16 volunteer groups were recognized for the combined 6,909 volunteer hours donated in the past year. The evening consisted of a meal, entertainment, and awards. Those interested in joining a community planning group or becoming a volunteer at the Health Department may contact Brenda Sisler at 301-334-7730. Above are the volunteers who gave more than 100 hours and were awarded a sweatshirt, making them members of the GCHD's 100 Club. From left, beginning with the front row, are Barb Speicher, Hana Smith, and Barbie Sweitzer. Back row: Monica Ferguson, Janet M. Tichnell, Christy Thomas, Janet E. Tichnell, Paul Liller, and Sharol Coddington.

Bob Legeer, who is a resident of Goodwill Nursing Home, was taken to the hospital on Tuesday.

Jenny McNally, Ferne Beachy, and Sally Poholsky were recent guests of Mary Ellen and Steve Presgraves, Fenwick Island, Del., last week. Also joining a summer vacation with her grandparents was Molly Stemper, Hagerstown.

Justine Pagenhardt, Oakland, was a Friday luncheon guest of the Poholskys. She has been accepted into the West Virginia University School of Medicine.

Saturday guests of the Poholskys were Mary Ellen and Steve Presgraves, Ken, Debra and Hannah Presgraves, Hampton, Va., Doug, Matthew, and Marley Stemper, Hagerstown, and Dave and Nancy Beachy. Torrey pitched a 10-0 no-hitter in his Pen-Mar game on Saturday at Garrett College against the Cumberland Titans. They also won the first game with the Oakland Oaks.

Preston and Matthew Sisler and Torrey Poholsky attended the Pirate–Toronto Blue Jays baseball game at PNC Park on Friday night. The Pirates won by a score of 1-0, and it was the longest scoreless game for 12 innings in the PNC Park history.

Changes Planned For Grantsville's ClosetMaid Plant

The ClosetMaid plant in Grantsville is converting its manufacturing line from vinyl-coated wire shelving units to laminate wood storage products. As a result, production volume is expected to increase and new employees hired.

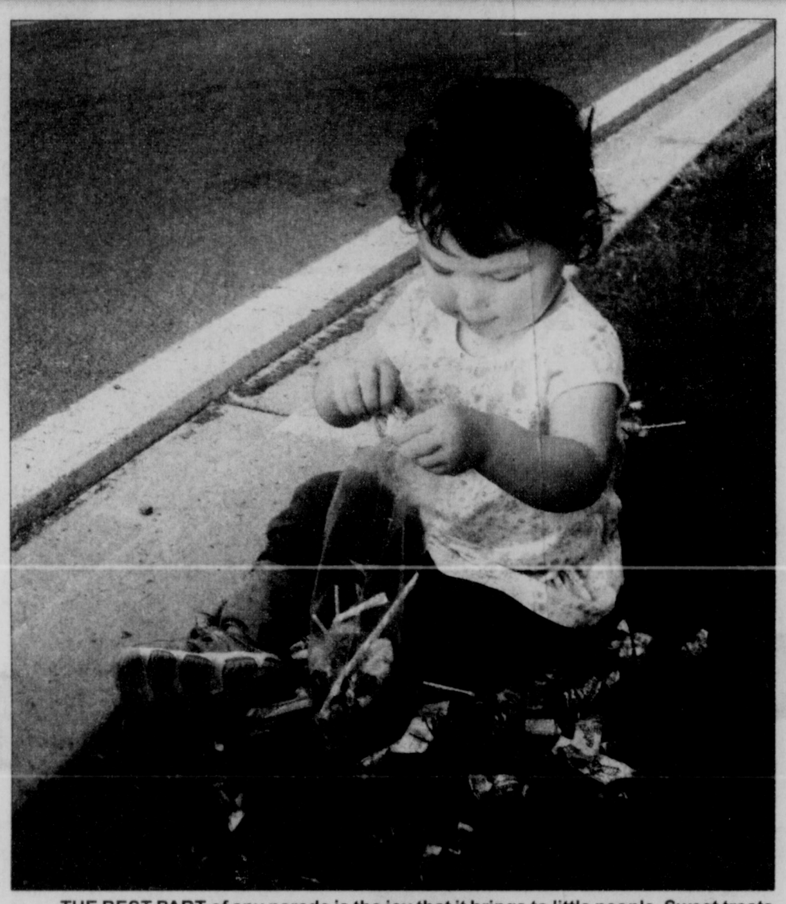
New equipment for the changeover has started to arrive at the plant and will be installed during the next several months.

Located in the Northern Garrett County Industrial Park, the 154,000 square-foot facility opened last year. ClosetMaid officials said during a ribbon-cutting ceremony in August that they plan to hire more than 200 employees over a five-year period.

According to county officials, the Florida-based company currently employs 65 at the Grantsville plant, but that number may grow to more than 100 with the planned changes.

Reportedly, ClosetMaid is changing its product line in an effort to adapt to a decrease in home sales and a slowing market.

Persons interested in working at ClosetMaid may fill out an application at the Maryland Job Center in Oakland or at the plant.



THE BEST PART of any parade is the joy that it brings to little people. Sweet treats are often handed out along the route, adding to the excitement of the day. Accidental Fire Damages Shed Near McHenry

An accidental fire reportedly caused by cigarette smoking resulted in an estimated $7,000 in damages to a shed early Monday evening.

Volunteers from the Deep Creek and Accident fire departments were summoned to the property of Robert Earnest, 23 Deer Crossing Lane, at 5:33 p.m. after the fire was discovered in the 20 x 20 wood-frame garage/shed by a visitor at the residence.

According to a report filed by Deputy State Fire Marshal Randy Chapman, the blaze was brought under control by firefighters in about five minutes. He estimated a $5,000 loss to the structure and a $2,000 loss to contents.

The Dove Center, Garrett County's domestic violence/sexual assault resource center, will host its 7th annual Stop the Violence Walk and Rock at the Loch Lynn pavilion on Saturday, July 19, beginning at 9 a.m.

The purpose of the event is to raise money to help support direct services to victims of domestic violence and sexual assault. Man Arrested On Sexual Solicitation Charges Involving 13-Year-Old Female

A McHenry man was arrested on Wednesday by detectives with the Garrett County Bureau of Investigation on charges of sexual solicitation of a minor.

Roger Lee Brant, 43, was arrested at the Garrett County Sheriff's Office on the strength of an arrest warrant stemming from an investigation involving a 13-year-old female juvenile. The investigation began after the juvenile reported the incident to her parents and then to detectives with the GCSO.

Brant was allegedly planning to meet the female to have sexual relations, and he allegedly contacted the juvenile multiple times by use of different means of communication. Detectives were able to establish evidence that indicated the plan was agreed upon for Brant and the juvenile to meet out of town to carry out the illegal act.

He was charged with one count of sexual solicitation of a minor and one count of obscene telephone misuse. He was placed in the Garrett County Jail to await a bond hearing.

Beitzel Assigned To New Gypsy Moth Task Force

Del. Wendell R. Beitzel was recently appointed by Speaker Michael E. Busch as the designated Maryland House of Delegates member to serve on the newly created Task Force to Study Statewide Gypsy Moth Infestation.

"I am excited that the speaker chose me to represent the Maryland House of Delegates on the task force," Beitzel said. "We need to find a solution to prevent or control the devastation caused to our hardwood forests by the gypsy moths. I am very optimistic that something good will come from the work that we will do on this task force."

The 11-member panel was created by Senate Bill 920, which was introduced in the 2008 session of the Maryland General Assembly and signed into law by Gov. Martin O'Malley.

"Del. Beitzel is aware of his appointment," Busch said, "and looks forward to participating as a member of the task force. I am confident that his leadership and contributions will benefit the Maryland House of Delegates and the citizens of our state."

Gypsy moth infestation has been very prevalent throughout Maryland in the past two years, Beitzel noted. Western Maryland – and especially Garrett County, which has the largest acreage of forest in the state – has experienced severe defoliation because of gypsy moth infestation.

In addition to Beitzel, other task force members include representatives from the Senate, Chesapeake Bay Foundation, Maryland Forest Association, Pesticide Network, and departments of Agriculture, Budget and Management, and Natural Resources.

LAURA STUTZMAN: THE ARTIST BEHIND THE STAMP – The United States Postal Service released a new rate stamp on April 18, and local residents may be surprised to learn that the artist who painted the four U.S. flag scenes lives in Mountain Lake Park. Laura Stutzman, a career illustrator, shown at right, was selected to paint the scenes, showing the flag at four times of day: sunrise, noon, sunset, and at night. Stutzman was chosen to do the work by USPS after the selection committee viewed her paintings on her company web site, Eloqui.com, which she hosts with her husband, Mark Stutzman, also an illustrator. She has been established as a prolific painter of American flags, and was therefore hired for the job. The process of selection to product lasted about two years, she said, and involved a number of experiments with varying scenes. She painted the "24/7 theme" with several backgrounds, such as a flag on the porch of a Victorian house and a flag with the Garrett County Courthouse dome and eagle, but the four simplistic sky backgrounds passed the test. Garrett Countians can be proud to note that the skies in the scenes are those of the local area, and the flags were modeled after photos taken of at least one flag from Oakland City Hall. "I really wanted to use the flag at Team One," Stutzman said, "And I studied it for a long time. But it blows perpetually to the north, and it just never was in the right place to allow for good photos for me to use." She also found that the colors at sunrise and sunset are different in different parts of the world, and the final product reflects how the skies look in this neck of the woods. "I surveyed my family to choose the right colors for the right times," she said. "Around here, yellows and purples are sunrise colors, and aqua is sunset. That's not necessarily the case elsewhere." USPS stamp illustration is surprisingly not a new endeavor for the Stutzmans, as Mark was the creator of the famed Elvis stamp in 1993.

GC Community Action Requests Land For Workforce Housing Development

Garrett County Community Action Committee president Duane Yoder asked the county commissioners last week to transfer county-owned land to his agency for a workforce/affordable housing project.

The initiative is being planned in conjunction with the proposed McHenry Business and Technology Park, slated for the county's White Face Farm property near the airport. Yoder noted that the housing site would be a prime location for business park employees to live.

"We are asking for a contribution of approximately 50 acres," he said. "This is based on discussions with Economic Development (Garrett County) in terms of how much land they will need for the business park."

The original housing project has been scaled back because of the needs of the park and Federal Aviation Administration, Yoder said.

Community Action's vice president for development, Cherie Ross, presented the commissioners with a preliminary rendering of the site plan created by architect Doug Devlin.

Between 250 and 300 units would be constructed for people of various income levels. The actual

ANOTHER SUCCESSFUL (AND RAINY) RELAY – Despite the economy and rainy weather, the 10th annual Garrett County Relay for Life was a successful one, according to organizers. The opening lap was led by the Garrett Highlands Pipes & Drums, followed by the honored cancer survivors. This recent event raised more than $79,000, which will fund many programs to help local residents who are dealing with cancer and to fund research to find a cure for the disease. The top RFL team this year was Naylor's Hardware Helpers, who raised $11,246.31, followed by the ToeJammers, $8,031; Cancer Crusaders, $6,590.68; NASCAR Nuts, $5,824.75; Scrappers & Friends, $3,157.50; and the WEPCO Warriors, $3,100. The top individual was Linda Murr, who raised $3,792.34. The Best Campsite Award was presented to Scrappers & Friends; the Best Cancer Control Theme Award was given to the Cancer Kickers; and the Spirit Award went to Diane Donham. The RFL organizers expressed their appreciation for all the teams' hard work and fundraising efforts throughout the year and at the relay. "Also, thank you to the community," said a spokesperson. "We couldn't have a successful relay without the support of everyone."

State Gives $12,000 To Assist Oakland Main Street Prog.

Governor Martin O'Malley recently announced that the town of Oakland will receive $12,000 in state assistance through the Main Street Maryland Program's Main Street Improvement Program (MIP), administered by the Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development (DHCD).

Designated as a Main Street Maryland community in 1998, Oakland will use the state MIP assistance for general improvements on the main street district. DHCD has provided $300,000 statewide through MIP to 19 Main Street Maryland Communities.

"We are committed to ensuring Maryland's cities and towns remain rich and vibrant places to live and work," said O'Malley.

Created in 1998, Main Street Maryland is a comprehensive downtown revitalization program that is recognized nationally as a model for Smart Growth. "The program is intended to strengthen the economic potential of Maryland's traditional main streets and neighborhoods," said a spokesperson. "Using a competitive process, Main Street Maryland selects communities that have made a commitment to revitalization, and helps them increase private-sector small business investment and improve the appearance and image of their core business districts."

RIBBON CUTTING HELD FOR GARRETT TRANSIT – Garrett County Community Action Committee (GCCAC) employees celebrated the grand opening of their new Garrett Transit Service (GTS) Center with a ribbon-cutting ceremony on Friday. The center is located at the Garrett County Public Works Facility site, off Rt. 135 near Mtn. Lake Park, and provides security and protection for Garrett Transit's 34 vehicles, as well as maintenance bays and staff offices. The center was funded by the Maryland Transportation Administration, and several MTA officials were on hand for the ribbon-cutting ceremony. "GTS was surprised when Diane Ratcliff announced that MTA would provide the grant funds to build a bus shelter and to replace three buses," said a Community Action spokesperson. "These funds will allow completion of the original plans, which included a bus shelter. The shelter will greatly aid the drivers during the winter season." Pictured, left to right, in the front are Pam Nelson, GCCAC vice president; Kevin Quinn, MTA; Sen. George C. Edwards; Ratcliff; John Hill, GCCAC transportation directo.; Garrett County commissioners Denny Glotfelty and Fred Holliday; Del. Wendell Beitzel; Louise Tinkler, MTA; Lenny Howard, MTA; and Duane Yoder, GCCAC president. In the back are Dirk Yoder, Daystar Builders, and Peter Folen, EADS Architects. Photo by Marguerite Hayhurst.

Developed by the National Trust for Historic Preservation's National Main Street Center, the "Four-Point Approach" is used by the program for commercial revitalization. The four points are: design, organization, promotion, and economic restructuring. A fifth point has been incorporated this year: "clean, safe, and green," which stresses Smart Growth and sustainability.

"One of the reasons Main Street Maryland has been so successful is that it helps our cities and towns focus on the big picture," said DHCD secretary Raymond A. Skinner. "The very nature of the program fosters strong partnerships between state and communities like Oakland that improve the quality of life for residents."

Those seeking additional information about the DHCD and its program may visit www.mdhousing.org.

Pa. Man Arrested Following Deputy's Rt. 219 Traffic Stop

A traffic stop was made by a Garrett County sheriff's deputy on Garrett Highway Sunday, that resulted in the arrest of a Pennsylvania man.

Joshua Paul Mussori, 28, South Park, was operating a 2004 Chevrolet Impala south of the 219 bridge when the deputy conducted the stop. Further investigation led to the deputy's request of Mussori to take a field sobriety test.

He was placed under arrest when he did not perform the test to the satisfaction of the deputy. Mussori was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol and driving while impaired by alcohol.

Grant Awarded To Sheriff's Office For Mobile Crime Unit

Garrett County has been awarded a $20,340 USDA Rural Development grant to purchase and equip a mobile crime scene processing four-wheel drive vehicle, Senators Ben Cardin and Barbara Mikulski announced last Friday.

Currently, the Garrett County Sheriff's Office depends on the Maryland State Police and its Mobile Crime Lab Unit for in-depth processing of crime scenes. The new mobile lab will reduce travel time and result in a faster lab analysis of crime scenes, according to the senators.

"As the pressures on our state and local law enforcement agencies increase, we must do what we can to give our officers the resources they need," said Mikulski. "This funding will give the Garrett County Sheriff's Office another tool to solve crimes and protect our communities."

"I am confident that this mobile lab will result in faster analysis of crime scenes and in quicker arrests," Cardin said.

The Rural Development grant program was created to improve the economy and quality of life in rural America. The program helps support essential services and infrastructure improvements, and promotes economic development by supporting loans to businesses through banks and community-managed lending pools.

The group is required to study the gypsy moth infestation and to make recommendations regarding the most effective, practical, regulatory, and legislative means of combating the problem. A reporting requirement is required in SB 920, which was sponsored by 17 senators including George C. Edwards.

Beitzel has been working with the Garrett County commissioners, state and local agricultural and forest agencies, organizations, and individuals to seek additional funding for gypsy moth control and eradication.

"I am pleased that our collective efforts resulted in a much larger infusion of funds in 2008 to spray for gypsy moths in western Maryland and the state," Beitzel said. "Hopefully the spraying of nearly 50,000 acres in Garrett County will help to prevent the massive forest defoliation we witnessed here last year."

Almost Divine Foundation...

Independence Day is a time for picnics, band concerts, and fireworks, but it should also be a day of appreciative pondering about the inestimable value of our independence and the incredible achievements of a group of men we call our Founding Fathers.

The brilliance of those documents – the Declaration of Independence, and the subsequent U.S. Constitution – cannot be overstated. This is especially true considering the time in which they were written, and the huge odds against our nation even being founded, let alone becoming the world power that it is today. The three primary branches of government, the rights of individual states vs. the authority of the federal government, the separation of church and state, the recognition of "certain unalienable rights" to which all are entitled, a republican form of government, and the first 10 amendments known as the Bill of Rights – all brilliant.

The fact that these documents continue to be, after more than 230 years, the very foundation of our system of government is truly astounding. Yes, the Constitution has been amended 17 times since its ratification, addressing additional issues and situations not covered in the original document. Only one of those amendments (prohibition of liquor) has been repealed. The absolute "bottom line" that is still used in the highest court in the land, the U.S. Supreme Court, is whether or not a particular act or practice or law is deemed "constitutional."

Are they perfect documents? No. The equality of man and guarantee of those "unalienable rights" to everyone in the Declaration obviously did not include black American slaves. The abolishment of slavery would not occur for another 89 years, with the ratification of the 13th Amendment. And don't we today wish that the writers of the Constitution were a bit more clear on a few things, such as the Second Amendment (the right to bear arms)? It would also have been quite helpful if they had expounded a bit more on freedom of speech, of religion, and of the press, as well as what exactly constitutes "cruel and unusual punishment."

However, there are some situations for which there are no clear-cut answers for many of us, and situations which must be handled on a case-by-case basis because of extenuating circumstances. The Founding Fathers surely realized that not each of those situations could be – or even should be – fully addressed in one or two documents. (Think about how many books have been written just on the issue of abortion, for example.) Plus, we must remember that they, like us, were human, and perfection is simply not a human trait. But they gave us an astounding, rock-solid – yes, almost divine – foundation on which to build, which we should cherish, protect, and never forget.

To the Editor:

Must one have to put up with telemarketers every day, even on Sundays? Surely there is something that can be done about them. I average 3-4 calls a day from these marketers, even though I have called the number to keep them from calling. Things have gotten worse since I called to have our name removed from the list, and even now I wait and get a real person and tell them I'm not interested and to stop calling. Now they hang up on me. Next day it's the same thing over again.

There should be laws against this, especially in this day and age when you can't trust anyone. This is harassment, to say the least, and I know a lot of other people would like these marketers to stop calling.

Sincerely,

To the Editor:

I left a large box of clothing and a box with shoes and toys on the porch at my granddaughter's (Cortney and Megan Dillsworth) apartment on Mason Street on Sunday, June 22. They were not home and their mom was not at work. Their phone had been turned off and I had no way to contact them.

It is very hard being a single parent raising children by yourself. I feel sure they needed these things and would appreciate them.

How disappointed I was to learn this week that someone stole the boxes from the porch. I hope that whoever did this really needed the things worse than my granddaughters and that you have enjoyed them, as they were a gift of love.

I live in Parsons and don't get to Oakland often, but God knows who you are. I hope you could find it in your heart to give the girls back their things.

Thank you.
Sincerely,
Wilda Henline

To the Editor:

On behalf of a dedicated group who assist in planning the annual Flag on Mountain Maryland program, I would like to thank the local community for once again making our efforts worthwhile.

The event would not be possible without numerous volunteers from many organizations and individuals who just want to help. Everyone is greatly appreciated. One of the big focuses of the celebration is to demonstrate and instill patriotism in our youth. We have been fortunate to have the JROTC from both area high schools assist us for several years. Though we try to recognize all of our flag bearers during the program, this year I inadvertently missed one young JROTC cadet. To Cadet SFC and Platoon Sergeant Cameron Barone, please accept my apologies for not including your name on the list that was announced that evening.

Next year will be the fifth anniversary of the celebration. We have already started making plans. Should anyone want to become involved, especially area youth, please contact the Chamber of Commerce. We hope to mark the anniversary with a spectacular program.

The annual June 14th Flag Day program is a patriotic celebration of our country and our citizens. Because of our enthusiastic community support it has become one of the most meaningful and well received projects I have worked on. We are blessed to live in this country, and despite the rainy weather, once again our Garrett County spirit was alive!

To the Editor:

The recent issue of The Republican includes the quarterly issue of the BBQ newsletter (Boomers and Beyond Quarterly) produced by Garrett County's Area Agency on Aging. Some people may assume that the information in it is irrelevant to their lives. I challenge those people to read it.

The articles are compelling. One on caregiving, "Ten Top Things Caregivers Don't Want to Hear and a Few They Do," is certainly applicable to a broad scope of readers. One need not have an elderly person in the household to experience the demands on body, mind, and spirit of caring for another. You may know someone who is a caregiver and benefit from insights into the situation. Caregivers may not want to hear, "You are a saint." Why? Read the article and find out.

The rapidly rising cost of living impacts us all. For some, however, this impact is a matter of life and death rather than the need to cut corners. In the BBQ there are accounts of meal delivery programs in the nation being reduced to once a week or twice a month to cut costs. In more than one case the recipient of the meals was found dead; one had been dead for a week. For many who receive this service – the delivery of food – it is the only regular contact they have with any other person.

Readers of the BBQ will also learn a bit about the excellent work of our Agency on Aging here in Garrett County. Under the leadership of Adina Brode, the managers, staff, and volunteers of the AAA continue to work with diminishing resources to support the weakest among us and to keep the rest of us strong and informed so that we can advocate for those in need. Thank you, Adina, et al.

To the Editor:

After attending the recent public hearing held by the county commissioners, I left very disappointed in some of my fellow citizens. Unfortunately, there was for some a general sense of ignorance regarding both the issue of performance zoning and assumptions, by some, about those in favor of it. Personal insults and invective abounded. "Protestors" and "outsiders" became an accusation in addition to other general insults. What bothered me most, however, was the implied assumption that if you were not born here, you were an "outsider" and worse, the possibility that as an outsider your opinion or even rights were of less value. I moved to western Maryland in 1971, longer ago than the age of some slinging such comments; I live in eastern Garrett County, i.e., an "outsider." The last I knew, if I am a resident of this county, my opinion and vote counts no more or less than those born here.

The issue which seemed to permeate the room for some with anger and distrust was the concept of "property rights," leading to fear of zoning and government where owners could be told what to do or not do with their land. What did not appear evident was any concern or respect for "neighbors" and their rights. My guess is, that is precisely why performance zoning is being presented because the sense of "community" and concern and respect for all is replaced by greed of some and concern only for self.

Surely these competing concerns can be addressed with civility, along with room for compromise so as to address needs and concerns for all parties. This perspective of black and white, right and wrong, good and bad has been perpetuated by politics at all levels and has made resolution of conflict more difficult and thus uglier. Surely we can rise above this in Garrett County.

Sincerely,
Kenny Braitman

To the Editor:

On July 10-12, Oak Park Church of the Brethren will host its 10th annual yard and bake sale. The proceeds benefit the Bolivian Orphanage Project in Sucre, Bolivia.

My initial letter appeared in this column in July of 1999. In April of that year, the city of Sucre, Bolivia, had donated a piece of land for an orphanage with the stipulation that a building be built within two years. The mission team, led by Howard Nutt, made an appeal to the faithful. Within a month sufficient funds were raised and a team of skilled volunteers traveled to Sucre. Much has happened since. Much remains to be done.

Because of the level of poverty in Bolivia, there are many children who live in the streets. They either do not have parents or their parents are too poor to provide for them. These children sleep in doorways or anywhere they can find protection. Typically their bedding is a piece of cardboard. They huddle together during cold nights with dogs to keep warm. During the day they shine shoes, do other odd jobs, or just beg for food. Many do not know their birth dates or how old they are. Some are so young that they don't know their last names. Most have never been to school. All are at high risk as victims of assaults and other crimes. Some are maimed or crippled in accidents. Some are murdered.

As the missionaries find these children, they are brought to the orphanage. There the children are provided a safe, secure place to live. They have living quarters, foster parents, and health care. They are able to go to school, and have room to play and thrive in an environment where caring adults serve as foster parents and mentors. But most importantly, the children are loved and raised as a family.

Additional facilities have been built as the number of children in need continues to grow. Many of the first children brought to the mission have completed their education and now serve as missionaries or become members of the staff. Financial support for the children and parent couples is paramount to the success of the mission.

In response to their need and out of our own abundance, we are inviting donations of new or used items in good condition for the yard sale. Clothing donations will be limited to baby and young children's clothes. Baked goods are also welcome.

Persons interested in donating items, serving as volunteers during the event, or desiring more information may contact the church at 301-334-2243 or me at 301-334-9125.

Thank you,

To the Editor:

Local government corruption is very similar to that in Washington, but we have no New York Times or Washington Post to expose it. No local laws force commissioners or planning board members or city councilmen to disclose gifts or meetings with lobbyists.

In small towns lobbyists are realtors, contractors, developers, etc., even though no one considers them lobbyists. Consequently, small towns, municipalities, cities and counties fail to regulate them, and local newspapers fail to investigate their, often times cozy, relationships with county commissioners, planning and zoning boards, city/town councils, etc.

The only nod you see to open and transparent government is the concept that commissioners, planning boards, councils, etc., must hold meetings open to the public. But these meetings are not where the business of these bodies is actually conducted. Those "open" meetings are merely to create the illusion of citizen participation. They don't influence the decisions made – those are made behind closed doors or at private dinners.

Take the example of the Oct. 17 planning commission (Allegany County) meeting, during which members approved a change in language – to the satisfaction of area real estate agents – which substituted "encouraged" for "discouraged" with respect to residential development in agriculture-designated areas. Does anyone honestly think that the planning commission made that change as a result of that or any other open meeting? How about private phone calls and meetings with local real estate agents in the area – all conducted out of public scrutiny? We all know that happened; it is just that local government is very good at concealing it because there are not laws that force transparency on local government.

These officials need to be voted out of office and replaced with open-government advocates. There is a need for ethical conduct laws which demand the disclosure of contact between officials and individuals or companies seeking zoning changes, or bidding for a contract.

There needs to be more investigative journalism on the part of local newspapers asking questions like, who profits by a change, who owns property in the rezoned areas, etc. Currently both the citizens and the press let officials off the hook.

The majority of the citizens end up paying for this "closed and secret" government in the form of unwanted projects and higher property taxes to pay for an "improvement," with the only real beneficiary being the local developer or contractor who does the work.

RUNNING IN CIRCLES
BY MANDY GEISLER

by Mandy Geisler

I embarked upon running with a vengeance last weekend. I designated June 1 as my official "back to running" date. I started to add miles slowly in an attempt to build back to my normal distance, but after a few weeks, my foot pain came back and I went back into resting mode. Well, after two weeks of rest from running, I had had enough. I was going to run whether my body liked it or not. I set out on my first bona fide trail run on a section of the Allegany Trail System in Friendsville, which runs next to the Youghiogheny River.

As is my nature, I over exerted my leg muscles on my road bike and came down with some nasty hamstring pain. My intention was to give the old hams a rest and work my quads instead on the treadmill on Friday. Projected for 2 miles, I ended up completing at 6. I would compare the feeling of running with injury and muscle strain to eating an entire chocolate cake and enjoying every piece. You know you should stop, but every bite tastes too good.

Friday's treadmill run felt good even though I was inside with my eyes plastered to Montel Williams on the television that is just far enough away that I can't quite focus on faces. I zoned out to the noise of the fan to my right and the drone of daytime talk show material. Pounding away minute after minute on the never-faltering treadmill belt allowed me to shift my thoughts to other less visited compartments of my brain – the place your mind goes to when you're gazing out at the ocean, or leaning your head against the window on a long car ride as corn fields zip by. When I'm running, I hope to get to that state of being in the moment, but not thinking about any one thing.

Around mile 4, my legs started to cramp up and I had to reassign my mind to getting through the run in discomfort, but my foot still didn't hurt. Sometimes I go out for a run and I know in the first two steps whether or not I should continue. Other days I don't notice that my right foot is different from my left. Friday was one of those days and it made me thankful to have feet.

After my run, I did my normal stretching and ankle strengthening exercises, then went about a fairly active weekend day. It would have been wise to take a rest day on Saturday, but instead I went for a 9-mile trail run. I had every intention of running on the treadmill again since it offers more shock absorbency than the ground, and since the day before went so smoothly, but after gulping down a bubble tea at the Friendly Cup during a torrential downpour, while sitting in my running gear, I figured I was the right place at the right time to try something new. I felt impulsive, setting out with imminent thunderstorms on a slippery trail, while half-heartedly trying to nurse lingering injuries and sore muscles.

Running on the trail was a 180-degree shift from the previous day's workout. My eyes stayed glued to the few feet in front of me as I decided where to plant each footstep. The trail morphed from loose gravel into a rock garden, and after about 1/2 mile, mud puddles plagued the path. Eventually, the puddles sprawled over the entire width of the trail and I decided I would exert more energy and risk falling if I tried to avoid every muddy puddle, so I dove in with my still white Asics. My shoes quickly filled with the contents of the Earth. I continued on, kicking up mud onto my rear end, and only slowed to a walk when the rocks were too dangerous to run on. My ankles were forced between rocks into painful positions at times, and I begged they would not twist as I charged on. When I ducked under tree branches, I reminded myself of a running Napoleon Dynamite, with my upper body in a 45 degree forward tilt, arms to my sides.

I had such a drive inside me that day that fatigue wasn't an issue. Some sections of the trail looked truly magical because my endorphins were pumping as strong as the river. I smacked my way through rhododendron bushes just to shower my sweaty body with fresh water from the storm and began to run through puddles deliberately to cool off my feet. Getting dirty in the mud made me feel like a young kid. Remember taking your shoes off and sticking your feet in the mud just for the squishy feeling? That's the feeling running through the mud gave me.

What was so exciting about the trail run was not knowing when it would end. I'm not very good at judging distance without a clock, so I was just going on the information I got before heading out, which was that the trail ends when the rhododendron bushes close in. I hadn't seen a single person since the entrance of the path and was feeling like the only person on Earth when I finally decided to turn around. I wasn't particularly worried about wildlife until I reached the suffocating rhododendron section, when I reminded myself that bears like that particular plant.

With about a mile to go until I reached town, I smelled cigarette smoke and was actually excited that I was about to see another upright walking species. Three guys were sporting fishing vests and carrying fishing poles, and as I ran by them, one called out my name. It was a family friend, so I walked with them a while before deciding I really wanted to finish the workout running. I hope I didn't fling mud on them in my excited dash back.

I now need to adjust my time for running and cycling. I've heard people state they just don't have to time to work out, but look at the athletes who qualified for the Olympic trials while raising multi-children families while working full-time jobs. If they can do it, I can surely wake up a half hour earlier, turn off the TV, and use every minute like it counts toward something. We all have the same amount of time in a day – it's what you do with your time that makes a difference.

To the drivers in the area, thank you for being mindful of cyclists and runners on our winding roads, and keep in mind that the July 4 holiday is a popular weekend both for traveling by car, as well as by other means.

Requests Land

number of units, however, would depend on the county's planned residential development stipulations (PRD) and the amount of "green spaces" that can be incorporated into the project.

"We're looking at and exploring various housing types," Devlin said. "We think modular is going to be a major player in terms of being able to provide affordable housing."

The units would be a mix of single-family and multi-family homes, duplexes, and, perhaps, "miniature" cottages, ranging from 450 to 1,000 square feet. Some of the residents would own their homes, while others would be renters.

The idea is to create a place with a traditional, neighborhood or village-type of feel. Devlin said, however, that a market study was needed to calibrate the best mix of housing types for the project.

Yoder also noted that the study was needed to see where the business park employees would fit into the housing arrangement.

The president added that one of the main features of the housing project is a parcel on the west side of the proposed site. That area is too steep to be developed, he said.

"We would ask that [parcel] also be added to the contribution by the county for the purpose of allowing us to use it to meet the PRD formula and requirements," Yoder said.

But ultimately, he said, the parcel would be put into some type of conservation district and never developed.

"Although, we would use it for recreational purposes, trails, and so on," Yoder said.

Other nearby green spaces that could be used in conjunction with the housing project are two ball fields that were established through Program Open Space. The POS sites, undeveloped parcel, business park, and other places in McHenry could all be connected with public walking trails, Devlin noted.

Yoder said the primarily targets for the homes would be the workforce and for-sale housing markets. Some of those dwellings would be sold/rented through a subsidy program, while others would be available at the market rate.

"Without those subsides, I don't think we can do it," he said about providing affordable housing for local workers. "With them, I think we can."

Under the subsidy program, homeowners and renters would have to meet certain income guidelines.

"I think we all agree that we want to promote home ownership, and, ideally, we'd like to do that through the market," said Director Jim Hinebaugh, Economic Development.

But, he noted, while local wages have increased somewhat in recent years, they have not kept up with inflation and increased housing costs. As a result, many cannot afford a home at market prices.

"I think Duane's proposal is one way to get there," Hinebaugh said about helping workers obtain affordable housing.

Yoder presented the commissioners with a workforce housing proposal, outlining ways to assure that the subsides go to the target population and that they are not misused. The proposal includes creating a land trust to provide sustainable affordable housing for the future and provisions for home sales.

If a home is sold under an appraised market, Yoder explained, a certain percentage of the appreciated value would go toward the land trust, based on the number of years of ownership.

He also told the commissioners that Community Action wants to encourage developers to be a part of the housing project. Yoder indicated that his agency did not have the time that is necessary to finish the initiative in short period of time. To speed up the project, developers could buy three or four lots and construct the homes following Community Action guidelines.

Yoder noted that Economic Development needed to know the basic boundary lines of the housing project so that it could move forward with the business park.

The commissioners discussed the issue further this week and approved the transfer of about 50 acres to Community Action for its project.

"The county is also considering transferring an additional 50-70 acres of property that has less/little development potential into a conservation easement," Hinebaugh said yesterday. "This would potentially increase the density and number of residential units in the Community Action residential development."

County administrator Monty Pagenhardt noted yesterday that the county will now benefit from real property tax revenue on the developed land that it most likely would not have received had the transfer not been approved.

Proper Care for this Skin Condition

Contact dermatitis is a medical term referring to things the skin encounters that cause it to become red and inflamed. Such things may include soap, cosmetics, jewelry, and certain plants. The rash that occurs is not contagious, and in most cases resolves within a few days to a couple of weeks. Other signs of contact dermatitis may include bumpy or dry skin. Only the area of skin exposed to the offending agent is affected. There are two categories of contact dermatitis: allergic contact dermatitis and irritant contact dermatitis. Irritant contact dermatitis is more common, and results from contact with an irritating substance, such as soap or cosmetics. Bleach and strong acids may be particularly irritating, as these substances may remove the skin's protective barrier. Allergic contact dermatitis may occur in response to exposure to an allergen, such as rubber, perfume, or hair dyes.

The best treatment for contact dermatitis is to identify the irritating agent and then discontinue contact with that agent. Creams containing hydrocortisone applied topically may help alleviate the redness and itching. A wet dressing also may be applied to the affected area. Oral steroids and antihistamines, such as diphenhydramine hydroxyzine and cetirizine may be required for more severe reactions.

Comfort Keepers

Comfort Keepers, a nationally renowned company providing non-medical home services for senior citizens, is now accepting clients in the Deep Creek Lake area.

The local franchise, owned by John McMullen, Cumberland, delivers a full range of companion services on a daily, weekly, and/or live-in basis for any adult requiring assistance with activities of daily living. Services are tailored to clients individual needs and range from light housekeeping, meal preparation, incidental transportation, laundry, and a host of other tasks designed to keep and promote a healthy independent lifestyle.

"At Comfort Keepers the emphasis is on compassionate and personalized care," said McMullen. All caregivers are local employees of the company and are bonded, insured, and thoroughly screened for each client's protection.

Dove Center

land, Grantsville, the Hoyes area, and Kitzmiller.

Children who have been direct victims of abuse or who have been witnesses to violence in their homes can receive counseling in the Dove Center offices or in their own schools.

Numerous free training sessions, presentations, and materials are provided to the community. The Dove Center also offers the only program in the county dedicated to educating and counseling perpetrators of domestic violence about how to end their violent behaviors.

"The Stop the Violence Walk and Rock is an important fundraising event for the Dove Center, as the agency does not receive direct federal or state funding," said a center spokesperson. "Instead, this nonprofit center provides services primarily through donations, fundraisers, and grant funding."

Domestic violence and sexual assault crimes occur nationally and locally. On a national level, almost 2 million injuries and over half a million emergency room visits are attributed to domestic violence each year, according to the National Network to End Domestic Violence.

In 1993, domestic violence cost American businesses between $3 and $5 billion annually because of worker absenteeism, increased health care costs, and lower productivity, according to the Maryland Network Against Domestic Violence.

At least 25% of American women have been sexually assaulted in adolescence or adulthood and 18% have been raped. Additionally, 29% of all forcible rapes of either sex occurred when the victims were under 11 years old. Furthermore, one in three girls and one in six boys are sexually abused before the age 18, according to the Maryland Coalition Against Sexual Assault.

On a county level, the Dove Center served 471 unduplicated victims of family violence, sexual assault, and homelessness in fiscal year 2007. Of those, 375 were affected by domestic violence; 62 were affected by sexual assault; 21 received domestic violence offender related services; and 56 people received homeless services (some of these clients overlapped in victimization types, but were not duplicated in the total).

"These numbers do not include people who did not seek Dove Center services," stressed the spokesperson.

For more information about the Stop the Violence Walk and Rock or about Dove Center services, persons may call 301-334-9000. Sponsorship forms can be obtained at the Dove Center's main office in Oakland.

All proceeds from this fundraiser will benefit the Dove Center and the people it serves.

Adorable Adoptables

SUPER FRIENDLY is how a Garrett County Animal Shelter spokesperson describes the tri-color "teenage" Walker hound pictured above left. "She is playful and loves everyone, especially children and other pets," said the spokesperson. Also available for adoption is a "jolly" basset hound in search of a good dietician. "He isn't a young pup, but is very wise and loves all humans and animals," the spokesperson noted. Several cats are also looking for homes, including Daisy who has been at the shelter for a very long time. Her owner moved and could not take her. Daisy has unusual ocelot-style lines on her expressive face. "As you can see, she's really watching for that special someone and hoping he/she has children," said the spokesperson. Below is Luck, who isn't having much good luck these days. He is very outgoing and finds canines and children intriguing, according to the spokesperson "He is impatiently waiting (feline style) for his new home," she said. One of the mixed collie brothers and the friendly cat featured last week were adopted. Plus, five other shelter canines found new homes; three dogs were reunited with their owners; and 26 felines found new "kitty lairs." For more information, persons may call the shelter at 301-334-3553. The facility is located along Oakland Sang Run Road and is open Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m., and on Thursday until 6 p.m.

MPA To Present Ensemble Gaudior

Music at Penn Alps will present Ensemble Gaudior in concert on Saturday, July 5, at 7:30 p.m. in the Great Hall at Penn Alps, Grantsville.

Ensemble Gaudior performs masterpieces of chamber music from the Baroque and Classical eras, using instruments from those periods or careful modern copies. Based in the Washington, DC, area, Ensemble Gaudior is represented for this program by three of its members.

Alexandra MacCracken, founder and director of Ensemble Gaudior, pictured above, has performed as a baroque violinist with the Washington Bach Consort, Opera Lafayette, and Modern Musick, as well as with period-instrument ensembles in Richmond, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, and New York. She holds both bachelor's and master's degrees in music from the University of Illinois, Champaign-Urbana.

Daniel Rippe has appeared as a featured soloist with the Richmond Symphony and has performed with the Handel Choir of Baltimore, Peabody Renaissance Ensemble, and American Opera Theater. In 2004, he received a Maryland State Arts Council Individual Artist Award for solo performance on viola da gamba. He earned his graduate performance diploma at the Peabody Institute.

Elena Tsai has performed throughout the United States and Europe. She was a finalist in the Pro Musicis competition in New York, and a semi-finalist in the 5th Jurow International Harpsichord competition, and has performed with the Bach Sinfonia, the Handel Choir of Baltimore, and the Hopkins Symphony, and at the Shenandoah Valley Bach Festival. She teaches piano at the Friends School of Baltimore.

The program will feature three works by Heinrich Ignaz Franz Biber (1644–1704): Rosary Sonata No. 9 in A minor (Carrying the Cross); Sonata terza in F Major (from Sonatae violino solo); and Passacaglia in G Minor (The Guardian Angel). The ensemble will also perform works by Johann Jakob Froberger, Johann Heinrich Schmelzer, and Georg Muffat.

Tickets are $15 for adults, and youth under 19 are admitted free of charge. For program and ticket information, persons may call 301-895-4250. The concert is sponsored by Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty. After the performance, audience members will be invited to meet and talk to the artist at an informal reception.

Music at Penn Alps is a non-profit organization dedicated to presenting classical music and American traditions.

Senior Art Show To Be Held At Grantsville Ctr.

The Grantsville Senior Center will hold a senior art show on Friday, July 11, from 4 until 8 p.m. at the center. The show and presentation of displays are open to the public.

Seniors age 55 and over are encouraged to contact the center to submit their work for the event. Planned items on display include landscapes, stained glass, photography, crocheted items, and quilts.

There will be light refreshments and hoagie sandwiches available for purchase.

SCHLOSNAGLE NAMED '08 FRIEND OF THE ARTS – Steven Schlosnagle was named as the Garrett County Arts Council's Friend of the Arts at the organization's annual meeting last Thursday. The award honors those persons who demonstrate exemplary support of the arts in Garrett County. Schlosnagle is the outgoing executive director of the arts council and author of Garrett County, A History of Maryland's Tableland. As ED of the council for 13 years, the honoree supported the local arts community in a variety of ways, helping individuals and organizations obtain grants and funding for a wide range of arts endeavors. "Steve is the reason some artistic opportunities are even possible here," said Keith Roberts, the new ED for the council. Schlosnagle administered the Arts in Education program, which has brought cultural arts in many forms into local schools. He was instrumental in the founding of the Ginseng publication, which offered local writers a way to publish their work. In his capacity with the arts council, he managed the Gallery in Oakland for the past 8 years, during which the creations of more than 200 artists have been exhibited, private shows have been held, and arts and crafts demonstrations given. Working with the Maryland State Arts Council, Schlosnagle became an evaluator of various arts related programs throughout the state. These involvements brought recognition to Garrett County, Roberts said, as being a part of the nationally recognized Maryland artists' support community. Roberts said Schlosnagle's acceptance speech, "Six Steps Toward Getting An Award Like This," was entertaining to all assembled. "His wit and knowledge will be missed when he leaves the county and moves to the warmer climes of North Carolina," Roberts said.

All proceeds will benefit the Garrett County Meals on Wheels program. For more information, persons may call Carrie Clow at 301-895-5818 or 301-334-9431, ext. 139.

"Art in the Park is an event for the whole family to enjoy," said Fred Schaich, president of the Western Garrett County State Park Volunteers Inc. (WGCSPVI). "Hands-on activities and delicious food will delight children and parents alike. We are proud to offer such programs that can bring family, fun, and education together."

All artwork on display will be available for purchase. The items will include jewelry, photography, wood-turned items, native wildflowers and habitat boxes, pottery, fused glass, original artwork, wood painted furniture, tatting, hand-woven baskets, wool rugs, handmade soaps, children's books, and more.

Chautauqua's Civil Rights Theme To Be Exemplified By King, X, Parks, Wallace

Chautauqua, the annual living history program of the Maryland Humanities Council, will return to Garrett College in McHenry for four consecutive evenings, July 5 to 8. This year's theme is "Civil Rights: Taking a Stand" with portrayals of Martin Luther King Jr., Malcolm X, Rosa Parks, and George Wallace.

Held under a tent on the Garrett College lawn, each evening's program will begin at 7 p.m. with entertainment by local musicians, followed by the evening's featured performer at 7:30 p.m. Though admission to each program is free, contributions will be accepted to help offset program costs.

Each evening, an actor or scholar will portray one of the aforementioned historical characters, adopting the character's style, mannerisms, accent, and fashion of dress. After each historical portrayal, the performer will answer audience questions, first in character, then as a scholar of the character portrayed.

On July 5, following an opening performance by the Mountain Top Dixieland Band, Professor Lenneal Henderson of the University of Baltimore will portray Martin Luther King Jr., a seminal figure in the civil rights movement. Known as an inspiring leader and powerful orator, King was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize for his work, which eventually led to the landmark Voting Rights Act of 1965 and to the end of segregation in the South. Henderson, who is quite active in promoting African-American history and culture, has also portrayed Thurgood Marshall on several occasions.

Classical and flamenco guitarist Dmitri Ostrogorsky will precede cultural historian Doug Mishler's portrayal of the controversial Alabama governor George Wallace on July 6. Infamous for his 1963 schoolhouse door proclamation of "segregation forever," Wallace was the symbol of southern resistance to civil rights, who nevertheless made peace with and gained the support of black leaders later in his career. Since 1995, Mishler has appeared at the Maryland Chautauqua as P.T. Barnum, Theodore Roosevelt, William Lloyd Garrison, Henry Ford, and Upton Sinclair.

The July 7 program will open with Hammers and Strings, playing traditional Appalachian music. That performance will be followed by actress Gwendolyn Briley-Strand's portrayal of Rosa Parks. Her arrest resulting from her refusal to give up her seat to a white passenger on a Montgomery, Ala., bus on Dec. 1, 1955, resulted in the 381-day Montgomery Bus Boycott and marked the beginning of the modern civil rights movement.

Briley-Strand, known for her portrayals of Parks, Harriet Tubman, and Sojourner Truth, has appeared at the White House, the Smithsonian, and the Kennedy Center, as well as museums, schools, and cultural organizations.

The barbershop quartet That's It! will lead off the July 8 program, followed by Charles Everett Pace's portrayal of the charismatic and controversial Malcolm X. Malcolm X rose to prominence as a leading spokesman for the Nation of Islam, advocating black separation and non-engagement, though he later modified some of his more strident views and embraced orthodox Islam. Charles Everett Pace performs on a full-time basis at Chautauquas and other events throughout the nation, having portrayed Langston Hughes, Frederick Douglass, Scott Joplin, and W.E.B. DuBois in addition to Malcolm X.

Chautauqua is a tradition in Garrett County that dates to the last years of the 19th century in Mountain Lake Park. Summer chautauquas of the era, featuring guest appearances by famous actors, performers, orators, and politicians, filled the town's circular Bashford Amphitheater and necessitated special excursion trains on the B&O line to

TO PRESENT CHAUTAUQUA PRE-SHOWS – Local musicians will be on hand next week to offer pre-show musical performances for the 2008 Chautauqua, slated for July 5 to 8 under the big tent on the lawn of Garrett College. (See separate story.) The opening performances will begin at 7 each evening and precede the 7:30 p.m. portrayals of famous personages of American history. Shown above is the Mountaintop Dixieland Jazz Band, which will perform on July 5. At right is Dmitry Ostrogorsky, Flamenco and classical guitarist, who will open the July 6 program. Shown below is the Appalachian folk music band, Hammers and Strings, which will give the pre-show on July 7 program. The Tuesday, July 8, program will be preceded by That's It!, a barbershop quartet. All performances are free.

GC Arts Council Holds Annual Mtg., Notes '09 Grants

The annual meeting of the Garrett County Arts Council was held on June 26 at the Gallery in Oakland with many in attendance, according to Keith Roberts, the new executive director for the organization. New officers were introduced, and the grants for 2009 were announced.

Outgoing president Sue Arnson welcomed everyone and reviewed last year's activities. These included the Arts in Education and Community Arts Development grants, the Artists Studio Tour, Art in the Park, Heritage Craft Fest, Wonderful Wednesdays art and craft demonstrations, and others.

Arnson introduced Roberts, who in turn presented Steve Schlosnagle, outgoing executive director, with a plaque recognizing his years of participation with the Community Arts Alliance of Maryland (CAAM). Schlosnagle noted that this recognition was significant to him because CAAM is composed of directors of arts councils across the entire state.

Next year's grant award recipients were announced. They are Friendsville Days, the Friendsville Lions Club, Garrett Choral Society, Garrett College Art Gallery, Garrett Community Concert Band, Garrett County Board Of Education, Garrett County Health Department, Garrett Highlands Pipes & Drums, Garrett Lakes Arts Festival, Grantsville Lions Club, Greater Oakland Business Association, Highland Festival, Our Town Theatre, Spruce Forest Artisan Village, TOTL Theatre Company, and the town of Kitzmiller.

The election and introduction and election of new arts council board members took place as well. Those joining the board were Cindy Stacey, Sandy Nesline, and Joan Lyon. Tiddle Wheeler was elected president, and Odette Lueck will serve as secretary.

The meeting was followed by a reception for abstract artist Bob Corrigan. His exhibit will be at the Gallery until July 26.

CHARLIE KENNEY AND FIRE CREEK will perform "high energy" country music Friday and Saturday, July 4 and 5, at the 13th annual local rodeo at the Garrett County Fairgrounds, McHenry. The group will perform from 6 until 7 p.m. and again during intermission. Rodeo action will take place at 7:30 p.m. Kenney grew up in Short Gap, W.Va., listening to Waylon Jennings, Merle Haggard, and Charlie Daniels and dreaming of a country music career. Kenney joined the U.S. Marines after high school, but held on to his dream. "I would sing anywhere and anytime I had the opportunity," he said. "It's what I love to do." His "big break" came when he met Joe Kelly, president of National Promotions for Aspirion Records. Kenney later recorded his first demo album, produced by Rich Eckhardt, guitarist for Toby Keith. In February 2007, Kenney signed with Three Hat Productions, an artist management company, to help further his career. Performing with Kenney at the rodeo will be Dave Staccone, bass guitar; Scott Underwood, keyboard; Cody Bittinger, lead guitar; and Travis Hitchons, drums.

31st Quilt Fest Scheduled For Next Weekend

Despite the closing of the Casselman Bridge on Route 40 for repair, Spruce Forest Artisan Village is currently open and preparing for its 31st annual Summer Quilt and Craft Festival scheduled for Friday and Saturday, July 11 and 12, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Quilts will be hung throughout the Village and in the historic buildings. Quilting demonstrations, craft vendors, food concessions, and the Annual Quilt Raffle will be featured in this two-day event. An admission fee of $3 per person will be charged.

The Quilt Show will focus on two areas: displaying and sharing the stories associated with heritage or antique quilts, and showing and judging recent quilts from regional quilters.

The show will be judged by National Quilt Association-certified quilt judge Marjorie Coffey in seven categories: pieced, hand-stitched; pieced, machine stitched; embroidered, hand-appliqued; whole cloth; novelty; and miniature.

Monetary prizes and ribbons will be awarded to winners.

Quilt entries will be accepted at the Village Church on Monday, July 7, from 9 a.m. until noon. Pre-registration is not required, and there is no cost to enter.

For more information, persons may contact the Village office at 301-895-3332.

The festival will conclude with the quilt raffle drawing at the close of the event on Saturday. This year's quilt, "Flying Geese Among Vines" by Jane Harkom of Somerset, was judged Best of Show at the 2008 Pennsylvania Maple Festival. Tickets may be purchased at the Village up until the time of the drawing.

Spruce Forest Artisan Village and artisan studios are open daily Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

In addition to the Summer Quilt and Craft Festival, Spruce Forest Artisan Village offers the Weekend Workshop series and the guest artisan program throughout the regular season. Resident and guest artisans share their knowledge and experience in a series of weekend workshops that include feather

Barnard, Poholsky Carry Oakland Pen-Mar To Matching 10-0 Shutouts

Oakland Pen-Mar baseball league pitchers Torrey Poholsky and Spencer Barnard used similar defensive strategies as they held Petersburg to matching 10-0 losses in a Sunday afternoon doubleheader. Barnard no-hit Petersburg in the second game, while Poholsky allowed two hits in the first.

Barnard fanned nine and walked two while not allowing a ball out of the infield in his win. Poholsky had 10 strikeouts, no walks, and allowed two singles, while tossing 63 pitches in his win. Both games were shortened by the 10-run rule.

Corey Bosley led Oakland at the plate in the first game by producing three doubles and scoring three times. Brian Lenhart also scored three times and had two singles. Nick Gregg and Danny Flores both singled three times, with Gregg driving in three runs.

The Oaks scored five runs in the first and added a sixth run in the second. They added one run in the fourth and three more in the fifth and final inning.

Billy Reams ignited the Oakland offense in the second game with a two-run homer in the first inning. Bosley added two more doubles to finish with five on the day, and scored three times. Flores hit a double, single, and scored twice, Matt Miller knocked a pair of singles, and Jake Freels provided a two-run single.

T.M. Frye recorded six strikeouts in five innings for Petersburg.

Oakland is in first place in the Pen-Mar West Virginia league with a 10-2 record, and has an overall 16-2 record. It travels to play Clarksburg in a Saturday doubleheader.

Garrett Splits Pair With Cumberland, Grabs Two Wins In Pa. Tournament

In recent American Legion baseball action, the Garrett County team added a 15-2 victory to its list of wins over Fort Cumberland, last Thursday. Garrett participated in the recent Claysburg Legion Tournament, Pa., where it reached for 13-1 and 8-5 wins over Stoystown and Claysburg, respectively, but was then upset by Cumberland in a 7-3 loss at home on Tuesday.

Dan Warnick kicked off the second half of the American Legion season with a home run in the first inning of last Thursday's contest, as Garrett totaled 11 hits and improved to 7-0 this season against Cumberland.

Also getting hits for Garrett were Corey Carr with a two-run single and one-run double, Jake Briley with an RBI double and RBI single. In addition, Matt Sisler drove in one run with a double, Jason Ashby had two singles and an RBI, and Tommie Reams hit a double. Nick Tressler and Pat Brady each knocked RBI singles.

For Cumberland, John Taylor hit an RBI single and Logan Harden recorded three singles and an RBI.

Garrett scored twice in the fourth to take a 3-1 lead, then broke the game open with a two-run fifth and a five-run sixth. It then tacked on five more runs in the eighth.

Trey Beasom earned the win by going seven innings and striking out seven while yielding five singles.

Garrett traveled to Claysburg to collect an 11-1 victory over Stoystown and an 8-5 win over Claysburg in a weekend legion tournament.

Sisler kept the reigns tight on Stoystown in the opener with 11 strikeouts, no walks, and three hits allowed in seven innings. Jason Ashby hit a two-run double, an RBI single, and another single. Nick Tressler doubled twice, while Carr provided an RBI double and a single. Tommie Reams singled home on a run.

Stoystown's Mike Deneen drove in his team's only run with a single in the first, and later doubled.

Garrett handled an early lead in the second game, as well, but needed the extra runs in the final innings to provide some breathing room.

Garrett scored first with three runs in the first inning before Claysburg recorded two in the second. Garrett recorded runs in the fourth and fifth and led 6-5 entering the seventh inning when Jake Briley hit an RBI triple that scored Ashby and Tressler dropped a suicide squeeze down that scored Briley for the final run.

Tressler would finish with two singles, Reams hit a two-run triple, and Beasom doubled.

Ashby preserved the lead by getting out of a bases-loaded jam in the sixth and Beasom worked the seventh for the save.

Dane Diehl had a triple and a single for Claysburg. Ricky Brown, Matt Aungst, and Kenny Panfile each produced two singles for the host team.

Garrett was handed its first loss in two weeks by a visiting Cumberland squad on Wednesday.

It took three innings before Garrett warmed up with two runs to tie the score in the fourth inning, but the local team needed more than its one additional run in the sixth inning to pull out from under Cumberland.

Cumberland jumped out with a 2-0 lead with RBI singles from Sean Collette and Scott Rice. The winning team added a run in the seventh, and four more in the eighth inning to finish on top of the 7-3 contest.

Eric Robinson got three RBI on a bases-loaded triple in the eighth, then scored when Shane Malloy singled.

Rice held off Garrett in two innings of relief pitching by striking out six of the 10 batters he faced. Cody Ellsworth was the starting pitcher for Cumberland (5-11).

Corey Carr had two singles for Garrett, and Trey Beasom struck out six as the starting pitcher.

Casselman Loses In 7-0 Blanking To Chessie FDC

Casselman Valley put up little resistance against the unbeaten Chessie Federal Credit Union squad in a Monday evening Rec League baseball contest at Frostburg Armory Field as Chessie rolled to a 7-0 victory. Casselman was scheduled to travel to Bowers Field on Wednesday to play American Legion, but results of that contest were not received.

Casselman Valley (4-5-1) managed four hits in Monday's loss to Chessie FDC, but failed to produce any runs off those hits.

Casselman Loses

Corey Greig went six solid innings and collected six strikeouts while walking two for Chessie. He was relieved by Matt Ferris for a perfect final inning.

Casselman pitcher Corey Carr came on in the third inning and fanned five while yielding five hits.

Ferris had a base hit for the winners, while Logan Harden and Sean Nolan recorded one-run singles.

Carr and Aaron Beiler accounted for all of Casselman's hits. Carr produced a double and a single, while Beiler singled twice.

The win keeps Chessie in the top spot with a 9-0-9 record.

After Sizeable Win Over KMK, SS&A Loses To Hite Roofing

The Rec Leage baseball team sponsored by Sweitzer, Simson, & Associates used a home field advantage (at Southern High School) to hand KMK Insurance/Personal Best a 14-7 loss on Friday, but SS&A wound up on the short side of a 6-1 contest with Hite Roofing on Wednesday in Bel Air.

SS&A scored in every inning but the third in Friday's contest, and shot ahead of KMK Insurance early by putting nine runs on the board in the first two innings.

KMK Insurance batted first and scored two runs, which SS&A negated in its turn at bat with five runs. KMK went scoreless through the second and SS&A barreled on with four in the second to lead 9-2. KMK made it 9-5 in the third, but SS&A scored three in the fourth and once in both the fifth and sixth innings to beat KMK by twice as many runs.

Cody Parsons led SS&A with four runs batted in on a double and two singles. Reece Duncan had three RBI with a double and Nick Tressler finished with an RBI on two singles. Jeff Hinebaugh and Kody Lewis both had run-scoring singles.

Chandler Tomlinson homered in two baserunners in the third inning for KMK and added two singles to his hit total. Brennan Connelley tripled, while Forest Folk and John Carpenter added two singles apiece.

Eleven SS&A batters were sent back to the dugout Wednesday as Hite Roofing's pitcher Scott Rice held the visiting team to three hits in a complete-game effort.

Shane Malloy doubled twice to lead Hite Roofing's 10-hit attack. Rice helped himself at the plate with two singles and one RBI, while John Taylor and Freddie Abe each produced two-run singles.

Hite's catcher, Roger Piper, threw out two runners attempting to steal third.

Kody Lewis had two singles and Shane Weaver drove in a run with a double for SS&A, which stands at 6-5 on the season.

SS&A will be on the road at Armory Field on Monday to take on Chessie Federal Credit Union.

Team One Uses Late Attack In Ridgeview Win

Hot Stove League baseball teams Team One Auto Mall and Ridgeview Enterprises went through three scoreless innings before any runs were recorded in a Friday contest, and Team One trailed going into the final inning before spewing out 12 runs to zoom past Ridgeview for a 13-3 victory. The win helps Team One improve to 5-7.

Only scoring one run over the course of six innings, something inside Team One exploded in the seventh to negate Ridgeviews three runs, which were scored in the fourth, fifth, and seventh innings.

Team One got half of its 14 hits during the seventh, and used three Ridgeview errors to score its seven runs. Six of those hits were singles and one was a double.

Aaron Shotwell collected two of his three hits during the big SS&A inning, and finished with four RBI. Tyler Alt knocked in two runs with a double in the seventh and added two singles to his total, and Mikey Skipper finished with two hits and three RBI.

Calvin Hilliard and Bubba Scheffel teamed up to strike out 12 and allowed only three hits in the win.

Taylor knocked two singles for Ridgeview.

The Georges Creek Soccer Club will sponsor the 8th annual Lisa Wade 5-K Run and 1.5-mile Fun Run/Walk on Saturday, July 12, at 8:30 a.m. in Westernport.

Proceeds from the race benefit the Lisa Wade Scholarship that is awarded annually to student athletes at Mountain Ridge High School and Southern High School.

Lisa Wade was a Bloomington resident and a student at Westmar High School when she was fatally injured in a vehicle-pedestrian accident.

The run will begin approximately 100 yards north of the American Legion on Rt. 36 and continue across the Waverly Street Bridge and through the town of Westernport. From there the course goes to Franklin and back down to Creekside Park. This is a predominantly flat course with one hill toward the end of the run.

The overall male and female winners of the 5-K event will receive awards and Personal Best gift certificates. Awards will also be given to the top three finishers in the following men's and women's age groups: 9 and under, 10-14, 15-19, 20-24, 25-29, 30-34, 35-39, 40-44, 45-49, 45-49, 50-59, 60-70, and 70 and over. After the race there will also be drawings for numerous door prizes.

A handicap-accessible course will also be used. Corey's Course, named in memory of Corey Broadwater, a cousin of Lisa Wade, will be a non-competitive, 15-minute timed event around Creekside Park. Proceeds from Corey's Course will support a special achievement award in Mineral County, W.Va.

Pre-race registration is due by July 4. A special discount applies to early registration with multiple family members. Day-of-race registration will be $15. Sign-up will be from 7 until 8:15 a.m. at Creekside Park. T-shirts are guaranteed to all entrants.

Application forms are available on the Queen City Striders web site at http://www.qcstriders.org/. Users should click on the 2008 race calendar link. Forms can also be obtained by telephoning 301-359-0042.

Wisp Finishes Off East Hardy With Mercy Rule

The Wisp Hot Stove League baseball team managed to end Monday evening's contest with East Hardy early by using the mercy rule when the score reached 11-1 in the sixth inning. The game was played at Northern High School on Monday.

Wisp ended a 1-1 tie and added some insurance runs in the fourth inning of Monday's contest with East Hardy to force the 10-run rule.

Winning pitcher Andy Umbel delivered a two-run double in the fourth that sparked the Wisp's big inning. Wisp took a 1-0 lead in the second inning, but saw East Hardy tie the score in the top of the fourth. With the help of Umbel's double, Wisp scored six times in the bottom half of the fourth, and tacked on two more in both the fifth and sixth innings to force the mercy rule.

Jared Fike helped Wisp (8-4) with two singles and two RBI, while Alex Smith and Adam Finzel both provided RBI singles.

T. Kear hit an RBI single for East Hardy's lone run.

East Hardy was disadvantaged with eight walks and six passed balls. Three East Hardy pitchers combined to allow nine hits to the Wisp battery.

GIG HOLS FISHING RODEO – The Grantsville Involvement Group (GIG) recently held its annual fishing rodeo at the storm water pond at Grantsville Park. Children ages 3 to 15 were able to fish from 8:30 a.m. to noon, and prizes were given to those who caught the largest and smallest fish. Pictured above for the largest fish in the boy and girl categories are Dylan Thomas and Christa Lowery, who both won new fishing poles donated by Parkside Pizza & Grille, run by Dave and Jody Stein. Also pictured is Meredith Everly with her smallest fish. Everyone received prizes of some sort, and several donations were made by different businesses. The worms were donated by D&B Sports Shop, Deer Park. Stough Qualifies Third Time For National Event

Dustin Stough, an incoming senior at Northern High School, has for the third time qualified for the USA Wrestling Junior Freestyle and Greco Roman Nationals. He will train and travel with the Maryland National Wrestling Team.

Stough, son of Scott and Terri Stough, Friendsville, will attend a four-day training camp at McDonogh High School and then travel to North Dakota State University in Fargo, where he will compete in both freestyle and Greco Roman styles of wrestling. The tournament is held in the Fargo Dome, where last year some 3,000 wrestlers participated, using 23 mats.

Stough qualified for this event by placing second in the Maryland State Freestyle State Championships. To prepare for this tournament, he has trained since the end of the high school season. He wrestles twice each week, and participates in various camps and tournaments.

Stough participated in this tournament the past two years and says it was a major factor in his success last season as a junior member of the Northern Huskies' team. He finished with a 35-5 record, was the AMAC and Bi-County champion, and placed second in the West Region. In the state tournament he placed fourth in the 160-pound weight division.

Stough is a member of the Northern High chapter of the National Honor Society. With a 3.7 GPA, he was named Student-Athlete of the Month by the Cumberland Times-News.

He received the Minds in Motion Athletic Scholar Award during football and wrestling seasons at Northern.

Outside of school, Stough is an Eagle Scout with Troop 53, Grantsville. He is also a member of the Deep Creek Winter Sports Team and placed third in the NASTAR national ski race at Steamboat Springs, Colo., this past spring.

Sponsorships to help Stough defray expenses involved with his trip to North Dakota may be sent to Dustin Stough, P.O. Box 126, Friendsville, MD 21531. For more information, persons may call 301-387-8750 or e-mail sstough@qcol.net. Sponsorships are tax-deductible through the MSWA (Maryland State Wrestling Association).

Decorating Dilemma?

Sheila offers helpful advice.

Dear Sheila:

What with the gas prices going heaven knows where I am almost afraid to do anything to my house. I KNOW I don't want to go to the mall or out of town but I really need some rugs for my floor. I have laminate flooring and I love the way it cleans up but it doesn't feel "toasty and cozy" underfoot.

Real Estate Facts by...

STEPPING UP TO DOWN MARKETS!

Remember the ancient curse, "May you live in interesting times"? While many are indeed cursing the current real estate climate, others see opportunities. In a "soft" market, the short-term options dwindle, but seasoned investors in for the long haul are positioned to take advantage.

In the words of billionaire J. Paul Getty, "Buy when everyone else is selling and hold until everyone else is buying." Just like the stock market, more money is often made in a down cycle than in an up market.

Slower times encourage sellers to be more open to negotiation. Combine acceptance of lower prices with currently low interest rates, and you've got the perfect recipe for bargains. Real estate is continually cycling, and it's guaranteed that prices will rise again. The time to get in is now, before that begins to happen.

A "buy and hold" strategy works in this market, while your property appreciates. While you wait, consider leasing it. The property can pay for itself with rent collected, and an investor that can pay off a small mortgage is in an excellent position indeed.

Learn from your real estate agent and tax advisor how a "1031 Exchange" can greatly reduce your tax liability when it does come time to sell your investment. Now is the time to get in, but be sure to know how you'll get out, too! If you are thinking of buying or selling a home but feel "out of touch" with real estate, give me a call today.

Teachers, Scientists, Engineers Teaming Up In The Classroom

Science, technology, engineering, and math (STEM) teachers and U.S. Department of Defense (DoD) scientists and engineers from around the country will be teaming up at Garrett College this summer to learn innovative strategies for the nation's classrooms. The first of the three weeks of training will begin this Sunday, July 6.

The Center for the Advancement of STEM Education (CASE) will provide Summer Teacher Training Institutes to approximately 75 middle and high school teachers from 14 states, including Alaska and Hawaii. Garrett County teachers have also been invited.

"The U.S. has a severe shortfall of STEM professionals in its workforce," said a STEM spokesperson. "In 2006, President Bush announced the American Competitiveness Initiative to encourage American innovation and strengthen our nation's ability to compete in the global economy. An important component of this ambitious strategy is that it will provide American children with a strong foundation in math and science."

"We are excited about this year's training because it will include outstanding STEM professionals from designated Department of Defense laboratories," said Dr. Nancy Priselac, CASE director of training. "Upon return to their home states, teachers will be teamed up with local scientists and engineers (S&Es) to plan their implementation strategies for fall.

"The DoD has committed its S&Es to serve as mentors to the teachers and students," Priselac continued. "They will add a real-world perspective to the instruction."

"The summer institutes will provide comprehensive instruction using the latest technology and cutting-edge practices to better prepare teachers for the 21st-century classroom," said the spokesperson.

A variety of instructional tools will be introduced, including Materials World Modules, created by Northwestern University.

The training will be "very hands on," and will include a variety of activities inside and outside the classroom, noted the spokesperson.

"We're trying to invigorate the classroom," she said.

The summer program will also give teachers the opportunity to share ideas and build friendships with peers from around the country. They will learn about successful programs that have worked outside of their scope of experience.

CASE was established in June 2006 with funding from the DoD. A National Defense Education Program, the primary purpose for the center is to add more professional engineers and scientists to the workforce by stimulating science and technology interest in middle and high school students nationwide.

Dr. Stephen Priselac, executive director of CASE, said the training will continue far beyond this summer.

"The week-long summer trainings will provide teachers with an outstanding start," he said. "The professional development training provided by CASE is unique because it won't stop once the teachers leave. Ongoing classroom training will continue throughout the school year to make sure everyone is able to use the new tools effectively. The S&Es will continue to visit the classrooms throughout the year as well. This combined strategy will ensure the teachers are successful."

The Center for STEM Education will meet this challenge by creating training programs that will immerse the teachers and students in activities associated with inquiry and design-based learning that supplement the normal science curriculum, noted the spokesperson.

"The center's main goal will be to stimulate an interest in and a heightened awareness of science, technology, engineering, and mathematics so that our children – our future – will be prepared for the new millennium," she said.

Attorney General, GC Home Builder Reach Agreement

Attorney General Douglas F. Gansler recently announced that his Consumer Protection Division's Home Builder Registration Unit has entered into settlement agreements with several home builders in Maryland, including one in Garrett County.

Humberson Homes Inc., McHenry, and 16 other home builders have agreed to pay penalties to settle allegations that they violated Maryland's building laws, including operating without being registered or failing to make required disclosures to the Home Builder Registration Unit in their registration applications.

The settlements prohibit the companies from acting as home builders in the state unless they first register with the unit and comply with other Maryland laws governing home builders. The builders also agreed to submit to arbitration consumer complaints that cannot be resolved through mediation, using the division's arbitration program.

"Home builders must be registered before they can enter into contracts to build homes for consumers and must comply with the requirements for registration," Gansler said.

He encourages new home buyers to check whether their builder is registered by contacting the Home Builder Registration Unit at 410-576-6573 or toll free at 877-259-4525, or by visiting the attorney general's web site at oag.state.md.us/-homebuilder.

UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND COLLEGE PARK – EASTERN SHORE

STINGING INSECTS: GOOD? BAD? UGLY?

The article was summarized by Susan McGreal, master gardener trainee, from the University of Maryland publication Bulletin 248, titled "Common Stinging Insects: Wasps and Bees."

Stinging insects frighten nearly everyone. Even though bees and wasps rarely sting, most people feel threatened in their presence. Getting stung is a painful experience and can be fatal for a few highly allergic individuals.

However, wasps and bees actually rank among the most beneficial of insects. Bees are essential for the pollination of many plants, and wasps capture a wide variety of insect pests as food for their young. These benefits are often lost on people who have experienced the capacity of a bee or wasp to defend itself. It is the social bees and wasps that are responsible for most stings. Social bees and wasps most frequently sting in defense of their nest. Because many species nest in, or close by human dwellings, painful encounters are sometimes unavoidable.

If a nest of bees or wasps is discovered on a property, a pest control professional can safely eliminate it. However, there are currently no reliable means of removing all stinging insects from an outdoor area. Persons need to learn when to eliminate and when to coexist.

Yellow jacket wasps are the cause of most stings attributed to bees. These colorful black and yellow insects cause more human stings than any other insect for several reasons. They are extremely numerous, they often nest in and around buildings, and they are attracted to human food. Yellow jackets hunting food and drink can quickly crawl inside a human's sandwich or drink can and be concealed from view. Since wasps can sting repeatedly, discovery can be startling and painful!

The only true hornet in Maryland is the yellow and chestnut colored European hornet. This big, relatively docile wasp builds nests in concealed places, but often hunts at night and is attracted to porch lights.

If a wasp nest must be eliminated because of location, pest professionals have the equipment and chemical controls to safely destroy the nests. If a nest is inaccessible, or if the wasps do not present a problem, leave the nest alone. All wasps die during winter, except for a few queens, which overwinter elsewhere. Nests are not reused the next season and present no future problem.

Honey bees are the familiar small, fuzzy, brown bees that collect nectar and pollen from flowers to feed colony members. Although honey bees will sting in self-defense if stepped on or bumped, they are generally reluctant to do so. Unlike wasps that can sting repeatedly, honey bees can only sting once and then they die.

Bumble bees are the large, hairy black and yellow bees. Their ground nests are seldom seen and they do not sting unless their nest is stepped on. Although they may seem imposing, they are not aggressive while they collect nectar and pollen from flowers.

Both honey bees and wasps have barbed stings (which many people erroneously refer to as "stingers"). As soon as a person is stung, the site should be inspected, and any material still in the skin should be removed. The faster the sting is pulled away or scraped off, the less venom will be injected, and the smaller the resulting swelling.

Persons should be aware of possible life-threatening reactions. Severe allergic reactions to wasp and bee stings are rare, but can include labored breathing, difficulty swallowing, hoarseness or thickened speech, nausea or vomiting, weakness or dizziness, and confusion. If in doubt, persons should call a medical professional immediately.

In outdoor situations, there are several common sense rules to follow.

- Be alert when doing yard work. Most people are stung while working outside.
- Avoid eating or drinking outdoors.
- Do not go outside barefoot.
- Be cautious around outdoor pools. Many stinging insects collect water from pools.
- Stay on established trails in parks and natural areas. Nests have probably been removed from well-traveled areas.
- Keep garbage tightly covered.
- Do not feed pets outside.
- Promptly clean up pet waste.
- Keep the ground under fruit trees clear of fallen fruit.

By Dr. Bob Doyle
Frostburg State Planetarium

JULY 2008 SUN - As July opens, the sun is in the star group Gemini where it stays through the early hours of July 20. The sun then crosses into Cancer, where it remains until the early hours of August 10. (These dates are based on the actual star group boundaries and sun's position, not the 2,500-year-old dates used by Western astrologers.) The amount of daily sunlight in July changes less than an hour; early July has 14.9 hours of daylight while the end of July has 14.2 sunlight hours. Sunrises in Oakland in early July are about 5:55 a.m., advancing to 6:15 p.m. at month's end. Sunsets in Oakland in early July are about 8:48 p.m., dropping to 8:32 p.m. in late July. During July the sun's peak height at mid-day decreases from 73 to 68 degrees. At dawn the morning stars begin to fade away around 5 a.m., while evening stars first appear about 9:45 p.m.

JULY 2008 MOON - In early July, the moon is a crescent in the morning sky. Low in the western dusk, a slender crescent moon reappears near the planets Saturn and Mars on July 6. The evening moon grows to half full on July 9 (like a "D"), offering the best views of its craters and mountains through binoculars. The evening moon grows to full on July 17, rising as the sun sets and hanging in the sky all through the night. To the right of the full moon is the bright planet Jupiter. In the last week of July, the moon is a morning sky object, appearing half full in the southern dawn on July 25.

THE BRIGHT PLANETS IN JULY 2008 - Our five nearest planetary neighbors appear as points of light that shine steadily, unlike the bright night stars that twinkle. Venus is at too low an angle to the sun and is lost in the sun's glare through mid fall. Mercury can be seen low in the eastern dawn in early July, appearing close to the crescent moon on July 1. In the early evening western sky, Mars slowly approaches Saturn, passing by on July 10, and then pulls away. In the late evening sky, the very bright planet Jupiter can be seen low in the southeast. Jupiter is closest to Earth on July 9, rising as the sun sets and setting as the sun rises.

THE EVENING STARS IN JULY - The Big Dipper is about halfway up in the north northwest with its two bottom stars pointing right towards the North Star. The handle of the Big Dipper can be extended outward to the bright golden star Arcturus, the brightest evening star. In the east is the white-blue star Vega, nearly matching Arcturus in brightness. Vega forms the top star of the Summer Triangle, which nearly points to the bright planet Jupiter this summer. On moonless nights, the gentle glow of the Milky Way can be seen running through the lower part of the Triangle.

Dr. Doyle writes this column for beginners who would like to identify the brightest stars, planets, and sights in their backyards. To ask questions or get a free brochure or sky charts, persons may call the FSU Planetarium at 301-387-4270 and press 4. Doyle hosts "Sky Watch," a brief radio program that airs weekday evenings just before 9 p.m. on WFWM at 91.9 FM and 96.3 FM. Doyle's e-mail address is rdoyle@frostburg.edu.

Been There

LIFE IN THE SLOW LANE
by Joan Crawford

After I became an octogenarian nearly five years ago, I was determined not to let the numbers make me feel "old." Through all those years leading up to 80, I went around flaunting my age and convincing myself that age is an attitude, and that I would never become "elderly." When a good friend would complain about the aches and pains of growing older, I would tell her, "It beats the alternative," and go on swimming my laps.

I had always been blessed with relatively good health so I could enjoy an active lifestyle. When I was in high school, I would ride my bicycle over the hills of Pittsburgh. When I was in Navy Supply School at Harvard, my chosen recreational activity was sculling on the Charles. When I was in my 60's, I could still water ski on my "old lady's wooden slalom," ice skate, and cross country ski, and I could pretty well keep up with my daughters who are known for traveling at flank speed. I finally had to give up those active sports, but I could still swim and take long walks with my dog, an 11-year-old Labrador retriever who walks at my pace.

That was before this past winter when I was diagnosed with a serious health problem that has forced me to confront my own mortality and move over into the slow lane. Now I am limited to taking short walks on level – no hills or stairs – and to "swimming" in the therapy pool. I have a handicapped parking card that I resisted using at first, but now I don't go anywhere without it.

I still wonder why my life situation has changed so drastically in a few short months. How did I go over that hill so fast – right into the age bracket I tried to avoid? Now that I have had time to think about it, signs of "older" were all around me, but I chose to ignore them. My high school alumni newsletter no longer reports reunions of my class. The Christmas card list has empty spaces where just last year there were names. I remember my husband's ship reunions we would attend every summer and how the numbers of his shipmates kept dwindling until the last year we could count them on one hand. I read recently that World War II veterans are leaving this earth at the rate of 1,500 a day, and the median age for those of us still here is 84. It was reassuring to know I am at the norm.

Even though moving in the slow lane means I will never win the race or get the trophy, I have found that there are advantages to finishing last. First, you have time to really see things that other people merely glance at as they hurry by. My high school journalism teacher used to tell us to "keep your antennae up, see with all your senses, and capture the moment."

This morning I watched a flock of Canada geese swimming toward our shore then waddling across the beach to a bare spot on the front lawn where the dock had been stored for the winter and where we had recently scattered grass seed. My first impulse was to shoo them away as I saw the flock — heads down, dark necks bobbing — but while I watched I began to see individual geese, little ones grazing while two much larger ones stood aside, watching and guarding their offspring. A few feet away was another group of young birds grazing around the feet of two adults – two geese families on a warm June morning.

A second advantage to moving in the slow lane is meeting the nice people who see me walking slowing with a cane and hurry to open a door for me or offer me a place to sit. I thank them graciously for their help, but then I wonder if I look as though I needed it. Do I really look that old?

One of the first things I remember noticing when I began to look at the world from the slow lane was how fast everything seemed to be moving. I am still trying to find ways to be more productive within the limits of things I cannot do, as decreed by my doctor: Don't go up steps, don't be in a hurry, don't lift or carry a heavy object. My driveway slopes downhill to a short flight of steps that lead to my house, so it is impossible for me to drive to the door. Because I cannot carry a bag of groceries, I must have someone to unload the car when I go shopping. One time when there was no one here I had to roll cans of dog food and soup down the driveway.

Now that I have become accustomed to seeing the backs of people as they pass by and I know that I will never catch up, I realize how much more time I have to read and write and reflect on my life – things I have done and those left undone — and I wonder what my legacy will be. I have never swum the English Channel or written the great American novel, but I have two wonderful daughters and three beautiful granddaughters who are my progeny. Beyond them are other young people I have known and worked with – the dozens of former Girl Scouts in Allegheny County, Pa., who were in the troops I led from the years they were Brownies to their years in high school when they were senior Mariners. Some of them had never been out of Pittsburgh, but I think they'll remember the summers they came to Deep Creek, the camping trips to Ligonier, and the week-long chartered bus trips to Washington and Gettysburg, then to the youth sailing program at Mystic, Conn., where we sailed the schooner Brilliant over to Block Island and down Long Island Sound. I remember how we sang around campfires and the light danced on their smiling faces.

Even more, my legacy will be with the students I have taught in writing and literature classes of courses called "English" that everyone had to take. Although most of them would not have been there by choice, I always hoped that they would find something to enjoy about the course and perhaps a few of them still remember the mantra they used to hear several times a week, "Keep your antennae up," and "Never use a word you don't need."

Now I am thankful for the good years I have had with my young friends who have taught me so much. I have learned to speak their language, I know that "hot" and "cool" do not always refer to temperatures. And I have learned to wear Crocs with my blue jeans. As I remember all these things, life is good in the slow lane.

Taylor Appointed To Md. Tourism Development Bd.

Local resident Matthew Taylor has been appointed to the Maryland Tourism Development Board. The 24-member board is an advisory panel for the Office of Tourism Development, the tourism/marketing arm of the state.

Taylor is the executive director of the Adventure Sports Center International and a two-time Olympian – Sydney. Austrialia, in 2000 and Athens, Greece, in 2004 – in whitewater slalom canoeing.

Paul Bales of Charles County, Christopher S. Schardt of Baltimore, and Gregg Shockley of Ocean City were also appointed.

"We're thrilled to add these outstanding leaders to the tourism board," said Margot Amelia, executive director of the Maryland Office of Tourism Development. "They each have special talents that will blend well with the board's efforts to advance Maryland Tourism."

The panel is made up of leaders from hospitality-related industries – attractions, destinations, food services, lodging, retail, and transportation – along with six members of Maryland's General Assembly.

"The tourism board is a vital entity that guides our efforts to showcase and expand Maryland tourism – the fourth largest industry in our state," said Gov. Martin O'Malley. "It's especially valuable in today's competitive climate to have the counsel of a strong, experienced tourism board."

Recently compiled data from the Tourism Offices shows that Maryland had more than 28 million visitors in 2006, which led to more than $11.4 billion in visitor spending, up from $10.7 billion during the previous calendar year. Also in 2006, Maryland's tourism industry generated $895 million in state and local tax revenue, and provided more than 116,000 jobs for state residents, according to the Tourism Office.

The office is part of the Division of Tourism, Film, and the Arts, an agency of the Maryland Department of Business and Econimic Development.

ABC 'Scrubs' in for comedy's new episodes

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Q: Is it true that "Scrubs" will be continuing next season on ABC? –Donna Russell, Mattoon, Ill.

A: It is. Rumors about that happening had floated around for a while, but it took NBC dropping the show before ABC could pick it up. It's a cozy arrangement, since ABC Studios – formerly known as Touchstone Television – produces the Zach Braff-starring hospital sitcom.

Zach Braff

Q: Years ago, a movie was made about the last man on Earth, starring Harry Belafonte. I thought it was "On the Beach," but now I think I'm wrong. Do you know what the name of the movie was? –Judy Sunderland, Wichita, Kan.

A: It was the 1959 drama "The World, the Flesh and the Devil," which also starred Inger Stevens and the recently deceased Mel Ferrer as the only two other survivors of a nuclear holocaust.

Q: Besides the DVD release of the first season of "The Apprentice," are any other seasons of the show available? And do you know anything about the return of "The Celebrity Apprentice"? –Kristen Huffman, Frisco, Texas

A: So far, the first year is the only one on DVD, and there's been no talk of others being released. Another round of "The Celebrity Apprentice" definitely is in the works, and though NBC is several months from airing it, one of the players apparently has been confirmed. Published reports indicate Tony Danza has committed to it, which would make it two-for-two where "Taxi" veterans are concerned; Marilu Henner was among the first "Celebrity Apprentice" participants.

Q: Is Jay Mohr of "Ghost Whisperer" any relation to one-time radio and television star Gerald Mohr? –David McCord, Federal Way, Wash.

A: Not that we're able to determine, though it's an interesting thought. Jay won't be on "Ghost Whisperer" next season, but he'll still be on CBS; he's the star of a new sitcom titled "Project Gary."

Q: In 1978, there was a miniseries on NBC called "Centennial." Will it ever be released on DVD? –Mary Finn, New Berlin, Wis.

A: Undoubtedly to the relief of many readers who have asked about this over the months and years, there's finally an affirmative answer. Universal Studios Home Video will issue the drama – based on James Michener's novel and starring Robert Conrad and Richard Chamberlain – in a six-disc set July 29.

Black Cohosh and Hot Flashes

Black cohosh is an herb traditionally used to treat menopausal symptoms (hot flashes). It is also known as black snakeroot, bugbane, and rattleweed and is native to North America. The root and underground stem of the plant are used medicinally. Traditional uses include colds, rheumatism, and gynecological disorders, among many others. Black cohosh is classified as a selective modulator of estrogen receptors. However, its mechanism of action in the treatment of hot flashes is unknown.

The American College of Obstetrics and Gynecology states that black cohosh may be helpful in the short-term management of hot flashes in women. A commonly used dose is 40 mg per day. There is no published scientific data on its long-term use. However, studies are underway to evaluate this issue. Common side effects include stomach upset and rash. There have been rare reports of hepatitis and seizures with the use of black cohosh; however, these findings are controversial. Due to its activity on estrogen receptors, black cohosh should not be used by women with a history oof or a hifh risk for breast cancer.

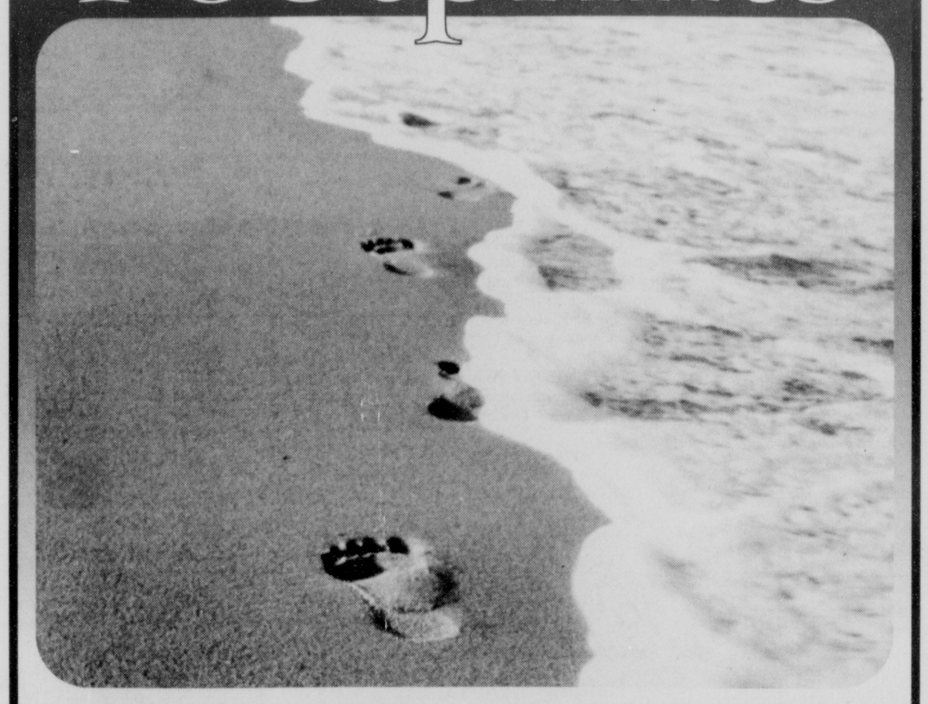
Footprints



Early morning at the shore is the perfect time for a long walk. When you venture out to watch the sun rise over the sea it is peaceful and quiet. As you walk you leave a trail of footprints in the sand.

The waves swell until they can no longer contain themselves, then erupt and crash on the beach. When you turn around to walk back, the footprints have been erased. They are no longer there; you start over, leaving new footprints.

As a wave wipes away old footprints, God's power can wipe away old mistakes and regrets. You can start fresh in a new direction.

In Ezekiel 36:26, God says, "I will give you a new heart and put a new spirit in you...." Start over with God this week at your house of worship.

Sacred Space

Every year, millions of pilgrims flock to sacred sites such as Jerusalem, Mecca and the Vatican. Most religions have certain sites which they deem sacred because of events or s which are believed to have occurred there. In addition, there is something sacred about the space within a church, temple or mosque; and even if we don't share that particular faith's beliefs, we respect these spaces by treating them with reverence. Sacred space is important to our spiritual lives, partly because it is much easier to get into a spiritual frame of ind when we are within these sacred spaces. When we set out to pray or meditate, we may seek out these sacred spaces, or try to turn areas of our homes into such sacred spaces. Sometimes this is as simple as lighting a candle in a darkened tom and finding a comfortable place to sit and kneel. Creating sacred spaces in our home where we can pray may help us on our spiritual journey. At other times, we may literally be "out in the world," and thus not be able to alter the physical space to accommodate our spiritual needs. But, that doesn't mean that we can't transform our inner space into a sacred space. Ultimately, all space is sacred because God is everywhere, and all that is required in order to realize His divine presence is for us to push back the secular surroundings, and quiet the noise around and within us. It is a worthwhile spiritual practice to work on finding that sacred space within us, wherever we might be.

Do you not know that you are the temple of God and that the Spirit of God dwells in you?

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• Actress Sharon Stone, of "Basic Instinct" fame, is a member of Mensa, the most famous high-IQ society in the world.

• It's been reported that when Mexican revolutionary Gen. Pancho Villa was assassinated in 1923, his final words were, "Don't let it end like this. Tell them I said something."

• In 2007, Americans mailed more than 2 billion postcards.

• Ever wonder where the term "cocktail" for an alcoholic beverage came from? One possible explanation is that a barmaid was fed up with the plain, dull appearance of the tavern she worked in, so she decided to add some color by putting up roosters' tail feathers. Taking his cue from the decorations, one of the patrons asked for a cocktail, and the barmaid served him a drink with feathers in it.

• If you happened to be in Los Angeles' Griffith Park on April 19 of this year, you probably ran across the Grilled Cheese Invitational, an annual event since 2003. Winners included sandwiches with such names as the Moon Unit, the Fresh Quez, Yo Mamma's Special, Cake and Mivens and the Short Rib and Tallegio Grilled Cheese w/Apricot Caper Puree.

• You've probably heard the word "zeitgeist" used to describe the spirit of a particular time. You may not realize, though, that the word, which comes from the German, translates directly as "time ghost."

Balding Pigs Have Owners Stumped

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: I own two potbellied pigs. They have a lot of hair loss. Last year Penny, age 5 years, lost most of hers. Now it's 2-year-old Norman's turn. I was told it could be from a poor diet, but these guys are like my kids. They eat good-quality stuff: top-grade hay and potbellied pig pellets. They hardly ever get junk food; instead, they get treats from our garden, like fresh cooked squash, carrots, beans, etc. They have a very nice barn with lots of straw and good hay. They have a choice of lying in dry dirt, on a mud spot or in a pool of fresh water.

I was told to put watered-down baby oil on them. This seems to make it worse. Can you help? — Diane and John O., on Little Moose Farm

DEAR DIANE AND JOHN: Since their diet is varied and well-rounded, it's probably not the cause of this periodic hair loss. Stress might be a factor — changes in season, extreme temperatures, pregnancy or any change in their routine can bring on sudden hair loss.

In the potbellied pig community, it's called "blowing their coats," a phenomenon when pigs lose most or all of their hair in a very short time. It seems to occur more often after a stressful event, but some potbellied pigs blow their coats every year. The hair regrows over a period of months.

I would consult their veterinarian and bring them in for skin tests to rule out conditions like a parasitic infection. Depending on the results, the vet may prescribe medication, or recommend supplements to their diet like fish oil or vitamin E.

To make both pigs more comfortable, treat their hair and skin with Skin-So-Soft (made by both Avon and Heartland) and rub Norman's coat daily to encourage loose hairs to fall out faster.

Higgins has been in business since 1972 and has an excellent reputation throughout the American Southwest. His addresses are c/o Michael D. Higgins & Son, 4429 N. Q. Several weeks ago you answered a question for me in your column. I wrote the expert you listed, but have not heard back from him. It has been more than three weeks. — Susan, Campbell, Calif.

A. Did you enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope? That is essential. Since many of the people I mention in my columns are nationally recognized experts, they get a great deal of mail. Be patient. After two or three months, send a reminder. If you still don't get a response after a reasonable amount of time, contact me again, and I'll search for another source.

Nerve-related, or "sensorineural," hearing loss typically begins with an inability to hear high-frequency sounds. As a result, difficulties arise with understanding speech, particularly in environments with competing noise. To help with this problem, binaural hearing instruments may be recommended, which involves fitting each ear with a hearing instrument. Doing so helps bring into play the auditory phenomenon of "selective listening." In this process, the central auditory system manages hearing cues from each ear to allow the listener to concentrate on the desired conversation and ignore other competing sounds. In other words, the central auditory system is able to localize sounds. The result is increased ability to discern speech and carry on a conversation.

When you feel that things don't sound "right" or the way they use to, but you don't know why, come to AUDIBEL for a complete, painless hearing evaluation. We. specialize in evaluating and treating people of all ages with hearing loss. Our extensive training makes us most qualified to perform hearing tests, provide hearing rehabilitation services, and help people lead more effective and productive lives.

P.S. Sound localization cues are derived, in part, from the fact that sound arrives at each ear at different times, depending on the angle of the sound source with respect to the head.

Local FSU Student Dabbles In Tornado Chasing During Summer Vacation

by Mandy Geisler

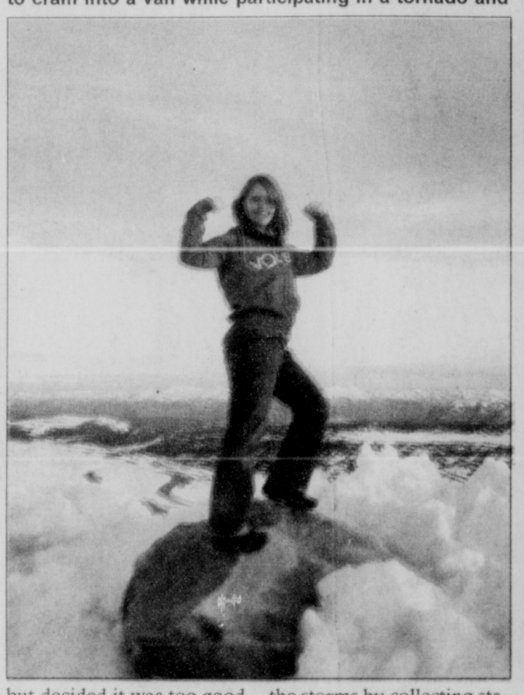
A local student at Frostburg State University recently embarked on a very unusual start to her summer break by participating in a summer class that had her chasing tornadoes across the south- and mid-west. Dana Hannibal, environmental science student and recently transformed national storm chaser, dedicated a portion of her summer break to chasing tornadoes across the mid-west along with eight other students and her special analysis professor Dr. Dave Arnold.

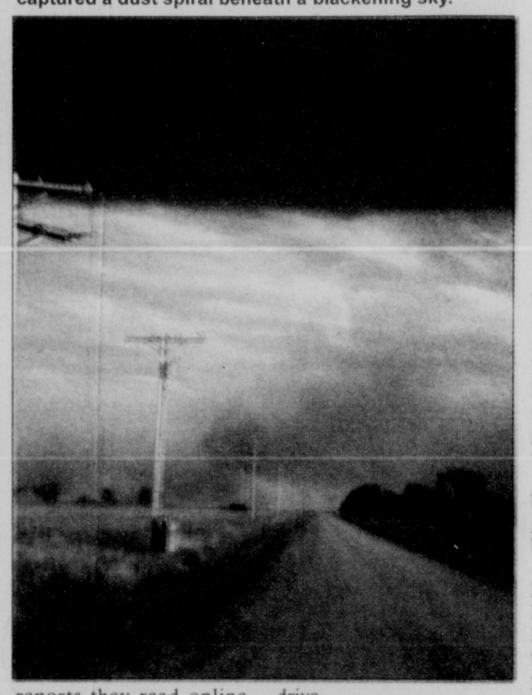
The objective of the class was to chase what most people run from – tornadoes – as part of a special summer course from May 19 through June 17. During the four-week program, students studied the character and behavior of severe thunderstorms and tornadoes and how they affect local communities and environments in Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, New Mexico, Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska, South Dakota, and North Dakota. The group drove somewhere between 12,000 and 15,000 miles over 16 states.

Dr. Arnold, assistant professor of geology at FSU and longtime storm chaser who created the class while teaching at Indiana's Ball State University, joined FSU in 2006. This is the second year he has offered the class, which he named "Tornado Alley U.S.A.," to Frostburg students.

"Chasing storms is a good deal of fun and can be a tremendously exciting, almost magical experience," Arnold said. "When students look back on these trips, they always do so with a great sense of satisfaction. Some have even told me that this was easily one of the greatest experiences of their lives – even more than 10 years following completion of this course."

Hannibal, 20, debated taking a month off work at her summer job in addition to the cost of the course, but decided it was too good an opportunity to pass up and signed the "field trip" waiver form required by the school.





LOCAL STUDENT DOCUMENTS UNUSUAL SUMMER TRIP – Dana Hannibal, pictured below left, kicked off her summer break from Frostburg State University with a road trip. But this was no ordinary journey across the United States with five pals crammed into a Honda. The 20-year old Accident resident was one of nine students to cram into a van while participating in a tornado and storm chasing summer class instructed by Dr. Dave Arnold, assistant professor of geology at FSU. See story. Hannibal's classmate, Scott Corning, captured a photo of a fullblown twister shown above, complete with a visible funnel, which Hannibal said not all tornadoes have, and lightning bolts. In the photo below right, Hannibal captured a dust spiral beneath a blackening sky.

Rather than analyzing the storms by collecting statistical data, Dr. Arnold taught the students how to find storms using a dew point, wind patterns, and Storm Prediction Center reports they read online. Staying in hotels each night, the group would brief in the mornings to determine a game plan, then set out on another multiple-hour drive.

Well, Dr. Arnold would drive – for hours at a time. He chauffeured the students during the entire trip, including during a situation where the group found themselves inside a bona fide tornado.

"We had just passed through a town near Wakeeney, Kansas, when it happened. We felt our ears pop, which is an indicator of a tornado, then the windows busted out of our van. It was a combination of the air pressure and wind that busted the windows."

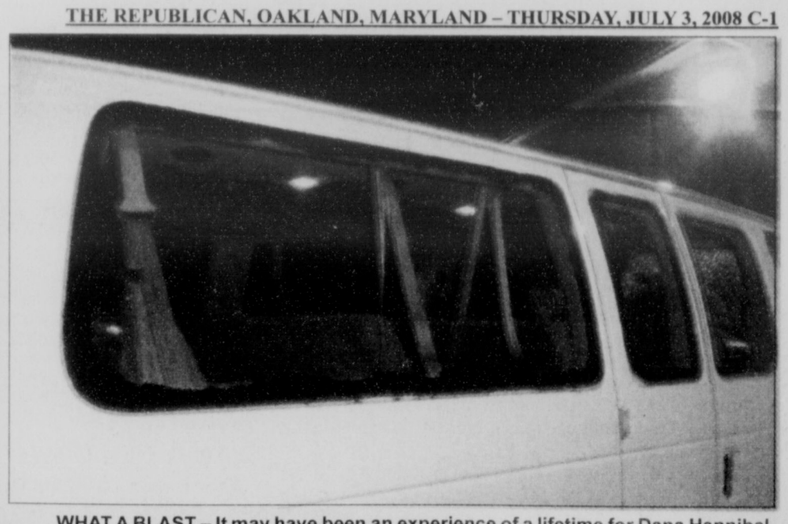
Because of the delay time the group would face in replacing the windows, they opted to switch to another van.

The only time Hannibal said she was genuinely scared was when they were running from a storm in Missouri. After watching lightning, followed by two funnels touch down, the group fled in a replacement van from a wall of clouds.

"We actually ran over a billboard that was on the ground, while being chased by that storm."

"I really want to give a lot of credit to Dr. Arnold," Hannibal said. "We called him 'the Legend' during the trip because he's so experienced. We trusted him a lot."

Hannibal, a graduate of Northern High School, said she never had any special connection to storms when she was younger, but has grown to like them to the extent of enjoying them. She doesn't have plans to change her major to meteorology or climatology in her junior year at FSU, but said it may be a possibility to return to school later with that focus.



WHAT A BLAST – It may have been an experience of a lifetime for Dana Hannibal, but the learning experience didn't come without risks. The most severe of Hannibal's experiences was when the group found itself in the middle of an actual tornado that blasted out the windows of the van. The damage to the van is shown in the photo above. Golf-ball sized hail, pictured below, was another storm symptom the students had to dodge. Hail is common in severe storms.

"The rain wasn't that bad, it was the heat in Texas that bothered me. But we had off days when we would visit national parks like Yellowstone, Big Bend, and Grand Tetons."

The National Parks provided a change of scenery by offering clear and mountainous breathtaking views, but the group was actually anxious to get to the storms.

"Most people thought I was crazy when I said I was going, but I found that tornado chasing isn't as dangerous as some people think."

Hannibal figured she had little to worry about since she was under the supervision of such an experienced geologist, who followed a radar system. But it may

FLEX-FUEL ENGINES

Q. I've heard of new "flex fuel" cars coming along. But you can't just run an engine on anything at all! How do they work?

A. The term "flex-fuel vehicle" generally means a car that can run on gasoline mixed with alcohol – the percentage of alcohol can be anywhere from 0% to 85%. A lot of gasoline sold today in our area contains 10% alcohol, and nobody even notices.

Alcohol has a lower fuel value than gasoline – by about 30% per gallon. If 9 gallons of gas are mixed with 1 gallon of alcohol, the fuel value of the mixture is about 97% that of 10 gallons of gasoline. You'll get slightly fewer miles/gallon with such a fuel; but that variation is more than offset by variability in driving speed, tire pressure, A/C operation, etc. 10% alcohol doesn't require adjustment of the engine.

When the alcohol content reaches 15%, it begins to make a difference. Certain parameters of the engine need to be optimized for the engine to run properly on "E-15." The amount of fuel injected, as well as the timing of the valves, should change.

A fuel blend of 85% alcohol (and 15% gasoline) is sold under the name "E-85" in several farm states where lots of corn is converted into ethanol. Minnesota is making an effort to have enough stations that sell E-85. Until that day comes, vehicles need to be "flexible" about what fuel they burn, because a traveler might fill up with different fuel blends at different locations. So the real mixture at any moment in time might be some other intermediate number between 0 and 85%.

"Flexible" means that the engine adjustments are done automatically. A sensor detects how much alcohol is in the mixture right now. Then it sends a signal to a computer program that decides what to do next.

At the fuel injectors, the length of time fuel flows (the pulse length) is variable depending on the throttle position (controlled by the accelerator pedal) and similar driving factors (coasting, "floor it," whatever). The fuel pressure can change as well. If the computer controlling the fuel injectors is told that the alcohol content is a little higher, the pulse time can be lengthened so that more fuel gets squirted into the cylinders.

Changing the valve timing and the spark timing is trickier. In conventional engines, the valve position was entirely dependent upon the shape of the camshaft, which in turn had a perfectly fixed relationship to the crankshaft: the "cams" were shaped so that each valve lifted at a precise time. A "timing chain" linked the crankshaft and the camshaft, so their relation never varied. However, in a flex-fuel engine, you actually vary the camshaft, and thereby change the valve timing. The sprocket that links the timing chain to the camshaft is on a hub, and it is possible to rotate the hub relative to the sprocket. A little hydraulic cylinder and a spring is all that's needed to change the hub-sprocket relationship, and with that the camshaft lifts at a slightly different instant, and so the timing of the valves changes. Of course all this is carefully controlled by signals from the computer.

From a computer-control standpoint, the engine could be adjusted to run on 100% alcohol. But there are many good reasons not to use pure alcohol. First among those is a matter of safety: Alcohol burns with a colorless flame, and in an auto-accident situation, you couldn't see burning fuel, so the risk to both passengers and rescuers would be much greater.

Also, alcohol evaporates faster than gasoline. Moreover, alcohol attracts and absorbs water, which is anything but fuel. Tank materials and all the fuel lines have to be made of a plastic that is impervious to alcohol. The underground tanks at a station that sells E-85 can't be ordinary steel any more.

It's not easy to convert a conventional engine to a flex-fuel engine; in fact, it's probably not worth it to try. Racing-car mechanics and engineers know the intricacies of alcohol engines well: among other things, the engine runs much colder, because heat goes out the exhaust pipe instead of into the cooling water. This allows them to reduce the size of the radiator. That's a plus for a race car; but in a passenger car, you would then need a bigger heater in the winter. The list of subtleties goes on.

Diesel engines are an entirely different story. Because they have a much higher compression ratio, the explosion will take place in the same way no matter what. As a result, diesel engines are much more "forgiving." Only for automobiles is there concern for how gasoline/alcohol affects the engine.

NRP To Target Waterways For July 4 Holiday

July has historically been the month in which the greatest number of boating accidents occur both in Maryland and nationwide, according to the Maryland Natural Resources Police (NRP). In an effort to educate boaters and keep the boating public safe, the NRP announced it will increase its presence on the state's waterways and parks this July 4 holiday.

"Operation Big Bang" will aggressively target boaters operating in a reckless or negligent manner and/or under the influence of alcohol on the waterways. It will also focus on boaters not maintaining a proper lookout and not having the required safety equipment onboard. Meanwhile, patrols in the parks and forests will target underage alcohol possession and will look for individuals driving under the influence of alcohol, as well as the use of illegal fireworks and other criminal activity.

Last year there were 208 boating accidents reported statewide, 47 of which occurred in the month of July. Over the first six months of 2007, there were 76 boating-related accidents, 35 accidents involving injuries, and 2 fatalities. During the first six months of 2008, there have been 86 boating-related accidents, 31 accidents involving injuries, and 2 fatalities.

Boaters are reminded to report unsafe activity or emergencies to the NRP at 1-800-628-9944.

Above all, boaters are asked by the NRP to always wear a lifejacket and to avoid operating a vessel after drinking alcohol. Boater awareness is critical to safety -- when out on the state's waterways, drivers should be aware of the following:

•One's ability to operate a vessel.

•The sun, wind, and water conditions, as well as the consumption of alcohol, which causes fatigue and ultimately limits a person's ability to operate a vessel safely.

•The capabilities of the vessel. Vessels vary in their designs and abilities. Just like vehicles, they can respond differently when placed in similar situations.

•Weather conditions. Boaters should be aware of existing weather advisories before embarking on any boat trip, and keep in mind conditions can change without warning.

•Maryland boating laws. Pay attention to all signs and speed limits, safety equipment, and distance requirements.

•One's physical surroundings and how they relate to other boaters. Boat operators are responsible for the safety of their passengers.

"Citizens enjoying Maryland's state parks this holiday can do their part by being respectful and mindful of not only their surroundings, but also other park visitors," stated an NRP spokesperson.

The NRP offered the following tips to help park patrons keep the natural and historical resources pristine:

•Follow the "Leave No Trace" outdoor ethics. In other words, what one carries into the park, they should carry out. Fires are permitted in the fire rings or in grills provided. Fires must be attended at all times.

•Fireworks or other explosive or combustible devices are prohibited.

•While driving in the parks, persons should watch out for pedestrians and wildlife.

Awarded 2nd Place At 44th Annual SkillsUSA Champ.

Carl F. Gravely, Swallow Falls, who is a student at Pennsylvania College of Technology, Williamsport, Pa., was recently awarded second place in industrial motor control at the 44th annual National Leadership and Skills Conference and SkillsUSA Championships. The competition was held at H. Roe Bartle Hall, Municipal Auditorium and American Royal, Kansas City, Miss., last week.

The Skills USA Championships is considered the largest single day of corporate volunteers in America and valued at $33 million in industry standards of donated time, equipment, cash, and materials. All contests are run by and judged by industry using industry standards for employment. Over 500 industry judges participated this year.

All winners receive medallions and frequently receive tools of their trade and/or scholarships to further their careers and education. The SkillsUSA Championships are for high school and college-level students who are members of Skills USA. More than 5,000 students from every state and three territories competed in 91 contests in technical, skilled, and service occupations, including health occupations this year.

In order to qualify for the national competition, the students competed in local and state contests. The state gold medal winners advanced to national SkillsUSA Championships.

Dawn Beitzel, Sales Associate

Dear Dawn,
I wanted to take the time to thank you for your assistance in purchasing my new vacation home. From the outset, you took the time to get to know me and what type of home I was looking for. By showing me a wide range of beautiful homes and locations, you even helped me crystalize my own ideas as to what home would suit me and my needs best. In all of the time you spent helping me look at homes, I never felt pressured and truly felt that you had my best interests at heart. Once I found a home I was interested in, you expeditiously helped me put together an offer that was subsequently accepted and, more importantly, that I felt good about. . . You were always available to answer my questions and assist. . . Lastly, but certainly not least, I greatly appreciate your efforts to help us get to the finish line when the seller's title was found to be incorrect and when the lender's underwriter required last-minute repairs to the home's foundation. This was a particularly stressful time and you navigated it perfectly to ensure my financial interests were protected while still allowing us to close the deal. I love my new home and look forward to enjoying many relaxing vacations at it and at Deep Creek Lake.

Sincerely, Eric Benner

Five Out-Of-Area Persons Arrested By Maryland NRP

Members of the Maryland Natural Resources Police made several recent arrests on and around Deep Creek Lake.

Nathan E. Minerd, 31, Columbus, Ohio, was stopped on Friday on Deep Creek Lake by NRP for allegedly not displaying proper navigational lights on his vessel and was subsequently arrested on an alcohol-related driving offense.

Minerd was transported to the Maryland State Police, McHenry Barrack, for processing and charged with operating a vessel while under the influence of alcohol, operating a vessel between the hours of sunset and sunrise without proper navigation lights, and failure to have required safety equipment on his vessel. Minerd was taken before a Garrett County District Court commissioner, where he was released on his own recognizance.

The next day, NRP charged a Wheaton man with driving while intoxicated on Oakland Sang Run Road.

NRP initiated a traffic stop on William P. Wagner, 60, for allegedly driving on the wrong side of the roadway. During the course of the traffic stop, Wagner was arrested and transported to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office for processing. Wagner was charged with driving a vehicle under the influence of alcohol and driving a vehicle while impaired by alcohol. He was released on his own signature.

Also on Saturday, two individuals were charged with alcohol violations in a camping area of Savage River State Forest.

NRP charged Frank J. Bostjancic, 31, Lonaconing, with furnishing an alcoholic beverage for underage consumption and littering. Brian T. Bostjancic, 18, Lonaconing, was charged with possession of an alcoholic beverage by a person under 21 years of age. Both were released on their own signatures.

In an unrelated incident, NRP charged Matthew T. Gettemy, 25, Greensburg, Pa., with an alcohol violation on Deep Creek Lake on Saturday.

NRP stopped Gettemy for allegedly towing an individual on a tube without a personal flotation device (PFD). Gettemy was transported to the McHenry Barrack for processing and charged with operating a vessel while under the influence of alcohol and failure to have a Type IV PFD on his vessel. He was released on his own recognizance.

Boaters Nabbed By NRP During Weekend Patrols

The Maryland Natural Resources Police (NRP) conducted special saturation patrols over the weekend on Deep Creek Lake and issued 19 citations and 31 warnings, mostly for distance violations, according to the police blotter. One individual was charged with operating a vessel while under the influence of alcohol.

Utilizing NRP aircraft and vessels strategically placed on the lake, the patrols lasted approximately two hours each day. An NRP helicopter flew over the lake and located boaters operating in an unsafe manner, then directed the NRP vessels to the violations. These types of patrols, along with unmarked vessels will be utilized statewide throughout the summer and will continue through the Labor Day holiday.

NRP reminds boaters that when towing an individual on water skis, aquaplanes, tubes, or other similar devices, one must keep at least 100 feet from the shore, wharfs, piers, pilings, jetties, bridge structures or abutments, individuals in the water, and other vessels at all times.

Persons operating personal watercraft within 100 feet of the above named objects may not exceed a speed of 6 knots at anytime.

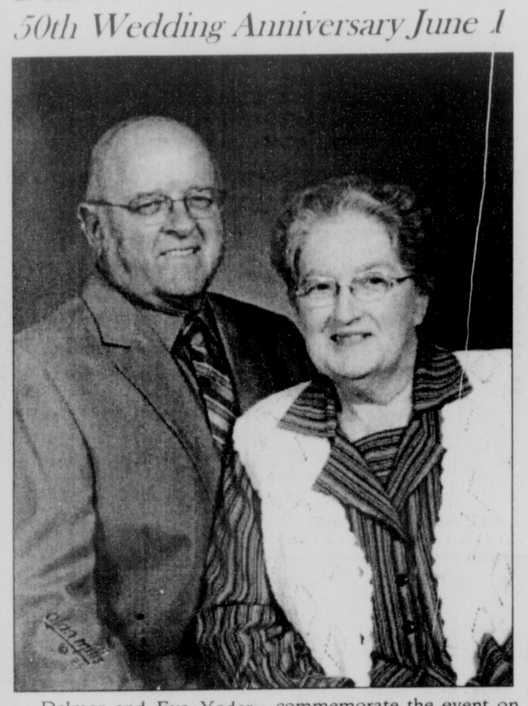
Delmer And Eva Yoder Celebrate 50th Wedding Anniversary June 1



Delmer and Eva Yoder, Accident, recently celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary. An open house for family and friends will commemorate the event on Saturday, July 12, at the Grantsville Senior Center, 125 Durst Court, Grantsville, from 6 to 9 p.m.

Light snacks and refreshments will be served. The family noted that gifts are not necessary, but guests will be appreciated.

"We are hosting an open house for family and friends to help us recognize their dedication and untiring commitment to God, the community, their family, and friends," the couple's children said.

The Yoders were married on June 1, 1958, at Maple Glen Mennonite Church in Grantsville. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Ivan J. Miller, and attendants were Edgar and Ellen Yoder and Ron and Lola Beiler.

Their three sons and their spouses are Chester and Trish Yoder, Accident; Millard and Judy Yoder, Lititz, Pa., and Brad and Suzanne Yoder, Golden, Col. They also have four grandchildren: Shane, Corey, Kristi, and Derek.

Both Delmer and Eva have been active members of Cherry Glade Mennonite Church since their marriage.

They are retired from farming, which over the years included raising veal calves, Bernese mountain dogs, emus, and miniature donkeys.

Delmer has been a school bus driver for 35 years. He is currently a member of the Bittinger Volunteer Fire Department, where he served as past fire chief. He has also served as president of the American Veal Association and the Maryland Veal Association.

At one time, he served as director of the Garrett County Fair Board, and also as president of the Garrett County Farm Bureau. He is currently involved in the planning for gas leasing in Garrett County.

Eva continues to be a homemaker.

Thanks to all

Thanks to everyone for their prayers, cards, flowers, phone calls, visits and gifts during my 8 days in the hospital, and home recovery. Your concern and expressions of caring meant so much to me. God bless you.

Sincerely, Ralph R. Humberson

Charged With DUI, DWI, And Traffic Violations

In unrelated incidents, two Garrett County men were arrested last week for driving under the influence of alcohol and driving while impaired, along with several additional charges.

Garrett County sheriff's deputies made a traffic stop on Friendsville Road, near Blooming Rose Road, at approximately 7:15 p.m. Friday evening. The stop was initially made on Junior Mahlon Detrick, 60, Friendsville, for a seat belt violation.

Upon contact with Detrick, the deputy observed indications of intoxication, and he was asked to take a field sobriety test. The test was not preformed to the satisfaction of the deputy, and Detrick was placed under arrest.

He was charged with failure to wear seat belt, DUI, DWI, and DUI per se.

Later that evening, around 9:20 p.m., A GCSO deputy stopped Rodney Clay Swiger, 41, Oakland, on Garrett Highway, near Weber Road, for multiple driving violations.

When the deputy made contact with Swiger it was observed that he was impaired by alcohol, and he was asked to take a field sobriety test. As a result of his performance of the test, he was placed under arrest.

He was charged with failure to drive right of center, failure to enter the lawful lane after left turn, DUI, DWI, and driving with alcohol in blood in violation of alcohol restriction.

He was taken to the Garrett County Detention Center to be held pending a bond hearing.

Correction Noted

Last week's caption about the Garrett County Humane Society Christmas in July fundraiser contained an error. It was stated that one of the silent auction items, a lifelike reindeer, was "worth more than $700." The caption should have read "worth over several hundred dollars." The error is regretted.

Hollman Grant Is Awarded To Local Land Trust

The local Allegheny Highlands Conservancy (AHC) was one of seven land trusts awarded a Janice Hollman Grant at the annual Maryland Land Trust Alliance Conference held June 6 at Mt. Pleasant Farm in Woodstock. The Maryland Environmental Trust (MET) presented AHC with a grant of $4,800 to further Janice Hollman's vision of strong and vibrant local land trusts.

Ms. Hollman helped found both the Severn River Land Trust and Arundel Conservation Trust, and served on the Severn River Commission. Nearly 40 land conservation organizations participated in the all-day conference at the education center on the 300-year-old, 232-acre farm.

The public is invited to learn more about the Allegheny Highlands Conservancy by attending its board of directors' meeting on Wednesday, July 16, at 7 p.m. in the CAOS building at Garrett College. Among the topics to be covered will be a new outreach effort by AHC and MET to connect with landowners in Garrett County.

AHC has several purposes, according to a spokesperson for the board: to protect and conserve land, water, and natural resources of the Allegheny Highlands region; to promote the preservation, protection and stewardship of forest, scenic, natural, wildlife, recreational and agricultural land and water resources; to partner with the community to conserve working rural farms and forests; to serve as a conservation information resource for landowners and land managers; and to provide a forum for community understanding and support of land and water conservation issues. For more information, including how to become a member, persons may visit the following web site: www.AlleghenyHighlandsConservancy.org

The AHC is a 501c3 nonprofit charitable organization. Donations may be sent to AHC, P.O. Box 333, McHenry, MD 21541. For additional information about the July 16 meeting, persons may contact Kevin Dodge at 301-387-3328 or info@AlleghenyHighlandsConservancy.org.

EMERGENCY FARM LOANS AVAILABLE

Robert P. Ferrebee, West Virginia Farm Service Agency (FSA) state executive director, has announced the designation of 10 counties in West Virginia for FSA emergency (EM) loans.

"The counties of Barbour, Clay, Doddridge, Gilmer, Harrison, Jackson, Jefferson, Marion, Taylor, and Tyler were designated for emergency loans by the secretary of agriculture because of damages caused by severe storms, tornadoes, flooding, mudslides, and landslides beginning June 3 and ending June 7," stated Ferrebee. "This designation was made to enable FSA to provide financial assistance to those farm families who suffered severe losses as a result of this disaster.

"Public Law 98-258 provides for counties that are contiguous to another county that has been designated as a disaster area, to also be eligible for EM Loans," stated Ferrebee. "Berkeley, Braxton, Calhoun, Fayette, Kanawha, Lewis, Mason, Monongalia, Nicholas, Pleasants, Preston, Putnam, Randolph, Ritchie, Roane, Tucker, Upshur, Wetzel, Wirt, and Wood counties are contiguous to the designated counties and are therefore eligible for assistance."

To be eligible for an emergency loan, the farmer must have suffered at least a 30% production loss or a physical loss, be able to evidence adequate repayment ability, and be unable to obtain adequate credit from other sources. Loans to one operation are limited to $500,000 or the calculated production loss plus the physical loss, whichever is less. Loans are also limited to owners and/or operators of not larger than family-sized farming operations.

"Farmers in the above West Virginia counties may apply for EM loans up through Feb. 19, 2009," added Ferrebee. Interested producers should contact Matt Briggs, farm loan manager, at 800-707-1298 or via e-mail at matt.briggs@wv.usda.gov.

PRODUCERS MAY NOW SIGN UP FOR QUALITY LOSS CROP DISASTER PROGRAM

USDA Farm Service Agency (FSA) Administrator Teresa Lasseter has announced that eligible farmers who sustained quality losses to their crops in recent years can enroll in the Crop Disaster Program 2005-2007 (CDP) at county FSA offices now.

"We have been conducting sign up since last fall for quantity losses for the 2005-2007 crops, and now we are ready to conduct sign up for quality losses," said Lasseter. "We have already paid producers more than $1.8 billion for quantity losses and over $274 million for livestock losses. Now we can get the final piece of the disaster programs implemented."

The CDP provides benefits to farmers who sustained losses to their 2005-2007 crops from natural disasters and related conditions. Producers who incurred qualifying quantity or quality losses in 2005, 2006, or 2007 may receive benefits for only one of these years. However, producers may apply for benefits for losses to multiple crops as long as the losses occurred in the same crop year.

Only producers who obtained crop insurance coverage or coverage under the Noninsured Crop Disaster Assistance Program (NAP) for the year of loss will be eligible for CDP benefits. Producers must have sustained quality losses of at least 25 percent to be eligible for CDP Quality Loss. The payment rate is set at 65 percent of the amount of the affected crop multiplied by 42 percent of the per-unit average market value in the year in which the loss occurred.

Producers may receive assistance for both quantity and quality losses. However, the total quantity and quality assistance, together with any crop insurance or NAP payment received for the same crop and the value of the crop production not lost, must not exceed 95 percent of the total value of the crop absent the disaster.

DIRECT & COUNTER-CYCLICAL PROGRAM SIGN-UP UNDER WAY IN NEW FARM BILL

Eric M. McCartney, Executive Director of USDA's Farm Service Agency in Preston County, says that sign-up is under way for the 2008 Direct and Counter-Cyclical Payment Program (DCP) which helps delivers certainty for the crop year and the option of a timely advance payment. Contracts are available at county FSA offices, and sign-up will continue until Sept. 30. USDA's DCP readiness follows the June 12 availability of marketing assistance loan and loan deficiency payment (LDP) provisions, within three weeks of commodity title enactment.

"Within weeks of its becoming law, we began to put a farm bill into the field and out into the country," said McCartney. "USDA does what its employees do best: putting words into action and delivering results."

Producers may fill out their 2008 DCP contract at any USDA service center. Producers can also sign up online. They can choose payment options, assign crop shares, and sign and submit their contracts from any computer with Internet access. They can also view and print submitted contract options.

USDA computes DCP payments using base acres and payment yields established for each farm. Eligible producers receive direct payments at rates established by statute regardless of market prices. For 2008, eligible producers may request to receive an advance payment of 22 percent of the direct payment for each commodity associated with the farm. USDA will issue advance direct payments as soon as practical after enrollment. Final direct payments will be issued after Oct. 1. Counter-cyclical payments vary, depending on market prices, and are issued only when the effective price for a commodity is below its target price (which takes into account the direct payment rate, market price, and loan rate).

Since 2002, USDA has issued approximately $40 billion in DCP payments to America's agricultural producers. Participants must submit the completed DCP contract by September 30. Applications filed after this date will not be approved.

The online, electronic DCP (or eDCP) service saves producers time, reduces paperwork, and speeds contract processing at the FSA office, McCartney said. It is available to all producers who are eligible to participate in DCP and who obtain eAuthentication accounts.

The electronic service is available by going to http://www.fsa.usda.gov/FSA/edcp and clicking on "Access eDCP Service." To access the service, producers must have an active USDA eAuthentication Level 2 account. To get a Level 2 account, producers must complete an online registration form at http://www.earth.egov.usda.gov and then visit the county FSA office to verify their identity. The service has strict security measures to protect participants' private information. Only authorized federal employees have access to information producers submit electronically.

Military Support Group To Hold 7/4 Food Drive

The Military Family Support Group, a voluntary organization that helps families meet the challenges of military life, will host a food drive during the 4th of July celebration in Accident. The drive will benefit troops currently serving overseas.

Collections will be taken by support group members at the Accident fire hall, beginning at 10 a.m. There will be a booth with a display board with pictures of local troops, and members will be available to talk with family members about their servicemen/women.

"We will be available to answer any questions, or help with concerns you may have about your soldier and what he/she may be dealing with," a spokesperson said. "We welcome families of all branches of the armed forces."

The group will also offer games for children and have "goodies" for all who stop by. Persons who do not know soldiers currently serving are invited to stop by as well.

The spokesperson noted that the group encourages all citizens to wear red on Fridays to show support for the troops.

"This is just a small way to show that you are supporting those who are sacrificing their time — and lives — to keep us safe," the spokesperson said.

Donations of any of the following items will be accepted: beef jerky, Slim Jims (but no pork products), prepackaged cookies, single drink packets, peanuts, cashews, snack size potato chips, trail mix, Goldfish crackers, cheese or peanut butter crackers, hard candy, and gum.

Other items such as notes of appreciation for their service, crossword/puzzles books, Nerf footballs, Frisbees, new movie DVDs, or magazines dealing with trucks, cars, hunting, fishing and other sports. The magazines need to be current, and news magazines will not be accepted.

Monetary donations are also needed to help with postage to send the care packages. All donations are tax deductible. Receipts will be given upon request.

Persons who are not in Accident on Friday may also drop the items off at the Oak Park Church of the Brethren in Mtn. Lake Park, (across from Southern High School) on Monday through Thursday between the hours of 9 a.m. and 2 p.m.; and at Green Acres Flower Basket in Oakland, Monday through Saturday, between the hours of 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Persons may contact the Military Family Support Group for more information by calling Mel or Cathy Menker at 301-334-5906, or Sheila Shaffer at 301-616-6712, or visit the web site: www.supportlocalmilitary.-com.

have been good timing for the group in western Iowa, where a twister killed four teenagers at a Boy Scout camp the day after Dr. Arnold's class had passed through the hit town, which is near the Loess Hills.

Hannibal said there were a lot of storm chasers in the areas they were covering, looking for the same cumulonimbus clouds, which are sometimes indicative of a tornado, but not all were experienced. She said she remembers a police officer patrolling an area with a megaphone warning people of the statistics of being struck by lightning and the dangers of being in the area during a storm.

So what does a parent say when their daughter is packing for a tornado-chasing jaunt across the country? Hannibal said her parents, Dennis and Theresa Hannibal, Accident, were very excited for her and very supportive, but her dad wondered if he did enough to prepare her for storm chasing.

On occasion, the caravan wouldn't catch up with a targeted storm in time, in which case it would choose another brewing storm to chase. If the storm they were following looked as though it wasn't going to peak in a full-blown tornado, Dr. Arnold would head for another storm destination.

According to Hannibal, Dr. Arnold admitted this group was his best in terms of camaraderie and amity. It seems that when people are faced with a life-threatening situation, they bond together. Either that, or they bond because they're stuck in a van together for a month straight.

OLYMPIC TEAM TO PADDLE IN MCHENRY WATERS – The 2008 U.S. Olympic Team – Canoe/Kayak will conduct a training camp in McHenry at the Adventure Sports Center International (ASCI) next week from Monday through Friday, and ASCI has invited the public to watch the team train on the recirculating whitewater course. The 2008 U.S. Olympic Team – Canoe/Kayak consists of five athletes: Scott Parsons, Benn Fraker, Heather Corrie, Casey Eichfield, and Rick Powell. See story. Eichfield and Powell, pictured above, left to right, are part-time ASCI employees, and sealed their spots on the team after this past weekend's World Cup in Augsburg, Germany. A DRUNKARD IS DECEIVED into thinking he is a nobleman, who then watches the "play" itself, which depicts a nobleman, Petruchio, who marries an outspoken, intelligent, and bad-tempered "shrew" named Katharina. Petruchio manipulates and ultimately "tames" her until she is obedient to his will. Such is the setting for William Shakespeare's classic and hilarious The Taming of the Shrew, which will be open on the Garrett College stage this evening by TOTL (Theatre on the Lake). Tonight's show will kick off a seven-performance run of the production, slated for July 10-12 and July 16-19 at 7:30 p.m. each evening. Reservations may be made by telephoning 304-680-1002, and tickets will also be available at the door. Cast members in the photo above, starting at left and moving clockwise, are: Meghan Broderick as Grumio, Leah Broderick as Tranio, Cody Riggins as Vincentio, Adam Sincell as Biondello, Nate Golden as Lucentio, Alex Hill as Baptista, Josh Adili as Petruchio, and Sara Sincell as Katharina. Other productions for TOTL's 2008 summer season are The Miracle Worker and Little Women, the Musical. TOTL is a non-profit professional theatre company under the direction of Lynn Broderick. Commissioners Approve Funding For POS Projects

The Garrett County commissioners recently approved the allocation of $234,638 in Program Open Space (POS) funding for several local projects. Nine groups had requested more than $524,000 for fiscal year 2009.

Mtn. Lake Park, Loch Lynn, Oakland, Avilton, Crellin, and Accident received all or part of their requests, while the Garrett County Board of Education, Casselman Valley Soccer Association, and Grantsville did not receive any allocations this year.

Mountain Lake Park was allocated $72,829.50 to construct the Crystal Springs Walking Trail. That same amount was awarded to the town in FY 2007 for its B&O Walking Trail Project. But the town has abandoned that initiative and requested that the '07 funding be transferred to the Crystal Springs project.

Mtn. Lake Park is forgoing the B&O project for various reasons, but primarily because of the cost. The trail would have been constructed in a flood plain, making it too expensive, according to zoning administrator Bill DeVore, Garrett County Department of Planning and Land Development.

Loch Lynn Heights was allocated $64,800 for an athletic complex/parking area. The money will be used for preliminary planning and design, excavation and tree removal, stormwater management, and an underground conduit.

Pending state approval, Oakland will receive $63,010 to construct rest rooms and a concession stand at the Little League fields at Broadford Park.

The Avilton Community Association was allocated $20,200 to purchase and install playground equipment at the new Avilton Community Center. If the state approves the allocation, this will be the first POS funding that the Avilton community has received.

The association plans to

Berkebile Chosen As State's Nat'l FFA Candidate

Becky Berkebile was recently selected to be Maryland's National FFA Officer candidate. Each state is allowed to send one individual to the national convention each year to compete for a national office.

Interviews for this position were held two weeks ago in Frederick, and Berkebile was chosen from a total of four candidates. Selection was made based on agriculture knowledge, writing skills and communication, and interview skills. Applicants were required to give a five-minute extemporaneous speech to a panel of judges, followed by a question and answer session. They also took a multiple-choice test consisting of 165 questions and completed two writing exercises.

In the fall, the candidate will travel to the National FFA Convention in Indianapolis, Ind., to compete for a national office. She will compete in a weeklong interview process.

At the convention,

Two ASCI Staff Members Earn Spots On 2008 Olympic Team

Two part-time Adventure Sports Center International (ASCI) staff members, Rick Powell and Casey Eichfield, secured spots on the 2008 U.S. Olympic Team – Canoe/Kayak at the Augsburg, Germany, World Cup this past weekend, and will compete in the 2008 Olympics in Beijing, China, in August along with three other team members.

Rounding out the rest of the team are Scott Parsons of Bethesda, Benn Fraker and Heather Corrie, and Olympic coaches Silvan Poberaj and Cathy Hearn.

The five-person Olympic team has just confirmed it will travel to ASCI for training next week from Monday through Friday. According to Matt Taylor, executive director at ASCI, the team will have exclusive use of the recirculating whitewater course daily in the morning and again late in the afternoon.

ASCI has invited the public to watch the U.S. representatives prepare themselves for the Olympic competition in Beijing.

Persons may visit the ASCI web site at www.adventuresportscenter.com or call 301-387-3250 for information on the Olympic Team's schedule while in Garrett County.

ATV Collision Results In Injury

A 38-year-old man was transported to Ruby Memorial Hospital after he sustained injuries in an all-terrain vehicle (ATV) collision on Sunday, according to the Maryland State Police, McHenry Barrack.

Labor Of Love Completed By Art Rooney Jr.; Signing Slated

by Don Sincell

"Legendary" seems like an inadequate description of the late Art Rooney, the founder of the Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football League. His legacy began when he and a twin sister were born in 1901 to Welsh parents in a room above their saloon in McKeesport, Pa.; evolved throughout the 87 years of his fascinating life; and continues to this day through the work of his five sons, his siblings, grandchildren, and various other relatives and associates.

Ruanaidh – which is Gaelic for "Rooney" – is the name of new book, a 12-year labor of love by one of those five sons, Deep Creek Lake resident Art Rooney Jr.

And much of the labor that went into the book took place at Rooney's home along Lake Shore Drive.

"Soon after we moved in, I was showing the now late Judge Fred Thayer around the house," Rooney said. "When we went into our loft, which has a window that overlooks the lake, Fred said, 'It looks like a lot of work could be done in this space.' And believe me, he was right."

It was there that Rooney filled many of the pages of 41 journals that, with the editing assistance of good friend and long-time sports columnist for the Pittsburgh Post Gazette Roy McHugh, would ultimately become the 485-page Ruanaidh, The Story of Art Rooney and His Clan.

"For many years, Mort Sharnik, former associate editor for Sports Illustrated, kept after me to write down the events and stories of my dad's life so that they would not be forgotten," Rooney said. "I was about 60 when I finally started writing. I'm terrible with a typewriter, so I filled journal after journal with handwritten accounts. Unfortunately for Roy [McHugh], by handwriting is not much better than my typing!

"But he did a masterful job of editing and rewriting where necessary," he said.

Rooney said that it was very important to him that the writing style in the final version would be such that

A LABOR OF LOVE was recently completed by Art Rooney Jr., son of the legendary Art Rooney, founder of the Pittsburgh Steelers, and much of that labor took place at Art Jr.'s home at Deep Creek Lake. The end result of all of that work was a book about the Rooney clan titled Ruanaidh (Gaelic for "Rooney"). Art. Jr. will be signing copies of his book at the Book Mark'et in Oakland on Saturday, July 19. See story.

Missing Elderly Couple Located; One Deceased, One Hospitalized

The body of a missing elderly woman from Grantsville was discovered approximately one mile from her and her husband's abandoned vehicle by search and rescue teams on Tuesday, according to reports from the Maryland State Police, McHenry Barrack. Her husband was found at the same location and had to be airlifted to the hospital for treatment of weather exposure symptoms.

Everett and Mayalene McClintock were reported missing by family members on Monday at 12:52 p.m. after the pair failed to appear at a family reunion the day before.

Everett, 85, was alive, but suffering from dehydration and hypothermia. He was transported via medivac helicopter Trooper 5 to Ruby Memorial Hospital for further medical treatment, and as of Wednesday, he was listed in serious condition.

Mayalene, 80, was found with Everett, and pronounced dead at the scene. From initial observation, it is believed she died from exposure to the elements and dehydration.

According to Tfc. Kleppinger, a responding officer from the McHenry Barrack, Mayalene suffered from Alzheimer's disease.

It was determined that the McClintocks were to attend a family reunion in New Lexington, Pa., on Sunday after picking up two relatives, but the McClintocks failed to show up at the relatives' house or the reunion.

The McClintocks were last seen by their grandson on Saturday at 8 a.m., leaving their residence at 1168 Pigs Ear Road in Grantsville for a plot of recently purchased property on Mt. Davis Road in Fort Hill, Pa., where the couple were later found.

The McClintocks were operating a 2000 Ford Taurus with Maryland registration TFK-603, which was found by their son on Monday at 2 p.m., abandoned on the Fort Hill property.

MSP Detective Sgt. Steve Vincent at the McHenry Barrack said preliminary investigation indicated the "couple apparently had become disoriented while checking the property and then became lost."

Pennsylvania State Police arrived at the scene of the abandoned vehicle to talk with family members and MSP units, and a search of the area was conducted.

MSP Aviation Trooper 5, Pennsylvania State Police canine units, local volunteer fire departments, and 1st Sgt. Trice, Tfc. Bennett, and Tfc. Kleppinger all assisted in the search. Tfc. Willetts from McHenry's Criminal UNINTENDED IRRIGATION – There is certainly no threat of drought in Garrett County this season, as the rain seems relentless, coming down nearly every day, even on those days that start out sunny and bright. The high tunnel garden shown above is the property of Loren and Christa Bowser, who watched their strawberries and vegetables nearly wash away Monday afternoon in the 3 p.m. downpour that came upon the mountaintop with a vengeance. The farm is located along Underwood Road, and the quiet creek known as Wilson Run was decidedly not quiet, spilling over its banks and flooding everywhere, as the thunderstorm raged. After weeks of wet weather, the sun is actually supposed to take over now for a few days, with humid-ity expected to drop significantly and Garrett County to resume its more traditional clear and beautiful summertime. Let's hope so. Photo by Christa Bowser.

Events on Saturday, July 19, will include a pancake and sausage breakfast, chicken barbecue, homemade doughnuts, half-moon pies, and strawberry shortcake. The benefit auction will begin at 10 a.m., and will include over 100 quilts and wall hangings, handmade by local Mennonites and Amish, feed sack quilts, and handcrafted furniture, including children's furniture. A Steelers' commemorative 75th anniversary football will also be available.

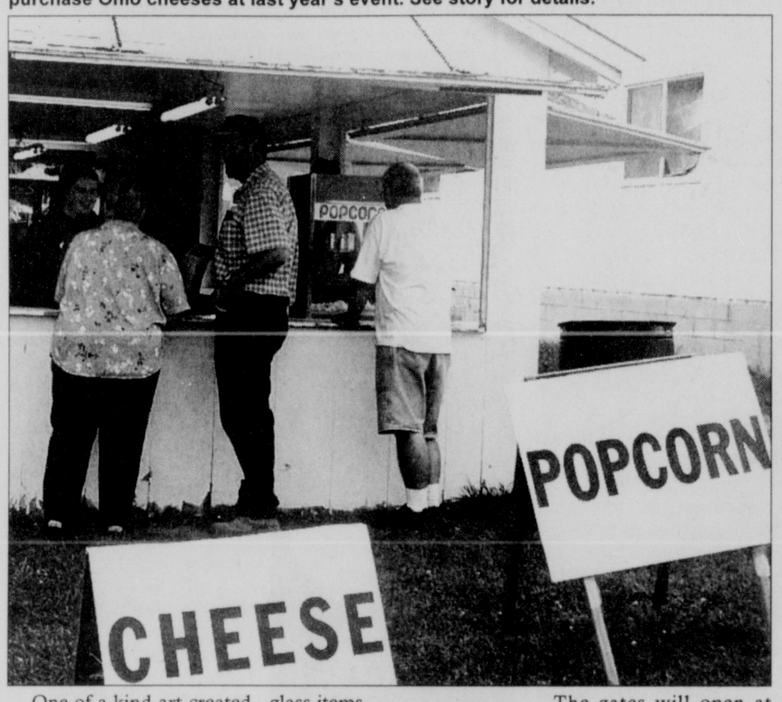
HAYRIDES AND FOOD will be featured at the TriState Festival, Auction, & Cruise-In at the Garrett County Fairgrounds next weekend. The event is planned for Friday and Saturday, July 18 and 19. Pictured above is Richard Bender of Accident, who provided hayrides at a previous festival. Below are Carol and Reuben Tice of Grantsville as they purchase Ohio cheeses at last year's event. See story for details.



One-of-a-kind art created especially for the auction will include a feather by fivetime international champion water fowl carver Gary Yoder, Simon Pearce glass, and hand-crafted stained glass items.

Also up for bid will be 10 vacation opportunities from Deep Creek Lake; Washington, D.C.; Laurel Highlands; Williamsburg; and Amish country. Whitewater tickets for two will be available as a contribution by Adventure Sports of McHenry.

The winning bidder will spend a morning, afternoon, or evening hiking and learning about the plants and animals of some special portion of the local area. The trip will be tailored to meet the interests of the winning bidder.

Children's activities will include a kid's auction at 11 a.m. on Saturday, hayrides, and a hands-on activity creating comforters. Pennies and small coins can be contributed to the Penny Power project to help the hungry around the world.

The gates will open at 7:30 a.m. for the pancake breakfast, and the market place will open at 8:30 a.m. The cruise-in and children's activities will begin at 9 a.m.

The auction will be held from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., and the children's auction will be held from 11 a.m. to noon. The chicken barbecue will begin at 11:30 a.m.

All proceeds will benefit victims of hunger, famine, and war, worldwide (including the United States). Funds are channeled through Mennonite Central Committee based in Akron, Pa. MCC still has workers in the American Gulf states to help victims of Hurricane Katrina and Rita, and is responding to the many recent crises around the world. The American Institute of Philanthropy's Charity Watch gives MCC an "A" rating.

Courthouse Photos Being Sought For Centennial Event

The Board of Garrett County Commissioners is currently working on a centennial celebration for the historic Garrett County Courthouse. The event is scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 11, during the Autumn Glory Festival.

Current plans for the celebration include a rededication ceremony for the completed courthouse; tours of the facility, with historical information given by individuals in period dress; and displays with photos.

The commissioners are seeking historically significant interior and exterior courthouse photos, memorabilia, or historical information that anyone may be willing to share with the community during this event.

Individuals wanting to contribute those items may contact event coordinator Amanda Klotz, Department of General Services, at 301-334-1928 or generalservices-@garrettcounty.org.

New Space Shuttle Display Added To Friendsville Days

The Friendsville Days 2008 Committee has announced an additional attraction to this year's event. An inflatable space shuttle is on loan from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA).

The inflatable space shuttle, which is 16' by 12' by 30', will be displayed during Friendsville Days on Friday, Aug. 1, from 3 to 9 p.m. and Saturday, Aug. 2, from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. in a lighted area.

The shuttle will be visible from a distance; however, due to security, it will not be accessible to the public except during the stated display times, during which people will be able to take pictures.

Included in the NASA display will be a video concerning the current Phoenix Mission to Mars, provided by NASA headquarters in Washington, D.C. There will also be a private photo exhibit of NASA photographs of space shuttle launches, planets, a black hole, and a collage of NASA missions from the past, present, and future.

The public is invited to view the display from the United States space program that contributes to this year's Friendsville Days theme, "Blast From the Past – Into the Future."

Paving To Begin On Several Roads In Oakland Area

The town of Oakland has initiated a paving project for several streets in Oakland. Residents and businesses are advised that the flow of traffic may be slowed or altered during the work.

Man Sentenced For Felony Theft, Gun Possession

Three cases involving a 42-year-old Oakland man were heard in Garrett County Circuit Court on Tuesday. In one case, Leslie Allen Bittinger was sentenced to five years in the Division of Corrections for a felony theft charge to which he had pleaded guilty in June.

All but 18 months of the sentence was suspended, which Bittinger will serve in the Garrett County Jail. He was also fined $500.

Last October, Maryland State Police were contacted by U.S. Postal Service investigators, who determined that items mailed by Bittinger displayed duplicate postage. After conducting additional investigation, a search and seizure warrant was executed at Bittinger's residence on Nov. 1, 2007. Equipment used to produce the duplicate postage was seized, and Bittinger explained to officers the process he had used, said State's Attorney Lisa Thayer Welch.

Bittinger was arrested and charged with the theft of postal revenue from April 2006 through October 2007, totaling $5,975.50. Repayment of these funds is a condition of probation, which Bittinger will serve after he is released from jail.

In another case, Bittinger also pleaded guilty in court on Tuesday to possessing a regulated firearm after having been convicted of a crime that carried a maximum penalty of more than two years. For this offense, Judge Jim Sherbin imposed a sentence of 18 months, to run concurrently with the theft sentence.

When officers were searching Bittinger's residence in November for evidence of the postal theft, they recovered two handguns, which are regulated under Maryland law. A check of Bittinger's criminal record revealed he was convicted of second-degree assault in 2000, making him ineligible to possess the handguns.

In the third case, a driving under the influence charge against Bittinger was amended to negligent driving, to which he pleaded guilty. He was fined $250.

Bittinger had been stopped by Garrett County sheriff's deputies as he was driving a golf cart along Garrett Highway last July. Bittinger was arrested after officers noted he had been consuming alcohol, and all evidence suggested he was under the influence.

In a pre-trial motions hearing in June, Sherbin had upheld the lawfulness of the stop, but had suppressed various statements Bittinger made at the scene, according to Welch.

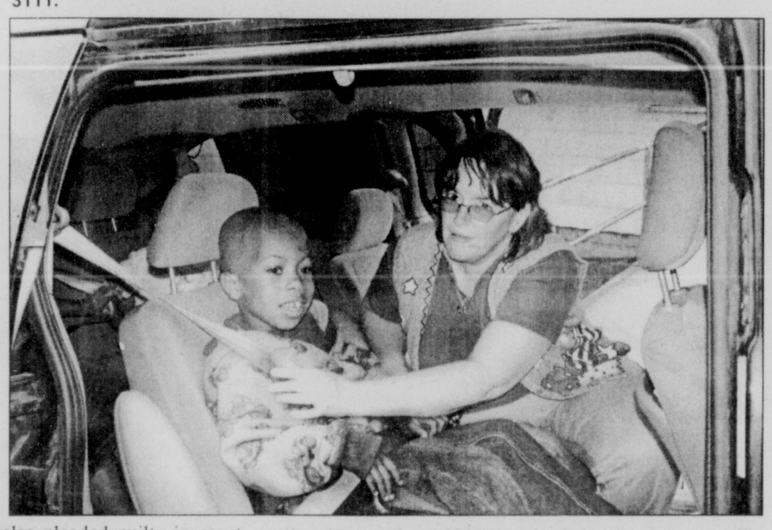
In other Circuit Court proceedings from Tuesday, David Spencer Glotfelty, 24, Mtn. Lake Park, pleaded guilty in two traffic cases. In the first case, he admitted to driving while his license was suspended, and was fined $200.

Glotfelty was stopped in Oakland by sheriff's deputies for traffic violations last September. During the stop, a check of Glotfelty's driver's license status revealed he was suspended for failing to pay fines.

Glotfelty also pleaded guilty in a separate case to driving an uninsured vehicle. For this offense, he was fined $200. Related motor vehicle charges were dismissed upon his plea.

A sheriff's deputy had stopped Glotfelty last November along Maryland Highway, near Leon White Road. During a check of Glotfelty and the vehicle, the officer learned there was no insurance on the vehicle, the state's attorney noted.

HAPPY TO BE BACK – Host families from Garrett County welcomed children from the Fresh Air Fund Program who arrived in Grantsville last Thursday. For the next two weeks, the visitors will enjoy a country vacation, complete with picnics, swimming, and playground visits. Pictured above, Diane Maust exchanges a hug with 11-year-old Skyla Curbello of the Bronx, who returned to stay with the her family near Accident for the fourth time. Because of the recent changes in Maryland law, the Kids in Safety Seats Loaner Program at the Garrett County Health Department provided booster seats for many of the Fresh Air children to use during their stay. Diane Lee, loaner program coordinator, met with host families to assist them with the booster seats. She is pictured below with Donte Ambrose, 6, who is visiting Albert and Lois Schrock of Oakland. Effective June 30, Maryland law requires children up to age 8 to use a child safety seat or booster seat when riding in a motor vehicle, unless the child is 4'9" tall or taller or weighs more than 65 pounds. "I was glad we could help make sure these kids were safe during their visit," Lee said. "Booster seats just make the lap and shoulder belt fit better, and make it more effective in protecting kids between 40 and 80 pounds." For more information, persons may call the Health Department at 301-334-7730 or 301-895-3111.



Woman Receives Four Years In DOC For Felony Theft

A 30-year-old Accident woman was sentenced in Garrett County Circuit Court on Monday for her role in the burglary of an Oakland area residence. Renea Dawn Rexrode received four years in the Division of Corrections.

She had pleaded guilty to felony theft in May, and sentencing was postponed for completion of a presentence investigation report.

In December, an Oakland family reported their home had been entered while they slept and various items, including a purse with its contents, were stolen. Investigators with the Garrett County Sheriff's Office determined that five persons had traveled from the Accident area, parked a car in a neighbor's drive, walked to the victims' home, and entered through a garage.

An ATM card of one of the residents was used during the night, and the transaction was captured on surveillance video at a local bank, the state's attorney noted.

Officers determined that Rexrode was the driver of the car. Two of the other adults were charged, with one currently serving a sentence in the Division of Corrections and one being on probation. The juvenile was determined to be delinquent in the Juvenile Court and is currently committed to the Department of Juvenile Services to complete a program at one of its youth camps.

In an unrelated case, Andrew Ray Gardea, 27, Grantsville, was sentenced to five years in the Division of Corrections, with three years suspended, for a felony theft charge. Gardea will be on probation when he is released from prison, with conditions to include restitution to the business owner for losses.

Gardea was charged on Jan. 16 by investigators with the Garrett County Sheriff's Office for the burglary and theft of an Oakland area business three days earlier.

While the crimes were under investigation, officers responded to a residence in Grantsville to assist rescue squad personnel for an emergency medical situation and, while in the residence, realized property stolen during the burglary was inside. A search warrant was later executed at the residence, and numerous items were recovered, according to the state's attorney.

In addition to Gardea, two other occupants of the residence were charged with possession of stolen property. Their cases are pending trial in Garrett County District Court.

In other Circuit Court news, Scotty Dale Alexander, 30, Oakland, admitted to violating his probation. Judge Jim Sherbin reimposed the two-year and eight-month sentence that had previously been suspended, then re-suspended all but 12 days of the sentence.

Alexander had been sentenced by Judge Frederick A. Thayer in 2006 for possession of a controlled dangerous substance (not marijuana).

Alexander violated his probation by testing positive for marijuana, missing appointments with his probation agent, and not completing his drug treatment program, the state's attorney said. Alexander was placed back on probation, which will last another 1½ years, with the same conditions.

REUNIONS

Wanted: More Docs...

We are living longer these days in the United States, a generally positive circumstance, but one that also creates a myriad of new problems. One of those looming negatives was addressed at a special forum held by area health care professionals on Tuesday at Rocky Gap resort near Cumberland.

The focus of the forum was the growing shortage of physicians in western Maryland, an area that currently has 16% fewer physicians than elsewhere in the state, based on population. The region also has shortages in two-thirds of the specialty areas, such as pediatrics, geriatrics, and internal medicine. The specialty-area shortages are expected to grow to 73 percent by 2015. Meanwhile, the aging population of the nation as a whole continues to grow right along with the shortages. In fact, by the year 2030, the elderly population in the U.S. is expected to double, from 35 million today to 71 million.

It was noted at the forum that there are approximately 25,000 licensed physicians in Maryland today; however, when subtracting those who work for the government and those who primarily teach and do research, there are only about 10,200 who are actually providing health care. That's simply not enough for a state with a current population of over 5½ million. (That's around 550 patients per doc.)

There was apparently more discussion at the forum about the problems than about solutions, as there are no easy answers. But one approach that shows promise is to do everything possible to train more Maryland medical students within the state, and to have them serve their residencies in the state. That's because another statistic shows that the majority of students who complete their training and are ready to begin practice like to return to their home areas. So Maryland students must be given priority over out-of-staters.

It is also hoped that the quality-of-life card can continued to be played for the recruitment of physicians in western Maryland, and particularly in Garrett County. Recreation, forests and parks, wide open spaces, clean air, a low crime rate, relatively little traffic, and an excellent public education system are among the quality factors that Garrett County has to offer, and have worked well in the past to attract doctors.

Finally, it seems that the nation's medical schools, and those that offer physician's assistant and nurse practitioner programs, are going to have to be expanded, both in size and in numbers, if there is any hope of heading off what could be devastating within the next few decades.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

As my term as student member on the Board of Education ended last month, I have taken some time to reflect on the year and all of my experiences. From MABE conferences to long meetings late into the night, I have come to realize how important this experience has been for me. Under the guidance of a great board and supportive superintendent, I feel that my term has helped mold me into a better leader and a better person. I can only encourage future high school seniors to apply for this position and hopefully earn the right to serve your fellow students.

I could not be more grateful for my time on the Board of Education. I wish my successor, Joanna Guy, the best of luck this upcoming school year and hope that she will have the same amazing experience that I was fortunate enough to have this past year.

Sincerely,
Brison Harvey

To the Editor:

This is an open letter to the residents of historical Mountain Lake Park and Oakland.

We are the Apostolics of Oakland, located in Mountain Lake Park, Highway 135 and G Street. The property is formerly known as the "old camp grounds," where many remember great camp meetings.

We are a small group of people who now own this property and have our church in the Tabernacle. Over the years weather and time have taken their toll on the old "famous" building which housed the sanctuary. This building is in need of major repair on the outside. It is our desire, as the Apostolics of Oakland, to repair the building, which we feel would be better than allowing it to fall apart. We have contracted to have work performed, including putting a metal roof on, along with vinyl siding. Work has begun, but we are needing help from you, the residents and those who care to preserve history in this town.

Roof and vinyl siding, along with installation, is running nearly $50,000. This is extremely hard for a small group to afford. Therefore, we are asking for your help in this matter. Donations would be much appreciated to help repair and preserve the building. All donations are tax-deductible as a donation to a church.

Please consider this matter, and if you wish to contribute, you can send your checks to the Apostolics of Oakland. Mark on the check for "Restoration of the Historical Building."

We as the church, and Pastor and Mrs. Phillips, invite you to come and visit our services and worship the Lord with us. You will be welcomed and are sure to enjoy all services.

The Apostolics of Oakland
Pastor Aaron L. Phillips

To the Editor:

I am writing regarding the proposal by Garrett County Community Action Committee to acquire county property next to the airport to create a 250-unit housing project and subdivision. I believe that this is an inappropriate use of county property, and wish to express my opposition.

The White family originally donated the Whiteface Farm to the county for the benefit of the Garrett County Memorial Hospital. The Garrett County Airport was constructed on this property.

Sometime in the early 1990s, the commissioners sold the 360-acre farm at public auction and gave the proceeds to the hospital. The Sanitary Commission purchased it for $325,000 and acquired the title for the property on March 2, 1993.

The county subsequently re-acquired the farm and adjacent lands, without costs, when the previous board of commissioners abolished the Sanitary Commission and took control of all of its assets.

Since then, the commissioners have utilized portions of the farm, one of the largest parcels of land in the Deep Creek drainage basin not privately owned or publicly held by the state, for expansion of the airport. Steps were also taken to ensure that the farm was not developed to impede the airport's expansion.

The county, in order to receive federal funding, was even required to purchase private property near the runway and relocate several families. It seems to be very shortsighted for the county to now consider giving away the Whiteface property to build up to 250 dwellings in proximity to the airport.

I do not believe it is good public policy to utilize public property in this manner, especially next to our airport. Such a measure could be very detrimental to the airport's operation and may impede future expansion. Consider how difficult it would have been to expand the airport or place a new industrial park on the site if the property were not in the public's trust.

There still remains great potential for the utilization of this property for future airport expansion. It could be used for education projects or for the expansion of Garrett College. Perhaps it would even be better to let a large portion of this property be undeveloped as an airport buffer for wildlife habitat and environmental pleasing purposes.

If the commissioners desire to dispose of 250 acres of this property worth a potential $2 to $3 million, then it should be sold by a public offering, the funds of which can be used to reduce the county debt or reduce taxes on the Garrett County property owners.

Respectfully,
Delegate Wendell Beitzel

Investigation Division also responded to assist. McHenry Barrack personnel conducted a search of the victims' residence and the surrounding area in Grantsville.

The McClintocks had no credit cards or cellular telephones to initiate a trace.

They were located Tuesday at 1:30 p.m. approximately one mile from their vehicle near White Creek. According to police, the location consisted of very steep terrain and dense foliage.

The Pennsylvania Coroner's Office was summoned to the scene and will make an official report on the cause of death.

FFA Candidate

Berkebile will also receive an American FFA degree. This is the highest honor an FFA member can receive within the organization. Only one-half of 1 percent of FFA members ever receive the American degree. Receiving the American FFA degree is also a requirement to compete for national office.

The candidate is the daughter of Gary and Nancy Berkebile of Accident. With her parents and her sister Lacie, she lives on a small fourth-generation family farm where they raise beef, sheep, and swine.

She is currently employed at Oak View Ridge Holsteins. She is also a student at West Virginia University, majoring in agriculture education and extension. Berkebile finished this past year with a 4.0 GPA.

She hopes to pursue a career in teaching agriculture.

Last year, she served as Maryland's state FFA president. She traveled throughout the state of Maryland educating the public and high school FFA members about the agriculture industry and the importance of agriculture education in the public school systems. She traveled a total of 28,000 miles during the year.

POS Projects

contribute $16,000 toward for the project, according to DeVore.

The Crellin softball field was allocated $7,800 for improvements, including new fencing, a home plate, benches, and bleachers.

Accident received its requested $5,998.50 for aluminum bleachers and six trash cans for Town Park East.

The groups/projects that did not receive POS allocations this year and their requested amounts are as follows: Garrett County Board of Education, $36,900, Northern High School softball field improvements; Grantsville, $13,500, new town park parking area; and the Casselman Valley Soccer Association, $10,000, installation of sidewalks and a patio, gravel and topsoil replacement, and field top dressing.

The county's list of projects and the money appropriated to them by the commissioners will now be submitted to the Maryland Department of Natural Resources, which oversees the program, and ultimately to the Board of Public Works for final approval. The actual money for the projects, however, will not be awarded for several months.

Program Open Space is funded by the state and is allotted to counties each year, with the monies appropriated by their fiscal authorities. The funds are to be used to renovate existing Open Space facilities or to buy properties for new Open Space use.

All projects must be for public use. Additionally, development initiatives require a 10 percent local match, but those involving land acquisition do not.

MY KNEE 'N' ME
Part 1 — The Painful Part

I've pondered for quite a while whether or not to write about something that rudely interrupted my life about three months ago, and I have decided that since so many people seem to have gone through something similar, it might be good to ramble about it awhile, just so we can all sort of enjoy being on the same team. I haven't written for quite some time, and in fact up until this particular incident in my life, have felt uninspired in general. But when one's life is altered by something and the path is yanked in a direction most unexpected, inspiration does come flooding home. In general, this is a story of Life Interrupted, and I hope to be able to relate to readers who have experienced the jarring results of such events. But first, I'll have to tell you what happened.

For years and years, I attempted to get back to the sport of skiing, having grown up with it. My dad was a ski patroller, so we were at Wisp all the time when I was a kid. But as an adult, after having three boys in the span of four years, skiing dropped to the bottom of the list until finally last year. Now with teenagers in the house who are eager to try just about anything, we did manage to get back to the hill. And man, it was fun! A trite thing to say, but getting back on skis, even after 15 years, is a lot like jumping back on a bike — the skill returned to me quickly. Flying down the hill in the bracing cold, working muscles that had long been unused, seeing the snow spray up — it was exhilarating to me. And my two sons who joined me, Michael, 12, and Alex, 13, caught on quickly. Soon the three of us were going all over the hill, trying slopes that I had grown up on, as well as the newer ones I had not seen before. So many memories came rushing in: skiing with my parents, then my friends; those early days of testing out slopes that were probably too steep for me; and yes, tearing through the woods where there were no trails sometimes. Cold rides on the chair, and that incredible chill that can assail a person when a biting wind cuts across the mountaintop; the panoramic views that are beyond words; the smell of hot chocolate afterward... All of it I took in again, and savored it. It was great.

The end of the season was at hand. Tuesday, March 25, to be exact. I hate even telling this part. I was the one who insisted we go to the slopes for just a few hours that evening. I knew skiing would be over in probably a week, and I wanted us to use those skis and passes at least one more time. The air was warm, and I like skiing when it's balmy. I knew we wouldn't be shivering. So I convinced my somewhat reluctant boys to go just one more time...

In the car, the boys were talking about their spectacular spills of the season. "Hey, Mom, you haven't fallen one time, have you?" Michael asked. I said no, and then suggested that he knock on some wood. There was a pause. "I can't find any back here," he said.

We had gone down the hill once, and decided to head over to North Camp and try the trail called "Aces." We like that one — not too easy, not too difficult. Fun. At least that's what I used to think... The snow was heavy; spring snow. Hard to manage on skis, but I wasn't remembering that. I started down with confidence, but felt a little ragged, catching edges here and there. Just as I was deciding to slow down a bit, I caught an edge from which I could not recover. I went down, feeling a sickening yank in my right knee. I lay there for a minute, stunned. I had not been thrown to the ground like that in ages. It can be a harsh thing when you're 25, let alone 20 years older than that! I knew I had injured my knee, but stood back up anyway. Michael and Alex were nearly at the bottom (I was in the habit of skiing behind them so I could pick up all their stuff when they wiped out). I stood there collecting myself, trying to ignore the scary pain in my leg, and decided that I would just have to go on down, and maybe tell the boys I was finished for the evening. I started, and made a turn. And then — I saw, and I think, if it's possible, heard my right knee go completely out of joint. I watched as my ski pants showed the grotesque twist, the bottom part going completely out and then back in. I have had three children. I don't think childbirth hurt any worse than this. I hit the ground and pounded the snow with my ski pole, over and over. I heard Alex coming up the hill, running in his ski boots. "Mom! Mom!" I tried to be calm when I told him I was really hurt, and he would have to get help. "You look like you're going to faint," he said. And he was right; I nearly did. He helped

Scrap Tire Fees Will Increase At County Landfill

The Garrett County commissioners on Tuesday approved increases to certain scrap tires disposal fees at the county landfill. Andrew Damon, administrative coordinator for the Solid Waste and Recycling Division, said the changes were needed to offset increases in fuel and other costs.

"Based on the current [fiscal year] contract to store, haul, and dispose of scrap tires, there will be a shortfall in revenue to cover costs, unless the disposal fees are increased," he told the commissioners.

Damon noted that between July 1, 2007, and June 15, 2008, a little over 29 tons of scrap tires were brought to the landfill. The revenue collected from disposal fees for those tires was $5,435.

But, he pointed out, the county's current contract with a company to store, haul, and dispose of those tires is $210 per ton. So, it will cost the county $6,090 to get rid of 29 tons of tires this fiscal year.

Damon said without the increase in disposal fees, therefore, there will be a shortfall of $655 this fiscal year. To avoid that, he suggested increasing some fees by $1. He noted that the fee changes are on the types of tires the landfill receives the most.

Those include passenger tires (under 17 inches) with and without wheels. Last fiscal year, Damon said, the landfill received 714 passenger tires without wheels. Currently, the disposal fee for those is $2 each. By increasing that fee alone by $1, the county may garner an additional $700 this fiscal year.

Damon also suggested that fees for passenger tires with wheels and the surcharge for tires mixed in with other debris be increased by $1 per tire.

Additionally, the administrator asked that the bulk disposal fee increase from $200 a ton for passenger and truck tires to $250 a ton. Last fiscal year, more than 7.5 tons of bulk tires were brought to the landfill, according to Damon.

All together, the fee increases could bring in about $1,600 in additional revenue for the landfill, he noted, offsetting the projected shortfall and creating an excess of more than $900. Damon said tire disposal fees were last increased in 1994.

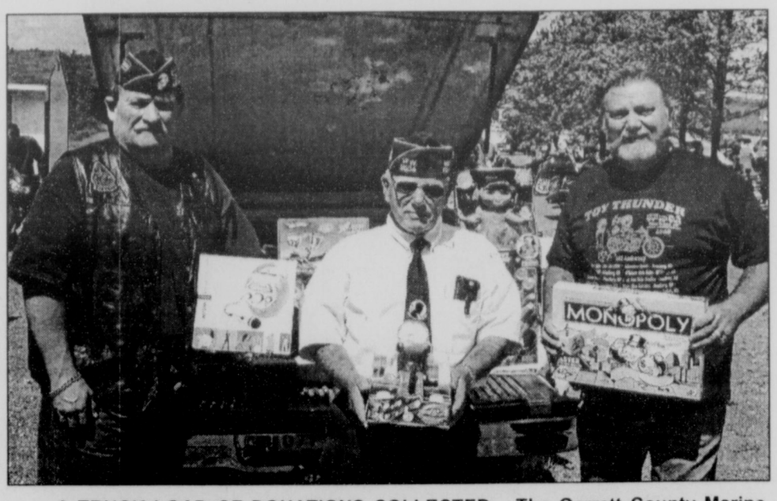
The commissioners unanimously approved the increases, which are effective on Aug. 1.

Commissioner Fred Holliday commended the Solid Waste and Recycling staff for their efforts during the Citizen Scrap Tire Drop-Off Day in April at the fairgrounds. He also noted that Garrett County Detention officers and five inmates helped.

More than 350 local residents participated in the event, dropping off approximately 4,500 tires, or 80 tons, for recycling. The county holds a tire amnesty day every year or two through funding from the Maryland Department of the Environment's Tire Fund.

"I never saw so many tires," Holliday said about the recent recycling event. "You would think after all the years we've had this amnesty, we'd be running out of them."

For additional information on tire recycling or any other recycling program in Garrett County, persons may call the Solid Waste and Recycling Division at 301-387-0322.



A TRUCK LOAD OF DONATIONS COLLECTED – The Garrett County Marine Corps League filled an entire truck with donated toys for the annual Toys for Tots drive held on June 20. The toy donations came from businesses and individuals across the county and will be given to children this Christmas. The toy drive is sponsored by the United States Marine Corps Reserve, and this is the third year the Garrett Marine League has been involved. Pictured above, from left, with samples from the donations are Chuck Nolan, Garrett County detachment commandant; Ron Parson, chairman of Western Maryland Toys for Tots; and Harry Beal, chief, the first Navy Seal in the U.S.

My Knee 'N' Me, Continued from A-4

me get my ski off, an excruciating event, and then he and Michael went for help. I lay on the snow, silently. I couldn't help thinking of my dad, Bob Sincell, who carted hundreds — probably thousands — of injured people off those very slopes. He died in 2003, but he seemed to be right there with me that night.

It was so very quiet. Every now and then a person would call to me from the chairlift, assuring me that someone was on the way. Snow started to fall, settling on my face and around me in the silence. No one happened by, although it was probably only 10 minutes before the patrol got there. When Dad was training the patrollers all those years ago, I used to wish so much that I could ride in the rescue toboggan. Man, I wanted to do that. And I would ask Dad, and he wouldn't let me. I think he was worried that the trainees might accidently let me go. So I kept thinking, "Well, Dad, I'm going to get to ride in the stinking toboggan after all." And boy, did I ever. Two extremely capable and nice patrollers, Bill and Brenton (sp?), gently packed me up into the sled and attached it to the snowmobile. Of course I had fallen about as far away from the ski patrol room as I possibly could, so they had to drag me up two slopes (Big Dipper and Little Dipper), and then all the way down Possum. I kept looking up and asking if I was still firmly attached, and Brenton would say, "Yep. We got ya." They were great guys, and I know my dad would've been pleased with the care they gave me. They let me use a cell phone to call John, my husband. "Hey, honey. Guess where I am? On the hill. Flat on my back. My knee is shot." Great.

In the patrol room, I told the boys that I couldn't quit thinking of seeing my knee go out of joint. Alex quickly said, "Just think of Miles, Mom." Miles is our cat. "He's dumb, he's fuzzy, he's wimpy. Think of Miles." And I did. Over and over. And it helped so much to think of that little cat every time the nasty thought came into my brain. So thanks, Alex, for being so helpful, and thanks, Miles, for being so fuzzy and dumb.

While I waited on the stretcher, Michael looked down at me and said, "Sorry I couldn't find any wood in the van, Mom."

When I finally was settled in our car and was on my way to Garrett Memorial, I had a good cry. John was at a loss. "Is it because it hurts? Is it because you're uncomfortable?" I couldn't put into words that I just knew I was badly hurt, and I knew that everything would change, at least for a while, and I wasn't at all prepared for that. But that's pretty hard to say while caterwauling. I didn't know at the time, though, how many good things would come of this. And good things have. Funny things, too. And that's what I'll write about next week.

NRP Reports DWI Arrests, One Accident

The Maryland Natural Resources Police issued alcohol-related driving charges to several persons on Deep Creek Lake over the weekend holiday.

Officers stopped William H. Fredlock IV, 43, Swanton, last Tuesday for allegedly not displaying proper navigational lights on his vessel. Fredlock was transported to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office for processing and was charged with operating a vessel while under the influence of alcohol, operating a vessel while impaired by alcohol, operating a vessel while impaired by alcohol and or drugs, negligent operation, and operating a vessel between the hours of sunset and sunrise without proper navigation lights. He was released on his signature.

Steven W. Hughes, 23, Accident, was stopped last Wednesday after being warned earlier that evening by NRP not to operate his vessel because of suspected alcohol consumption. An officer had checked Hughes and another individual as they fished from the anchored vessel near the dam. NRP left the area, and approximately 15 minutes later, NRP observed Hughes operating his vessel on the lake.

Hughes was arrested and transported to the sheriff's office for processing, and was charged with operating a vessel while under the influence of alcohol, operating a vessel while impaired by alcohol, operating a vessel while impaired by alcohol and or drugs, and negligent operation. He was released on his signature.

Cory R. Chaney, 64, Frederick, was arrested and charged with operating a vessel while under the influence of alcohol, operating a vessel while impaired by alcohol, and operating a vessel while impaired by alcohol and/or drugs on Deep Creek Lake on Friday.

NRP stopped Chaney after receiving reports from concerned citizens about a possible intoxicated boat operator on the lake. He was released on his own signature.

Timothy I. Rowan, 21, Mount Airy, was charged on Friday with operating a vessel while under the influence of alcohol, operating a vessel while impaired by alcohol, operating a vessel while impaired by alcohol and/or drugs, and negligent operation on the lake.

NRP stopped Rowan for allegedly not displaying proper navigational lights on his vessel. He was arrested and transported to the Maryland State Police, McHenry Barrack, for processing. He was released on his own signature.

Dennis R. Strawderman Jr., 27, Reisterstown, was arrested on several alcohol-related charges involving his personal watercraft (PWC) on Deep Creek Lake on Saturday.

NRP stopped Strawderman for allegedly operating a PWC at a high rate of speed between the NRP boat dock and the shoreline. Strawderman was charged with operating a vessel while under the influence of alcohol, operating a vessel while impaired by alcohol, operating a vessel while impaired by alcohol and/or drugs, and operating a PWC in excess of 6 knots within 100 feet of shore.

He was released on his own signature.

NRP reminds persons operating personal watercraft within 100 feet of the shore, wharfs, piers, pilings, jetties, bridge structures or abutments, individuals in the water, and other vessels that their vessel may not exceed a speed of 6 knots at anytime.

NRP investigated a boating-related accident on Saturday in the McHenry Cove area of Deep Creek Lake, where a 16-year old Swanton girl briefly lost consciousness when she fell off a tube she was being towed on.

She was pulled from the water and transported to Garrett Memorial Hospital, where she was treated and released. No charges were filed against the operator of the vessel.

The Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Department and the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad assisted NRP with the incident.

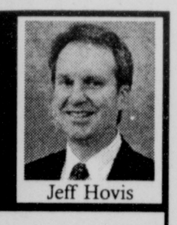
Real Estate Facts by...



Jeff Hovis

TRUTH OR CONSEQUENCES!

It's more difficult than ever to realistically and successfully price your home for sale. Many economic factors affect your pricing decision. Agents present you with the facts, but the final determination of asking price is yours and yours alone. So contact a representative and familiarize yourself with the following criteria.

There are more homes for sale now than in the past. Larger inventories exist mainly due to the fact that many sellers waited to list, trying to catch the top of the market. Now they're trying to sell before it bottoms out.

While still historically low, mortgage rates are creeping up. Every rate increase disqualifies a segment of buyers for financing, negatively impacting your selling ability.

Besides higher interest rates, buyers are subject to stricter loan application requirements. Again, the higher down-payments and credit scores needed for financing eliminate many applicants from your pool of prospective buyers.

Are there homes in your neighborhood that investors couldn't "flip"? Then they are either vacant or listed below market value by owners who would rather take the loss than become landlords. Either way, these homes and foreclosed properties adversely affect property values of others in your community.

This is reality. Expect your agent to be completely honest with you about it, and learn that trust, reason and determination will create a sale, even in a down market. If you are thinking of buying or selling a home but feel "out of touch" with real estate, give me a call today.

MPA To Present Trombonist B. Plitnik

Music at Penn Alps will present trombonist Brian Plitnik in concert this Saturday, July 12, at 7:30 p.m. in the Great Hall at Penn Alps, Grantsville.

Plitnik is currently professor of low brass and director of brass ensembles at Frostburg State University, and he serves as the low brass instructor for the Cumberland Music Academy.

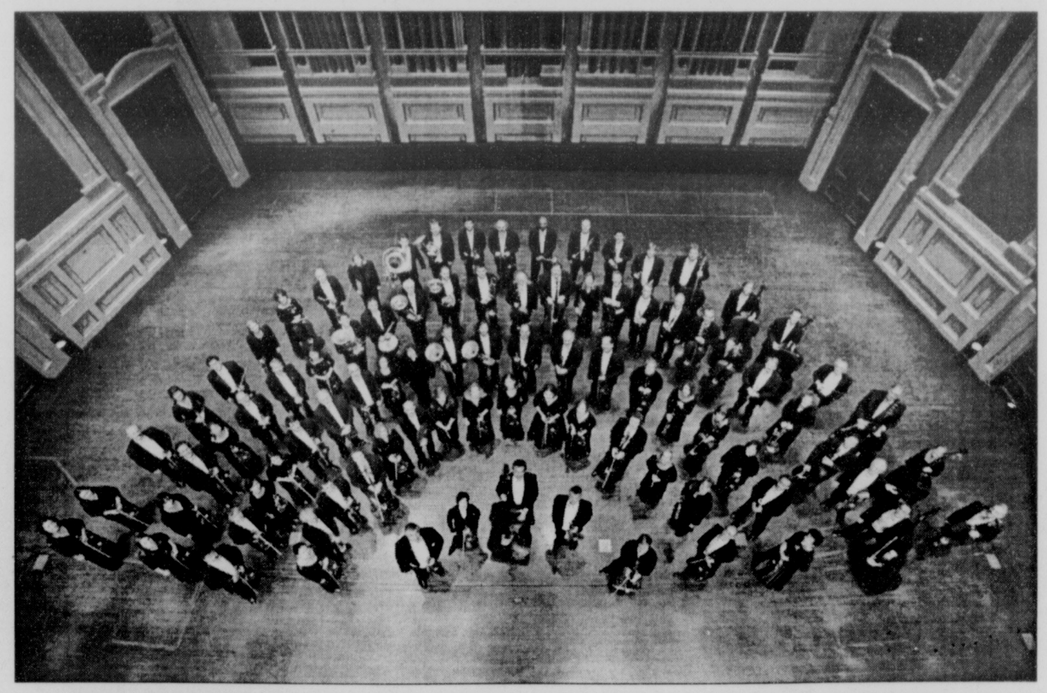
Plitnik is also a co-founder of Coronation Brass, a professional brass ensemble in the tri-state area, and has performed with West Virginia Public Theatre, Emmanuel Brass, the Johnstown Symphony Orchestra, and the Maryland Symphony Orchestra Brass Quintet. He has appeared with the Jimmy Dorsey Orchestra (Bill Tole), Rick K. and the All-Nighters, and Bobby Vinton. He holds music degrees from Frostburg State University and West Virginia University, where he is completing a doctorate of musical arts degree.

Pianist Timothy Hoft, also appearing Saturday, has participated in numerous festivals, and has premiered works by composers Ryan Anthony Francis, Christopher Fischer-Lockhead, Chris Gainey, and Geoff Knorr. He was awarded a fellowship in 2006 through La Gesse Foundation, sponsored by Princess Cecilia de Medici, which has given him performance opportunities as soloist and chamber musician in France and Italy, as well as in Carnegie Hall's Weill Recital Hall. Hoft was recently granted the Earl Wild Scholarship of the Ivory Classics Foundation. He holds degrees from the University of Michigan and from the Peabody Conservatory, where he is pursuing a doctor of musical arts degree.

The program will be as follows: Concerto for Alto Trombone, composed by Johann Albrectsberger (1736-1809); Romance by Carl Maria von Weber (1786-1826); Aria et Polonaise, written by Joseph Jongen (1873-1953); Concerto for Trombone by Launy Grøndahl (1886-1960); The Hunting of the Snark, by contemporary composer Arne Nordheim (b. 1931); and Trombonology written by Tommy Dorsey (1905-1956) and arranged by Robert Elkjer.

The performance is sponsored by Frostburg State University. Tickets are $15 for adults, and youth under 19 are admitted free of charge. For program and ticket information, persons may call 301-895-4250.

After the performance, audience members will be invited to meet and talk to the artist at an informal reception. Music at Penn Alps is a non-profit organization dedicated to presenting classical music and American traditions.



PITTSBURGH SYMPHONY IS ON THE WAY – The Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra will arrive in Garrett County next week for a two-evening engagement, July 18 and 19, as part of the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival 2008 season. The concerts will take place at the Wisp Resort lodge. The first program will be a pops performance, and is already sold out. The classical show on Saturday has tickets remaining. See story for details.

Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra To Perform At Wisp Resort Next Week

The Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra will arrive in Garrett County next week to present two concerts, a pops show on Friday, July 18 (now sold out), and a classical performance on Saturday, July 19. Both shows will be given at the Wisp Resort in the lodge. This is a presentation of the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival (GLAF).

Principal pops conductor Marvin Hamlisch will kick off the weekend Friday with "Marvin's Broadway, Hear and Now," featuring Broadway singers Debbie Gravitte and Gary Mauer, and trombonist Peter Sullivan.

Resident conductor Lawrence Loh will lead the orchestra in the classical repertoire Saturday, July 19, beginning at 7:30 p.m. The classical repertoire will include composer Hector Berlioz's Overture to Béatrice et Bénédict; Sergei Prokofiev's Concerto No. 2 in G minor for Violin and Orchestra, Opus 63; and Antonin Dvorák's Symphony No. 7 in D minor, Opus 70. The concert will feature associate principal second violin, Louis Lev.

Tickets for the concert are $30 for adults, $7 for students, and free for children 5 years and younger (but they will need a ticket). Tickets can be ordered online at www.artsandentertainment.org or by calling the GLAF office at 301-387-3082.

As a composer, Marvin Hamlisch has won three Oscars, four Grammys, four Emmys, a Tony, and three Golden Globe awards. His well-known show, A Chorus Line, received the Pulitzer Prize. In addition to serving as the principal pops conductor with the PSO, he is also the pops conductor for the National Symphony and San Diego Symphony Orchestra. He said he believes in the power of music to bring people together.

OTT Launches "Summer Sundays At 7" Readings

Our Town Theatre's annual summer play-reading series, "Summer Sundays at 7," will begin on Sunday, July 13, at 7 pm, and continue each Sunday evening through August.

These are casual events during which guests may read a part, or just listen.

"This is where we 'try out' plays for possible production to see if they would be a good fit for our stage," said Richard Hill, president of the OTT board of directors. "If you've been thinking about auditioning for one of our productions but are a little shy, this is an easy way to get started."

There is no charge for the readings, although donations are always appreciated, Hill noted. Light refreshments will be served.

"We can't afford to advertise the Summer Sundays at Seven series, so we suggest you put reminders on your calendars," Hill said.

The theatre is located at 121 Center Street, Oakland. For more information, persons may call 301-334-5640.

Grantsville Senior Center To Hold Senior Art Show

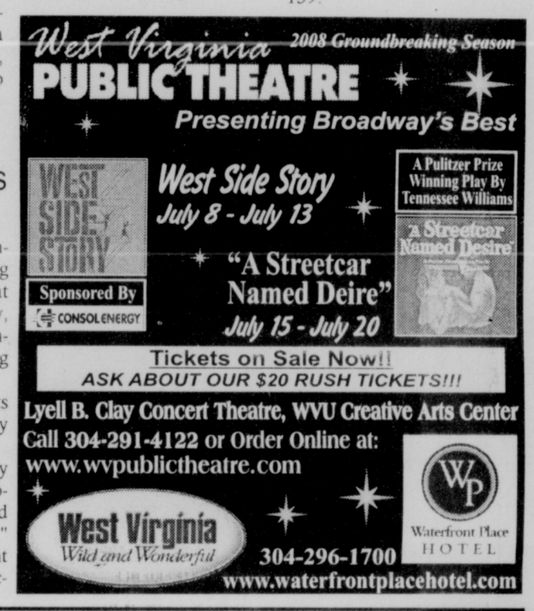
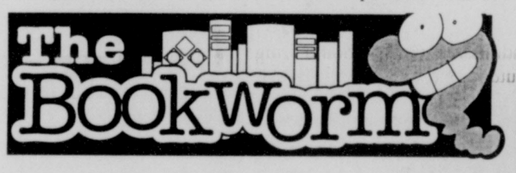
Seniors age 55 and over are encouraged to contact the center to submit displays to be viewed at the show. Planned items on display include landscapes, stained glass, photography, crocheting, and quilts. The show and presentation of displays will be open to the public.

There will be light refreshments and hoagie sandwiches available for purchase, with all proceeds benefiting the Garrett County Meals On Wheels program.

Those interested in more information may contact Carrie Clow at 301-895-5818 or 301-334-9431, ext. 139.





PRESIDENTIAL COURAGE: BRAVE LEADERS AND HOW THEY CHANGED AMERICA 1789-1989

by Michael Beschloss

c. 2007, Simon & Schuster, $15.95, 448 pages

Review by Terri Schlichenmeyer

According to the U.S. Constitution (Article II, Section 1, Clause 5), anyone can be president of the United States, as long as he or she is a natural-born citizen, age 35 or older, and has lived the last 14 years in this country. Any child born in this country can grow up to be president.

But would they want to?

To be president, one must have diplomacy, tact, and be willing to go without sleep. Bravery has been an important asset in the presidency, as has a sense of humor. Author Michael Beschloss says being a good leader also takes Presidential Courage, and in his book with that title (newly released in paperback), Beschloss gives many good examples.

Beginning with the "father of our country," it's taken careful thought and caution in diplomacy to be America's leader. George Washington faced not one, but two, scandals that could have ended his career and changed the course of history. Even so, he stayed the course, supported an unpopular treaty, and made peace with England.

In refusing to re-charter the corrupt Bank of America – though the House and Senate wanted it so — Andrew Jackson set the stage for widespread use of one of the presidency's most change-making abilities: the veto.

Abraham Lincoln knew that his life was in danger, but he still signed the Emancipation Proclamation. Franklin Delano Roosevelt was forced to consider Americans' reluctance for war, all the while holding conversations with Churchill about U.S. support for Great Britain in defeating Hitler. Harry S. Truman all but ignored anti-Semitism in America – and in his own home – as he "helped create the state of Israel." Despite that much of the South was against it, John Kennedy worked for civil rights. Ronald Reagan helped end the Cold War.

The word "hero" should come to mind right about now, as it will when you're reading Presidential Courage. The word "Huh?" will also enter your brain.

On the good side, this book will thrill any historian and delight any minutiae maven with little-known factoids, including that Martha Washington named her pet tomcat after Alexander Hamilton because of Hamilton's propensity for "tomcatting around"; that FDR, who had at least one mistress, also had a distant cousin who was smitten by the charismatic president; and that JFK donated his entire $500 Pulitzer Prize winnings (for Profiles in Courage) to the United Negro College Fund.

On the flip side, author Michael Beschloss will surprise you with his choices and with the reasons he chose the men whose stories he tells. In some cases, you'll disagree. History shows other passionate, courageous presidents, and I was a bit baffled by their omissions. Could there be another book in the works?

Far from light fare, but engrossing (and possibly controversial) nonetheless, I think reading this book is a good way to spend a pre-election summer. It will certainly give you food for thought on the next generation of candidates. If you're interested in politics, either now or in the past, Presidential Courage deserves a "yea" vote.

bring all people together. Music is truly an international language, and I hope to contribute by widening communication as much as I can."

Lawrence Loh was promoted to resident conductor of the PSO starting in the 2007-2008 season, and is entering his third season as music director of the Northeastern Pennsylvania Philharmonic. He was brought to national attention in February 2004 when he successfully substituted, last minute, for an ailing Charles Dutoit with the Dallas Symphony Orchestra, conducting Stravinsky's "Petrouchka" and Berlioz's Symphonie Fantastique.

Skip Case, executive director of GLAF, noted the contributions of Wisp Resort.

"Wisp Resort has generously offered rooms for the musicians, the performance venue, and financial support as part of the season sponsorship," Case said. "Without Wisp Resort, these concerts just would not be happening."

Other season sponsors are Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty, First United Trust and Investments, Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, Sincell Publishing Company, and Total Biz Fulfillment.

Event sponsors for the symphony performances are Robert and Marcene Huebner, Ed King and Doug McClive, M&T Bank, Railey Realty, Charles A. Walch, M.D., Lucinda Williams, Marvin Heise/the Four Seasons Restaurant at Will O' the Wisp, and Sandra and Ihor Zakaluzny.

Sponsor partners for the PSO performances are Dr. Alan and Sue Arnson, David A. Burdock Funeral Home, P.A., the Carl Del Signore Foundation, Iris and Peter Halmos Private Foundation, Tom and Kathy Johnson, Margaret Kaiser, M.D., and Eric Tribbey, Paul and Willetta Mateer, Rebecca Rubenstein and Bennett Leaderman, and Stewart Funeral Home.

This project is partially supported by a grant from the Pennsylvania Performing Arts on Tour, a program developed and funded by the Heinz Endowments; William Penn Foundation; the Pennsylvania Council on the Arts, a state agency; and the Pew Charitable Trusts; and administered by the Mid Atlantic Arts Foundation.

The performance is also funded in part by a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts. Large gifts and grants have been given by Audrey and Howard Naylor, the Garrett County Arts Council, and the Maryland State Arts Council.

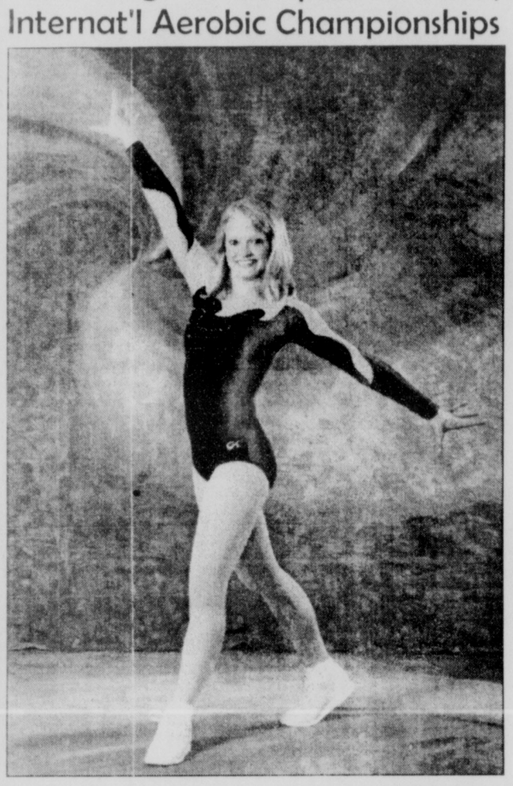
Sara King To Compete In Nat'l, Internat'l Aerobic Championships



Sara King, a sophomore at Southern High School, will compete in the United States National Aerobic Championships and the ANAC International Championships, July 20-28, in Las Vegas, Nev.

She will be in the individual female category, group II division (ages 15-17). Locally, King will perform for the public at Brenda's Body Shop, located at 111 Weber Road, Oakland, on Monday, July 14, at 7 p.m., and on Wednesday, July 16, at 10 a.m. The public is invited to attend.

"Sara has been training for several months on her strength, flexibility, and agility in order to execute her routine that is technically challenging and artistically inspiring," said coach and choreographer Alissa Garland.

King will represent the Garrett County Sportaerobic Team and Brenda's Body Shop/Fun & Fitness at the annual event.

"This year Sara is the only athlete we have competing from Garrett County," said coach Brenda Brosnihan. "We are proud of her independence and courage to travel to the event with just her parents to continue her pursuit of competition excellence. It will be a great experience for her and her family."

Sportaerobics (also known as aerobic gymnastics) is the only athletic sport founded as a fitness activity that today is recognized by the International Olympic Committee and is poised to become an Olympic sport, Brosnihan said. A typical sportaerobic competitive event is performed as a 1-minute, 45-five second choreographed routine. The athlete must demonstrate the components of fitness, including cardiovascular endurance, muscular strength and endurance, flexibility, balance, coordination, agility, speed, and power through continuous movement patterns.

Sara is the daughter of Brad and Shannon King, Oakland.

Maryland Deer Wasting Disease Tests Negative

Samples collected from more than 900 deer during the 2007-2008 Maryland deer hunting season showed no signs of chronic wasting disease (CWD). Recent laboratory test results confirmed no evidence of the disease in brain and lymph nodes collected from 983 deer. Additional samples from sick or injured deer also showed no signs of the disease. During the past six years, over 4600 Maryland deer have been tested and were CWD-free.

Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) biologists collected brain and lymph gland samples during the state's 2007-08 muzzleloader and firearm deer hunting seasons across every Maryland county.

"This is great news for Maryland hunters, landowners, farmers, and anyone who has an appreciation for a healthy, sustainable deer population," assistant Deer Project leader George Timko said. "Critical to the success of this project was the cooperation of our many partners in federal, state, and county government, as well as private landowners and farm managers. All of these individuals played an integral role in gathering the data that contributes to our informed response on this issue."

CWD is a neurological disease that is fatal to cervids. The disease attacks the brain and spinal cord of the animals and is believed to be caused by prions, or rogue proteins. CWD is classified as a transmissible spongiform encephalopathy similar to mad cow disease in cattle and scrapie in sheep. CWD is also similar to Creutzfeld-Jacobs disease in people, though it is not known to be transmissible to humans.

CWD was originally discovered in Colorado in 1967 and was thought to be a disease of western deer and elk. Since then, monitoring by state, federal, and provincial wildlife agencies has detected the disease in 14 states and two Canadian provinces. CWD has been confirmed in free-ranging cervids in Colorado, Wyoming, Nebraska, New Mexico, South Dakota, Wisconsin, Utah, Illinois, New York, Kansas, and West Virginia. It has also been found in captive cervids in Colorado, Wyoming, South Dakota, Montana, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Wisconsin, Minnesota, and New York.

In 2005, CWD was detected in white-tailed deer in central New York and approximately 10 miles from the Maryland border in West Virginia. Since it's detection in West Virginia, Maryland DNR biologists and partners increased ongoing surveillance in Allegany County near the West Virginia location. A total of 105 samples were collected in Allegany County in 2007-08. All samples tested negative for CWD.

Surveillance will continue in all 23 Maryland counties during the 2008-09 deer hunting seasons. Citizens are encouraged to report any deer that appears sick to the local DNR office. These animals, if exhibiting CWD-like symptoms and collected in a timely manner, will be examined by wildlife veterinarians and tested.

Additional CWD information is available on the DNR web site at www.dnr.state.md.us/wildlife/cwdinformation-.html.

Garrett Records Many Hits And Two Wins, But Loses Three In Legion Ball

The Garrett County American Legion baseball squad squeezed in a succession of games in the past week between rain storms. They began last Wednesday by defeating host Bridgeport, 12-7, then lost both games of a Sunday doubleheader with Elkins. The first game was lost in a wide 11-1 loss, and the second game was closer at 14-10. Garrett opened up a 20-4 whopping win over Fort Cumberland Post 13 on Tuesday at Legion Field, but was handed an 8-4 loss by Morgantown on Wednesday at West Virginia University.

Garrett's Jake Briley was on fire last Wednesday as he led Garrett to a 12-7 win with a pair of three-run home runs and a double. In contributing to Garrett's 14-hit attack, Corey Carr doubled and singled, while Tommie Reams and Tyler Stevens cracked two singles each.

Bridgeport was led at the plate by Zach Sacavich, who blasted a two-run home run and a run-scoring single. Paul Musgrave also hit a two-run homer, and pitcher Cam Gallaher contributed three singles, while Josh Utter singled twice.

Garrett's Matt Sisler allowed only two hits and shut out Bridgeport over the first five innings before giving way to Ashby.

Garrett couldn't withstand Elkins' big innings in Saturday's twinbill as Elkins scored seven runs in the bottom of the sixth to take the first game 11-1, and then scored 13 times in the fourth inning of a 14-10 win in the second.

In the opener, Ryan Ware led the Elkins fourth with a home run, then forced the 10-run rule in the sixth with a two-run double. Dylan Lewis and Spencer Weldey both had run-scoring doubles.

Garrett managed just three hits; two singles of which were Jake Briley's, and a double that came off Reece Duncan's bat.

Mark Harris pitched all six innings to get the win.

In the second game, Garrett held off Elkins and led 8-1 until Elkins' 13-run fourth, during which it reeled off five hits and took advantage of six walks, a hit batter, and an error. Garrett issued 13 bases on balls.

Chris Knight hit a grand slam in the fourth inning for Elkins, and Dylan Simmons smacked two singles with one RBI.

It wasn't Garrett's batting performance that held them back. Briley hit a solo home run in the first inning and another in the third for Garrett. Corey Carr hit a three-run shot in the first and a two-run blast in the sixth. Duncan had a double and a single, and Matt Sisler added a double, a single, and an RBI. Tommie Reams and Dan Warnick both doubled, and Jason Ashby finished with a two-run single.

Ashby led a parade of Garrett hits in Tuesday's 20-4 triumph. He totaled five singles and three RBI. Briley cleared the bases with a three-run homer and had an RBI single, Warnick stroked two doubles and a single, Carr had a double and two singles, and Nick Tressler finished with three singles and two RBI. Derek Taylor hit a three-run double, Kyle Gillum smacked a two-run double, and Duncan hit a pair of singles.

Garrett built up nine runs while holding off Cumberland through the first six innings. Cumberland cut into the gap with three runs in the seventh, and recorded its final run in the eighth inning. Garrett's biggest inning, with seven runs, was the last inning.

The game featured 38 hits, as Garrett finished with 22, and Fort Cumberland with 16.

Logan Harden gave a perfect performance at the plate for Cumberland by hitting all six of his chances. He recorded a double and five singles.

Morgantown broke a 2-2 third inning tie in Wednesday's contest with a big six-run third to defeat Garrett, 8-4.

Bryant Woods hit a three-run home run and a two-run single to lead Morgantown. Victor Sivaneri had three singles, while Benny Miller and Scott Dicken both hit two singles in the win.

Briley again paced Garrett as he stroked three singles and drove in two runs. Beasom followed with a double, and Tressler added an RBI single in Garrett's eight hits.

Garrett (15-5-1 overall) is 2-1 in the Mountain District's second season. It will host Fort Cumberland in a doubleheader on Sunday, at 2 p.m., at Garrett College. If Garrett (which won the first half) wins both games on Sunday, it will clinch the district title.

In a game of plentiful scoring, Casselman Valley team members pulled themselves to an 18-17 victory over American Legion in Rec League baseball action last Wednesday at Donahue Field. Casselman was scheduled to travel to Salisbury on Monday to take on Fort Ashby VFW, but results from that game were not received.

Casselman Valley (5-5 overall) sprang to a 12-0 lead by the second inning, but American Legion recorded 10 runs in the third to stay in the game.

Justin Rosenberger led Casselman Valley's 12 hits with a triple and a single while driving in two runs. Winning pitcher James Baer, Ryan Finzel, and Teddy Linton each contributed two singles, while Richard Vogt hit a three-run single and Aaron Beiler knocked in two runes with a base hit.

Cork's Slams KMK, Hartley's, Grant Co. In Recent Hot Stove

Cork's Cars beat KMK Insurance, 8-1, last Wednesday at Broadford Park, and Hartley's Pizza, 9-2, last Thursday evening. Blanked Grant County Mulch, 10-0, Monday at Broadford Park. Cork's was slated to travel to Hampshire Wednesday evening to take on Ridgeview, but results from that game were not received.

Corey Helbig, winning pitcher in last Thursday's contest, collected eight strikeouts while allowing six hits in a complete-game effort, and aided the win on offense with two hits, including a bases loaded home run. The other hit got him to base.

Sean Rollman added a triple as Cork's recorded seven hits.

McKee led Hartley's Pizza with a solo homer in the sixth inning, and Mathews had two base hits.

On Wednesday, Helbig hit a two-run home run and Tyler Sweitzer limited KMK Insurance to four hits, two singles coming from Dillsworth, as Cork's Cars won 8-1.

At the mound, Sweitzer struck out five and walked three. Further information about Wednesday's game were not received.

Only three Grant County Mulch hits penetrated Cork's defensive wall built by Nathan King and Sweitzer in Tuesday's five-inning 10-0 shutout.

Sweitzer opened the game and King came on in the fourth inning.

King made sure to balance his efforts from the offensive side by blasting a two-run homer and an RBI single. Cody Myers and Dylan Bennett both added RBI singles as Cork's totaled eight hits.

Van Meter doubled for Grant County (9-6).

Oakland Whips Clarksburg, Splits Win With Cumberland In Twinbill

The Oakland Pen-Mar League baseball team stymied Clarksburg in an 18-4 clobbering on Sunday at Garrett College, then split a pair of games with Cumberland in a Saturday doubleheader. Oakland won, 4-2, in the opener, but lost, 3-1, in game two.

Pitchers Scott Wildeson and Matt Miller teamed up to shut down Clarksburg in Saturday's win and allowed just five hits while their teammates pounded out 19 of their own.

Wildeson earned the win by striking out nine in four innings, while Miller fanned four in three innings of relief.

Bryan Lenhart had the big hit of the day with a two-run homer in the sixth inning. Oakland barely needed the extra help after its nine-run first inning.

Other leading hitters for Oakland were Danny Flores with three hits and four runs scored, Jamie Clark with two doubles and four RBI, and Chris Shirko with a two-run double and one run scored.

The first game of Saturday's doubleheader favored Oakland, 4-1, but Orioles pitcher Tony Fetters put a stop to Oakland's run scoring after the first inning for a 3-1 victory.

In the opening game, Oakland allowed Cumberland a 2-0 lead after the first inning, then Torrey Poholsky

FIRECRACKER REGATTA
by Dan Muss

As July 4th rolls around, we remember the guts those signers had; they were, in fact, committing treason against England, and if the new colonies were to lose the impending war, their necks were literally on the line. If not for the help of France we would have lost that war. But we also know that when the 4th of July comes, summer is really here, with light winds and crackling thunderstorms.

That's what we had on Saturday, and the principal race officer (PRO) for the regatta, Dave Mahan, postponed while the fleets slowly inched their way out to the racecourse. I thought the races would be canceled for no wind, but a slight breeze did finally come up, and Mahan took down the postponement flag and started the Championship fleet.

My regular crew, Fearless Marilyn Filemyr, was off with her family, and I had a wonderfully able Debbie McCombs as her replacement.

The course had been set for a westerly wind, but by the time we started, the wind had shifted far enough to the south so that we could fetch the windward mark on the port tack. That made the pin end very heavily favored. I had timed the line to be about a minute, but with wind so light we started down the line on the starboard tack at 2 minutes. I was surprised to see the rest of the fleet near the committee boat. We got to the pin 1 minute too early, so we bore off for 20 seconds, turned, and headed back to cross the line on port tack as the horn sounded. It was a great start, but by the time we got to the mark we were all together with the championship boats with Peters in the lead, then Rissell and us. On the downwind leg I elected not to fly the spinnaker as did Rissell, but Peters put his up.

At the leeward mark the combined fleets rounded en masse with a lot of yelling. We had passed Peters, but he had room at the mark. We were in the middle of the pack and, by some miracle, managed to get around without touching anyone. On the last beat to the finish, Peters, out ahead, elected not to cover us as we and Rissell took a classic unfavorable tack away from the finish line and caught a slightly fresher breeze. We nosed out Rissell by half a boat length to win.

On Sunday Debbie and I headed out to the course in near perfect racing conditions, with wind ESE, about 5-8 mph, and the PRO set a perfect course for us. We had a messy start, but led throughout the race until the second windward leg when I completely lost concentration to over stand the mark by about 200' while Peters and Miller passed us. It was Peters, Miller, Muss, and Rissell on the last downwind leg. We closed the gap a bit downwind, made up more on the mark rounding, then managed to take her to finish second behind Peters.

It was a great weekend of sailing, and it was a pleasure to have Debbie sailing with me.

Wisp Edges Cresaptown, Routs Piney Mountain To Sit At 11-4

The Hot Stove League baseball squad sponsored by the Wisp improved to 11-4 this week after defeating the Cresaptown Eagles by a score of 5-3 on Monday at Bel Air Field, then hosting Piney Mountain at Northern on Tuesday for a 14-3 thrashing.

Wisp broke a 2-2 first inning tie with two runs in the second en route to Monday's 5-3 win over the Cresaptown Eagles.

Andy Umbel led the Wisp at-bats with two singles and two RBI, while Alex Smith added two hits and an RBI. Pat Sines drove in a run on a single.

Wisp out-hit Cresaptown, 9-3, and the two teams matched with two errors each.

Milborne was 2-for-3 with an RBI for the Eagles.

Umbel recorded seven strikeouts and walked one for the win.

Wisp didn't hold back Tuesday evening when it blasted Piney Mountain out of the ball field in the 14-3 victory.

The Wisp scored at least two runs every time it batted. Smither went 3-for-4 with three RBI, Mike Burns went 3-for-3 with all singles to drive in two runs, and Josh Mason hit a double and a single to knock in two.

Smith earned the win after a complete-game effort in which he allowed just two hits and three runs.

One of Piney Mountain's two hits was a third-inning solo homer by H. Booth.

The Wisp plays Barney's Drywall in Flinstone on Friday.

MADE IN THE U.S.A.
by Billie Letts
c. 2008, Grand Central Publishing, $24.99, 355 pages
Review by Terri Schlichenmeyer

When you were a teenager and living under your parents' medieval rules, you probably couldn't wait to grow up, get an apartment, and have a life of your own. Once you grew up, got an apartment, and had a life of your own, you realized that things weren't really much different. You still had certain responsibilities, you had to do the same chores (for yourself, this time) and, aside from the bumps and potholes you learned from, you were still the same you.

But what if life shoved you out of the nest before you were ready? In the new novel Made in the U.S.A. by Billie Letts, two kids strike out on their own. If they don't, they might not be able to stay together.

Lutie McFee had dreams once, but they didn't matter any more. There was a time when she thought she might be an Olympic gymnast. She was good enough. Even her coach said so.

But that was all before the totally untrue rumor that got her kicked off the team and made her classmates whisper in the hallways. That was before Lutie's father left Lutie and her brother Fate in the care of Floy, his overweight, wheezing girlfriend. It was before Floy dropped dead in checkout aisle 3 at Wal-Mart.

And it was before 15-year-old Lutie packed up everything she owned in a suitcase, pulled together all the change she could find, made Fate choose his favorite books, put everything in the trunk of Floy's beat-up Pontiac, and left Spearfish, South Dakota, with Fate in the passenger seat. They were headed for Las Vegas, and the last-known address of their alcoholic father.

But if getting to Vegas without much money was hard, living there was harder. Jobs were impossible to find for a 15-year-old. Apartments were expensive and required hundreds of dollars in deposits. Finding enough to eat was a big concern, and the threat of getting caught – and separated - was always present.

There was one good thing, though: Lutie and Fate had a benefactor. Someone was watching out for them, directing them to safety, leaving small gifts of food. The guardian angel seemed to want to protect the kids from harm.

But who was saving whom?

I liked this novel, but I didn't. On one hand, it seemed that two or three novels were squooshed into one here, and Made in the U.S.A. kept getting more and more outrageous. But then, it's a novel, right? And novels don't always have to make sense.

On the other hand, I absolutely loved Lutie, and I loved the way that author Billie Letts gave Lutie a faux-brave, brassy, brash, scared-little-girl countenance. I loved Fate and his sixth-grade-old-man personality. And while yes, this story was a little far-fetched, I admittedly never knew where it was going next. That surely kept me reading.

If you're in need of a good vacation book and you don't mind some slightly outlandish plot twists, grab this book and enjoy. Made in the U.S.A. is made for novel lovers.

Dear Sheila:
We read your column and think you are silly to give ideas away so I have a silly problem for you.
I have all these vases that I've gotten flowers in over the years and while I love live flowers they are messy and require more time than I have. Do you think it is appropriate to use fake flowers in a formal setting?
Can't Smell the Roses

Dear Can't:
Here is a nice easy trick. Put some stones or marbles in the bottom of the vase or vases and add some nice classy silk flowers. Makes for a nice arrangement and looks great in a formal setting. Make sure your silks are quality and not ordered in by the container-load. 50% off right now.

The Times Have Changed Since Bill's Marine Service Founding

by Glenn Tolbert

There was a time when only a very few had the foresight to see what was economically possible on Deep Creek Lake.

Bill Sisler, now 71 years old, is one of those people. And the time was in the late 1950s. That was when Sisler opened his business and called it "Bill's Marine Service."

Fifty years later, it still bears the name, but the name is just about all that it still shares with those times, as the development at the lake has grown tremendously over the past five decades.

Sisler says that he was always attracted to the water. When asked about his earliest memories, he says that they revolve around fishing with his grandfather in the Friendsville area.

He also remembers working for Bowman's Marina, doing odd jobs around the place. Then in 1958 he opened his own place – calling it Bill's Marine Service and offering repair service on boats.

When he began getting franchises on certain model boats, he says that the business "took off." That was in the 1960s, and the rest, as they say, is history.

Demands for boats, servicing, and merchandise greatly increased over the years, and Sisler felt that the business was getting too big for him to run at his age. So in 2003 he sold it to Phil St. Moritz, an entrepreneur who owns a number of businesses in the lake area and in Pittsburgh.

St. Moritz came to Deep Creek Lake in 1977.

"Those were the days when Deep Creek Lake really was the region's 'best kept secret,'" he said.

St. Moritz attributes the dramatic change in the area to the year 1985 when U. S. Route 68 was completed to and through Garrett County, and "really opened things up."

Always the optimist, St. Moritz sees the increase in fuel prices and the ever-growing cost of air travel as pluses for Garrett County.

"People will get used to high gas prices, much like they have in Europe and other places, and Garrett County is only a couple of hours' drive from several major metro areas," he said.

He added that economic status of people visiting the area has changed over the years.

IT WAS MANY YEARS AGO when an artist took brush in hand to create this rendering of Bill's Marine Service at Deep Creek Lake. It was started in 1958 by Bill Sisler, who is pictured below (right) with present owner Phil St. Moritz, at a time when there was little business development of any kind at the lake. A special celebration is being hosted by St. Moritz this Saturday evening. See story.

"Between 1985 and 1986, more affluent people began coming here," he said. "Before that it was primarily steel workers and other service workers from Pittsburgh. We still have a lot of folks coming from the Pittsburgh area, but there's a definite trend toward the well-heeled D.C. and northern Virginia people."

Moritz says that, despite all the development in recent years, the area still "maintains a mountain flavor."

"People from the cities who are under a lot of stress come up here and find some peace," he said, adding that he is "excited" about the development of an outdoor adventure center at Garrett College, construction of a water park, and the continued expansion of Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

At the moment, however, St. Moritz's attention is focused squarely on a celebration of the 50th anniversary of Bill's Marine Service, an event scheduled for this Saturday, July 12, that will include a barbecue buffet (by invitation).

"It's not many businesses that can say they've been around for 50 years," he said, adding that the business started by one man 50 years ago this week now boasts 32 full-time employees.

Labor Of Love

the reader could "hear" the author's voice.

"My biggest worry was that readers who knew me would say that it was not my 'voice' in the book," Rooney said. "So I gave excerpts to my friends, including Garrett County's Judge Thayer and Troy Gnegy, to get their opinions. They really liked what they read, and said that reading it was like sitting down and talking with me, so I was very pleased about that."

Art Jr., the second eldest of the five Rooney brothers, played football for St. Vincent College in Latrobe, Pa., graduated with a degree in history, studied drama at Carnegie Tech and in New York City, served in the U.S. Marine Corps Reserves, and then joined the Steelers organization as personnel director. He supervised the scouting and drafting of the Steelers' first four Super Bowl championship teams in the 1970s.

Ruanaidh consists of 74 chapters, each divided into memoirs or anecdotal segments, some shorter than one page.

"I do 'jump around' a little bit in the book, and it can be read in pieces," Rooney said, "but it is written in chronological order."

Rooney will be signing copies of his book at the Book Mark'et in Oakland on Saturday, July 19, which are from a second printing.

"The first printing sold out quickly. I was shocked, but delighted, that there would be so much interest," said Rooney. "So we arranged for a second printing of 3,000 copies."

The book includes an account of when the Rooney brothers were "banned" from Frostburg after getting into a fistfight with the Frostburg players, who evidently were taunting the Rooneys with "anti-Catholic" jibes.

In that 1924 season, Art Rooney had a .369 batting average for the Stogies, second best on the team, and brother Dan hit .359. Dan, incidentally, would go on to become a Franciscan priest.

Rooney was a member of the varsity teams in football, basketball, baseball, and track at Indiana University of Pennsylvania (then Indiana Normal School), and was also an outstanding boxer.

"Dad loved all sports and was very good at playing them, but baseball was really his passion," Art Jr. said. "So that's why I chose to use that photo on the cover of the book."

Ruanaidh has drawn lots of praise from sports writers and editors from around the country, including:

"A terrific read! Funny stories, sad ones ... a unique look back at the history of the Pittsburgh Steelers and their beloved patriarch." Tom Danyluk, Pro Football Weekly.

"Art Rooney Jr. has produced an encyclopedic memoir that is informative and entertaining and populated by more real-life characters, including the Chief of the Steelers tribe, than Damon Runyon ever managed to fictionalize." John Troan, retired editor of The Pittsburgh Press.

"I've found over the years that Steeler fans are among the most intense readers and collectors of good stories about their beloved team, and this book is overflowing with those stories." Peter King, Sports Illustrated.

"A thoughtful and interestingly detailed history of the Pittsburgh Steelers by Art Rooney Jr., the team's vice president, who was the mastermind of arguably the greatest player draft in NFL history." William Buchan-an, retired Boston Globe reporter.

"A warm and witty accounting of the life and times of Art Rooney, NFL pioneer and perhaps America's greatest sportsman and artisan." Mort Sharnik, former associate editor, Sports Illustrated.

The July 19 book signing at the Book Mark'et will begin at 11:30 a.m.

Rooney has been married to married Kathleen (Kay) Kumer for over 46 years. They are the parents of four children and have six grandchildren. When they are not at their Deep Creek Lake house, they reside in Mt. Lebanon, Pa., near Pittsburgh.

UNDERWATER ROBOTS BUILT – Underwater robots were recently built at the SeaPerch Underwater Adventure Camp at the GEARS facility in Accident. After spending three days building their robots from scratch, the campers spent two days performing missions in a tank donated by Garrett Container Systems. The missions included a treasure hunt, which involved robots attempting to retrieve coins off the bottom of the tank as quickly as possible; a teamwork competition where pairs of robots attempted to herd obstacles to their side of the tank; an underwater docking mission where the robots collected floats from the surface and delivered them to an underwater docking station; and an environmental cleanup mission where the robots collected soda cans from the bottom of the tank. GEARS will be starting an underwater robot club soon which will met on a regular basis to experiment and build underwater robots. For more information, persons may contact Phil Malone at 301-387-2331 or visit www.GEARSinc.org. Pictured above are the campers with their SeaPerch robots. In the front, from left, are helpers Shaun Adams, Jarad Arnold, and Nick McGettigan. In the second row are mentor Phil Malone with campers Zack Shreve, Ben Nairn, Kendrick Bender, Jeff Bender, T.J. Hooks, and Eliza and Peter Price. In the back row are campers Blake Moore, Justin Zeifel, Aaron and Levi Lantz, Gordon Hasslinger, Luke Valenta, Derrick Maust, Sam Thomas, and mentor Arlene Lantz. Not pictured are Willie Lantz, mentor; Stephanie Lee, helper; and Kevin Haenftling, camper. At right are two campers working together to fly their robot. Peter Price (right) is shown controlling the robot while Derrick Maust controls the tether to ensure that the robot is free to fly. Below are two helpers testing one of the SeaPerch robots in the new hexagonal test tank. Nick McGettigan (left) is controlling the robot while Jared Arnold manages the tether cable.

Honeybees Successfully Relocated From Garage In Grantsville Area

by Yvonne Durst

Grantsville area residents Tim and Kim Glotfelty recently learned that it is possible to remove honeybees from buildings without tearing the walls apart. The bees had moved into the wall of their garage at Bruner's Store south of Grantsville. They had adopted the building and had been established there for five years. The Glotfeltys wanted them out, but did not want to go through a major building project.

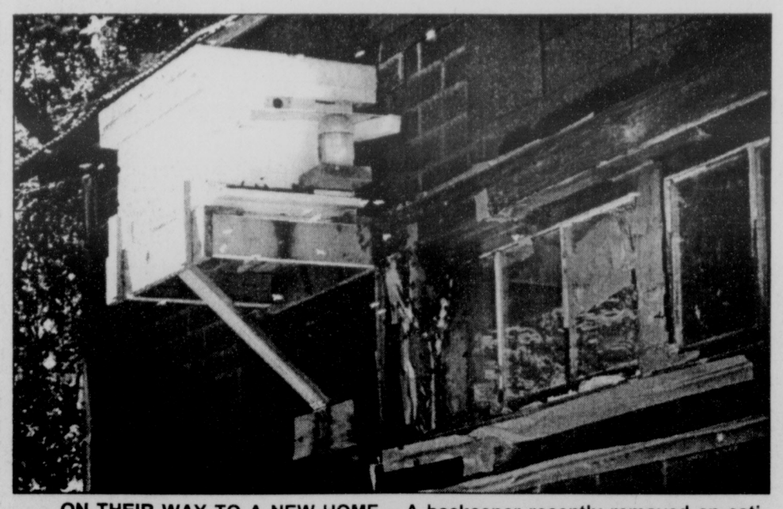
They consulted a beekeeper and agreed on a plan. When the weather warmed up enough, the removal process began.

First, a stand was nailed onto the outside of the wall, slightly higher than the opening the bees were using. It was about eight feet above the ground. Since the building was old, the Glotfeltys did not mind the nails in the wall.

The beekeeper then placed an eight-frame beehive on the stand. It contained two frames of brood and bees, along with six frames of foundation. Some of the brood consisted of eggs that were two to three days old, and the beekeeper had made certain that there was no queen in the hive.

The brood and bees in the hive were gently sprayed with a mixture of sugar water and essence of peppermint to mask the pheromone of their queen. Sugar water was also placed at the entrance.

Then, using duct tape, staples, and old pieces of fabric, the beekeeper closed up all the cracks in the wall that the Glotfelty bees were using except one, measuring about two inches by three-quarters of an inch.



ON THEIR WAY TO A NEW HOME – A beekeeper recently removed an estimated 60,000 honeybees from the wall of a garage near Grantsville. The bees had lived there for about five years, and were moved to a new hive over the course of nine days. See feature story.

Next, a "funnel" was placed over the small opening. The cone-shaped device was made of aluminum screen such as is used for screen doors. From one side, eight or nine strands of wire had been threaded off. This formed tiny "fingers." When shaped into a funnel, it allowed only two or three bees to exit at the same time, but none could return. The funnel had been placed so the small end with the fingers pointed upward.

The setup was done in the morning, and even before the beekeeper could place the funnel, bees were on their way out to look for nectar and pollen. Soon, heavy with their find, they were ready to go back in, but of course, they couldn't.

By evening, thousands of bees, including hundreds of drones, were hanging from the funnel and clinging onto the tape. Together, they loosened the tape enough to make two openings so some of them could get back inside. This called for more duct tape and staples.

Soon, the weary bees started going into the hive that the beekeeper had brought for them. Some raised their abdomens to release their pheromone, fanning it into the air so other bees would know that this was their new home.

After two days, there were so many bees that they were overcrowded. The beekeeper removed the hive and replaced it with another, which also began filling with bees. There were so many that a super had to be added.

A day later, the beekeeper saw that there were almost no bees coming out of the funnel. The beekeeper removed the funnel, which allowed the bees to reenter the wall.

While it may seem that this defeated the purpose of the plan, it was important that the bees be allowed to reenter their home so they could remove the honey that they had stored there. Had the honey been left in the wall, wax moths would most likely have eaten the wax comb, or age would have caused it to deteriorate. Then, all the honey would flow, which could damage the walls, even causing them to burst. This early in the year, there probably was not much honey to retrieve, which is one of the main reasons the beekeeper started removing the bees at this time.

Rain hindered the removal process, so what might have taken about four or five days took nine days. Most of those days, the beekeeper went to the site twice a day.

"Bears in the area were a concern, but with heaven's blessings, hard work, and knowledge of honeybees, all went well," she said. "Besides the two hives and super, a paper bag was filled with bees, too."

The beekeeper estimates that a total of 60,000 bees came out of the building. However, the queen remained inside with the hive.

"She will die, along with the nurse bees, guard bees, and brood still inside," the beekeeper said.

She noted that she made sure that some of the brood consisted of eggs that were two to three days old.

"After the eggs hatch into larva, the bees will feed them royal jelly," she said. "Then the larva will develop into new queens. The dominant queen will then take over the colony. It is all so amazing!"

The beekeeper noted that not all beekeepers would be willing to remove bees in the manner described.

"With the diseases that honeybees have, bringing feral bees to an apiary is a risk," she said. "Also, the method used for the Glotfelty bees might not be safe on walls that are a second story or higher, so tearing a wall apart might be the only alternative."

The Glotfeltys realize the importance of the honeybee to agriculture and are happy that their bees will be cared for in a new home. However, Kim noted that she will miss them.

Nearly One Third Seniors Have Not Filed For Rebate

According to IRS information, 31%, or 97,138, Marylanders who receive Social Security or veterans benefits have not yet filed for their economic stimulus payments. Three Maryland ZIP codes – two in Baltimore City and one in Dundalk – were reported to be among the top 100 ZIP codes nationwide with the largest number of SSA/VA recipients remaining to file.

"I want everyone who is eligible to file for the economic stimulus payments and to take full advantage of the significant benefits available to them," said Gloria Lawlah, secretary of the Maryland Department of Aging. "With the rising cost of everything from gas to groceries and prescriptions, the stimulus payments can help provide some much-needed financial relief."

Persons who missed the April 15 filing date still have time to file, and should file as soon as possible; but to be sure they receive the stimulus payment in 2008, they must file Form 1040A with the IRS by October 15, 2008. Form 1040A requires only a few lines filled in to complete the form, and they can also be filed electronically for free. The public is encouraged to help relatives and friends by making them aware of the payments or helping them fill out Form 1040A.

If help is needed to complete Form 1040A, individuals can receive assistance by going to www.irs.gov or calling the IRS hotline at 1-866-234-2942, or by contacting one of the following organizations: AARP Tax Aide Program at 1-888-687-2277 or www.AARPTax-Aide; Maryland Senior Legal Hotline at 1-800-896-4213, ext. 7750, or www.seniorlegalhotline.org; or the Maryland Department of Aging at 1-800-243-3425 or www.mdoa.state.md.us.

The IRS reminds taxpayers it does not gather information for stimulus payments over the telephone and it does not send unsolicited e-mails to taxpayers about tax account matters. Persons who receive an unsolicited e-mail from someone claiming to be from the IRS should not click on any links. Instead, it should be forwarded to phishing@irs.gov and then deleted. The only official IRS web site is located at www.irs.gov.

The IRS also encourages older adults who may receive stimulus payments to complete the direct deposit information on Form 1040A if they have a bank account. Direct deposit is the easiest and fastest way to receive a payment and prevent theft.

Lightening flashes across the sky. Thunder unleashes its ominous rumblings. The first spatter of rain falls briskly on the ground.

In the forest, the wind begins an eerie song in the swaying tops of tall pines. Sullen banks of clouds blanket the pale moon. The creatures of the woods scurry to their dens to wait out the approaching storm. They find a place of refuge.

In our lives there will always be storms that arise; there will always be anxiety and fear. Where do we turn for comfort and safety? Where is our refuge?

God's House offers protection against the adversities of life. A community of the faithful can provide solace and peace in the presence of grief and fear.

Come into the House of the Lord while the storm is raging and find your refuge.

Don't Drive, Be Silent, and Stop Spending

When is the last time we went a whole day without being in a car, or without talking, or even without shopping? Most of us do these things on a daily basis, and can hardly imagine life without a motorized vehicle, talking, or buying something. However, we may want to try going a day or two without driving our car, without talking, or without buying anything. And although these things are not inherently bad, we may see some good consequences from taking a temporary break from these things. Besides benefiting from walking, not driving a car may be a good way for us to slow down and smell the flowers. Life at 3 miles per hour is a lot slower than at 60 miles per hour, and we may be pleasantly surprised at the different things we notice when we are walking or riding our bike. As for being silent, this may give us a chance to really listen to those around us, and if we're a big talker, our friends and family may consider our silence a welcomed chance for them to get a word or two in. But the real gift may be to us, in the form of a peaceful silence and the chance to really hear what is going on around us. Finally, by not buying anything, we just might see that we too often rationalize about the things that we want by saying that we need them, when in fact we need very little to make it through the day. We may even want to consider giving the money we save on gas and shopping to a charity or to someone who really does need it. And, our silence might also be turned into the gift of listening to someone who is lonely or needs an attentive ear.

For everything there is a season, and a time for every matter under heaven...a time to keep silence, and a time to speak.

R.S.V. Ecclesiastes 3:1, 7

Vitamin Used to Treat High Cholesterol

Niacin (also called vitamin B3) is found in numerous foods including meat, eggs, milk, fish, green vegetables, and yeast. Niacin is also made in the body from tryptophan consumed in the diet. It is often combined with other B vitamins and sold as a dietary supplement. Niacin is essential for the processing of calories from food into energy. A deficiency of niacin can cause a condition known as pellagra. Pellagra may appear as skin rashes, stomach problems, memory loss, and nervous system problems.

Niacin is an effective treatment for high cholesterol. It lowers LDL or "bad" cholesterol and raises HDL or "good" cholesterol. Recently, researchers discovered the exact mechanism of niacin's effects on HDL cholesterol levels. Niacin appears to reduce the amount of a substance called beta chain on the surface of liver cells. This beta chain removes HDL from the blood. By reducing the amount of beta chain on liver cells, niacin allows more HDL to remain in the blood. High levels of HDL in the blood help the body eliminate LDL. Common side effects of niacin are flushing, dry skin, and itching.

What Brown can do for you – and for CNN

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Q: I would like to know if Campbell Brown is working, when she had her baby, and if it was a boy or a girl. –Rachelle Merrell, Corning, N.Y.

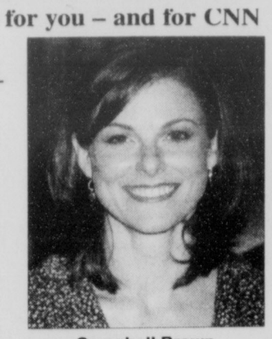
A: She definitely is working, though her self-titled CNN program has yet to become a regular element of the news network's weeknight lineup. The former NBC correspondent has been very involved in the election-season coverage at her "new home," and she also played a prominent role in its reporting on the recent death of her former NBC colleague Tim Russert. She touchingly recalled how he had sent a letter to her son – Eli, born to her and husband Dan Senor last Dec. 18 – welcoming the child to the world.

Q: What happened to the Showtime series "The Tudors"? Is it over, or will it return? It didn't seem to be at the end of the story. –Alva Gunn, Visalia, Calif.

A: No, it wasn't, since King Henry VIII (played by Jonathan Rhys Meyers) still has some reasons for dissatisfaction yet to be dramatized. The cable network renewed the show even before its recent second season was over; new episodes are currently being filmed in Dublin, Ireland, and you can expect to see them during the first half of 2009.

Q: I really enjoyed the new "Knight Rider" on NBC. Please tell me there will be more to come. –Billy Robinson, Pine Bluff, Ark.

A: OK, we will. It seemed there was little doubt, after the promising ratings the February movie earned, that the series would get a revival come fall.



Campbell Brown

And it will: When the weekly version begins Sept. 24, Justin Bruening, Deanna Russo, Sydney Tamiia Poitier (yes, the daughter of THAT Sidney Poitier), Bruce Davison and the latest incarnation of supercar K.I.T.T. all will return. There was no firm word at this writing about the degree of original "Knight Rider" star David Hasselhoff's participation.

Q: I always liked "The Great Waldo Pepper." Are there any plans to bring it back out on DVD? –Gary Harmon, Seattle

A: Your use of "back out" suggests you know the 1975 movie – with Robert Redford in the title role of a biplane pilot – already was released on disc, in 1998 to be exact. The DVD rights to some titles (such as that one) originally distributed by Goodtimes Home Video have reverted to Universal Studios Home Video, but that firm has announced no plans to reissue the Redford film.

Dogs Need Love, Not Treats

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: I just read your column about rewarding dogs with "treats" for good behavior. Treats are fine if you're teaching them to sit up, roll over or jump through a hoop. In my almost 80 years I've had many dogs that were all well-mannered without giving them treats. A pleasant voice, a big hug, a pat on the head and "good dog" work nicely as a reward.

My reasoning is that you don't give your children candy when you are teaching them proper behavior. My dogs get treats when they least expect one. That's a "treat"!

I've shown dogs in dog shows and never "baited" them with treats. Being in the show was a treat, because we were having fun. We won many ribbons and "Best of Breed" without them. Being a champion is its own reward!

Dogs are smart, and they sense your feelings, whether it's fear, anxiety or pleasure, and react to your attitude and body language. Kindness, patience and consistency work well without using treats.

The real reward for a dog is being loved and cared for. Sincerely, — K.H.S., Fairport, N.Y.

DEAR K.H.S.: Well, I can't argue with that. Great advice, and something to consider when training your dog, whether for basic obedience or for a show. You said it all, and I thank you!

Strange BUT TRUE

• If your take-home pay leaves something to be desired, you probably won't be surprised to learn that the English word "salary" is derived from the Latin word for the allowance provided to Roman soldiers to buy salt.

• It was Academy Award-winning comedian and actor George Burns who made the following sage observation: "You know you're getting old when you stoop to tie your shoes and wonder what else you can do while you're down there."

• Tablecloths today are lovely linens that enhance the appearance of a table, but that wasn't originally their sole use. At one time, tablecloths were meant to serve as towels; after dinner, guests would use it to wipe their hands and faces.

• If you were to dine at an ancient Roman feast, you might find flamingo tongues on the menu — they were considered a delicacy.

• In 1981, two minor-league baseball teams, the Rochester Red Wings and the Pawtucket Red Sox, played what might be the longest game in baseball history — a full 32 innings. And after all that, there wasn't even a winner: The game ended in a 2-2 tie.

• If you needed more evidence that we live in a materialistic society, consider this: Statistics show that more people in America go to shopping malls every week than attend churches and synagogues.

• The long tails that are spread out in the sky behind comets are vapor trails, but the vapor is spread pretty thin. In fact, if you condensed all the vapor in a 10,000-mile vapor trail, it would take up less than 1 cubic inch.

In Memory of

Jaron Michael Fulmer

May 29, 1996 – July 12, 2001

Don't think of him as gone away,
His journey's just begun.
Life holds so many facets,
This earth is only one.
Just think of him as resting
From the sorrows and the tears
In a place of warmth and comfort,
Where there are no days and years.
Think how he must be wishing
That we could know today
How nothing but our sadness
Can really pass away.
And think of him as living
In the hearts of those he touched,
For nothing loved is ever lost,
And he was loved so much.

Love,

Mommy, Daddy, Ayla, Justyce, Grandma, Pop, Uncle Greg, Aunt Julie, LvyLynn, Quinn, & Rylee

DRIPPING AIR CONDITIONERS

Q. Why do air conditioners drip? How can I prevent it from happening or stop it after it starts? I am collecting the water in a bucket and throwing it away each morning. It is about 3 measuring cups worth. Will my electrical bill go up significantly because of the dripping water?

A. If an air conditioner drips, that tells you it probably wasn't installed quite right. In a proper installation, all the water that condenses goes out through a drain to the external world. If the A/C is dripping inside, it means the water is not being given a clear path to exit. If the water just drips on the floor or carpet, it will evaporate back into the air, which defeats the purpose of the A/C. That's what you have to avoid.

One typical cause of dripping water is that an A/C unit might not be level. If it's tilted at the wrong angle, water dripping into a shallow pan could overflow on the wrong side and dribble down into the room. Another common problem is that the drain hose is plugged up. Drain hoses may retain minor deposits of chemicals from last year, and those will turn into a hard coating over the winter. Add some dust, and over time, the drain hose will get "clogged arteries."

Your short-term solution of collecting water in a bucket solves the problem – unless you forget to empty it.

A basement dehumidifier acts in a way very similar to an air conditioner; but the A/C does two things: it takes water out of the air, and it lowers the temperature of the air. A dehumidifier merely collects condensed water in a bucket, which must be emptied periodically. In some arrangements, a hose runs from the bucket to a drain in the floor of the basement, so it doesn't require attention.

In either case, the electricity you're buying is used to take water vapor out of the air, by condensing it to liquid water. Lowering humidity is an essential part of what an A/C does. You want to avoid having to pay the electric company to remove the same water over and over again. Try not to let the collected water re-evaporate inside your home.

If water collects in a bucket and you empty the bucket daily, there will be very little evaporation from that standing water back into the air. (A typical home has other standing containers of water, such as a toilet with the lid up.) You needn't be fanatical about emptying the water bucket all the time.

Water vapor is only 1 or 2% of air, but when water vapor condenses to liquid, there is a very large Latent Heat of Vaporization that must be provided – which is much of the work that an A/C or dehumidifier does, which in turn is why the electric company gets paid. Consequently, it's more expensive to run an A/C on a humid day than on an average day. Air is made up of 77% N2 and 21% O2, and reducing the temperature 10° F has a finite electrical cost. However, that cost of cooling is roughly similar to the cost of condensing water.

There are places in climates with extremely low humidity where evaporating water actually helps cool a room. In Arizona, a wet towel spread out on a kitchen counter-top will soon be dry, and as the water evaporates, it takes away energy from the surroundings – a cooling effect. The slight increase in humidity is helpful in a dry climate. But this trick doesn't work in most of America. We generally want less humidity.

DUI, DWI Arrests Conducted Over Holiday Weekend

Two separate traffic stops conducted over the weekend resulted in the arrests of two Oakland men for driving under the influence of alcohol.

A Garrett County sheriff's deputy was traveling on Sand Flat Road in the area of Boy Scout Road on Saturday, when he observed what appeared to be illegal fireworks thrown from a moving vehicle. He executed the stop and made contact with the driver, Robert Hengust Stewart, 25.

After the investigation was completed by the deputy, Stewart was placed under arrest and charged with DUI and driving while impaired. He was taken to the Garrett County Detention Center to await a bond hearing.

In a separate incident, a GCSO deputy made a traffic stop on Sunday on a 2006 Lincoln passenger car. The stop was conducted at the intersection of Garrett Highway and Sand Flat Road after the deputy observed the vehicle crossing over the center yellow lines and the white line on the shoulder of the roadway.

Contact was made with the driver, Robert Earl Heilig, 51, and the deputy detected the odor of alcohol about his breath. Heilig did not perform field sobriety tests to the satisfaction of the deputy and was placed under arrest.

He was charged with DUI, DWI, DUI per se, and failing to drive right of center. He was later released.

To Our Dearest Friends & Family of Mac Flanagan,

To all of who comforted our family through loving thoughts, prayers, visits and gifts, we are so grateful! Your overwhelming kindness has made us so aware of how much he meant to all of us, family and community alike. Although his presence is sorely missed, the bits and pieces of him that we see daily, in the people and places that he touched, give us comfort. Pappy Mac lives on through us all, and we look forward to seeing him again by that heavenly fishin' hole; hat cocked to one side, fishing pole in his hand, stringer of fish in his bucket, wink in his eye and a wide grin on his face. O Happy Day!

Dear Lana and Larry,
The last thing I wanted to think about doing in the near future was to make plans for selling the farm, which had been in the Beachy family for three generations. The accidental death of my brother changed everything. . . In January 2008 we listed it with Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty and talked with Lana and Larry Roby. This was not the best time of the year to sell a farm and winter had set in with gusto in Garrett County. Lana and Larry didn't let this stop them. They put on their snow boots and were on the farm taking pictures and . . . looking over the acreage and buildings. . . Even though [my sister] and I live in Florida, we were kept informed of all developments. Ideas were exchanged and welcomed. We knew at all times that Lana and Larry were making progress from their frequent calls . . . Then came the call we had been looking for and the new owner of the Beachy farm is busy now making repairs as needed and planning on filling the barn with the new crop of hay. Thank you Lana and Larry for your very professional job of finding just the right buyer for the farm.

Lana and Larry Roby, Sales Associates

Sincerely, June B. Beckett

Medicines for Problem Sleeping

Insomnia is a condition in which the person affected has difficulty falling asleep or difficulty staying asleep. A lack of adequate sleep can lead to negative effects on our health. For example, the immune system may be adversely affected, as sleep plays a role in supporting the proper functioning or the immune system. It is estimated that one in 10 Americans is affected. There are a variety of factors that may contribute to sleepless nights, including stress, anxiety, and depression. Certain drugs, such as some antidepressants and over-the-counter medications containing caffeine, may also contribute to insomnia.

Although sleep may be improved by behavioral therapies, medications are available to temporarily aid in improving sleep. Medications available with a prescription to improve sleep include zolpidem, eszopiclone, zaleplon, and ramelteon. These drugs usually recommended for use on a short-term basis while combined with behavioral therapies. Trazodine, an antidepressant, is also available for aiding sleep in persons affected by insomnia. Certain over-the-counter antihistamines may cause drowsiness and may be used occasionally. However, such drugs often do not continue to have the same effect with repeated use.

TRYING TO WIN $10,000 is a project that is under way right now at Rowlesburg School, and everyone can assist the 147 students (K-8) in that effort simply by going online and voting. The national contest is being sponsored by Big Lots, and when the votes are all counted, 26 schools throughout the country will share a total of $80,000, with the top vote-getter receiving $10,000. "Of the 147 students who attend Rowlesburg School, 75% live below the poverty level," stated Jennifer Short, a resident of Terra Alta who is spearheading the effort. "Each teacher receives only $80 a year for classroom supplies. Band and art have no funding. The playground needs replaced. Basic supplies such as copy paper, scissors, and even Crayons are needed." Persons wishing to support this project need simply go online to www.lots2give.com and cast their votes. Individuals may vote three times each day until the contest ends on July 22. "Voting costs nothing and takes a matter of seconds, and obviously, winning would better the educational lives of these area children." Also on the site persons can view a video about Rowlesburg School that was made by Short. Pictured above are Rowlesburg students Tyler Goff (left) and Jacob Loughry.

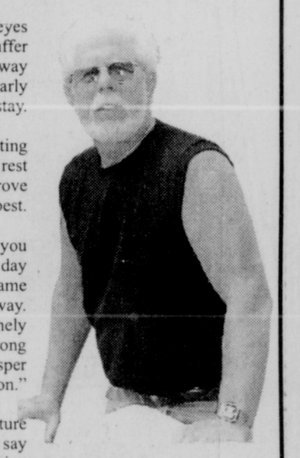
God Saw You Getting Tired

God saw you getting tired
And a cure was not to be
So He put His arms around you
And whispered "Come with Me."



With tearful eyes
We watched you suffer
And saw you fade away
Although we loved you dearly
We could not make you stay.

A golden heart stopped beating
Hard working hands at rest
God broke our hearts to prove
He only takes the best.

It's Lonesome here without you
We miss you more each day
Life doesn't seem the same
Since you've gone away.
When days are sad and lonely
And everything goes wrong
We seem to hear you whisper
"Cheer up and carry on."

Each time we see your picture
You seem to smile and say
"Don't cry, I'm in God's keeping We'll meet again someday."

We love you & miss you very much!

You loving wife Sandy, children Eric & family, Aaron & family, Tanya & family, and Tara

RINGING THAT IS BECOMING ALL TOO FAMILIAR
Temporary ringing in the ears may be a harbinger of future chronic tinnitus. Temporary ear ringing may occur after being exposed to a loud concert. That ringing may go away in a day or two, but it is indicative of the fact that noise damages the ears. The duration of the noise is as much a causative factor as the level of the noise. Some people turn up their MP3 players to 80-90 decibels. While we can generally listen to music at 85 decibels safely for eight hours, turning up the volume to 88 decibels reduces the safety window to four hours. Listening to music through earphones at 94 decibels is safe for only one hour.
We can't emphasize it enough—protect your hearing! When irreversible damage has been done, however, come see us at AUDIBEL for a comprehensive hearing evaluation. You'll be amazed at the variety of hearing instruments available today and how they can enhance your hearing, and we'll advise you which one would be of the most benefit to your individual needs. We will also be glad to show you different kinds of hearing protection devices.
P.S. More than two million people have debilitating tinnitus that affects their daily functioning, job performance, and personal relationships.

FINAL REMINDER TO PRODUCERS ABOUT LIVESTOCK COMPENSATION PROGRAM

Eric M. McCartney, executive director for USDA's Farm Service Agency in Preston County, reminds livestock producers that they have until July 18 to enroll in the 2005-2007 Livestock Compensation Program (LCP). Sign-up began on Sept. 10, 2007, for the program that provides aid to livestock producers who suffered eligible livestock feed losses between Jan. 1, 2005, and Dec. 30, 2007, because of a natural disaster.

"The deadline to enroll is almost here," said McCartney.

The LCP provides payments to eligible livestock owners and cash lessees who suffered feed losses or increased feed costs because of a natural disaster.

For more information on the Livestock Compensation Program, producers may visit the Preston County FSA office, located in the Corner Mall of the Kingwood Plaza. More information about LCP is also available online at: http://disaster.fsa.usda.gov.

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR GARRETT COUNTY, MARYLAND
Civil No.: 11-C-07-10218

ZELLA M. BITTINGER

Swanton, Maryland 21561
Plaintiff

v.

W. DWIGHT EMORY
193 Miller Street
P.O. Box 632
Grantsville, Maryland 21536
and
ALL OF THE UNKNOWN HEIRS OF GEORGE GIESSMAN, LATE OF GARRETT COUNTY, MARYLAND
Defendants

NOTICE

The Plaintiff, Zella M. Bittinger, pursuant to Rule 2-122 of the Maryland Rules of Civil Procedure, hereby gives notice to all of the unknown heirs of George Giessman, late of Garrett County, Maryland, of the proceedings referred to above now pending in the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, wherein all of the unknown heirs of George Giessman, late of Garrett County, Maryland, have been named as defendants in an amended complaint filed on June 9, 2008. The unknown heirs of George Giessman (the "Giessman Heirs') appear of record to have an interest in the outcome of these proceedings.

The Giessman Heirs appear to have an interest of record in a tract of land situated in Garrett County, Maryland, acquired by George Giessman by deed dated May 27, 1925, and recorded at Book 89, Page 421 among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland (the "Giessman Property"). The Giessman Property includes a tract of land commonly known as the "Arrow," consisting of approximately 83 acres. The Plaintiff, Zella M. Bittinger, and her predecessors in title, for more than the past twenty (20) years, believed themselves to be the record owners of the Arrow and to have continuously exercised dominion and control over the Arrow. The Plaintiff, Zella M. Bittinger, filed the amended complaint in order to quiet title to the tract of land commonly known as the "Arrow' and has requested that the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, pass an order (1) declaring her to be the absolute owner of record of the Arrow; (2) declaring that she has title to the Arrow which is in fee simple, good of record, marketable and insurable; (3) enjoining W. Dwight Emory and the Giessman Heirs from asserting any claim, at law or otherwise, relating to the ownership, use, occupancy, or possession of the Arrow or any portion thereof; and (4) requesting this Court award her costs and such other and further relief as the nature of her cause may require. In the amended complaint, the Plaintiff, Zella M. Bittinger, also has sued W.
